Preventive Medicine.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

GILES HOME BURNED EARLY WEDNESDAY MORNING

The home of Reed Giles in east Clanton was destroyed by fire about four o'clock Wednesday morning. The flames had secured a great headway before discovery was made, and the result was a complete loss of the building and contents. Mr. Giles and Henry Mahan were sleeping in the house, and they came very near getting trapped by the flames.

The home of Mrs. Mattie Mims nearby was threatened, but the application of water by means of the bucket system saved it from catching. The city water system was finally brought into action, but not until the danger to adjoining houses was past, and the destruction of the Giles house was complete. The nearest standpipe of the city system was two blocks from the burning house, and it was impossible to get into action in time to do any good.

THE REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS

At the call of the Chairman, W. G. Culp, the Republican Executive Committee met at the court house at 10:30 a. m., Saturday, April 8th, 1922.

The writer was pleased to note the attendance and interest manifested by the committee. I think it praiseworthy, especially for the farmers, some of whom probably had been here all the week attending Court, but when the roll was called they were "Johnnie on the spot."

Another very good feature of the meeting was the demonstration of good feeling and unity that existed among the Republicans and the seeming determination to win in the November election by an overwhelming majority.

Among the items of business that was noted and acted upon was the setting of August 8, 1922, as the day on which the Repubilcans would hold their primary and May 15th, 1922, as the closing time for announcements. So if you wish to get in the ring of candidates do not let that date pass before you announce to the public your intentions. The Committee also voted to increase its number by the addition of two ladies in each beat as committee women with equal authority with the men. We, as a party, wish to assure the ladies that we welcome them into our ranks. We wish you to feel at home in our party ranks and to look about you and see if there is not something that you can do to make our party better, for we are not satisfied with nothing short of the best.

J. Z. MIMS, Sec'y.

UNION GROVE

Health of this community is good at present.

Farmers are very busy these pleasant spring days.

Our church is increasing in membership and our Sunday School is progressing nicely with Mr. R. S. Chandler as Superintendent. The Bible class was so large Sunday that we scarcely had room for them and the number of visitors is also increasing.

Sunday being our regular preaching day, Rev. Adams filled the appointment of Rev. Lowery and preached an alround practical sermon, which was good and enjoyed by all who heard him. By this time it was about 12:30 p. m., and the singers had already began to gather in from the other places for the United Singing Society was to meet in regular session at 2:00, p. m., so we had to hurry home for a bit of dinner. But before we could get back our president, Mr. J. P. Bean, was on the ground and the singing well under way. The class was nicely arranged by the president, assisted by our good old friend, E. L. Glasscock, who has several years of experience in this work. After a song and prayer by the president, the following Directors were called who sang about three songs each: J. B. Northcutt, Leonard Glasscock, Hurlie Mims, Ira Grant, Vernon Northcutt, W. H. Conway, E. L. Glasscock and the ladies who Directed were Misses Lessie and Mollie Vinzant and two girls from Collins Chapel, whose names the writer did not get, but they, like all the other singers, did their part in making it one of the best singings we have had at this place. It seems like every one gets better. The weather was fine and everybody seemed to have such a good time and beheaved very nicely for such a large crowd. Those who presided at the organ were Miss Myrtle Dorminey, Miss Mims, and Ira Grant. The society meets at Collins Chapel next Sunday evening at 2:00 o'clock. Let everybody who can go, do so, for the writer knows of no better way to celebrate Easter than by singing praises to Him who rose triumphantly over death, hell and the grave on that day, that we might do likewise, and have eternal life.

T. J. DORMINEY.

Y. W. A. MEETS

On last Thursday afternoon, Miss Lurline Cox delightfully entertained the Young Womens Auxiliary. A very interesting program was carried out as follows: Roll call, each answering with name of missionary; song "My faith looks up to thee." Scripture reading, Miss Sophie Mullins, Addie Pearl Martin, and Jewel Minor; Prayer, Mrs. J. E. Gowan; Piano solo, Miss Willie Higgins; Talk, life and works of Mrs. Clyde Metcalf Stamps, Miss Eula Mae Vines. After being dismissed by watch word, a delicious salad course was served by the hostess.

PLUMBER THOUGHT HE NEEDED NEW PIPES

"My stomach and intestines were always full of gas and I often had severe colic attacks. The pain and soreness caused me to think I needed a new set of pipes. Since taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy all this has disappeared and my only troubel now is to make enough dough to buy all the food I'd like to eat." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the infalmation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Alred Drug Co., Clanton, Ala., and druggist everywhere.

Take Gude's Pepto-Mangan

IT IS THE SAFE AND RELIABLE TONIC USED BY PHYSICIANS FOR 30 YEARS

There are "new styles" even in medicines. A new "fad" comes, is popular for a while, and then fades out of public view. A remedy that has stood the test for thirty years must have remarkable merit and cannot be called a "fad." Such is Gude's Pepto-Mangan, originated by Dr. A. Gude over a quarter century ago, which has helped many thousands of people back to good health by impoving the blood. Pepto-Mangan is an iron tonic. It contains iron in a special form easily absorbed by the system. It puts color into the lips and cheeks and improves the entire body by improving and enrichining the lood. It is sold by druggists in both liquid and tablet form. If you want to be well and strong and look fine and healthy, take Gude's Pepto-Mangan.—Advertisement.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1922. NUMBER 52.

MR. J. Z. MIMS WRITES REGARDING HIS RACE

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Clanton, Ala., April 18, 1922.

In making my announcement as a candidate for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, I did so at the solicitations of many of my friends and after considering the responsibility of that office and my personal ability to do the work of the office, I feel that I am amply competent to do the work and do not feel that any one who knows me personally will doubt my ability.

I think my past record is proof enough that I am a true Republican. I have always responded when my party's interest called for help. I have always willingly submitted to the voice of a majority of the people and am perfectly willing to continue to do so.

I am not asking for the office because I think its duties have not been ably performed in the past but from the simple facts that many of my friends insisted and from a natural desire to share with my comrades in the honor and satisfaction that comes to a person when his conscience tells him that he has truly and faithfully served his fellowman, and of course the material benefits that come from such service.

I am making the race on my own merits. I am not in league or line with any person, or faction, (if there be any faction.) I look on the Republican party in Chilton County as one great body or family, each member of which has equal rights and privileges in the party. Therefore, I appeal to each and every member of the Republican party alike for your support in my race.

My past life as to honesty, virtue, ability, and straight-forwardness is an open book. Will you not look into it and carefully consider each factor separately before you cast your ballot for your choice for Clerk on August 8th? It will be a favor to me if you will.

I especially appeal to the good ladies of Chilton County for your vote and influence. I feel that you are a mighty factor for good in our party, so I admonish you, as ladies of the purest type, to wisely use this power for the good of your county and your party.

If I should be nominated I will do every thing that is right and consistent to be elected in November, and if elected my purpose will be to conduct myself and the affairs of the office with credit to myself and my party, and I assure you that you will never have just cause to regret casting your vote and using your influence for me.

If I should not be your choice in the primary I assure you that your choice in August will be my choice in November.

I hope to see as nearly as possible every voter personally before tht primary, but if for any reason that I should not see you it will not be because I do not want to and would not appreciate your vote. I ask you to please take this as a personal appeal for your vote and influence.

Yours very truly

J. Z. MIMS.

NOTICE

As many voters of Chilton County already know, it has been my intention to run for Circuit Clerk in the coming primary. Though, after considering thoughtfully the political situation at the present time, I deem it best for the party for me not to enter the race. I believe we should be very careful of our actions in the primary this time. If I am not deceived we are going to need, possibly more than ever before, to select our best and strongest men in the primary. I believe there is already a bountiful sufficiency of candidates for this office and my entrance into the race would further divide our forces and mystify us as to whom our nominee might be.

Then, again, H. A. Harris (a cousin of mine, and thought by many to be a brother) being a candidate for probate, would give the campaign the ear-marks of a family-affair should my name appear.

Let me say here that I am truly and sincerely thankful to my many friends for their pledges of loyalty to me. I am now ready to line up for our best men and help see to it that they are nominated and also elected.

Yours very truly,

J. L. HARRIS.

CEDAR GROVE

Dear Editor:

Will you please pubilsh the following to correct the statement in last week's issue:

The Church did not give any supper on April 8th. We never have. We do not believe that God intended for us to make his house a house of Merchandise. If it takes box and chicken suppers to support the church I am forced to believe the Church will be a failure in the sight of God.

Respectfully,

H. H. HAYES, Trustee.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ELECTION DATE SET FOR AUGUST THE 8TH

The Republican Executive Committee of Chilton County, in session here last Saturday, officially designated Tuesday, August the 8th as the day upon which the Republican Primary election will be held. This is the date which is suggested by the election laws of Alabama, and also the date upon which the Democratic primary will be held. There had been some talk of the Republicans holding an earlier primary, but this movement did not gain sufficient strength as to demand the attention of the committee.

Judges Award Prizes In Our P-Word Puzzle

On last Thursday afternoon, by very hard and streneous work, the Judges on The Banner's P-Word Picture Puzzle rendered their final decision as to the best lists turned in. The judges were: Prof. J. L. Wilson, Prof, W. T. Bean, and Mr. B. J. Sessions. Every one who knows these men know them to be absolutely fair to everyone, and we assure every contestant that their list received from them fair consideration. These men certainly worked faithfully on this momentous task, for it was no small job.

After going over the best lists four times each, the judges rendered their decision as follows:

First Prize—Resulted in a tie between Mr. Jesse C. Jones, Clanton, and Mr. E. F. Conway, Jemison, Mr. J. C. Jones, Clanton, and Miss Mattie Mae Fiquett, Clanton.

Fifth Prize—Awarded to Mrs. Jessie Miller, Stanton.

Checks for the amount of the prizes have already been mailed to those receiving the highest grades.

There is only one thing we regret about the outcome of the contest, and that is that we were not able to give a prize to every one who entered the contest. We received such fine co-operation from our many friends all over the county that we feel like they are all due not only our heartest thanks, but also some better compensation. But we take this means to express our thanks to each and every one who has helped us in this contest. We wish that we could give you more than our thanks.

CANE CREEK

Health in this community is fine. The ones that were on the sick list last week are well now, we are very glad to say.

Farming is progressing nicely. I guess everybody is fixing to run a race with the boll weevil this time. It seems that everybody is preparing for them, or fixing them some cotton so they can run the race.

Our Sunday school is just fine. We had a nice little crowd and everybody seemed to know their lesson. We hope to have a larger crowd next Sunday and bring up better lessons. Everybody in this community come and join us. We need you, we want you, so come and be with us.

Miss Maggie Giles visited her sister, Mrs. Ada Maddox Saturday night at Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Williamson and little son, Durwood, visited home folks Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Pearl Giles spent Sunday with Drenda and Sarah Lambert.

Mr. Tom Cleckler is still in bad condition. Some seem to think he is getting better. We all hope so any way.

Mr. Oscar Wells was in this community Sunday evening.

Good luck to the Editor.

THE OLDEST BANK

A CERTAIN RICH MAN

John D. Rockefeller once said: "The first essential to building a foundation for business success, is the establishment of credit."

John ought to know. He has established a pretty fair credit, himself. A man's credit need not necessarily be backed by millions. He may be poor and still have credit, for credit is influenced by what a man really is; by what he does; how he uses his money, talents, time; by his family, church, social and banking relations. An account at our bank will help, too.

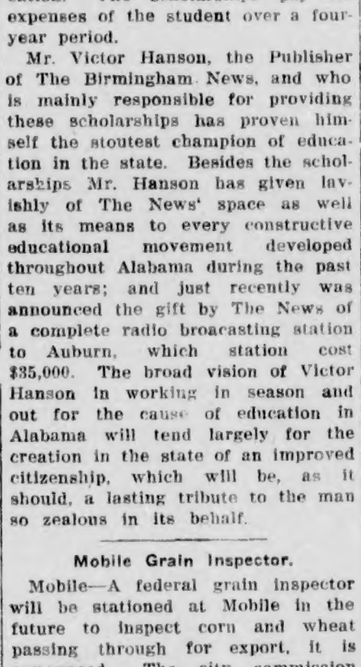
5 SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN BY NEWS

PUBLISHER HANSON STOUTEST CHAMPION OF EDUCATION IN THE STATE.

RADIO FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

Records Lost But Taxes Must Be Paid—Schools of State Overcrowded—Bonds For Road Building.



Victor H. Hanson
Publisher Birmingham News.

Following closely on the heels of the gift last year of five scholarships to Alabama's representative colleges, given to five worthy young Alabamians, unable to otherwise secure the education they desired, The Birmingham News has announced five additional scholarships to be awarded to five ambitious young men and women who cannot make other provision for getting an education. The scholarships pay all expenses of the student over a four-year period.

Mr. Victor Hanson, the Publisher of The Birmingham News, and who is mainly responsible for providing these scholarships has proven himself the stoutest champion of education in the state. Besides the scholarships Mr. Hanson has given lavishly of The News' space as well as its means to every constructive educational movement developed throughout Alabama during the past ten years; and just recently was announced the gift by The News of a complete radio broacasting station to Auburn, which station cost $35,000. The broad vision of Victor Hanson in working in season and out for the cause of education in Alabama will tend largely for the creation in the state of an improved citizenship, which will be, as it should, a lasting tribute to the man so zealous in its behalf.

Mobile Grain Inspector.

Mobile—A federal grain inspector will be stationed at Mobile in the future to inspect corn and wheat passing through for export, it is announced. The city commission and the state harbor board have agreed to guarantee the salary of the inspector, making up any deficit between the fees he collects and a stipulated salary.

DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN

While the plan tentatively adopted for the payment of subscriptions made to the Greater Auburn campaign provide for the payment within a space of approximately two and one-half years, much latitude is to be allowed the donor in this matter. Some regular plan had to be devised and therefore the semi-annual payments within a space of slightly less than three years was adopted as the uniform plan.

However, it is declared that any person finding it impossible or inconvenient to make his payments in his way may suggest his own plan. It is declared that a large number of the younger alumni and many others have asked that they be allowed to make their payments in monthly or quarterly payments and in every case this has been allowed. In fact, the solicitors are told that where the donor does not desire to conform to the uniform plan, he may be allowed to pay as he sees fit.

Mr. Kimbrough, one of the editors and owners of The Florala News, was in Clanton last Saturday on a business mission. Mr. Kimbrough was formerly connected with the Primitive paper which is printed in Arkansas.

The editor of The Union-Banner enjoyed a visit last Sunday to the meeting of the United Singing Society at Collins Chapel. The class did some very fine singing.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Should Henry Ford have Muscle Shoals? Thich much discussed question will be debated Friday, April 21st, at 8:00 p. m., by selected debaters of the Lanierian and Tutwiler Literary Societies of the High School. If you are not fully informed on this subject you will be interested in hearing this debate. The speakers have been working hard for several weeks and no phase of this popular subject has been overlooked.

There has been intense but friendly frvalry between the Literary Societies during the year in every phase of school activity. The Tutwiler Society was the winner of the football honor last season while the Lanieran Society won the Track Meet. The debating Contest promises to be an equally heated contest, between the two societies.

These societies will also contest in declamation and recitation at the same time. Dovard Cotton and Era Zelle Foshee have been selected by the membership of the Lanieran Society to declaim and recite while Hubert Gardener and Lera Johnson were selected to uphold the banner of the Tutwilers.

The question for debate is, "Resolved, that the Muscle Shoals project should be given to Henry Ford." Flossie Wilson and Mary Kennedy will debate the Affirmative for the Tutwilers while Nettie Dennis and Elly Daniels will defend the Negative for the Lanierans. The exercises are free and the public is cordially invited. Friday, April 21st, at 8:00, p. m.

Preventive Medicine.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

CANDIDATES BUILD HOUSE FOR MR. ED GILES WEDNESDAY

If anybody has any houses they want built, now is the time to start the job. Then when it is well under way, announce a public working and there will be all the hands necessary to bring the job to hasty completion.

Mr. Ed Giles is engaged in building a new house where his old one burned a few weeks ago. He announced a public working for Wednesday afternoon to get some help in putting on the shingles. The result was a response from a large number of his friends and neighbors, in addition to all the candidates in the county, except one or two .

Jim Dupree, the foreman of the job, went around Wednesday morning and told Tom Litteljohn to come down to Mr. Giles's in the afternon; that there was to be a working there and he could get to see a whole lots of folks. Tom got ready to go about noon. On the way he found J. L. Johnson, candidate for the Legislature, also making his way to the working. They proceeded to the place, and upon arriving, Mr. Litteljohn says he was surprised to find the whole place covered with candidates, all working like fury. Martin Nix was on the inside of the house with a saw and hammer just as earnestly engaged as if he were bottling Chero-Cola or making ice crem. Judge Reynolds and Marion Foshee were on top of the house nailing on shingles as if their lives depended on getting their task done by night. Zeb Mims was in the kitchen getting ready to put up the stove and start supper. Dudley Collins and several others were hard at work doing one thing and another. Tom said he at length got hold of a hammer when some other candidate had white-eyed, and he, like the others, fell in and worked until five o'clock as hard as he could.

Everybody expressed themselves as having had a mighty fine time. We are sure Mr. Giles himself enjoyed it as well as any others.

IN NEED OF LAND

Another serious handicap in the agricultural department at Auburn is the lack of land upon which to farm and conduct the experiments which mean so much to the farmers of the state. Auburn owns approximately only 200 acres of land of which 200 acres are given over to teaching and research. Compare this small amount with the records of other southern agricultural colleges: The Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College owns 3510 acres; the North Carolina Agricultural and Engineering College; 1700; Clemson College, 2000; Florida University, 785; Kentucky University, 356; Tennessee University, 1625.

INFORMATION SOUGHT ON AGRICULTURAL OPPORTUNITIES.

Montgomery.—General information in regard to the agricultural opportunities and possibilities of Alabama, is requested by Dr. Rudolph Kuraz, attache of the Czecho-Slovakian Legation, at Washington. In a letter received by F. O. Hooton, director of the state markets bureau. This information, which was promptly forwarded by Mr. Hooton, will it is understood, be furnished to all Czecho-Slovak immigrants, who intend to engage in the farming business in the United States.

In his letter Dr. Kuraz says: "The Czecho-Slovak Minister of Social Welfare intends to prepare a book containing information in popular form on agricultural possibilities and opportunities of different states of the United States, for the use of our immigrants intending to settle in the United States."

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

During the weeks time covered by this writing, the weather has been very favorable to farming and the farmers around here have took full advantage of same, and ther esure has been some hustling done. There seems to be lots of cotton being planted. Guess Mr. Boll Weevil will surely have a grand time in these parts during the summer. Although just at present Mr. Weevli has to do some hustling himself, trying to locate all the fields that are being prepared for the big feast. Most everyone is planting corn to raise enough to carry them thru the coming year. If the weather conditions are permissable I think that everyone may look forward to a bounteous harvest in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wyatt of Clanton visited Mr. and Mrs. Odes Grooms last Friday night.

The writer made a business trip to Clanton last Friday afternoon.

Miss Emma DeShazo of Birmingham arrived Friday afternoon, returning Saturday morning. Miss DeShazo came down to accompany Mrs. W. G. DeShazo to Birmingham where she has gone to undergo special treatment at a local infirmary there.

Mr. R. E. Tucker, and Misses Bertha L. Manning and Lucile Cochran of Birmingham, spent Sunday and Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Maning.

Things around Mr Manning's Sunday afternoon looked as though there had been an orphans home opened up there, when all the kiddies assembled for an Easter egg hunt. Oh, there were so many that the writer could not count them. They wouldn't be still long enough. They certainly did have a jolly good time.

Don't think there was more than half dozen boys left at Macedonia Sunday afternoon, all the rest were down here. Cliffs Velie was broken down, but he managed to get here, though a little late.

Mr. W. G. DeShazo is in Birmingham where he accompanied his wife to the hospital.

A number of the neighbors assembled on Tuesday to work for Mr. W. G. DeShazo while he is in Birmingham, but owing to the inclemency of the weather had to disband.

Mr. Fulton Kincaid made a business trip to Clanton Monday afternoon. Fulton says he is thinking of sawmilling some before long.

ANOTHER GOOD PICTURE

The Southern Church Film Producing Company, Inc., have contracted to present their second film, "A Maker of Men," at the Court House, on Monday night, April 24th, under the auspices of Woman's Missionary Society.

They claim for this picture, which is in six reels, that it equals in high moral tone and religious influence, "The Stream of Life," recently exhibited here, meeting with universal approval. The story is by the same author, Rev. Jas. K. Shields, and contrasts the value of a money-loving, money-grabbing foster-father and his son, who is A Maker of Men.

Two exhibitions will be given, one at 6:30 P. M., for Children and Adults who cannot easily attend the second at 8:00 P. M. Tickets will be on sale in a few days.

Picnic Given Younger Set.

On last Friday, the members of the Junior Epworth League enjoyed the finest of the seasons outings, when a picnic was given. The party left the M. E. Church at nine o'clock in trucks and cars and were chaperoned by Mrs. Clyde Jones, Mrs. Macy Jones, Mrs. T. C. McSwain and Mr. J. L. Johnson. Arriving at Curry's Camp the crowd enjoyed boat riding, swimming and at the noon hour a most elaborate picnic lunch was spread. They returned to Clanton late in the afternoon and reported a most wonderful day.

Mrs. Higgins Hostess.

The members of the Wednesday Card Club enjoyed the afternoon of last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Guy Higgins, when she entertained at Bridge. The spacious living room where the tables were arranged was lovely with its quantity of exquisite rose buds. After a series of games Mrs. Arthur Johnson was awarded a deck of Congress cards for holding highest score. A delicious course was served later. The guests of the Club were Misses Ziegler, Louise Orr, and Mrs. Guy Roberts.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager.)

A matter of interest, to more people in Thorsby, than anything else this week, is gathering and shipping strawberries. The season's work began last week, with local shipments from day to day, aggregating about 350 crates which netted about $1200.00. On Monday upwards of 500 crates were brought to the station. One car was loaded and dispatched, another one partly loaded, which practically cleaned the vines of the ripe berries, making them ready for needed shower of rain, which came Tuesday morning and will add thousands of dollars to the bank account of the growers. During the past season, the farmers were able to produce the kind of fertilizers needed including a libral supply of potash, consequently the berries are unusually large and of excellent quality, and while prices range lower than last year, they are still good. Plantings have been greatly increased in this section and many new members have been added to the Growers Association. Buyers come from northern cities and most of the berries are sold before the car leaves the station.

The revival services which have been held at the Congregational Church during the past two weeks, under the auspices of the Rev. James M. Graham and the Pastor, Rev. James W. Danvenport, closed Sunday night. There was a special Easter service in the morning, with the celebration of the Lord's Supper, and five five young girls were received into the membership of the church, all of whom were members of the Pastor's Training Class. It was the intention in the conduct of these meetings to make them of benefit to the whole community, without regard to denominational affiliations. It is believed that many were inspired to renew a consecration to Christain service.

The primary department of the Congregational Sunday School had their annual "egg hunt" on Easter Monday, in the pine grove at the rear of Thorsby Institute. The little people had a happy time hunting for candy eggs which had been hidden in nests of grass. Then bird games were played and egg tossing. Then another hunt for eggs discovered brightly tinted hen's eggs, which all enjoyed eating. By this time every one was tired and ready to go home. Those that enjoyed the outing were Mrs. S. E. Norton, Superintendent of the primary department and her assistant, Miss Annie Hughes, Mrs. J. W. Davenport, with William and Paul, Mrs. Harry Peterson, with little Jack, Elsie Turner, Margery Turner, Romalie Pate, Herbert Peterson, Jr., Willis Peterson, Gladys and Mary Tracey.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

ALABAMA IS RICH IN RIVERS

ROLL CALL OF HER SPLENDID STREAMS—COOSA THE GREAT POWER PRODUCER.

Declarations by distinguished members of Congress recently in Alabama that this state's richest resources are to be found in its wonderful system of rivers, not equaled by any other state in the union, have served to focus general attention to these streams and their possibilities for enriching the state. Some of these streams have their headwaters in the northern counties of the state and their outlet in the Gulf of Mexico.

In alphabetical order, these streams may be enumerated as follows: Alabama, Bigbee, Cahaba, Chattahooche, Conecuh, Coosa, Escambia, Mobile, Pea, Sipsey, Tallapoosa, Tensas, Tennessee, Tombigbee and Warrior. While all these streams are not navigable, each serves its particular purpose in the state by affording more miles of navigable water than can be boasted by any other state in the union.

With this great system of rivers, ranging down from the mountains of North Alabama, and flowing peacefully through its rich agricultural sections, finding their final outlet into deep water at Mobile, it is easy to see why the visiting statesmen classed the state's waterways as its richest resource. Originating in the wonderful mineral regions, the Warrior River carries down stream coal, iron and steel, cement and other products from the mineral district. Steel barges operated by the government navigate this stream as far north as Cordova at all times, the system of government locks providing a minimum depth of nine feet. The barges return upriver heavily freighted and save the people many thousands of dollars annually in their freight bills.

Coosa Provides Power.

In the northeashtern section of Alabama the Coosa River is the main stream, having its headwaters in the sister state of Georgia. It is navigable from Gadsden to Rome, several months during the year, but the chief benefits afforded by the Coosa come from its wonderful power sites. At lock 12, on this river, is located the first big hydro-electric power plant built in the state, which now has a capacity of 110,000 horsepower. This power is being furnished to thirty-five towns and cities in the State by the Alabama Power Company for lighting purposes. Twelve miles down the river from Lock 12 Mitchell Dam is now being constructed by this company at a cost of more than $8,000,000 and when it is completed early in the coming year it will add 120,000 horsepower to the supply coming from the Coosa.

The Tallapoosa River has its headwaters in the eastern part of this state and in Georgia, and affords some splendid power sites, one now power for large cotton mills located being in operation which affords in Tallapoosa and Elmore Counties.

The Alabama Commercial Stream.

The junction of the Coosa and Tallapoosa Rivers a few miles north of Montgomery, forms the Alabama River, a stream that is navigable from Mobile to Montgomery most of the year, and which penetrates the richest agricultural section of the state. Thus it affords a splendid outlet for the surplus crops of farmers to be carried to market, at a minimum of cost, for export to all parts of the world.

Flowing down through Montgomery, Lowndes, Butler, Wilcox, Monroe, Washington and Baldwin Counties, the Alabama joins with the Tombigbee River some distance north of Mobile and the two form the Mobile River. This river is the greatest of them all in so far as commerce is concerned, for not only do all the other prominent rivers empty into Mobile River, thus finally getting all their traffic, but it also forms the inlet into Mobile from all the countries of the world, the state's only port.

Other Streams.

The Cahaba River is a small stream, heading in north Alabama, and its principal service at the present time is in affording to the city of Birmingham a source of pure water supply. It courses down through Blount, Jefferson, Shelby, Bibb, Perry and Dallas Counties, emptying into the Alabama.

The Chattahooche, in the eastern section of the state, is more or less a "visitor" in Alabama, having its headwaters in Georgia and after flowing through the state along the Georgia border, enters the state of Florida. For a distance south of Eufaula it is navigable, and north of that point affords some good power sites, four of which have been developed.

The Pea River, in southeast Alabama, the Bigbee, that reaches from Demopolis up through Sumter, Pickens and Greene Counties into Columbus and the Tensas, and the Conecuh and Escambia in South Alabama are more or less important in the state's system of waterways.

Judge Reynolds and Frank Higgins went to Birmingham on business Wednesday.

UNCLE DOCK'S PRAYER

It has been rumored that all the candidates in Chilton County have had a secret conference, and agreed to have Uncle Dock Wells act as their chaplain from now until the primary election.

Somebody who claims to have listened in on the first secret meeting says the following is the prayer which was sent up by Uncle Dock:

O Lord, as I go up and down the streets, the candidates on every side I meet. They are all as good and clever men as there are in the land, and it fills my heart with joy when they fervently shake my hand. I hear them say, Uncle Dock pray for me sure, and if I am elected I will always remember you. But if I am defeated I will never ask you to pray any more.

ALABAMA NEWS

COUNTYS LAWS ARE UPHELD BY COURT

COMMISSIONERS CLOTHED WITH AUTHORITY TO ENFORCE HIGHWAY REGULATIONS.

Montgomery—Courts of County Commissioners may issue regulations for the maintenance of public roads and punish people for failure to aid in doing so, according to a Supreme Court decision just rendered in an appeal from Jackson County, where Ben L. Hall and others sought to restrain the county commissioners from enforcing the act of 1915.

By its decision, the supreme court says that the act of 1915 is still operative and that the later act of 1919 did not take away all such powers from the separate counties. A person is guilty of misdemeanor, the supreme court says the law reads, if he fails to comply with rules set out by the court of county commissioners. The court has not the power to say what constitutes a misdemeanor, the ruling held, which the law has done, but that it may provide punishment.

In another decision the supreme court held that the counties do not have the right to issue interest bearing warrants for road work which is only contemplated. They may be issued only for work completed. This case was appealed from St. Clair County.

RECORDS ARE LOST, BUT TAXES ARE BINDING.

Montgomery—Upholding the local court the Alabama Supreme Court, acting in the case of W. M. Bailey versus Fred Folsom, tax collector of Coffee County and others, held that the destruction or disappearance of the Coffee County tax records did not remove obligations of the taxpayer, Mr. Bailey, of payment of taxes on his property to the state and county nor did it destroy the state's claim on such property for taxes.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK IS OBSERVED

May 1 Sees Inaugurated First General Campaign of Kind in Service.

Without the Postal Service, business would languish in a day, and be at a standstill in a week. Public opinion would die of dry rot. Sectional hatred or prejudice only would flourish, and narrow-mindedness thrive.

It is the biggest distinctive business in the world and it comes nearer to the innermost interests of a greater number of men and women than any other institution on earth. No private business, however widespread, touches so many lives so often or sharply; no church reaches into so many souls, flutters so many pulses, has so many human beings dependent on its ministrations.

"Postal Improvement Week" has been set for May 1, by the Postmaster General. This is the first general campaign of its kind in the Postal Service for several decades. Business men and their organizations, large users of the mail, newspapers, motion pictures, advertisers, and the entire organization of 326,000 postal workers are to be enlisted in this country-wide campaign of interest in postal improvements. Your help is vital. Address your letters plainly with pen or typewriter. Give street address. Spell out name of State, don't abbreviate. Put your return address in the upper left hand corner of envelope (not on the back) and always look at your letter before dropping in the mail to see if it is properly addressed. This care in the use of the mails is for your benefit and speeds up the dispatch and delivery of mail matter.

If you have any complaints of poor service make them to your postmaster. He has instructions to investigate them and report to the department.

COURTESY

It sticks in human relations like postage stamps on letters. The POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT expects it to be used by its postmasters and employees in dealing with the public.

Help them in its use beginning with POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK, May 1-6, 1922.

THANK YOU

FELL OUT OF SECOND STORY WINDOW

Mr. Porter McKay, reporter of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, got up while asleep at the Wilson Hotel Monday night and walked out of a second story window, falling to the ground about fifteen feet below. He was not able to attend to his duties at court Tuesday on account of the injuries sustained in the fall.

Mr. McKay says he was not awakened by the fall, but came to himself some time later, he supposes after he had been lying on the ground for quite a while. He could not explain how he came to be outside the hotel when he waked up, but investigations in his room later disclosed the fact that he had walked out through the window.

THE FRIENDSHIP SINGING LAST SUNDAY

On last Sunday the singers of this and the near by communities came together at Friendship Baptist Church, and enjoyed almost a full day of singing praises to God. We had been preparing for this occasion for two months, and we are proud to say that our efforts in the interest of the singing service were not at all in vain. Most all of the best leaders and singers of the County were present, and lots of fine singing was done, which everyone enjoyed. The committee is pleased to state that the order both inside and outside of the house all day was very pleasing.

The singing was called to order at 9:30 by Chairman W. O. Rich. Prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. E. A. Norris. The following directors were placed on the program during the day:—James Franklin, Grover Gilliland, L. E. Little, Akins Collins, A. A. Beaird, R. T. Grant, O. L. Devaughn, J. W. Cagle, Henry Carter, C. H. Robinson, W. G. Culp, J. A. W. Mims, H. W. Lowery, Amzie Boswell, Blanco Durbin, Jesse Jones, Adelbert Norris. Organists for the day were:—Miss Alice Wyatt, A. A. Beaird, Amzie Boswell, W. G. Culp, Mrs. Amie Robinson, Henry Carter, Mrs. Henry Carter, Miss Letha Mims, Ralph Grant, Miss Genie Collins.

About eleven o'clock we had a quartett by L. T. Grant, A. A. Beaird, W. M. Devaughn, O. L. Devaughn. Rev. E. A. Norris talked on "The Relationship between Preaching and Singing," which led up to the noon hour

There was a bountiful dinned placed on the table, and everyone present was invited to partake. In the afternoon Mr. L. N. Henderson, sang one song and made a short talk which everyone enjoyed.

DEPUTY SHERIFF MARTIN GIVES UP JOB

LOMAX

Editor Union-Banner:

If you will permit we would like to drop in for a few lines from Lomax.

Health of this place is good at present and we are having some nice spring weather.

Farmers are putting in full time and will soon finish this seasons planting and we hope to see a very bountiful crop made in nineteen twenty-two.

Vida Lumber Co., is doing good business now, and also gives employment to several hundred people.

The Shelby Iron Company's coal ovens have been going in full blast for some time, and their pay roll has been as high as seven hundred dollars per month. That is a great help to the farmers and laborers of this section of the county.

Times seem to be getting near normal again, which we, as a laboring people, greatly appreciate.

Well, this is another year of hustling and tusling among the candidates of our county and state. It seems that we have the most competent men in the county in the race for each county office, and the Republicans in Chilton county will all pull together as they always do, and elect their ticket in November with the biggest majority ever known. Count on that.

In regard to Mr. Wyatt as Representative of the county, if there is any one that is not acquainted with the personalities of Mr. Wyatt, will say that he is fully competant in every respect. He is a young man and is an able speaker. He was reared on a farm and understands all of our conditions in every respect, and I don't see anything that would keep him from being elected in November.

I regard all the other candidates for the various offices as gentlemen in every respect of honor and as good as can be found in any part of the state.

Mrs. Holley Prlice is spending the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Sunberg, at Siluria.

Mr. N. G. Ward of Liberty Hill spent Saturday night with his son, R. E. L. Ward.

Mr. C. C. Ward and wife attended preaching at new Harmony Sunday.

Mr. Ed Culppepper, wife and sister, Mrs. Cotton, attended preaching at Lomax Saturday.

Miss Inez Ward and Miss Maggie Rollins visited Miss Annie Ward Sunday.

Tommie and Grady Fulmer of Mt. Pleasant, visited their sister, Mrs. J. C. Cotton at Jackson Chapel Sunday.

Mr. J. P. Robinson attended the singing at Friendship Sunday and reports a good singing.

Mr. Calvin Johnson and family of Flatwood, have been spending the past few days visiting their parents,

Mr. Emmitt Oakes of Gorgas is also visiting home folks this week.

Miss Bertha Evans spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Annie ward.

Mrs. W. R. King visited Mrs. J. D. Parker Sunday evening.

Mr. Homer Bruce and wife were visitors at Mrs. Mattie Henley's Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Charlie Barrette and family spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Minnie Evans at Lomax.

R. E. L. WARD.

SHILOH

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow us a space in your paper to say a few words about this place.

Health is very good at present, except Mr. Gilbert Hicks who is on the sick list, but we hope he will soon recover.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely. We cordially invite everybody to come and be with us and bring some one with you.

Our singing society meets every first and third Sunday afternoon of each month. We also cordially invite all singers and lovers of music to come and be with us and help us praise God in song.

Farming is on the boom. The farmers are busy planting corn and cotton seed. We hope to make a bountiful crop this year.

We hope to have a large audience with us Saturday and Sunday, as we are going to have the fifth Sunday meeting at this place.

Well, as this is our first time to write, we will write more next time if this misses the waste basket.

OAK HILL

Dear Editor:

Please give us a little space in the dear old Union-Banner for a few lines, as we have heard nothing from this place in some time.

Health is good at present and everybody is busy this beautiful weather.

Our Sunday school is fine. The attendance is increasing as the weather gets better. But the all day singings have begun and we fear they will attract the attention of most of our young people so much that they will attend them and neglect the church and Sunday school. This they should not do, but we all love good singing. This was evidence by the large crowd that attended the singing at this place Sunday evening. The singing was good and especially the mixed quartet rendered by Prof. A. H. Glasscock, Vester Campbell, Myrtle Dorminey and Lucile Mims. Directors for the evening were: J. P. Bean, Leonard and Charles Glasscock, Lucile Mims, Lessie Vinzant, J. S. Castlebarry, Vester Campbell, A. H. Glasscock and E. L. Glasscock. Organists for the evening were Misses Lena Glasscock, Myrtle Dorminey, Mattie Mims, Syble Langston and Floosie Cobb.

We were very sorry that we could not use all the directors and organists that were here, but time would not permit, so please don't think it unkind of us but come back and take part with us again, for we are always glad to have you with us.

Next Sunday being fifth Sunday, it was announced that all who could not attend the convention at Clanton, meet at Mount Pleasant and spend the eveing there in singing.

Miss Lutz of Montgomery is to recite, and the good people will scatter flowers over three hundred graves of veterans. It is suggested that visitors bring loose cut flowers for the graves; also lunch baskets for their own use.

A suitable place for the parking of automobiles and vehicles has been arranged.

Hunter Roscoe and W. P. Cofer of Mars Hill and Macedonia are serving as jurors at circuit court here this week. They were welcome visitors at The Union-Banner office while here.

INSURANCE NETS STATE PROFIT

AFTER DEFRAYING EXPENSES NET PROFITS TO STATE IS $621,886.42.

DISBURSEMENTS REDUCED

Commissioner of Insurance A. W Briscoe Files Report For 1921.

Montgomery.—After paying all expenses, including salaries, operating and maintenance, the department of insurance for 1921 returned a net profit to the state of $621,886.42, according to a statment issued by Commissioner of Insurance A. W. Briscoe. It is also shown in this statement that during 1921 there was a gain in the receipts of the department over 1920 of $104,239.34. Receipts for 1920 totaled $536,761.89, while receipts for 1921 aggregated $641,001.23. These receipts include company license, agents' license, brokers' license, premium tax, fire marshal tax, unauthorized insurance, policy registration fees, admission deposits, corporation fees and other sources. The greatest gain shown was in returns from the premium tax, which increased from $414,357.22 in 1920 to $509,111.40 in 1921. Total disbursements made by the department for 1920 were $19,675.98, and in 1921, $19,114.79, showing a decrease of $561.17. While the net profit to the state from the department for 1921 was $621,886.42, this net profit to the state for 1920 was $517,085.19, showing an increase in 1921 of over $100,000. "These figures are of vital consequence to every citizen of the state. Fire insurance premiums must be based on the amount of fire loss sustained, and so long as the fire loss remains high, premiums which we pay for protection must remain correspondingly high," Mr. Briscoe says.

Prisoners Increase

Montgomery.—Though the present fiscal year is little more than half over, the state prisons and prison camps lack only a few hundreds of receiving as many prisoners from county jails as were received during the entire fiscal year 1920-21. This announcement made by the state warden general's office carried with it the statement that from Oct. 1, 1921, through April 16, 1922, or a little more than six months, 799 prisoners were received in state prisons. During the entire fiscal year, ending Oct. 1, 1921, only 1,106 prisoners were received. The total number of prisoners on hand in prisons and prison camps on April 16, 1922, it is stated, was 3,053, compared with 2,611 on the same date in 1921.

Name Delegates Rate Hearing

Montgomery.—Hugh White, secretary of the Alabama Public Service Commission, was advised of the appointment of five members of public utilities commissions in the southeastern traffic territory, to sit with the Interstate Commerce Commission, in Atlanta, Ga., May 22. On that date the federal commission will begin hearings in connection with the general Southern class rate investigation. The personnel of the Association of Southeastern States Public Utilities Commissioners, follows: Georgia, James A. Perry; Virginia, Alexander Forward; Florida, Hudson Burr; North Carolina, A. J. Maxwell; Alabama, A. G. Patterson.

Poll List Increased

Anniston.—Calhoun County poll lists this year contain the names of 6,600 voters, an increase of 1,600 names over last year's list. The increase is due, it is said, to the larger number of women who have qualified this year as voters. A supplemental list to be announced later is expected to make the total above 7,000.

Hospital Plans Complete

University.—The city of Tuscaloosa has completed plans for the building of a $100,000 hospital during the summer to be situated in close proximity to the new $100,000 medical building of the university on the east side of the campus. The building will be thoroughly modern in every respect and will contain the latest devices for use in hospital work. Equipment valued at $20,000 will be purchased for use of the hospital, authorities announce. This will constitute the first unit of a still larger hospital to be erected in the future, the other units to be added as necessary.

Pushing Highway Work.

Gadsden.—Work on the state highway from Guntersville on the Tennessee River to the Etowah county line, a distance of 18 miles, was begun and will be rushed to completion, according to the contractor. One crew is working at Guntersville, another between the top of Sand Mountain and Albertville and a third one between Albertville and Boaz. The city of Guntersville has agreed to pave its main street in order to link up the highway.

Judge Reynolds and Frank Higgins went to Birmingham on business Wednesday.

From Ohio we hear:

"I decided to bake two cakes at the same time, using Royal Baking Powder in one, and another powder in the other. The cake made with Royal was so appetizing and delicious, so finely grained and wholesome that in comparison, the—other cake was not a cake."

NOTICE

Seventh Grade will not report to classes any more. On Friday morning, May 12, I want to see for final instruction regarding commencement all those who are to receive Certificates from Clanton School.

It is with regret that I consented to Mrs. Vines's resignation. She was a persistent, loyal, hard working teacher. The last few weeks of school, however, are always very taxing, so I have agreed to relieve her of that overburdensome task. I shall endeavor to teach the fourth grade, but realize my inability to fill the place of Mrs. Vines.

Respectfully,
IRA PEGUES.

SPECIAL TERM OF CIRCUIT COURT

The special term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County is in session this week.

The case of George Kilgore, charged with the theft of Dr. Gowan's automobile, was tried Wednesday morning. A sensation was sprung in this case when Kilgore took the stand and testified that Dr. Gowan told him to take the automobile and conceal it for a time and it would be his own to dispose of as he wished. The testimony of Dr. Gowan denied Kilgore's statements.

The jury in the case rendered verdict of guilty of the charge.

Following Kilgore's case, the Court entered into the trial of Geo. Williams, charged with first degree murder in connection with the killing of Nettie Turnbull, a negro woman at Mitchell Dam. Late Wednesday evening the jury rendered a verdict in the case of Geo. Williams, finding him guilty, and imposing a sentence of lifetime in the pen. All the parts were well taken which made a very interesting evening. The judges rendered the decision, giving three of the five points to the Laniers and two to the Pages.

Thorsby has been highly favored the past few days by a visit from Prof. Ralph Gillain of Atlanta Theological Seminary. Mr. Gillain is an evangelist of unusual ability and experience. Sunday morning, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights, he preached to large and attentive audiences at the Congregational Church and conducted chapel service at Institute Monday and Tuesday mornings.

Mrs. T. A. Shannon is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Nels Petersen.

Mr. P. G. Ault says that he will be ready to turn on electric lights at his plant next Saturday and will be ready to furnish lights for the town about a week later.

Mr. and Mrs. Paxson's daughter and great grand-daughter are here for a visit of a few days.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will be entertained by Mrs. D. M. Paxson on Thursday.

Another welcome visitor to Thorsby was the Rev. Neil McQuaine, the newly appointed Congregational Home Missionary Superintendent, for Georgia, Alababa and west Florida. M. McQuaine succeeds the Rev. Chas. T. Rogers, and is making his first visit to this part of his field. He seemed much pleased with what he found in Thorsby and was so interested in the meeting of the Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute, that he consented to his election as a member of the Board. He has a unigue record in Home Missionary work in the South east. His home is in Atlanta.

Miss Odie Lee Arthur, who graduated from Thorsby Institute in 1920, has joined forces with Miss Grace Maxwell, a former Institute student, in the management of the Y. W. C. A. Refectory, at Spartanburg, North Carolina. Miss Bessie Hughes, graduate of 1921, is also in Spartanburg, in charge of the dining room in the "Textile Home," a school for girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Morgan announce the bith of a son, Satuday, Apil 22nd. Marvin Eugene.

It was currently reported on Tuesday that Mr. Orville Mastin had gone to Bolling, Ala., to be married to Miss Irene Boggan.

It may not be generally known that Thorsby has two up-to-date and fully equipped Radio-Telephone Receiving Stations. One is operated by the firm of Parnell and Foss, who represent the Alabama Radio Co., dealers in wireless equipment..

These sets are of the large type receiving kind, with two amplifiers, vacuumdetector tube and further amplified by the magnavox, giving great capacity as demonstrated by the daily receipt of concerts and speeches from broad casting stations located at Newark, N. Y., Pittsburg, Pa., Detroit, Mich., Chicago., Indianapolis, Ind., Denver, Col., Little Rock, Ark., Dallas, Texas. This work is just in its infancy and with the splendid results already attained, it promises much for the future, as an indication of the great demand for these receiving sets one of principle manufacturers reports receipt by telegraph of 600 orders before noon in one day.

With two sets installed Thorsby is surely keeping up with the procession.

The following program will be given Saturday evening, April 29th, at 7:30 P. M., at Bates Hall, Thorsby, under the auspices of The Thorsby Concert Band and Thorsby Athletic Association. Admission: Adults 25 cents, Children 15 cents:

CORRESPONDENTS TELL US WHAT TO PRINT IN PAPER

One of our country correspondents attaches to the bottom of his letter this week, this line of instructions to the Editor:

"Don't leave any of my letter out, as I do not like to write letters and see anly a part of them in print."

And very frequently other correspondents have added notes to their letters making different kinds of suggestions as to how we should run the paper.

Now of course the Editor of The Union-Banner appreciates all these helpful hints from the correspondents as to how they think the Union-Banner ought to be run. But on the other hand if we should undertake to follow the advice of every different person who would assume to tell us how it ought to be done, we are frank to say that within a period of about one week we would have a paper that would be such mess as you never saw before in all your life.

We want the correspondents from the various communities to send in their news every week. We are glad to publish it. The good list of correspondents which have been writing to the paper for the past few months is wonderfully appreciated by the Editor. But listen to this one thing, writers:

The Editor of The Union-Banner has been running this job now for close on to ten years, and we feel somehow that we have a pretty good idea as to what to print and what not to print. And we warn you in advance, that it does not alter the situation one bit for you to attach any insructions with your letters. Nothing you can do or say will divorce us from our faithful blue pencil, or prevent your correspondence from coming under the close scrutiny of our editorial eye.

All we want you to do is to write the news of your community. Put it all in, and don't leave out anything. We will publish that part of it which will do to publish, and leave out that part of it which is not worth publishing.

And don't forget to sign your name at the top of the first sheet of your paper. Write the name of your community first, and then put your name right underneath it in parenthesis. Then proceed with all the news items you can think about. We will take care of the rest of the job, and your name will not be published unless you request it.

Now, kind friends, we thank you for what you have already done for us, and we hope to see more community news than ever coming in from week to week.

Mr. Farmer, make your arrangements now to attend the meeting at the Court House Thursday, May 4th, at 2 o'clock, P. M. There is something to be said and done of interest to you in the cotton business.

CANADA IN THE EXPORT FIELD

"Canada to Compete with U. S. in Foreign Markets," says a headline. Come on in, the water's fine! We have no fear of Canada in Foreign Markets. Glad that she has no fear of us. The more business she can secure in those markets, the less she will complain because our protective tariff restricts her sales in our domestic market, particularly of wheat.

In 1900 Canada exported $177,000,000 worth of goods. In 1920 they totaled $1,286,000,000 in value. This is a sevenfold increase in 20 years. From 1910 to 1913, inclusive, under the Payne-Alrich protective tariff law, our imports from Canada averaged $106,000,000 annually. From 1919 to 1922 inclusive, our imports from Canada show an annual average of $464,000,000. That was under the Democratic tariff law. We took $336,000,000 worth of goods from Canada last year, "although largely on account of the Emergency Tariff this was $200,000,000 less than Canada's sales to the United States in the previous year," says Canadian trade commissioner Frederic Hudd. So evidently the Emergency Tariff law served a purpose, despite the assertions of Senator Pat Harrison and other Democrats that it was a gold brick to the farmers. And wheat has gone up in price, while bread that sold for 10 cents a loaf, and even 12, before the Emergency law took effect, is now selling for 6 cents, and in some cases for 5 cents.

Americans regard Canadians as first cousins and like to see them succeed. But when it comes to unrestricted competition in the home market—well, a man has to look after his own family first.

INVISIBLE BALANCES

It is reported from New York that 15,000 people have thus far booked passage for Europe to see the Passion Play at Ober Ammergau. A man who can afford to take a trip of that sort, can afford to spend at least $1,000 while in Europe, and he probably will. So here is $15,000,000 of so-called invisible balance against us at one clip. And it isn't a drop in the bucket. Thousands of American tourists are going abroad, and millions of American dollars are being spent in Europe. Of late it would seem as if most of the Europeans who visit here come to pan-handle for funds for their suffering countrymen, and those funds also might be added to the invisible balance. Americans are helping Europe all right, and it is not necessary to throw free trade into alms box.

THE BEST THAT MAY BE

A New York paper which is opposed to everything Republican says with regard to the tariff bill recently reported to the Senate: "A scrutiny of the entire national and international situation in its economic aspects must convince non-partisan men that this is not the time for any new tariff legislation." For over six months that same paper has been harping on the fact that Congress ought to dispose of the tariff in one way or another so that business men would know their status. To paraphrase Lincoln's well known maxim: You can please all of the world part of the time, and part of the world all the time, but you can't please all the world all the time. So what the Republican majority in Congress will attempt to do is to please the protectionist majority in the United States. That's enough.

Prof. James Franklin of Beat 9, is serving on the jury at Circuit Court here this week.

Mr. E. B. Binford of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Auburn, was in Clanton Tuesday, making preparations for the Farmers meeting which is to be held at the Court House Thursday, May 4th, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

GOVERNMENT SHIP OPERATION A LOSS

Washington, April 25.—That the United States is operating its merchant marine ships at a loss and by competing with private ship owners is delaying the establishment of a privately owned merchant marine, were two facts emphasized by Chairman Lasker of the U. S. Shipping Board in a recent satement before the Senate Committee on Commerce. Mr. Lasker also asserted that since European nations must pay their debts to us largely by sales of goods to us, we must look to other continents for our principal export trade and in this quest a successful merchant marine is an important factor. Mr. Lasker said, in part:

"We find ourselves today with the Government owning 1,442 steel ships aggregating 7,000,000 gross tons, operating 421 of these ships at an estimated cost to the Treasury the coming year of $50,000,000, with 992 ships tied up; we find private operations as well being conducted at startling losses.

"The purpose of Government operation, as defined by law, was to build up trade routes in order that the Government ships might thus be sold with established good will to private owners. The very method chosen has worked to defeat its own purpose, for in the upbuilding of those routes, the Government has operated ships, and in the operation of ships has driven its potential customers largely off the seas.

"Europe owes us, governmentally and privately, some fifteen billion dollars. To pay in gold is impossibe. The only way Europe can pay (to such extent as she may pay) will be in goods. In turn, we must find new markets. These newer markets lie across the ocean; to the south in the western Hemisphere; to the east, in China and Siberia. It is the very need of trade in these markets that is the inspiration of the policy of the open door in the Far East."

SUCCESSFUL FARMERS RECOMMENDED SOYBEANS

Auburn, Alabama, April 25.—For a good hay crop, for pasture, and for a cash crop from the sale of seed, successful Alabama farmers are now calling attention to soybeans, the planting time for which is now at hand.

Introduced into Alabama several years ago, soybeans have increased in popularity until in many sections of middle and north Alabama they have become the leading hay crop, are generally used for hogging down, and are very valuable in the production of low-priced pork, bringing, in many instances, large profits to farmers in this way.

In other sections the production of soybeans for seed purposes is attracting attention, and the marketing of the crop in this way is expected to become more generally practiced.

The Alabama Experiment Station at Auburn has on record reports of the successful production of soybeans in the extreme southern part of the state, but as a general proposition they have not been recommended except for the heavier land sections, which include all north of the Black Belt.

Several varieties have been tested at the experiment Station at Auburn and in the local experiments throughout the state. Results to date have been such as to recommend the Mammoth Yellow as the most profitable variety.

For either hay, pasture, or seed, soybeans should be planted in narrow rows and cultivated. Unless weather conditions are very favorabe it is frequently difficult to get a good stand. For this reason they should be planted not over an inch deep in a well-prepared seedbed. They may be planted any time from now until late May or early June.

BEAN BROTHERS

CLANTON, ALA.

MR. BELL HAS SELECTED A LIST OF CANDIDATES HE WANTS ELECTED

Editor Union-Baner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say few words in reference to the approaching election. There are quite a number of candidates out of the various offices. A word to the wise is sufficient.

For Probate Judge.

I favor the idea of giving the new aspirants a chance, and most earnestly beg all my fellow voters to vote for Mr. Bean for Probate Judge. I believe him to be capabe and qualified in every respect to attend to the business of this very important office with just as much honor and credit as has Judge Reynolds. I say leave the old officers out and give the new men a chance to make good.

For Circuit Clerk.

I am sure that Mr. J. Z. Mims will get elected to this office, as he is a good man, and in every way as efficient as any we have had heretofore. Now, Mr. Voters, let's have new men in our offices, and not give anybody outside of our county a chance to say that there are not any more men besides those already in office who are capable of attending to our business.

For Sheriff.

There are several candidates for Sheriff, who are seeking the office for the good of the dear people; but after they get elected some of them might learn to love the dollar better than they would the interests of the dear people. Now, Mr. Voter, let's try a new man for Sheriff who has never asked for any pie before, and give the office to Mr. Tom Littlejohn. He is an all round good fellow and would fill the office with just as much credit and honor and efficiency. I am sure he woud cause everyone to be glad they voted for him.

For Commissioner.

This is almost the most important office on the whole list to be voted for. A County Commissioner should be one of the very best and firmest men in the county. He should have good judgment and business ability, and should know the value of money and labor as well; he moreover, should be a man who has made a success of his own private business matters, and who spends his own money only when he knows he can get 100 cents worth for every dollar he spends. If you want a man for Commissioner who will consider the interests of the people whose money he is to spend, and vote in accordance with those interests, you will vote for Mr. James Mims for your county commissioner. He fills the whole requirements and is the very man for the office. He would fill the office with the highest honors to himself and the whole county and state, and every voter who casts a vote for him would be proud of having done so.

For Board of Education.

Membership on the Board of Education is an important place and needs to be filled by men of firmness and business efficiency. For this place the voters of the county will be pleased with Mr. John E. Littlejohn.

For Representative.

I believe Mr. Wyatt will make a good Representative of our county in the Legislature of Alabama, and will do his very best to conduct the business of the office as the people of of the office as the people of the the county want it done.

For the State Senate.

The position of State Senaotr is a very important one in many respects, and should be filled by a firm and efficient man with good judgment, and who could not be influenced by any man or company of men. He should stand firm on his own judgment, and contend for the wishes of the people who elect him to represent them. I am sure that Mr. Percy M. Pitts is the very man to fill this office. To have such a man as he in the office would be a distinct credit to our county and state in the eyes of every clean and honest citizen.

In conclusion, I want to urge the voters of Chilton County to think well of the present situation, and cast your votes in August and November as you honestly think best. Remember you will be responsible for your own actions in the election of the different officers.

Respectully,
W. B. BELL.

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Thedford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.— The efficiency of Thedford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver.

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Thedford's. E-66

ALABAMA NEWS

Petitions Heard and Granted.

Montgomery.—After thorough consideration, the Alabama Public Service Commission granted the petition of the River Falls Power Company for a certificate of the convenience and necessity authorizing the company to extend its transmission lines from River Falls to Andalusia. The commission's citation of the Frisco Railroad Company to show cause why adequate service should not be furnished the Central Coal Company, at or near Carbon Hill, Ala., was heard and taken under advisement. The same action was taken regarding the petition of J. Chason vs. the A. T. & N. and Southern Railroad asking for the establishment of reasonable rates on turpentine cups, car load lots, between points on the lines of the two carriers in Alabama, and for reparation.

Women Elect President.

Tuscaloosa.—Mrs. Louis Neil, of Alabany, was elected president for the next year of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs, which met here. The election of officers was held at the final session.

Shortage Provided For

Russellville.—W. L. Spencer, supervisor of secondary education, who recently visited the school here, has notified E. T. Bolding, principal of the high school, that the school had been taken off the accredited list, but would be given until May 1 to cover certain shortages necessary for the school to be placed again on the list. A meeting has been called, when the board of education, with the county board of revenue and chamber of commerce will unite in efforts to make the arrangements called for by Spencer and it is expected that these shortages will be taken care of at the meeting.

Preparing Cotton Pool

Piedmont.—C. K. Snelling, county agent, and Mr. Morgan of the Montgomery headquarters of the Farm Bureau, have arranged for a meeting with farmers to be held in Piedmont in the interest of the cotton pool being organized in this state. The work of securing the contracts for enough cotton to make the project effective is progressing, Mr. Snelling reports, and the matter will be discussed at the meeting here and contracts prepared and signed up by all farmers who wish to take advantage of the benefits offered by the pool.

Urge Road Building.

Double Springs.—The people of Winston County are much interested in plans for the building of good roads. Many people are very anxious to know just how soon the money will be made available that will be forthcoming as a result of the recent bond issue election. Some are crying out for a county-wide mass meeting to put some "pep" and speed into this great improvement plan that will revolutionize the home and farm of Winston County. From a review of the voting lists recently published in Winston County, the women are not forgetting their duties of citizenship, forthe list of women voters was much larger than was expected.

Proceedings Surprising.

Double Spring.—It is said that a recent attempt was made to dissolve the Haleyville division of Winston County Court on the alleged basis that it was not because of the bearing it would have on the recent indictments handed down by the Winston County Grand Jury which was drawn from only a section of the county instead of the whole county. This proceeding to dissolve the Haleyville division was a very great surprise to many people of the county. The proceedings were filed with Judge Sowell, who has not yet rendered a decision in the matter.

Farmers Future Bright

Weogufka.—The farmers of Weogufka and surrounding communities are appreciating the fine weather and are putting in full time. Some of the more industrious ones start the regular day's work before sun up and do not quit until almost dark. Especially are the local truck farmers appreciating the fine weather. Though the farmers received a late spring, nevertheless they are determined to make one of the largest crops in the history of the community. They are using plenty of fertilizer also. They get this on a cooperative basis through the fourth district agricultural school located at Sylacauga. The boll weevil has already made its appearance, but by using resistant varieties of seed and by scientific farming they are hoping to overcome, to a large extent, the ravages of the pest. The farmers' future here is brighter than it has been in several years.

Business Improving

Mulga.—A general upward trend in business and industrial conditions is very noticeable throughout this section. Business men say that their business is not yet normal but is considerably better the past few weeks. All the mines are operating full time and many who have been idle, or working on short time for several months, have been given regular employment, thus causing much better feeling to prevail in various communities.

A LETTER FROM Wm. R. BAKER

Editor Union-Banner:

I was glad to notice your announcement in The Union-Benner for Representative. I was glad also to notice Mr. J. S. Dennis' letter stating his intention to announce, as that will give the Repubicans of the county two good men to pick from and still leave me out.

I am certainly thankful to my friends for their solicitations, but I think they ought to be willing to excuse me this time as they will no doubt have two good men to pick from for representative after leaving me out.

I, of course, would like to have the honor of filling such a responsible place,, but as I have sacrificed the past twelve years of my life to the good of my people in the way of teaching, I feel it a duty that I owe to my family to try to use my time this summer when the party's interest would be calling me to something that would be more remunerative.

I can't quit writing until I say something about the candidates that are out on the Republican ticket. I am personally acquainted with practically everyone of them and I know that whoever is nominated we will have as good a set of officers to elect in November as can be found in the State or the United States as to that matter.

Let every good man and woman that feels so disposed help nominate their choice in August and if your choice gets defeated in August fall in line with your defeated choice and elect the choice of the majority in November.

Sincerely yours,
Wm. R. BAKER.

COOPER NEWS

Health of this community is good now. Mr. Leman Jones, who has been sick for several months is now improving, we are glad to say.

The writer from Coopers last week said the town is building up. I think it is going the other way. You can't turn around without seeing a bottle of whiskey. The Sheriff must be off of his job.

The singing at Mr. Mose Thomas's last Saturday night was fine and was enjoyed by all present.

Mr. Jeffie Jones, Calvin and Rena, went to the singing at Verbena last Sunday.

Mr. J. B. Jones, Euna and Leona visited the singing at Corinth last Sunday. They report a good singing at that place.

Mrs. Nancy Yates spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Car Nelson.

Mrs. Johnnie Jones spent Sunday afternoon with her daughter in law, Mrs. Lilla Jones.

We have Sunday school at Chestnut Creek Church every Sunday morning. There are not many who attend. We want all the prayerful people to pray for the sinners around Coopers for they are many. You may go down to the station on Sunday mornings and there are enough people there to fill the church twice. Then when time for preaching comes there are not enough at the church to half fill the house. The trouble is not altogether with the young folks. There are many of our older people who are leading the young folks to destruction.

Mr. K. C. Foshee and another fellow accidently ran together with their automobiles Saturday night. Mr. Foshee's wife was hurt.

Messrs Herschel Lynch and Lincoln Devaughn, who were operated upon at the Central Alabama Hospital recently for appendicitis, have sufficienty recovered so as to be able to return to their homes.

ALL DAY SINGING AT WALNUT CREEK

There will be an all day singing at Walnut Creek Church on the second Sunday in May. All singers are invited. People are requested to bring dinner. J. A. W. MIMS.

DOINGS AT SARDIS

Dear Editor:

Will you allow me a small space in your vauabe paper this week to state a few things from this berg? If so, I'll try my hand.

Health of this community is very good at present, and think most everybody is through planting around here.

Misses Ethel Mize and Myrtle McAfee spent last week-end with Miss Motley. They report a grand time of course.

The party at Mr. Gay's was enjoyed by many Saturday night.

We understand that Mr. Sidney Rainwater married Sunday. We are wishing him a long happy life.

Mr. Oscar Mims happened to bad luck last week, his dwelling house was burned.

Listen, folks, there is to be an all day "to do" at this place the second Sunday in May. Everybody is invited to come and bring a well filled basket. You come too, Mr. Editor, as I'm sure you have never been here. "Some place I must say."

Well, I will close for this time. If this misses Mr. W. B. I may call again.

Thomas Jefferson Smith of Thorsby was in The Union-Banner office Tuesday. He says he is going to have a cotton chopping at his place in a few weeks, and he wants all the candidates to be on hand to see if they can chop cotton as well as they can build a house.

The daughter of Mr. Tom Miller is at the Central Alabama Hospital this week. It is believed that she has the sleeping sickness. Her condition is not thought to be very serious.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

The afternoon Sunday School at Isabella is growing fine and gets better every time. Better come on and join us, you sure are missing something if you don't. The prayer meeting also is gaining some of its old pep back as the weather is getting more favorable. The congregation was more enthusiastic last Sunday night than it has been for some time. Come on here folks and let's keep this good work going and growing. It will do us good, and help the other fellow.,

Mr. B. L. Davenport and son, Sidney J., of Thorsby, were welcome guests at Mr. J. S. Williams' Saturday night and Sunday.

NO PLACE FOR AMERICA

Washington, Apr. 25—"Farsightedness in America diplomacy was never more impressively illustrated than in the refusal of President Harding to send a representative of the United States to the Genoa Conference," says the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "It will be remembered that as a principal reason for not sending a delegate President Harding declared that the conference was to be political and not economic. In pursuance of the traditional policy of the United States of not engaging in European political entanglements he held that the people of this country desired no representation at the Genoa Conference.

"Scarcely had the conference organized before this statement of President Harding was fully proven to be absolutely accurate. Like a thunderbolt from a clear sky came the disclosure of a treaty between Soviet Russia and Germany, political in its purpose and apparently designed to make trouble for all the other nations participating in the conference. Accordling to all press reports, delegates from the other principal nations were stunned by the disclosure and doubts are expressed whether it will be possible to accomplish anything whatever at [illegible] deliberations.

"Whatever may be the outcome of the situation presented by the agreement entered into by Germany and Russia, it is readily to be seen that the United States has no proper place at the Genoa Conference. Undoubtedly the problems of Europe need solution. Certain it is that there can be no great progress or reconstruction in Central and Eastern Europe until there has been reached a basis of understanding which will insure each of the nations against aggression by the others and permit them to disband their military organizations, discontinue their military expenditures and concentrate their resources upon restoration of the industries of peace. This international assurance is primarily a political problem that must be worked out by the spokesmen of the different governments directly concerned. Only in very remote degree is the United States interested in the political relationships between the different nations of Europe. Its interest is not so direct as to justify this country in becoming a party to the negotiatons or agreements by which European differences are settled.

"This country stands ready now, as it always has, to give friendly assistance to other nations in the settlement of their differences, if they see fit, by mutual consent, to ask for such assistance and receive it in a friendly way. If the United States were represented at Genoa it would be a party to every controversy and would find itself arrayed against one group or another and arousing antagonisms which would make it impossible to be a factor in the promotion of peace. The quarrels are not ours, and however much we might desire to see them ended in order that prosperity and happiness may be restored in Europe, there is no possibility of our being able to assist by becoming a party. Our first duty is to put our own house thoroughly in order and thus by our example show other nations what they might well do themselves, and stand ready, if invited, to assist in compromising or otherwise ending differences in which we have no personal interest and which we could, therefore, assist in adjudicating with unprejudiced minds. There is no likelihood whatever that the United States will officiously volunteer suggestions. Neither will they refuse, to aid in the role of an impartial and well-wishing friend to all concerned."

Preventive Medicine.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

CLANTON SWAMPS DIXIE CONSTRUCTION COMPANY

On last Saturday afternoon the Dixie Construction Company sent a bunch of clown ball players over and our fast town team had a nice little work out.

Everybody on the Dixie Team pitched except the umpire and his arm was sore. The game promised to be real interesting until the Clanton gang cut loose and the score stood something like 15 to 7 as the town team crossed the plate so fast the scorer got "messed up."

Pyron started the game for Clanton, being relieved in the sixth by Webb Parrish, who pitched jam up ball.

Wetumpka High Defeats Chilton High

The features of the game were the pitching of B. Lewis for the visitors, who struck out 14 of the 30 men who faced him, and the hitting of Sims and Hayes of C. C. H. S.

It looked as if, in the 8th inning when the score stood 2 and 2, that Chilton High would chalk up another victory. Jack Hayes connected for a double, stole 3rd base and Wagoner failed to hit, striking out for his third time. Chilton secured 5 hits, while Wetumpka only connected with 4 safties. Errors and failing to hit, when a hit meant a run, cost Chilton the game.

Following is the box score:

TREATMENT FOR MELON BEETLES

Auburn, Alabama, April 25.—The little twelve-spotted cucumber beetle, well known to those who have raised or attempted to raise cucumbers, canteloupes, squashes, or watermelons, are in the opinion of Dr. W. E. Hinds, Entomologist for the Alabama Experiment Station and Extension Service, expected in large numbers this year, and must be controled if these crops are to be produced.

According to Dr. Hinds, these insects attack young plants feeding especially on the under side of the leaves and laying their eggs just above the surface of the ground where the little grubs bore into the ground and feed upon the roots of the tender plants.

As is well known, these beetles, or bugs, appear soon after the plants come from the ground and are very destructive during the first month or six weeks. The methods of control consists in applying air-slacked lime or dry ashes which may be mixed with powder arsenate of lead at the rate of 1 pound to 10 pounds of the lime or ashes.

It is better if the plants can be treaded with a spray, and in this case a combination of Bordeaux mixture solution should be used with one ounce of powdered arsenate of lead per two gallons of solution. This may be applied with a knapsack and an angle nozzle at the end of a 3 1-2 foot extension rod so that the spray may be thoroughly applied to the under side of the leaves. This guards against fungous diseases as well as insects that eat foliage.

POSITION OF ALABAMA POWER CO. DEFENDED

A very noticable reaction is observed throughout the entire State of Alabama in recent weeks in regard to the Muscle Shoals proposition as related to the respective bide of Henry Ford and the Alabama Power Company. Many people are coming to see the position of the Power Company as being perfectly legitimate, natural and justifiable, and altogether consistent with the great future development of the industrial side of our state, toward which the Alabama Power Company has been exerting much force in recent years.

We have this week a communication from Mr. Louis W. Roberts, a prominent business man of Birmingham, in which a free and unbiased discussion is exercised upon the bid which was made by the power company for the purchase of the Muscle Shoals property from the government. This paper is glad to give publicity to the communication of Mr. Roberts, inasmuch as we believe in the policy of according to everybody the same right of expression through our news columns. If a man believes Henry Ford should be given Muscle Shoals, we do not object to him speaking out in the meeting and saying so. Likewise, if one believes the Alabama Power Company is justified in their contentions, we do not object to the use of our columns in saying so.

We commend the trticle of Mr. Roberts to our readers as follows:

Editor Union-Banner:

While the shouting for Mr. Ford has been going on a few close observers here and there have noted some demands in his proposed contract, that, when generally understood, the spirit of fair play and the strong moral sense of this country cannot accept. Very briefly we invite attention to two if his propositions which seem to smack of careless indifference for the rights of others.

When the Government, under the urgency of its war needs, decided on the development of Muscle Shoals it found the Alabama Power Company in full, free, lawful, and peaceable possession. To avoid tedious haggling over the price, save precious time, and enable the Government to get down at once to the imperative business of making war munitions, the Alabama Power Company promptly and without evasion or equivocation donated this property to the Government. They have stood by and are standing by this donation without a word, flinch, or a murmur, although the actual money loss to them is reputed to be in excess of $475,000. This is the self same property that Mr. Ford unblushinyly proposes to exploit and with never a single chance of loss to himself.

The easy conscience tells us that all is fair in love and war, but the ethics of purity and honor deny it. in the romances of love if a young lady, under the stress of circumstance, finds her affections hopelessly changed she returns the mementos of her lost love to the man who gave them, although she could laawfully commercialize them.

The Government has concluded a victorious peace and through the patriotic generosity of the Alabama Power Company it is in lawful possession of the Wilson Dam Site, but it can't ignore this courtesy of the Alabama Power Company, lock arms with Mr. Ford and walk off to the bargain counter with this property in anymore honor than a young girl could take the price of her cast off engagement ring and squander it in illicit riot at a masquerade ball. We are in honor bound to give credit where credit is due and irrespective of how we get them, we must render onto Ceaser the things that are Ceaser's. In other words, the exigencies of war having passed, the Government is morally and in honor bound to measure up to the war standard of the Alabama Power Company and return this property to them or pay them for it.

The Warrior Reserve Steam Plant of the Alabama Power Company is located at Gorgas, Ala., about 90 miles south of Muscle Shoals. It was located there because the coal mines and flowing water, necessary for its economical operation are there. The Engineer's original plans for this plant provide for three separate units of 30,000 h. p., each. The foundations for these units were put down, the overhead and outside equipment in every detail for all three units was installed. In 1916, under the pressure of strong demand for power, and while their English securities were pouring into this country demanding redemption or sale the Alabama Power Company cautiously decided to complete and put into operation only one of these units at a time.

About the time the first unit was completed and began operation the Ordance Departmtnt of the Army applied to the Alabama Power Company for power which it could not supply. In order to get this additional power, which it must have and which it could not otherwise obtain, the Government completed and operated one of the remaining units and also used the Alabama Power Company's 90 mile transmission line and right-of-way leading from this plant up to Muscle Shoals. The Alabama Power Company contracted to reimburse the Government, on an agreed valuation, for its expenditures on this second unit of this plant. It is reported that they have at all times been ready and anxious to redeem this obligation.

However, Mr. Ford proposes that the Government turn over to him not only the second unit but the entire plant, lock, stock, and barrel. Confiscation. What else does it look like. If, on Mr. Ford's demands the Government must confiscate the property of the Alabama Power Company for him then how far out of reach are you and I? "And Ahab spake unto Naboth, saying: Give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, because it is near my house."

ANOTHER ALUMINUM SALE NEXT SATURDAY

Mr. C. Fenn Jones of the Jones Hardware Company, will put on another of his wonderful cut price sales of Quality Brand Aluminum Ware at his store in Clanton next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. The quality of the goods offered in this special sale, and the remarkably low prices at which they are offered makes this one of the most attractive events that has ever come to Clanton. This fact was very forcibly demonstarted last December when a former sale of this kind removed from Mr. Jones' Store in a few minutes 1127 pieces of the highest quality of Aluminum Ware. Everybody is invited to attend this wonderful sale.

THIS IS POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK

The postoffice department has set apart the week beginning May 1st, 1922, as Postal Improvement week. It is the intention of this dpeartment to improve the services and to try to eliminate all annoyances to both the employees and the patrons. The postmaster and employees of the Clanton post office wish to make the following suggestions, which we want to ask all patrons to carefully observe. We also invite any suggestions from the patrons of this office that will help us to serve you better:

We offer the following [illegible] to patrons of the rural [illegible] Clanton office:

Don't mail p[illegible]ers without your r[illegible]. Don't forget to have [illegible]e number put on your mail. [illegible]t fail to have your rural box properly erected so that postman can deliver your mail while he remains in his car. Don't mail butter, berries, fruits, and etc., in pasteboard boxes, for that is against the rules of the department. Don't enclose written matter in parcel post packages. This will subject you to a fine of one hundred dollars. Don't ask the rural carrier to let you ride with him, for this is strictly against the rules of the department. Don't call upon your rural carrier to wait for you to write a letter. Don't write your name one time one way and a different way at another time. Don't place pennies in the boxes for the carriers to take up unless you have them in a container, for postmen from this office from this date will not take pennies from the box unless in a container.

Dept. of Archives and History, Thos. M. Owen, Director.

Suggestions for Patrons.

We wish to lay special stress upon the importance of wrapping packages. Recently we have had some compliants of butter soiling the mail. From this date this office can not accept butter except in wooden or tin containers. Many packages come into this office wrapped with a small sewing thread. Wrap your packages securely with stout strings. Pack them strong enough to withstand the pressure caused by coming in contact with several other packages weighing fifty or more pounds and all in the same mail sack.

Remember proper preparation of packages means good service, good service brings honorable reward. Accurate service means contented patrons. Missent mail may tradegies entail and team work overcomes all difficulties. Packages accepted regardless of conditions encourages loss. Proper observation saves trouble.

Suggestions for City Patrons.

Have your mail addressed to street and number. Provide a mail box for carrier to deposit mail in, and place the box on the front porch. Mail box cost but little. Don't deposit mail without proper postage affixed. Carrier is not supposed to handle mail without postage first being affixed.

Suggestions to Patrons Calling at This Office.

Since the office was destroyed by fire, there have been many irregularities at this office. Now that the office is replaced, we wish to eliminate these. Patrons waiting while mail is being put up should never call for anything while the window is closed. Many have been doing this. Wait until the mail is up then we will wait on you. Put your mail in the office early, at least 40 minutes before time for the mail bags to be closed. This is worth much more than coming with mail late and making special request that your mail be dispatched. Please do not spend unnecessry time at the general delivery window. When you have been served, give the next fellow an opportunity to be waited upon. Patrons mailing circulars in great quantities should mail early in the morning if they wish them to go in the mails on that day. To insure safety money should always be sent by Postoffice money order or by registered letter. If you should break any mail and find that it was not intended for you; just write on the letter "Broken by mistake" and sign your name and return to the office. Never break a letter and then put in the office without doing this. Often patrons order goods C. O. D. and when the goods arrive they do not take them from the office. Do not order goods C. O. D. unless you will be prepared to take them from the office as soon as the goods arrive. Postoffice money order window closes at 4:30. All postal employees are glad to do anything for the patrons of this office that can be done, but remember that under no circumstances are we allowed to violate the regulation, and in the future please don't ask of employees things which you know to be violations. Any suggestion that any patron of this office has to offer that might result in better service will be welcomed.

Yours for better service,
Employees of Clanton Postoffice.
W. M. BEAN,
Postmaster.

JOS. E. COBB FOR COMMISSIONER FROM THE FIRST DISTRICT

The announcement of Mr. Jos. E. Cobb of Mars Hill community is made this week as a candidate for County Commissioner from the First District of Chilton County. Mr. Cobb is a thoroughly competent man, a faitaful Republican, and we have reason to believe that he would make a good official if the people of the county should choose him as their nominee and elect him as their Commissioner.

Mr. Cobb enters the race in opposition to Mr. Thos. Dorminey, who has held the position for the past four years, and who is also a candidate for re-election.

ALL DAY SINGING

SOCIETY AND PERSONALS

Mrs. R. E. LUCKIE, Editor.

Birthday Party.

The home of Mrs. Hugh Jones was quite a scene of merriment on Friday afternoon, when little "Mary Courtney" entertained a few friends at a tea party. All the little guests brought their dollies, and a very enjoyable time was spent in story telling, games and etc. Owing to the inclement weather the may pole dance was dispensed with, but just before going in to tea, the little guests cast their vote for the May Queen. Mr. Hal Broadhead was chosen to crown Miss Helen Moore as the Queen o' the May. The tea table was centered with a large basket of cloth of gold roses and yellow ribbon streamers led to smaller baskets holding English Dogwood. At each of these smaller baskets yellow candles burned. At the little hostess' place the birthday cake was placed and burned three candles. The favors were candy and lollypops dressed in yellow tissue paper as dollies marked the places of the guests.

Miscellaneous Shower.

Mrs. Scottie Moore and Miss Ruth Moore entertained at their home on last Monday afternoon, a number of guests at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. Turner M. Dennis. Punch was served as the guests entered by Misses Fannie and Myra Moore and Gertie Foshee, from a beautiful bowl banked in brides wreath. The guests were invited by Mrs. A. L. Farley to register in the brides book. After all the guests had arrived Miss Fannie Moore dressed as a wash woman and presented Mrs. Dennis with a number of beautiful and useful gifts. Later ice cream and cake were served.

Woman's Missionary Society Meets.

The Woman's Missionary Society held their regular social and business meeting at the home of Mrs. L. H. Reynolds on last Monday afternoon. Roses, ferns and petunias adorned the reception rooms. Mrs. J. C. Jones opened the meeting with Scripture, reading the 23rd Psalm, followed with prayer by Mrs. W. W. Fox. Plans to study a mission book were discussed. The book under discussion being Women and Missions. The circles all made nice reports. After a refreshing salad plate was served the Society adjourned to meet next with Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

The consolation a "cupid" was won by Mrs. Thomas. Late in the evening an ice course was served to the honor guests, Misses Rawlinson, Ford, Selman, Messrs Pegues, Frank Thomas, J. L. One of the seasons prettiest parties was given on last Friday at the home of Mrs. Hosea Downs, when she and Mrs. Ross Mullins were joint hostesses at a linen shower for Mrs. Turner Dennis. The guests were greeted by Mrs. Ross Mullins and served delicious punch from a table banked with ferns and sweet peas by Mrs. Eric Hart. Then invited into the living room where "good wishes" were written to the bride. Music on the Edison was enjoyed with Mrs. Horace Davis in charge. An interesting contest "A basket of flowers" was successfully conducted by Mrs. Downs, the prize, a basket of sweet peas, was presented Mrs. Arthur Johnson, while the bride was given a bouquet of lovely roses. Little Misses Frances Davis and Hilda Hart and Nell Ross Mullins brought the gifts in on an express wagon. An ice course was served to about 75 guests.

Annual Report of Mrs. R. E. Luckie, Secretary of Civic Improvement Club.

Covering the period extending from May 1921, to May 1922. In this the Annual Report of the ninth club year of the Civic, the Secretary extends thanks to the officers and members for the fine spirit of service which they have shown and particularly to the much imposed upon ever willing members, is this thanks due. In May 1921, after the closing of the active months of the Club year, huge boxes of flowers, which the committee gathered from over town, were expressed to Mt. Creek for the Old Soldiers Memorial exercises. Mrs. Hosea Downs, Chairman of the Save a life campaign sent $101.00 to Mr. Ramsey Birmingham, $60 of this amount being donated by Club members. Mrs. Pickens, Chairman of the Chinese Rice Fund, sent $12.25 to this cause. The amount largely subscribed in nickels and dimes. $20 was sent to the Armenians, $8.00 together with other help donated by members of the Civic was expended on walks and lots of non-residents at the cemetery. May 30th was beautifully observed. The poppy ladies of the Club sold poppies at ten cents for benefit of French orphans, and as a tribute to those who fell in the world war. One hundred coat lapels bore silent eloquence with their tiny scarlet memory of Flanders. $10.00 was realized. After minor details which claim the time and attention of the Club was the sending of $5.00 to the children's aid society in Birmingham. A box of supplies sent a needy family. Fruit and toys sent 3 families at Christmas. Literature for the good roads bond issue, as well as buttons was widely distributed by the conservation committee. Large supplies was also placed with the merchants and in this the rural district was reached. The club also gave a shower to a very destitute mother with four children and a little new arrival, clothing and household linen was donated and some of the members met and made complete layette for the little new comer and some needed garments for the mother. Both schools complied with the Labor Day observance Jan 27th. Literature was distributed and Rev. Pearson gave it a place in his Sunday sermon. Five dollars was sent to the establishing of national headquarters of the general federtion of Womn's Clubs at Washington. Members of the Club donated $16.00 for the desk for the Principal's room at the Grammar School. 239 magazines were collected by the club and sent to the inmates at the prison at Spigener. $2.50 was sent to the illiteracey fund. A sun parlor beautifully fitted out with 2 pedestals, ferns and reed furniture, consisting of 3 rockers, a fernery and table was purchased for the hospital by donations of members. A book was donated by a member for the girls industrial school at Birmingham. This, together with other nameless details, constitute the work of Clanton's Civic Club

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me just a small space in the dear old Banner to say a few words about the fifth Sunday meeting, held at this place April 29 and 30.

There was a large audience present both days. Everyone seemed to enjoy the meeting. Time and space would not permit me to tell all the good done in this meeting.

There were quite a number of visitors from other communities. The speakers did their very best on the subjects to which they were asigned. I sincerely wish all the young people of the county could have been with us and heard the able speech made by Prof. H. A. Harris on the posibilities of the young people. I am forced to acknowledge that Prof. Harris' speech was one of the best on the program. Listen, young people, take advantage of every opportunity which presents itself to you and let's make our county and state better, for everything is going to be left in our hands in the next few years. I also wish to congratulate the other speakers on their subjects.

Now to the churches. Let me beg you in the name of Jesus Christ let's take more interest in these fifth Sunday meetings in the future than we ever have in the past, for they put us in a better position to know more about what the church is doing for the betterment of humanity.

I would like to write a longer letter but I feel it would be unkind to the good editor to tax his patience with such a long one.

Trusting to see this letter appear in this week's issue of the Union-Banner, I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE ANDERSON,
The Blind Man.

Advantages of possesing a copy of The United States Official Postal Guide. To business concerns it is most essential.

In libraries it is a necessary book of reference. It should be used as a bock of instructions in every educational institution. To the private individual it is a source of help, both to himself and to his family. A better understanding of postal matters means co-operation between the individual and the postal employees, resulting in improved service from every viewpoint.

To the patrons of the Thorsby Postoffice, Thorsby, Ala.:

Call on the Postmaster or his assistent and we will be glad to give you the information relative to obtaining a United States Official Guide. Most people think that the Postal Laws and Regulations are a Secret, but the Postal Guide is the official method of communicating with postmaster and other employees throughout the service, and the more the people know about the Postal Laws and Regulations the better service can be rendered in handling, dispatching and receiving mails by postal employees.

The postal business is the people's business, which the Post Office Department is charged with the operating for the public. It is only by the greatest possible interest and understanding on the part of the public, and the heartiest kind of co-operation, that the Postal System can attain its highest ideals.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

On Wednesday night of last week, Mr. A. B. Baxley of Blytheville, Ark. addressed quite a large crowd of the farmers of this community on the subject of The United Farmers of America. There was quite a bit of enthusiasm expressed and a local Council was organized with a Charter Membership of 14. Those who have gone into this organization see great results from same if all will stick together. Here's hoping that they achieve everything that they have set out to acheive and more besides, for if there ever was a class of people who need to be organized, it is the farmers. When an old farmer gets his crop made and if he is lucky enough to make anything to sell at all, he loads same up on his wagon, carries it to town and goes up to Mr. Merchant or buyer and meekly asks him what he will give him for his produce. And if the price does not suit him he has no recourse whatever to demand more and not sell until he gets it. All other producers fix the price on their products and we have to pay that or let them alone, so why not the same for the farmers, they should have the same privilege, and the only way that they will ever gain same is through such organizations as the United Farmers of America. Lets all get our shoulders to the wheel and put this movement over the top.

Mr. W. J. Peters and daughter Lois, were in Clanton Saturday shopping.

Quite a number from this community attended the funeral of Mr. J. L. Lenoir in Clanton Saturday afternoon.

Mr. D. O. Manning and wife, Mr. W. F. DeShazo ad Mr. D. C. Mooney made a business trip to Clanton Saturday afternoon.

The writer spent the latter part of last week in Clanton attending to business matters.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. W. G. DeShazo is rapidly recovering form the effects of her recent operation, and that she will be able to be brought home within a few days.

Mr. R. L. Veazey made a business trip to Clanton Saturday afternoon.

The rain that came last Friday was very much appreciated by most everybody, as the ground was beginning to get too hard to plow satisfactorily.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Veazey and son Wallace, of Macedonia, spent Saturday night and Sunday with relatives in this commuity.

Yep, we liked to have had a real serious accident here Sunday morning, when Wallace Veazey decided that his flivver would fly. Wallace was coming down hill "wide open" and dodged a rough place in the road and when he did this he lost control of the car and of course it turned turtle. George Wright was in the car with him and both escaped with a few minor scratches, none deep enough to draw blood. The flivver was pretty well smashed up. I wish to state here that although he was driving at reckless speed that the accident wouldn't have happened had it not been for bad road conditions.

Rev. C. D. Messer, Democratic candidate for Judge of Probate, filled the pulpit at the Methodist Church Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour and delivered one of the best sermons enjoyed at this place for some time. The house was full and the crowd was very attentive during the entire discourse.

Sunday School and prayer meeting is still on the increase and as the weather grows better we hope that these services will grow better also, and especially so in attendance. There will be children's day exercises at Isabella Methodist Church on Saturday before the Fourth Sunday in this month and it is hoped that we will have some good speakers with us on that date. Lets all co-operate in this and make it a grand success for the children and the grown-ups too.

That Velie Six from Macedonia has gotten to where it makes its Sunday afternoon calls regularly every Sunday.

Disappointment was registered on the faces of several around here Sunday on account of the flivver wreck.

George Wright says that if he ever gets over the flivver wreck which occured Sunday, that he won't ever look like anything any more.

Yep, Remus, there is at present three things that makes a candidate so much like a preacher. First: They are both cut for what there is in it for them. Second: They both pretend to love everybody, and Third and last: In one instance in the present campaign they happen to be one and the same man, therefore they have to be very much alike. Come again, Remus.

Mr. T. L. LeCroy and son Thomas, made a business trip to Clanton Monday.

We learn that the Higgins families, who have for the past few weeks been residing at the Speer place, are going to move to Sylacauga in the near future.

Mr. Kirby Summers made a business trip to Pleasant Grove community Monday afternoon.

Big Acreage Planted.

Prattville—Planting cotton is about complete and judging from the most reliable sources there is planted the largest acreage in this country since 1914. The largest quantity of commercial fertilizers that has been sold in several years is noted for the present year. The acreage planted in corn is rather small. Corn is up to a stand in most cases and quite a number of farmers have given it the first plowing. The oat crop is the most promising for several years on account of the larger acreage planted last fall. If it rains in time the yield will be good.

Protest Grouping.

Montgomery—Opposition to the proposed grouping of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad with the Southern Railway System and the Seaboard and Illinois Central, is voiced by the Alabama Public Service Commission ,in a letter forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission, at Washington.

Preparing For Reunion.

6,000 Bales Pledged.

Huntsville—Something over 6,000 bales of cotton have been pledged by Madison County farmers of this season's crop for co-operative marketing under the auspices of the farm bureau.

Farm Work Progressing.

Rockford—Farmers of this section are hurrying forward their farm work. Quite a lot of cotton will be planted throughout this entire section. Nitrate of soda is being used quite extensively with the hope of getting quick results. Spring gardens are flourishing and the agricultural prospects look good to the most conservative observer. The farmers are proving their willingness to work and prospects for a good crop year are good.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH BUREAU OF PUBLICITY

Some idea of the enormous loss to Alabama from mad dogs can be had by a study of the chart on the Pasteur work for the period embraced between February 1912 and October 1921—on file at the State Health Department.

This chart shows that 3,538 persons in Alabama had to take, or did, take, anti-rabies treatment as a result of being bitten by mad dogs. Of this number, only five died while 23 deaths are recorded where the treatment was not taken.

The cost to the people of the state in railroad fares and hotel bills while taking the treatment has been estimated at approximately a half million dollars, not counting the loss of time nor valuable stock which died after being bitten.

Under the present system of handling the disease, the animal's head is sent to the Laboratory for diagnosis and, if found positive, the treatment is sent to the family physician and is administered in the home of the patient. Provision is also made for furnishing the treatment free to those financially unable to pay for it. To those who can pay the total cost is only $30.

Examinations made, 49; number found positive, 20; patients treated, 34.

Whooping Cough.

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paragoric codeine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course, not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with prouounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.

BLEED THROUGH

WATER POWER GREAT ASSET TO THE STATE

POSSIBILITIES IN ALABAMA FAR SURPASS THOSE OF ANY OTHER STATE IN UNION.

Nationwide interest recently diverted to the subject of Alabama's unsurpassed water power resources makes a summary of these resources in the state of timely interest. Few people, perhaps, have anything like an accurate conception of the state's water power possibilities, or even the developed water power. Roughly, it may be stated that the total developed water power now existing, exclusive of Muscle Shoals (under construction) amounts to 268,526 horse power, while the undeveloped horse power of the state, exclusive of the Muscle Shoals property, amounts to 1,118,344 horse power. These figures are based on reports of government engineers, who have made surveys of all available sites in Alabama. The reports show that the state's possibilities in water power development have barely gotten under way and that when completed, the state will have sufficient hydro-election power to turn practically all the wheels of industry in the entire south.

If Muscle Shoals be included in the estimate, and it should be, there is not another state in the union which can match Alabama in its water supply possibilities. New York State, with its Niagara Falls, is the nearest in approach, and California takes third rank.

Locations of Sites.

Alabama's developed water power includes the following sites which are suited to the development of hydro-electric power situated on the main streams of the states and their tributaries:

Tallapoosa River—10,500 horse power developed at two sites; 234,500 horse power undeveloped at eight sites.

Coosa River—212,000 horse power developed at three sites; 310,500 undeveloped at seven sites. This developed horse power includes the two largest stations in the state, those of the Alabama Power Company at Lock 12 and at Mitchell Dam. Mitchell Dam will be complete in June, 1923.

Warrior River—175,650 horse power undeveloped at sixteen sites. There is no power developed on this wonderful stream up to the present time.

Chattahoochie River—45,416 horse power developed at five sites. It will be observed that all sites on this river have been developed and most of this power is used in the operation of cotton mills. As indication of the great value of this power in the manufacture of textiles, it may be stated that during the slack manufacturing period of 1921 when practically all the textile mills of New England were shut down, the mills on the Chattahoochie were running on full time, and some of them with double shifts. They were that much under manufacturing costs in the east.

The Tennessee River.

The state's greatest power possibilities are at Muscle Shoals on the Tennessee River. The three sites which have been surveyed there show a possible development of 840,000 horse power.

There are eleven miscellaneous sites on various streams in the state with an undeveloped horse power of 40,400 and with 3,650 developed. These include five sites of the Choctawhatchie, two on the Conecuh, one each on Sauty Creek, Town, Omussee Creek and River Falls.

Many Small Plants.

The state's power plants are not confined by any means to the larger hydro-electric plants which have been mentioned above. There are power plants in operation in sixty counties of the state, numbering 869 with a total capacity of 37,097 horse power, additional to the larger plants above outlined.

Most of these little plants are used in the conduct of grist and saw mills, cotton gins and the like, and while the general public may regard the days of the old water mills as among the things of the past, the figures are at hand to controvert this statement. The figures quoted were prepared by Dr. Eugene A. Smith, state geologist, and are therefore, absolutely correct.

Calhoun County leads in the number of sites developed, totalling 43, while Randolph comes second with 42 and DeKalb and Limestone are tied for third position with 38 sites each. The range is down to one each for Marengo and Morgan counties, which stand at the bottom of the list.

When the people of the state fully understand the water power possibilities they will more fully appreciate what the Alabama Power Company is undertaking.

There is nothing more invigorating to a run down system than Tanlac. Try it.—Upchurch Drug Co.

POOR ORIGINAL

CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

A large congregation was present at the church on Sunday night to hear the splendid music rendered by the Vaughan male Quartet, who are undoubtedly one of the best and probably the very best that has ever visited Clanton. The fact that they were going to sing gave the pastor a fine opportunity, who preached an interesting sermon on the spiritual looking-glass, which was followed with good attention by the large audience.

Services will be held next Sunday as usual and the sermon in the morning will be appropriate for the observance of Mother's Day. Inasmuch as the second Sunday is commencement Sunday there will be no services at this church. A large attendance will be appreciated at both services next Sunday. It is probable that special music will be rendered by the choir. Everybody is cordially invited to these services.

BLAME THE SCHOOLS

Is your child's digestion bad?
Blame the schools!
Is he sick, morose or sad?
Blame the schools.
Do your children learn to fight?
Do they lie awake at night?
Do they fail to do what's right?
Blame the schools!
Do your boys smoke cigarettes?
Blame the schools!
Are your girls all suffragists?
Blame the schools!
Do your children's shoes wear out?
That's the school board's fault, no doubt,
Are your children getting stout?
Blame the schools!
Are your children getting thin?
Blame the schools!
Do they choose the path of sin?
Blame the schools!
Do your children work too hard?
Are they playing round your yard?
Do they play the wicked card?
Blame the schools!
Is the noon recess too short?
Blame the schools!
Do they need more time for sport?
Blame the schools!
Is the noon recess too long?
Oh, that plan is surely wrong,
They should spend that time in song!
Blame the schools!
Is your child a nervous wreck?
Blame the schools!
Are there pimples on her neck?
Blame the schools!
Blame the schools for what they do
And for what they don't do, too.
They should seek advice from you!
Blame the schools!
Do your children's teeth decay?
Blame the schools!
For the tax you have to pay?
Blame the schools!
For the teachers they have hired
And the ones that they have fired
Tell the board they make you tired!
Blame the schools!
Is you daughter's eyesight bad?
Blame the schools!
Is your son a little cad?
Blame the schools!
Do your children learn to swear?
Is there something in their hair?
Is there trouble anywhere?
Blame the schools!
If your daughters are too bold,
Blame the schools!
If the winters are too cold,
Blame the schools!
If you feel like being witty
Here's a title for your ditty,
"Damn that stupid school committee
And the schools!"

WHAT PERSHING THINKS

The appropriations of the five great powers for military and naval purposes in the year 1920 alone reached a total of $16,442,251,101, a sum only about $2,000,000,000 more than the total for the whole fourteen years before the war.

It all comes down to this so far as you are concerned:

Every morning when you go to work, or when you stay at home sick on a working day, or even if you are out of a job, it has been arranged for you to pay your fair share out of what you earn or should earn, of over $5,000,000 a day for the support of the army and navy. That is the estimate for the fiscal year 1922—over $5,000,000 a day. I have General Pershing's word for it. You will have to pay it. Five million dollars every working day is a pile of money to spend for insurance against attack. And of course that is not all the cost. What is the big idea? What do you think about it? You will have to pay the bill. Do you think about it at all? General Pershing does. This is what he thinks:

"As we consider the causes of the World war and comprehend its horrors, every thinking man and woman must feel that measures should be taken to prevent another such calamity. One step in that direction would be to reduce expenditures for armament. Our own estimates for naval and military purposes contemplate an appropriation for the fiscal year 1922 of over $5,000,000 for every working day in the year. It is a gloomy prospect that the nations plan expenditures greater than ever before in peacetimes.

"It would appear that recent experiences should be enough to convince everybody of the danger of a renewal of this competition. But one nation cannot reduce armaments unless all do. It is time that enlightened people everywhere should undertake to reach some rational agreement which would not only relieve the world of its heavy financial burden but which in itself would go far toward the prevention of war. We are not a warlike people. We do not wish to expand at the expense of any other nation, and we have no designs on anybody. If other people feel the same toward us and toward each other it seems unreasonable that they should be unwilling to consent in principle to some limitation of armaments, to be carried out when other nations succeed in establishing stable governments and are willing to recognize the wisdom of such a course. Otherwise, may we not seriously ask ourselves whether civilization is a failure, and whether we are to regard war as an unavoidable scourge that mankind must suffer?

"There are other considerations which should prompt us to make every effort to bring about a curtailment of these expenditures throughout the world, particularly in the war-worn countries of Europe. The people of Europe have always been our best customers and are largely dependent upon us for certain necessities. We must look to them to buy the products of our farms, mines and factories. The prosperity of our people depends in no small measure upon the uninterrupted flow of commodities abroad. We have stocks of cotton, wheat and other products greatly in excess of our own requirements, which the people of Europe sorely need but which we cannot sell and they cannot buy because their fiscal systems have broken down, their currencies have depreciated, and their purchasing power is exhausted.

"The first step to take in the rehabilitation of the finances of all these countries is to reduce the cost of government so that expenses will not exceed the incomes. Expenditures must be lowered everywhere if financial stability is to be restored and if the nations are ever to pay their debts. Until stability is restored none can have prosperity that comes from a free and uninterrupted flow of products from one country to another. But this cannot be done if huge sums continue to be appropriated for the maintenance of large armies and large navies.

"The safety of humanity in the future, indeed the peace, the happiness and the prosperity of the race—all appeal alike for an early consideration of the question of limited armaments."

Broadly speaking, it is the man who profits, and not the simple average man who endures, who is behind all this movement for ever increasing armament. If you doubt this, just go out in your own neighborhood and ask men who were actually in the war, who saw service in the line, whether they want any more of it.

Scientific Query.

When we read about monkey stars getting salaries of $1,000 a week in the movies we wonder whether evolution is what it has been cracked up to be.

OUT-OF-DATE MACHINE

A committee made up of three members of the senate and three members of the house is now considering the whole problem of the organization of the executive departments of the government with a view to finding out how to reorganize them so as to increase their efficiency and decrease their cost of operation. It is about time. The great executive departments of the government have not been reorganized or greatly modernized since Alexander Hamilton's day.

Representative Reavis of Nebraska is one of the members of this joint congressional committee that is making the present investigation. He put the resolution through the house that brought about the appointment of the committee. He is a part of the national government machine and he ought to know what he is talking about when he says that "while the government of the United States is the world's biggest business, it is likewise the world's worst managed business."

That is an indictment and a statement of fact that will stand the closest scrutiny and the most unsparing analysis. But listen to Mr. Reavis:

"Why should the Interior department run an insane asylum and a college for negroes and a school for the deaf? How did it get that way Why should one personnel in the pension bureau in the Interior department be caring for the disabled soldiers of the Civil war and the Spanish American war, while another personnel in the bureau of war risk insurance of the treasury is caring for the veterans of the World war? Why this hodgepodge of totally unrelated purposes which is resulting in endless duplication and appalling expense?"

I will let Mr. Reavis go on without further interruption. As a member of the house he has his share of the responsibility for the conditions he describes:

There are 39 separate governmental agencies handling engineering, architectural and public works functions, all of a related kind. There is no good reason why all these agencies should not be co-ordinated in one department and about 38 of the useless organizations done away with. There are 26 government agencies engaged in surveying and mapping; there are 27 separate and distinct agencies engaged in public building operations; there are 16 agencies authorized to build roads; there are 19 engaged in hydraulic construction; there are 16 doing work on rivers; there are 10 engaged in public land functions; there are 15 doing chemical investigation connected with public work operations; there are 22 doing engineering and research.

Many of these agencies have been inactive for a number of years, but they are keeping up their personnel in anticipation of work in the future. We could save $300,000,000 a year, in my judgment, by doing away with useless bureaus and duplication of activities.

Some of the duplications are ridiculous and absurd. For instance, the government seeks to protect the wild animals in the national parks. If a brown kadiak bear has twin cubs, one brown and one black, as often happens, and one should shoot the brown cub he must make his settlement with one department, but if he shoots its full brother, the black cub, he must settle with another department. If you were to shoot a fox in Alaska your settlement would be with the Department of Agriculture, while if you trapped the same fox you must make your settlement with the Department of Commerce.

The government issued last year through its several bureaus and departments 16 cookbooks. The last one that was issued was published by the board of vocational education. This is a board organized by the congress for the purpose of rehabilitating crippled soldiers of the World war, to prevent, as far as possible, their becoming derelicts in life. . . . It may be of interest to state that while the government has been issuing 16 cookbooks and consuming vast quantities of print paper in these and similar useless publications, 1,300 country town newspapers have suspended in the last three months because they could not secure print paper.

Mr. Reavis and a great many others have sensed the feeling in the country and in congress that the time has come to put an end to all this sort of thing. He gives reasons for his belief:

One of the reasons is that the people demand that their taxation be reduced. For many years we have been collecting the revenues of this government through systems of indirect taxation. The revenues have been collected through a protective tariff and by excise taxation on intoxicating liquors. Indirect taxation of this kind prevents the people from realizing fully just who is paying the expenses of the government. There was a time when the expenses of the government amounted to only 12 cents per capita per year. Today the annual per capita expense exceeds $40. This tremendous expense has made it necessary to resort to direct taxation, and the people have suddenly become painfully aware of who pays the expenses of the government.

I am very certain that the elimination of duplications and overlapping in the departments will result in the saving of millions of dollars. There is no reason why it should not be done.

There is every reason, in the presence of the strife and turmoil that prevail in this country and of the unrest occasioned by the high cost of the necessaries of life, that the government should be put upon a sane, efficient and economical basis.

Whoever by public clamor or other means can induce congress and the executive departments to organize the routine business of the national government will have performed a great public service. Note that I say "organize" and not "reorganize," for in no proper sense has the federal business ever been organized.

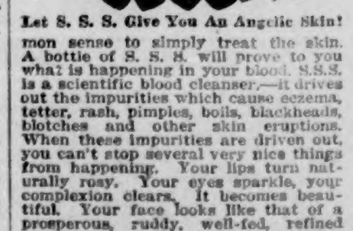
Common Sense About Eczema and Eruptions!

Here's Something About S. S. S. That You'll Be Glad to Hear.

You might just as well know it right now,—the cause of skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, boils and so on, is right in the blood. There is no getting away from it. Science has proved it. We prove it. You can prove it. When the cause of skin troubles and eruptions is in the blood, it isn't common sense to simply treat the skin. A bottle of S. S. S. will prove to you what is happening in your blood. S.S.S. is a scientific blood cleanser,—it drives out the impurities which cause eczema, tetter, rash, pimples, boils, blackheads, blotches and other skin eruptions. When these impurities are driven out, you can't stop several very nice things from happening. Your lips turn naturally rosy. Your eyes sparkle, your complexion clears. It becomes beautiful. Your face looks like that of a prosperous, ruddy, well-fed, refined gentleman, or if you are a woman, your complexion becomes the real kind that the whole world so admires. S.S.S. is also a powerful body-builder, because it builds new and more blood-cells. That's why it fills out sunken cheeks, bony necks, thin limbs, helps regain lost flesh. It costs little to have this happen to you. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.



Let S. S. S. Give You An Angelic Skin!

"STRONG-ARM" METHODS OF DEMOCRATS

Washington, April 25.—A Democratic political writer having inquired: "Is anyone giving a sympathetic thought to those unfortunate patriots who, in the hard pinched hours of the depression that accompanied the strong-arm methods of deflation imposed upon us by our financial mentors were forced to sacrifice their bonds at the distressing depths of their depreciation?' the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., repies, "What an amazing question for a Democrat to raise, in view of common knowedge as to the identity of the 'financial mentors' who used the strong-arm methods.'

"The Federal Reserve Board, under Democratic administration, exercised the strong arm and admits it. On page 12 of its report for 1920, the Board says: 'The Board was prepared, as soon as Treasury exigencies permitted, to resort to the well-known method of advancing the rate of discount.' The Board calls it the 'well-known' method, while the Democratic spokesman calls it the 'strong-arm' method. The Board had previously admitted that it helped the Treasury Department float the Liberty bonds at a low rate of interest, for it said: 'From the outset, it (the Board) recognized its duty to co-operate unreservedly with the Government to provide funds needed for the war and freely conceded that the great national emergency made it necessary to suspend the application of well-recognized principles of economics and finance which usually govern banking operations in times of peace.'

"There was probably nothing improper in thus helping the Treasury sell Liberty bonds, but the Board should have been fair enough to advise the public that it was only temporarily suspending application of well-recognized principles. The Board should have said plainly: 'We are using legerdemain methods now to put bonds in the hands of the people but we propose to use strong-arm methods later to force the bonds out of the hands of the people.' If that sort of declaration had been made, buyers of bonds would have no reason to complain. The Board cannot plead ignorance of the effects of its action, for it said in its report for 1920 that it 'has never ailed to take account of the consequences of its discount policies,' and later that it 'was prepared, as soon as Treasury exigencies permitted, to resort to the well-known method of advancing the rate of discount.'

"The inquiry as to whether any one is giving sympathetic thought to victims of the strong-arm methods, Is easily answered. During the campaign of 1920 Mr. Harding promised that in case of his election, he would do all in his power to bring Liberty bonds back to par. His first step in that direction was the appointment of Andrew W. Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Mellon is the direct opposite of McAdoo in almost every respect. McAdoo was always trying to get into the lime-light; Mellon is quiet and retiring. McAdoo wanted his name printed on every document or bulletin or memo or poster issued by any bureau or board with which he was connected. Mr. Mellon cares not a whit for publicity. Mr. McAdoo knew little about finance; Mr. Mellon is one of the ablest financiers in the world. Every act of the Mellon administration of the Treasury Department has helped to bring Liberty bonds back to par. Besides putting an able man at the head of the Treasury Department, Harding has helped restore bonds to par by helping reduce government expenditures, steering clear of socialistic activities, and keeping the nation out of foreign entanglements. Every member of the Republican administration has had a sympathetic thought for the victims of the strong arm methods of the Democratic regime."

MAN'S TROUBLE ARRESTED

"The past 4 years I have been going down, down, down with catarrh of the stomach and had to give up work a year ago because of my weakened condition. I suffered terribly from bloating and colic attacks. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy was recommended to me. I took a course of it and am now feeling fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomch, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

B. F. DYKES.

We held one of the greatest meetings ever held we do earnestly believe. If the people would take heed to what was done and said by the speakers, especially what Prof. H. A. Harris said to the young people, we would have better times and the church would be a success.

T. W. BILLINGSLEY, Sec'y.

EVERYBODY SHOULD HELP TO IMPROVE THE POSTAL SERVICE

We hope the readers of The Union-Baner will read carefully what is being said in this issue of the paper in regard to improvement of the United States Postal Service. This is Postal Service Improvement Week, and the officials and employees of the postoffice department are publishing a number of little items of instructions which, if picked up and practiced by our citizenship, would constantly improve the service which is being rendered the people by the postoffice department.

Let us stop for a moment and think what great advantages are bestowed upon our country, particularly the rural section, by the United States Postoffice Department in the one respect of Rural Free Mail Delivery alone. It is an advantage of which we should be very proud. We should also put forth every effort to make the service of the most benefit to ourselves and to everybody else.

The best way to get the most advantages out of the postal service is to do your very best to comply with the rules and regualtions of the same. When you prepare a package to be mailed, or address a letter, do it by the rule, and you will be many more times certain that your package or letter will get to the place you intend it to go.

Our Postmaster and postal employees at the Clanton Postoffice are desirous of rendering the best service possible. But they are bound by the rules of the Department in conducting the business. If patrons will likewise confrom to the rules, everybody will get better postal service.

The rural mail carriers who carry out mail from the Clanton post office are without a doubt the best bunch of fellows you could find in the service anywhere. But patrons of the routes should not expect their carrier to run the business just to suit their individual needs. Remember these men are serving hundreds of other people besides yourself. And Uncel Sam has prescribed rules by which they shall be governed in the discharge of their duties.

Help the mail carriers, and you can depend upon it, they will help you.

SUPREME COURT RENDERS AN IMPORTANT DECISION

Government Responsible for Damages While Operating Railroads.

Montgomery—The Alabama Supreme Court in the case of James J. Harris vs. The Southern Railway appealed from the Morgan County Circuit Court, shifted the obligation for payment of $100 damages from the Southern Railway to the United States government. Harris brought suit after his bird dog had been killed by a Southern Railway train. He was awarded damages to the extent of $100, which amount was assessed against the Southern Railroad. The Supreme Court held that in as much as the Southern Railroad was controlled and operated by the federal government at the time of the killing of the dog was said to have taken place, the government and not the Southern Railroad Company was responsible.

GOOD CROPS EXPECTED IN FRANKLIN COUNTY.

Russellville—The farmers of this section are preparing the soil for other crops and cotton planting is well under way, the continued rains of the early Spring have made work slow for the farmer and crops will be a little later than usual, the great amount of fertilizer hauled out of the city the past three weeks indicates that some are going to put up a hard fight against the boll weevil, while some are not planting any cotton but are going to try corn and potatoes and other crops, farmers are co-operating more with the county agent than last year and a bumper crop is expected.

Big Cotton Contract.

Greenville—Word has reached Greenville that W. M. McGowin, one of the most prominent farmers of the county, is planting 500 acres of cotton and has signed a contract to sell his crop through the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Marketing Association. This makes 1,800 bales of cotton contracted for to be sold in the pool in Butler County based upon last year's production. Many of the leading farmers of the county are planning an intensive campaign in favor of the pool, and they are very optimistic over the prospects. Butler County's quota is expected to be signed up in a short while.

Sanitary Sewage Company.

Fairhope—The Sanitary Sewage Company, Inc., has been incorporated with a capital stock of $6,000. Its principle place of busines is to be at Fairhope. The company will manufacture, sell and install a sanitary sewage disposal system. The incorporators are William B. Shields, Thos. S. Moore and others, all of Mobile.

GIGANTIC SPEAKING CAMPAIGN ON IN ALABAMA

Every Cotton Producing County Being Visited by Able Speakers.

Montgomery, Ala., May 1st.—During the present week the story of cooperative cotton warketing on the Farm Bureau plan is being told in every cotton producing county in Alabama. It is being done by eleven of the foremost speakers and agricultural leaders of the South and tens of thousands of farmers are hearing the story and acting upon the information received.

The speakers are Dr. Clarence Poe, Dr. Tait Butler, and W. C. Lassetter, editors of The Progressive Farmer; C. A. Cobb, editor of the Southern Ruralist; J. A. Evans and E. A. Miller of the Department of Agriculture, Washington; Roy C. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation; Walton Peteet, a leader in the Texas Farm Bureau marketing movement; and V. G. Thomas, F. R. Shanks, and J. D. Coghlan, Texas farmers and members of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

The speaking campaign which is now in progress will doubtless eclipse any other speaking campaign ever staged in Alabama. It includes one or more addresses in each cotton producing county by a man long known as an able, safe, and constructive leader.

The cotton marketing plan of the Farm Bureau, as explained by each speaker is, without question, the most constructive proposition ever introduced in the state, and one which will add millions of dollars to the income of the Alabama farmers each year when it is put into operation.

It means the saving of every penny of weather damage, speculators profits, salaries of unnecessary middlemen, and the great mass of waste due to the dumping, undergrading, understapling, extra sampling, market manipulations, price fluctations, and other losses incurred in the present cotton marketing system.

That the plan is successful has been demonstrated by tens of thousands of cotton growers in Texas, Oklahoma, Arizona, and Mississippi and that it will work to equal or even greater advantage in Alabama, is the opinion of each speaker now addressing the Alabama farmers.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

ALA. S. S. ASSOCIATION

The Fortieth Annual Convention of the Alabama Sunday School Association will be held in the First Methodist Church, Birmingham, Ala., in April 1923. It will be historic. Among other things it may be asked to approve a change of name conforming to the basis of the new merger submitted by the International Sunday School Council of Religious Education, a new constitution, policy, and program of work.

The Convention in Gadsden April 18-20, after a clear presentation and discussion of the whole matter, unanimously passed the following resolution:

"Whereas the International Sunday School Association" and the "Sunday School Council of Evangelical Denominations" have merged under the name of "The International Sunday School Council of Religious Education," and whereas a part of the basis of the merger is the assumption that the State Associations will follow this lead, therefore be it resolved that this 39th Annual Convention of the Alabama Sunday School Association approves of the merger and both authorizes and empowers the General Executive Committee of the Alabama Sunday School Association to enter into conference with the Officials of the various Sunday School Boards of the Denominations represented, and working in Alabama, regarding the effecting of such reorganization of the forces in the State of Alabama, and if agreeable to proceed to push organization as may seem advisable, providing the same be in harmony with the principles as outlined in "exhibit B" of "The Agreement of Joint Committee on Reference and Counsel."

This resolution in itself changes nothing. The contemplated changes can only be made in conference with the representatives of the various Denominational forces operating in Alabama. Necessary steps will be taken during the present year to carry out this plan.

The program at Gadsden was "different." The Program at Birmingham will be "more different." Alabama needs "Vision" in Religious Education, as well as in Secular Education. She is catching a glorious vision in Secular Education under splendid leadership. Religious Education in the State must keep pace.

The program at Birmingham next April will be set up and carried out with this in view. As far as possible it will be co-operative.

The Convention program at Gadsden was said to be the best in the history of the Association.

CONTROL FLOOD WATERS IN STATE

GREAT BENEFITS TO FARMERS FROM CONSTRUCTION OF RESERVOIRS AND DAMS ON RIVERS.

Recent experiences with flood waters in the Mississippi Valley country have served to direct attention to floodage waters in the various valleys of rivers traversing Alabama. It may not be generally known that the system of locks and dams being placed in these rviers is having wonderful effect in controlling flood waters, when combined with actual results.

The subject of flood control has given government engineers deep concern for many years, their study originating the system of levees along the Mississippi and tributary rivers. These levees have proved their monetary value by holding back the great floods that annually pour down the great "Fathers of Waters." Then there is the case of the Miami river in Ohio. It is fresh within the memory of most readers how the floods of the little treacherous Miami swept away the city of Dayton and other towns along its banks in 1913, costing many millions of damage. To control the flood waters of this little stream the sum of $10,000,000 was appropriated, without any hope as to making it navigable.

Results in Alabama

But the subject is brought home to Alabamians through the building of locks and dams by the government and private corporations along the state's great system of rivers. For instance, it may be cited that there has not been a very serious flood along the Warrior and Tombigbee rivers since the completion of the government's system of locks and dams on these rivers. The last serious flood on these streams occurred in 1914, when hundreds of thousands of dollars in crop losses resulted, and when the government had to come to the rescue with a big appropriation to prevent great starvation in Greene, Sumter and some neighboring coun-

How Waters Are Held

To those who have not given thought to the problem, it may not appear readily as to how the building of dams in the rivers may tend to prevent floods. But it is simple. When the dam is constructed there is a consequent widening of the flow of the stream. This flattening increases as the waters rise, additional coves and outlets made available, temporarily stopping the mad onrush. This temporary stoppage means that the waters from the rains lower down the stream are given an opportunity to flow out before the head waters rush down, thus the flood danger is lessened.

Government statistics are available to show just what is possible from the building of dams and reservoirs on one of the Alabama river systems. In 1910 the government made a survey of the Alabama and Coosa rivers and their tributaries with a view of ascertaining the probable effect of the construction of storage reservoirs along the headwaters of the Coosa in Georgia. It was estimated that the reservoirs would impound 62,000,000 cubic feet and had these reservoirs been constructed at the time of the most disastrous flood on these streams in 1901, that the maximum flood tide at Montgomery on the Alabama would only have reached 33.4 feet, as against an actual maximum at that time of 46.1 feet.

Would Make Rivers Navigable.

Lessening the flood dangers is not the only great blessing that the building of dams would effect, however. It is estimated by government engineers that should the system of locks and dams proposed on the Coosa be completed that it would not alone make that stream navigable from Rome to its junction with the Alabama the year-round, but that the impounded waters could be let out at such times of low water as to give a minimum of six feet of water in the Alabama river throughout the year and providing year-round navigation from Montgomery to Mobile.

The most recent illustration of the effects of flood control through the system of dam construction on the Coosa is found in the flood of the past January. At that time the great cofferdam initial to the construction of Mitchell dam was under way. There was an exceptional flood in the Coosa valley. Engineers of the Alabama Power Company, in charge of the construction of Mitchell dam, were being put to their wits to defeat the flood waters. They ordered the closing of the flood gates at Lock 12, a few miles above, and this action served to temporarily hold the flood waters and save thousands of dollars in construction work at Mitchell dam. As indication of what this means, it may be stated that Mitchell dam construction represents an expenditure of more than $8,000,000, and it will increase by 120,000 the horsepower of the Alabama Power Company.

Mr. W. F. DeShazo, of Mulberry, was in Clanton Tuesday atending to business matters.

SPECIAL SESSION OF CHILTON COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

The special session of the Chilton County Singing Convention met at the Chilton County High School building in Clanton last Sunday morning at the call of the President.

The services were opened with song conducted by W. O. Rich, followed with prayer by W. W. Hand. The President, Prof. James Franklin, then took charge and appointed an arrangement committee composed of W. O. Rich, J. Dudley Collins and J. A. W. Mims.

The Secretary was not present. As no official report of the services has been sent in to the paper, this article is prepared from memory, and there may be some items and leaders which have been overlooked.

Among those who directed lessons in the forenoon we remember Jesse C. Jones, Amzie Boswell, J. A. W. Mims, A. M. Pace. A quartet was rendered between each lesson by the Vaughan Quartet of Lawrenceburg, Tennessee.

The directors in the afternoon included W. G. Culp, L. E. Little, Grover Gilland, Maxie Boswell, A. M. Pace, Vernon Northcutt, Herbert Lowery, Arch Glass. As in the forenoon, also in the afternoon, the Vaughan Quartet rendered a selcetion between each lesson.

It would not be any exaggeration to say that the singing here last Sunday was enjoyed better than any singing that has ever been held here before. The visiting singers included prominent people from all parts of Chilton county, and some from adjoining counties. The Vaughan Quartet was a special attraction, and added more than anything else to the splendid program of music, throughout the day.

ANOTHER DOSE OF DR. SCOTT'S IGNORANCE DROPS

Editor Union-Banner:

Here I come again asking space for another dose of my "Ignorance Drops." I guess about all the candidates have announced for office in Chilton by this time, and as Mr. Bell stated last week, they are all good people, and a nice bunch from which to select a ticket for the general election in November.

But I cannot agree with Mr. Bell in what he says about electing altogether new men for offices. I admit that it sometimes pays to make a change, but I believe this is true only when our business has not been carried on in the right manner.

Brother and Sister Voters, we should consider well the past conditions. Let us reason together a little. If you had a farm and the man in charge of it should allow your fence jams and ditch banks to grow up in briars and weeds, and your fences and buildings rot down, and besides that, to run you heavily in debt, then you would need to make a change. Then when secured another man for the job, who cleaned out your fence jams, cleared off your ditch banks, improved your place in every way, built you a new house, repaired your barns, and paid up all of your debts, besides saving you several thousand dollars, would you think it prudent to get rid of that man just because some other man, even though he be your friend, came along and asked you for the job?

I want to say that you don't have a better friend than the man who can and will run your business successfully. Now let me call your attention to a few facts. Eighteen years ago, we found Chilton County like the farm mentioned above. Everything gone down, and we were several thousand dollars in debt. We made a change and put L. H. Reynolds in charge of the county affairs. Everybody knows as well as I, that he went to work, and with the help of his associates in office he improved many things in many places in the county. He built a new wing to the court house, overhauled the jail, paid up all back debts, and had several thousand dollars on hand. Then the people decided to make another change; so they placed Mr. Deason in charge. By the help of his assiciates in office he was able to go ahead and spend all the money left on hand by Judge Reynolds. He allowed the county roads to go down, and ran the county about two hundred and sixty thousand dollars in debt, and brought about a condition where the county could not even buy a plank to put over a ditch in the road.

Six years ago the people saw their mistake, and decided to put Judge Reynolds back in charge again. With the county in the awful condition which existed at that time, Judge Reynolds has gone ahead as before with the assistance of his associates in office, and has got the county back on a cash business basis, and as has been stated in the paper, he has had to build another court house, paid forty thousand dollars for dipping cattle. After all of this he has reduced our indebtedness several thousand dollars.

All of this being true, Voters, do you think it a good policy to change our officers now for now ones who have had no experience in the offices? I think not. But if Democratic auditors can see wherein they may compliment our Republican officers, it seems to me that we as Republican voters and citizens ought to be able to see wherein we can afford to vote for them again and keep them in office as long as they are serving us so well.

I want to say further that if Judge Reynolds had had two terms in the Probate office without a break, we would be in much better condition today than we are now. I do not believe that Judge Reynolds has yet had a fair show at what he can do with the office, in spite of the fact that he has done so well. Therefore I plead with the voters, in your own behalf and for your own good, let us keep Judge Reynolds in the Probate office another term without a break, and you will see that he will be able to do twice as much during his second term as he has in the term just closing.

Some of the leading Democrats in Birmingham state to me that Judge Reynolds is one of the best financiers they know. Then if they feel this way about him, we as citizens of Chilton county, ought to feel proud of him, and be glad of the opportunity we have of continuing his services in the Probate office in managing the business affairs of our county.

I want to say that I am proud of our officers, and shall give them my full support in this campaign. I will select me a candidate for Sheriff and Representative.

Well Mr. Editor, as my "Ignorance Drops" has about run out for this time, I will have to stop. By the way, if there is anybody who does not understand where this "Ignorance Drops" business got started, they can find out by asking Tom Littlejohn, the candidate for Sheriff.

Respectfully,
J. N. SCOTT.

JUDGE ADAMS MAKES REPLY TO GOVERNOR O'NEAL

Judge S. M. Adams, Democratic candidate for State Senator from this District, has made the following reply to the query of Governor O'Neal, in regard to the question of eminent domain for the Alabama Power Co.

"Thorsby, Ala., April 29, 1922. To Hon. Emmett O'Neal, Birmingham, Ala. Dear Sir: Replying to yours of the 28th inst., asking my views as to the rights of the Alabama Power Company to eminent domain, also as to whether or not I favor the exemption of taxes on said property, will say that I am opposed to such special privileges, and if elected to the State Senate, will stand for equal rights to all and special privileges to none. With kindest personal regards, I beg to remain, Yours very ruly, S. M. Adams."

WITHOUT STREET ADDRESS YOUR MAIL IS DELAYED AT OFFICE OF DELIVERY

The Dead Letter Office has been in existence ever since Ben Franklin started our postal service. Even then people addressed mail to Mr. Ezekiel Smithers, "Atlantic Coast," and expected Ben to know just where Zeke lived.

Perhaps they had Zeke's address in letters up in the garret, maybe a chest full of 'em, but then it was easier to let Ben hunt Zeke. Today people are addressing letters to John Smith, New York, N. Y., or Chicago, Ill., thinking Uncle Sam can locate him, which is just as incomplete as was Zeke's address of yore. The Postoffice Department asks you to put the number and street in the address. It helps you.

Trinidad Col.

How do you expect the Postal Clerk to know whether you mean Trinidad, California, or Trinidad, Colorado?

ALWAYS SPELL OUT THE NAME OF THE STATE IN FULL IN THE ADDRESS.

"MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT"

This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world.

HERE COMES A STRANGER!

Let's make our post office look neat, Mr. Postmaster. Straighten up the rural letter box, Mr. Farmer. Tidy up some, Mr. Rural Carrier. First impressions are lasting. Maybe Mr. Stranger, taking notice of these improvements, will come back, bringing you benefits. Start these with "POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK" May 1-6.

HUMANIZING THE POSTAL SERVICE

"There is no unimportant person or part of our service. It is a total of human units and their co-operation is the key to its success. In its last analysis, postal duties are accommodations performed for our neighbors and friends and should be so regarded, rather than as a hired service performed for an absentee employer."—Postmaster General Hubert Work.

Health is very good at present, and everybody is mighty busy with their crops.

Well, as news is scarce I will quit, telling everybody that there is to be an all day "to-do" at this place the second Sunday in this month, and we want everybody to come and bring a basket that will hold a big fat hen, if nothing else.

Oh, I saw a short piece in the paper last week from Alams. Come on boys and girls and let us hear from you all away down there.

So wishing the Editor much success If this misses the waste basket I may write again some time.

Say, there was a big wedding over this way last week, as Mr. Leonard Dyer and Miss Allie Foshee married last Tuesday.

I'm gone sure nuff this time. thanking the editor so much for this space.

SARDIS NEWS

Rev. C. D. Messer was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Milford Saturday.

FROM MR. JACKSON

Lomax, Ala., May 1, 1922.

Dear Editor:

Will you please allow me space to say a few words in regard to the several candidates that are running for the different offices?

Now, we voters say that we want to nominate people who will give us a square deal—equal rights to all and special favors to none. That is not the case at present.

For instance we will consider the officials of the County Board of Education.—What they did in July, 1921, in order to discard a certain class:

They passed a ruling to prohibit any religious service to be held in any school building in order to discard certain people who are just as white and honorable as I or the officials of the County Board.

Now, is this right, or is it just?

Now certain ones can use thier school building by going and getting a permit from the Board.

Now, Mr. Voter, if these kind of men suit you, put them right back into the same place and then "holler" "Equail rights to all and special favors to none."

But be sure you don't let me hear it, for it makes me sick to hear such rot.

VOLUME X. CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1922. NUMBER 3.

EMINENT DOMAIN IS ENDORSED IN CLANTON

Chamber of Commerce Officially Approves State Law Now in Effect

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce, a very important matter concerning the future development of Chilton County was taken up and acted upon in what we consider a wise and appropriate way. The question under consideration was the recent efforts that have been made by Ex-Governor O'Neal, who is working in the interests of the Ford bid for Muscle Shoals, and against the Alabama Power Co., to have the Alabama Laws concerning the right of Eminent Domain repealed. Such legislative action as contemplated by Mr. O'Neal, it was shown, would put an end to the great program of developments that are now being carrie don in Chilton county by the Alabama Power Co. Captain W. P. Lay, the original organizer of the Alabama Power Co., and the best authority on river development in the State, was present, and explained to the Board of Directors, the vital necessity of the right of eminent domain to the development of our great Coosa River for power and navigation.

As a result of the discussions made in the meeting the following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Board:

WHEREAS, the Alabama Power Company's Lock 12 power plant which has been in operation since 1914, and the Mitchell Dam and Power plant now under construction, are located principally in this, the county of Chilton; and

Whereas, the company's operations in this county have been of large benefit to the public and will be of still greater benefit, not only in supplying lighting, but supplying cheap and reliable water-power for industrial plants for which our community furnishes the best of opportunities, and

WHEREAS, there are other great water-powers to be developed on the Coosa River, necessary to the opening of this stream to through navigation to the Gulf of Mexico; and

WHEREAS, there is an effort being made to have members of the Legislature committed to the repeal of the state laws relating to the right of eminent domain; and

WHEREAS, the repeal of the eminent domain laws would seriously retard the development of our state by all classes of utilities, including railroads, telephone and power companies;

THEREFORE, be it resolved by The Clanton Chamber of Commerce, that we do not favor the proposal to change the eminent domain laws in any way which will cripple or hamper further developments in the state, nor the repeal or alteration of any laws of the state which would in any way hamper or retard the development of the water-powers, particularly on the Coosa River, since a continuance of dam building on this river will bring us the much desired boon of an outlet by water to the sea.

This resolution is a fitting expression of the feeling of the people of Clanton and Chilton County toward the Alabama Power Company. We are proud of what this great organization has brought to our county in the past. The building of lock 12 was welcomed by Chilton county and its completion is an achievement of which our citizenship are proud. Likewise will the great Mitchell Dam now under construction. be acclaimed as a still greater development which will bring to us still more advantages.

In addition to the developments already completed, and those now under way, we would like to see the Alabama Power Co. continue their program of development on the Coosa, although it is probably true that Lock 12 and Mitchell Dam are the only units of the system that would bring any direct benefits to Chilton county. But the future navigation of the Coosa depends on other developments on the river in other counties, and we do not want to see the Power Company crippled by legislation that will stop their developments. Lock 12 and Mitchell Dam alone cannot and do not make the Coosa River a complete navigable stream. Therefore their part in the navigation program will not be worth one cent to anybody unless other units of the system are compltted.

The people of Chilton county have seen exercised here by the Alabama Power Company for the past fifteen years this right of Eminent Domain, and they see no reason why the law should be repealed.

Then too there are many other phases of commercial and industrial development which would be cut out if the Eminent domain laws were repealed. Chilton county wants its resources developed and it wants laws upon the statute books of our state that will permit these great developments to continue.

SECRETARY ELECTED

At a directors meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held on Wednesday, May 3rd, the Rev. P. G. Carter, having insisted on his resignation as Secretary of the Chamber owing to his removal from the city, Mr. V. J. Heard was upnaimously elected as his successor. Mr. Heard has served as the treasurer of this organization since inception more than a year ago, and is therefore familiar with the work both as a member and as a director. With the same liberal support given to him as has been given to the retiring secretary there is no reason why this very important and much needed organization should not still continue to function for the upbuilding of the city and community. The former office was in the Johnson building has been abandoned, and the future business will be carried on in the present office of the incoming Secretary, Mr. V. J. Heard.

In laying down this work I wish to express my hearty thanks and appreciation of the liberal support and cooperation that has been extended to me by the membership in the prompt payment of the dues, and the generally very cordial friendship that has been extended to me, without which the splinded work accomplished during the past year would have been an impossibility. If circumstances had permitted my remaining here for another year or two, there is no doubt that some good industries would have been established, but certain factions over which I have no control make it necessary for me to relinquish the work. I wish also to testify to the splendid service rendered by the Directors, who have faithfully stood by the secretary, and placed the utmost confidence in his efforts for the success of the Chamber and of the county and community. The very best of friendly and cordial relationships exist between these gentlemen and the retiring secretary which will be long cherished after he has left the community. These gentlemen are: Dr. V. J. Gragg, Prsident, C. Reese Mullins, W. W. Fox, V. J. Heard, T. H. Neighbors, C. Fenn Jones, J. Lee Smith, J. P. Lawrence and W. T. Bean.

The organization is still in a healthy condition with something like forty-five members after functioning for some fifteen months, and with the proper co-operation given to the incoming secretary we predict a bright future.

P. G. CARTER,
Retiring Secretary.

Mr. D. H. Gentry, member of the Court of County Commissioners was here the first of this week attending the court. Mr. Gentry states that his wife has been ill in a Selma Hospital for several days, but is now able to be up again. Se is at the home of her brother in Selma.

Squire S. E. Waldrup of Jemison was here Monday attending Commissioners Court. Mr. Waldrup stated that his son Issac, has been very sick for the past four weeks, being yet in a Birmingham Hospital for treatment.

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL MAKING IMPROVEMENT

Now that we are nearing the end of a very successful year's work it will be of interest to note the improvements that have been made in the work of the county high school during the past year. For two years prior to this year the high school was unable to comply with the requirements necessary to remain on the fully accredited list of high schools in this state. Our greatest need was better qualified teachers and more laboratory equipment with which to do the work efficiently. One requirement for State Accreditment is that three-fourths of the teachers of the county high school shall be graduates of standard colleges. During the scholastic year 1920-21 there was only one teacher on the faculty of the year that was a college graduate. We were forced to take normal school graduates for lack of sufficient funds to attract the right kind of teachers. We were notified on August 20th, 1920, by the State Department of Education that under such conditions they would be forced to drop the Chilton County High School from the State Accredited List. We promised to try to do better the next year. We had only three assistant teachers with an enrollment of 174. Being thoroughly informed as to the situation the friends of the school ralied to its support.

We have this year an additional assistant teacher and four-fifths of the teachers of the high school are graduates of standard colleges and all have had either professional training or experience. Thus we have complied with the requirements of the Department of Education in securing well qualified teachers to take care of our boys and girls.

To take care of the increased enrollment an additional room has been equipped with all necessary equipment for the welfare of the students at a considerable cost, and this obligation has been taken care of in full to date. By equipping an additional room the large Freshman Class has been divided into two sections and far more efficient work has been accomplished with this division in classes. There will be fewer failures in the First Year high school class this year than last.

All the necessary equipment and supplies for the Chemistry Department have been installed this year. All new equipment is carefully kept under lock and key and an inventory of all equipment is now being made in order that we may order intelligently, during the summer, just the supplies needed for another year.

The students of the high school have been very proud of the eighty-seven new books added to the library this year. We now have a library of about 250 volumes. The library has been under the management of one of the teachers and all books are carefully checked out to the students for a period of two weeks at the time.

The Manual Training Department has made many useful bookstands and book cases for the library and we now have empty shelving room for books that we may obtain from any scource.

We are very grateful for the splendid school spirit manifested by both the patrons of the school and the student body. We have their hearty co-operation during the entire year. Our future looks bright, and there are many more improvements that are urgently needed. Let us not be weary in well doing but ever looking forward in order to keep pace with rapidly growing world.

S. E. ALVERSON,
Principal.

SAM EDWARDS IS IN FAVOR OF GIVING MUSCLE SHOALS TO HENRY FORD

Mr. Editor:

I have just read the article in your last week's paper in regard to Alabama Power Company and Mr. Ford. I differ with Mr. Roberts in his contentions.

First, I will say that I am nothing more than an ordinary farmer, but I think that we as farmers, have listened to the dictations of others too much for our own good already. I think Mr. Ford should be allowed to develop the project, and I believe that ninety percent of the farmers of Alabama see it as I do. Why do we want him to have it? Because he promises us a cheap fertilizer, and I think it is time for the farmer to be considered if he is to exist in the future. There is more on our gravy train now than we can carry. Somebody has got to get off or we are going to stald. We had better unload the fertilizer concerns than anyone else. We will be able to do this if Mr. Ford gets Shoals.

I don't know what obligation the government is under with them, but I do know they have had better treatment in Chilton County than a widow woman. They have operated in Chilton county for several years without taxation, and I haven't heard of them murmuring about it at all. Now if we are going to render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's then Chilton County is entitled to nine years back tax. But Chilton County don't want that. They gave it and don't expect it back; nor does Chilton county expect any special favors over any other county in the state for her favor to the Alabama Power Company.

Now we all sacrificed to win the war, and if we all should ask our Uncle Sam to return what we gave him, his means would exhaust long before he got around. So the natural thing to do is to forget what we gave to win the war, for it was nothing more than our plain duty to do what we could. I have no doubt that Mr. Ford didn't do his full duty along this line.

But now I believe the thing to do is to give the man a chance at Muscle Shoals who offers the greatest good to the greatest number. Taking this view of it, Mr. Ford is certainly the only man to have it.

Yours for Ford, first last and all the time.

S. M. EDWARDS.

JOHN E. BEARDEN SHOT BY DAUGHTER'S LOVER

Shooting Last Sunday Results Fatal to Prominent Maplesville Man.

Milton McCormick, young white man of Maplesville, was placed in jail at Clanton late last Sunday afternoon charged with the shooting of John Ed Bearden at the latter's home about noon Sunday. Mr. Bearden was carried to a Selma hospital Sunday night, and died about eleven o'clock.

It is said by those who are acpuainted with the circumstances leading up to the fatal incident of Sunday, that young McCormick had been keeping company with one of Mr. Bearden's daughters for some time past, and possibly of late and has been making efforts to [illegible], to which the father objected. It is said that McCormick has been ordered away from the Bearden home at former times when he went there to call on the young lady.

According to the story related by members of the Bearden family, about noon Sunday, as they were sitting at dinner, a call for Mr. Bearden was heard out in the front of the house. He arose from the table and went to the front door to see who it was calling him and what was wanted. Just as he opened the front door and stepped out on the porch, they say this young man, standing about the front gate, took from behind himself a pump shot gun, firing tice into the bowels of Mr. Bearden. The gun was loaded with number eight bird shot.

The dead man was one of the most prominent citizens of Maplesville, and of the western part of the county. There is widespread and sincere regret for this unfortunate incident that has so unexpectedly cut off the life of such a useful citizen. The body of Mr. Bearden was brought back from Selma and buried at Maplesville Tuesday afternoon.

CLANTON LOSES ANOTHER GAME SATURDAY

Ten little fingers
Ten little toes,
Nine Dixie Players
Ten big scores.

The Dixie players out played Clanton and never failed to use base ball sense by head work. In the last of the fifth Clanton, with the bases full, couldn't score, Wyatt and Curlee being caught in a chase off third base.

Easterwood didn't strike out as many men as Parrish but kept Clanton's hits well scattered. The feature of the game was the batting of Summarlin, getting 4 safties out of five times up.

Following is the box score:

Whooping Cough.

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paragoric codeine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course, not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with prouounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.

COUNTY COUNCIL, UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA ORGANIZED AT COURT HOUSE LAST SATURDAY

Last Saturday the business managers of the various local councils of the United Farmers of America, met at the court House and perfected the County Council of that organization. Mr. A. B. Baxley the organizer, or field agent from Blytheville, Ark., presided at the meeting. The following officers were elected:

Thomas J. Dorminey, Vice Pres.
J. M. Smith, Sec'y.
J. L. Williams, Cond.
W. J. Morris, D. K.
R. S. Chandler, Chap.

There was a board of seven directors elected as follows:

T. J. Dorminey, Chm.
R. S. Chandler,
J. L. Williams,
A. Y. Williams,
W. J. Morris,
J. W. Lowery,
J. M. Smith.

The office of President was not filled at this meeting and same will be elected by the board of directors at a later meeting.

Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock there was held a public meeting which was well attended and considerable enthusiasm was manifested. This organization has gone way over the top in the County and there should be no trouble in doubling the membership of it in a very short time. This is a great organization for the farmers and should have their unqualified support. There is but one way for the farmers to ever accomplish anything here in the south and that is through a thourough organization, such as the United Farmers of America offers to the farmers of the south. This movement has the hearty support of The Union-Banner and we hope to see it succeed in its every effort, for we fully realize that we are mostly dependent on the farmers for our support in the newspaper business, and anything that we can do to further the cause we expect to do.

Now lets all get together on this and push as we have never pushed before and it wont be long before we will be able to see some of the visible results of this movement.

Dr. Will Wilson of Montevallo, made a business trip to Clanton last week.

JOHNIE BILLINGSLEY OF THORSBY, BEAT 9, ENDORSES THE CANDIDACY OF LEONARD P. MARTIN FOR SHERIFF

Thorsby, Ala., May 6, 1922.
Editor Union-Banner,

Dear Sir:—Please allow me apace in your paper to say to my friends, both men and women voters of Chilton County, that I have known Mr. Martin for some fifteen years and have always found him to be an honest and straight business man. He has had a lot of dealings with the public in general and in different ways, and has always made friends where ever he went. He served as deputy Sheriff under Sheriff Harris at one time and while deputy for Sheriff Harris he never failed to execute the law in every way and at the same time always made friends in his work instead of enemies. Mr. Martin is a young man when it comes to age, being only thirty six years old, but as I have said before, he has had considerable experience in the way of handling public affairs. He also has had experience as chief deputy Sheriff under Sheriff Gore for seven months, and has served the people of the county in a very satisfactory manner.

I want to especially call the attention of my many friends and voters of Beats 6, 15 and 3 to vote for Leonard P. Martin for Sheriff because his experience as deputy has convinced me that he will make this county one of the best Sheriffs it has ever had.

I do this with all good feelings toward all the other candidates for Sheriff, because they are all nice men, but realizing the fact that they can not be elected, I have selected Mr. Martin as my choice for Sheriff and earnestly solicit your vote and influence for him.

Respectfully yours,
JOHNIE G. BILLINGSLEY.

THE BETHEL SINGING

Mr. Editor:

You will doutless receive an official report of the Bethel Singing Convention of last Sunday, but we wish to add that too much can not be said for the liberality and kindness of the Bethel people.

Their kindness is unbounded and will be remembered through life.

When the visitors arrived at the Railway station there was J. N. Dennis, that well known man of sterling worth, with his car ready to carry the visitors out.

When the Convention closed Judge Reynolds and Martin Nix were right on the spot to carry visitors to the train. Kind and thoughtful, Judge Reynolds is the great friend of the people.

So we repeat, too much can not be said for the Bethel people, Judge Reynolds, Mr. J. N. Dennis, and Mr. Martin Nix. We failed to see our next Representative in the Legislature, Mr. Wyatt, at the Convention.

CHURCH ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF PASTOR CARTER SUNDAY

The formal resignation of Rev. P. G. Carter as Pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church was presented to the church in conference last Sunday in writing, by Mr. Thomas A. Curry. The resignation was made to be effective on Sunday, May 29, 1922, and was so accepted by the Church.

In connection with the resignation of Pastor Carter, Mr. Curry presented the following resolution concerning the work of Rev. Carter in Clanton, which was adopted:

Whereas, the Rev. P. G. Carter has this day tendered his resignation as pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church, to be effective on the 29th day of May, 1922, and Whereas said resignation has on this day been accepted by the Clanton Baptist Church in Conference assembled; be it therefore

Resolved: That in accepting the resignation of Rev. P. G. Carter the Clanton Baptist Church is not unmindful of the great work performed by him in the upbuilding of the cause of Christ in the church but his value to the general community in his activity and zeal in the promotion of every good cause.

Be it further resolved: That in Brother Carter, the friendless ever found a friend; the needy, an ever helping hand and the sorrowful, a sympathising brother. In him the church found a faithful pastor, a capable leader in all the co-ordinate activities of the church, a godly and consecrated co-worker in all things making for the betterment of the religious and civic life of the community.

Be it further resolved: That the Clanton Baptist Church, in this conference assembled, commends the Rev. P. G. Carter to all to whom these presents may come, as a consecrated, minister of the gospel, an untiring worker in the cause of the Master and a worthy citizen. In severing our relation with him as our pastor, we invoke God's richest blessings upon him whereever he may in future, cast his lot.

Be it Resolved further: that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Clanton Baptist Church and copies of the same be sent to the local papers and to the Alabama Baptist with request for their publication.

Done in conference this the 7th of May, 1922.

W. I. MULLINS,
Moderator, pro tem.
J. W. P. MURPHY,
Clerk.

BETHANY

Please allow me space in the columns of your valuable paper to state a few facts about the welfare of this place down here.

Health is very good at present. We are glad indeed to see so much rain now as the farmers around here have about succeeded in having planted their crops. They needed the rain to help to germinate the seed.

Mr. Dewey Huett made a pleasure trip to Clanton Saturday.

Prof. H. G. Carter was seen to pass through this community Saturday morning.

Remember there is preaching at this place every third Sunday and Saturday before.

Wishing the editor much success, I go.

Don't stop my paper, brother,
Don't strike my name off yet;
You know the times are strigent
And dollars hard to get;
But tug a little harder
Is what I mean to do,
And scrape the dimes together,
Enough for me and you.
I can't afford to drop it;
I find it does not pay
To do without my paper,
However others may.
I hate to ask my neighbor,
To give me his or loan,
He don't just say, but means it,
"Why don't you have your own?"
You can't tell how we miss it,
If it by any fate
Should happen not to reach us
Or come a little late;
Then all is in a hubbub,
And things go all awry;
Ah, brother, if you're married
You know the reason why.
Then kindly keep it coming,
It may be somewhat slow,
For cash is not so plenty,
And wants not few you know.
But I must have my paper,
Cost what it may to me;
I'd rather dock my sugar,
Or do without my tea.
So, don't stop it, brother,
Unless you want my frown,
For here's the year's subscription,
Be sure you put it on,
And send my paper promptly
To

Yours sincerely,
JOHN.

SACRED HARP SINGING

The Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony Singing Convention which met at Bethel Church on Saturday and Sunday last, May the 6th and 7th, was a grand success.

On Saturday the Convention was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Z. J. Jones, and doors were opened by singing "Hallelujah."

A committee was appointed to arrange for the directors and time given to each director being fifteen minutes each. It was also their business to find a home for the next convention, which will meet again in September at Shiloh in the southern part of the county.

They appointed delegates to attend the different state conventions, convening in Birmingham in July and August.

During the day officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Z. J. Jones, President; T. J. Jackson, Vice-President; and Era Sanders, Secretary.

We must say that dinner, on both days, never before looked so bountiful, and we wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to the people of Bethel church and the surrounding communities for their very kind and genial hospitality shown us during our stay with them. Again we must say the singing was fine, and we hope everybody enjoyed themselves.

The Convention closed Sunday afternoon by singing "Hallelujah" as on the opening on the previous day.

We hope to meet in many, many more conventions.

THE SECRETARY.

ALL DAY SINGING

There will be an all day singing at Corinth Church, five miles east of Verbena on the second Sunday in May. We ask all singers and lovers of music to come and bring your 1922 song books and a basket of dinner and spend the day with us in song service. We also ask the editor of this good paper to come and be with us.

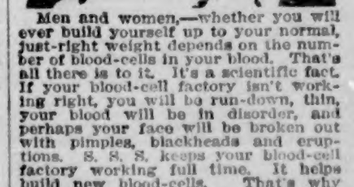
S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!



Men and women,—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people, it puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

Evils of Constipation.

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Eubanks visited Mr. Dave Smith Sunday.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

SQUIRE DENNIS WILL NOT MAKE RACE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Squire John S. Dennis of Beat 11, was a caller at The Union-Banner office Monday, and asked us to state to his friends throughout the county that he has decided not to enter the race for Representative in the Legislature of Alabama.

He wishes to express his appreciation to those who have already assured him of their support.

He gives as his reason for declining to make the race, the fact that he is getting old, and his health is not very good and that the sacrifice he would have to make in filling the office in case of his election would be too much of a strain upon him.

LETTER FROM MADDOX

Clanton, Ala., May 8, 1922.

Editor Union-Banner:

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

I feel sure that most of you have seen my announcement for Commissioner for the Second District of Chilton County.

It is my desire to see every voter in the county but it is almost impossible to see every one. So I am writing this letter that I may speak a few words to every voter in the county.

This is the first time I have ever asked for an office of any kind.

The office that I am asking for is not a very high office but should be considered a very important one, for I feel that the weight of the county is upon the shoulders of the Commissioners. So it becomes your duty to select you a man that you think can carry out the business of the office to the very best interest of the county. So I will pledge myself to you that if I am elected I will do my best to carry out the business of the office to the best of my ability and to the best interest of the county. I will also pledge myself to you that if elected to this office I will do everything that lies in my power to carry out the business of the office without showing special favors to any but equal rights to all.

Now a few words in regard to the party. Since my age permitted me to the polls I have always been true to the party. I have never voted anything but a Republican ticket. However, I have never taken as big a hand in politics as some people have in hooping up a campaign like this. However there is not a man in Chilton county that can truthfully say that I have not been true to the party. I have always tried to sit steady in the boat and done my work at the polls.

As to the past of my life, I was born and reared in Beat nine of this county and have lived here my entire life, except about two years of which time I lived in Beat four. If there is anyone in the county who does not know me I would be glad for you to ask anyone about me.

I hope you will give me a honest and fair consideration in the primary election. However, if I am not the nominee I will stand by the party in the future as I have in the past.

So I will close hoping that these few lines will reach every voter in the county.

T. A. MADDOX.

HARRIS OUTLINES POLICIES HE WILL PURSUE IF HE IS ELECTED AS PROBATE JUDGE

Clanton, Ala., May 18, 1922.

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County, Alabama:

Having heretofore announced myself as a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton County, subject to the action of our primary which will be held on August 8th, 1922, and believing that the voters should be informed of the policy upon which I would be governed if elected, I am therefore, giving you below a general policy and stating in general the principles upon which the office would be conducted, if I be elected to same, Viz:

If elected it will be my policy to serve the patrons of the office in a courteous manner, giving them every assistance possible to properly transact their business with the office, and to do so with as small expense to them as possible.

To see that all the papers left for recording are promptly, neatly, and accurately recorded and indexed.

To administer the laws connected with the office and the county court without fear or favor, yet tempering justice with mercy as far as possible, to attain law and order in our county and maintain a proper respect for the laws.

To operate and rhn the office with the least expense possible to the tax payers, and with that degree of efficiency which shall give the people the very best service.

In the position as chairman of the Commssioners' Court it would be my policy to co-operate with the Commissioners whom you elect and with the people in an effort to ron the county affairs on the least expense possible, commensurate with the needs of the county, and at the same time strive to give the tax payers service in return for the money they pay as taxes, and see that every dollar spent will be for the benefit of the county and its tax payers. However, I would not try to dominate the Commissioners in any way.

In the event that a citizen or citizens should be, during my term of office, required to perform police or guard duty, to maintain and protect the county's property, it would be my policy to see that those rendering such services be paid a reasonable amount for their services.

It would be my policy to see that all claims against the county, when presented be properly filed and numbered in the order of filing, and that same would, if correct and just, be paid in order as filed and allowed by your commissioners, if rejected that the party so presenting same shall be notified immediately why his claim was rejected.

All property both real and personal belonging to the county would be given my personal attention and all machinery not in use would be stored and cared for.

The County Treasurer is elected by the Commissioners' Court at present and receives such salary as is set by the court. This office hould be filled by election of the people of the county, but as it is incumbent upon the Commissioners' Court to fill this office by appointment, it would be my policy to recommend and advise with the court that a certain sum be fixed as the salary to be paid and then select from the applicants a qualified republican and elect him.

The rate of taxation in your county is, at present, as high as the Constitution will permit and is being raised through the guise of raising the value of each taxpayer's property; this is in violation of the spirit of your organic law and if elected it would be my policy to recommend and advise with the court to levy a rate of taxation in your county that would be sufficient to care for the demands on the county and at the same time reduce the taxes. This can be done very soon as the Alabama Power Company will within a short time begin to pay a large sum of money into the county treasury.

There is now levied a special road and bridge tax in your county and until certain outstanding indebtedness is paid will be so levied and collected annually for a number of years to come. If elected I would recommend and advise that the Commissioners' Court set aside each year a certain sum of money toward liquidating this outstanding indebtedness so that we may reduce our indebtedness and save interest each year, and ultimately get the county out of debt.

I believe in good roads, but I feel that the money spent in the maintenance of same should be equally distributed on the roads of the county and I would advise and recommend that the rural roads receive special attention as well as the highways.

I would not favor during my term of office the raising of taxes of any kind, but to the contrary would favor reducing same in every instance where practical.

If elected it would be my policy to adhere strictly to running the county on a basis of economy and the reduction of every expense which could be eliminated without detriment to the best interest of the people and the county, and would during my term of office earnestly strive to make the people a good Judge of Probate. While Sheriff of your county many thousands of dollars were handled by me belonging to the state, county, and litigants and I was examined by democratic state examiners and my accounts were found by them to be accurate and every dollar was accounted for. If you elect me to the office of Judge of Probate I will account for every dollar coming into my hands as such.

I believe in good schools and as we are paying quite a large amount of taxes toward the schools it would be my policy if elected to co-operate with the Board of Education in an effort to make the schools of the county better and to use my influence to secure for the rural boys and girls equal educational opportunities with the town boys and girls.

As the women are now qualified to take part in the affairs of our government, I feel that they should interest themselves in the campaigns and I am confident that they can and will put politics on a high plane and free it of many of the vices heretofore existing in our parties. I would be glad indeed to see the women holding office where they are qualified. It is my purpose to conduct my campaign for the office of Judge of Probate on a high plane, without any mud-slinging and on my own merits, without combining with any man or men or aliging with any faction or clique, as I want to, if elected, go into the office without being under obligation to anyone except the people of the county as a while; so that I may serve them to the best of my ability. I have been in the Republican Party for twenty-five years and have given my time and means to it, have tried to so conduct myself in a way and manner that I would be of benefit to the party. As Sheriff of your county I did my duty to the best of my ability and if after considering my candidacy for the office which I now seek at your hands and the things I advocate, you feel that I should receive your vote, I will appreciate it and will pledge you that if I am the nominee of the party I will wage a vigorous campaign until the general election and do my best to continue our party in power, which I feel confident will be done.

Thanking you for any considerations shown me, I am,

Respectfully,

H. A. HARRIS.

MAPLESVILLE

This has been a very lonely week for us school children, as our school closed last Friday. But our closing exercises began last Tuesday night with a play entitled, "Just Plain Dot." Wednesday night we gave a play entitled, "Our Awful Aunt," and on Thursday night we gave one entitled, "The Deacon's Second Wife." Those plays were enjoyed by a large congregation each night and on Friday morning we had several able speakers to address us and just before noon Prof. H. A. Harris delivered our diplomas, then dinner was served, and in the afternoon a very interesting ball game was played between Maplesville and Stanton, which interested the people very much. We had several visitors from Jemison, Centerville and Thorsby. They all report that our closing exercises were very nice.

We have had a very pleasant school this year and it is very sad for us to give up our teachers for they have done so much for the uplift of our community and we hope that we may have them with us to teach our next session of school.

Last Saturday morning a large number of the seventh grade girls and boys motored to Clanton to the commencement. Among them were Misses Elizabeth Parnell, Etharea Blackmon, Annie Spivey, Gladys Sexton, Recie Nelson, Alma Sexton, and Mr. Allen Mize. Also Mrs. Lucie L. Parnell as chaperon, and Mr. Stanley Hayes, John Mitchell and Gerald Cobern as drivers, but they arrived at the high school most too late for the closing exercises, but they report a nice time any way.

Miss Allie Miller who has been teaching school here returned to her home Saturday afternoon at West Point, Miss.

Miss Anice Kemp, an assistant teacher of our school, has returned to her home in Clanton.

Mrs. Allie McCarty and little son, Coleman, of Birmingham, are spending a few days with Mrs. McCarthy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Rube Bearden of Straywin, are spending a few days with Mr. Bearden's mother, Mrs. J. E. Bearden.

Mr. Albert Shuff of Birmingham is spending a few days here with friends.

Mr. H. A. Harris, the principal of our school, returned to his home in Clanton Friday.

Dr. C. N. Parnell and wife, spent Sunday at Plantersville.

We are glad to report that our Sunday school is still progressing and several who have been absent for several Sundays were present last Sunday, but our Superintendent was absent last Sunday, but we suppose he was not feeling well as he would have been present.

Mrs. Ed Goodgame spent a few days the first of this week in Clanton with parents .

Mrs. Charlie Thomas and little son, C. E., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas.

Miss Louise Thomas, who has been going to school here, has returned to her home at Centerville.

ERROR CORRECTED

In the letter of Mr. Johnnie Billingsley, published last week the closing paragraph read as follows:

"I do this with all good feelings toward all the other candidates for Sheriff, because they are all nice men, but realizing tha fact they cannot be elected, I have selected Mr. Martin as my choice for Sheriff, and earnestly solicit your vote and influence for him."

There is a very important little word which the type-setter left out of this paragraph. Mr. Billingsley's letter had the paragraph written as follows:

"I do this with all good feelings toward all the other candidates for Sheriff, because they are all nice men, but realizing the fact that they cannot ALL be elected, I have selected Mr. Martin as my choice for Sheriff, and earnestly solicit your vote and influence for him."

The statement and meaning of paragraph as written by Mr. Billingsley is much different from which was published. Therefore, in fairness to Mr. Billingsley and the other candidates, we urge our readers to take due notice of this correction as it was the fault of the printer and not of the writer.

Upon the arrival of the guests delicious punch was served on the porch by Misses Virginia Alred and Mary Goodwin Jones. Many juvernile games were enjoyed. A contest, pinning a star in the flag, found Miss Ethel Mae Jones the lucky contestant, and for this received a box of candy. Whooping Cough.

This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paragoric codeine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course, not knowing that the time is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.

STATE LOSES SUIT AGAINST WESTERN UNION

Arguments were made before the supreme court in the two cases brought by the state against the Western Union Telegraph company in an effort to collect penalties totaling $914,000 and to require the telegraph company to restore service to 21 towns on the branch lines of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, which was abandoned nearly two years ago. The state lost both cases in the Montgomery Circuit Court. It contends that the company is due the state a penalty for every day it failed to maintain service and that the Public Service Commission had the right to require it to contniue to give the people of the 21 towns a telegraph service. The company insisted that it was necessary to abandon service after it was ordered to vacate the right of way of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad and it was not physically possible to move the poles and wires to another right of way.

Case of Unusual Facts.

Montgomery—Mrs. Mary W. Aldridge will be able to collect $2,500 from the Dye-Washburn Hotel Company, under the decision of the Supreme Court in a case involving unusual facts. Mrs. Aldridge was a guest of the hotel. Another guest became disturbed by flies and began chasing them. He struck at them with a towel which dislocated a screen in a window. The screen fell on a skylight and the skylight fell on Mrs. Aldridge. She was wounded and brought suit for $100,000. The jury gave a judgment for $2,500. The Supreme Court affirmed the judgment and overruled an application for rehearing.

Great Paper Growing Greater.

Birmingham—Tremendous increase in the net paid circulation of the Birmingham News in the past six months have crowded the cicrulation department until, even with the use of the News garage, on the adjoining lot, the erection of an addition has become necessary. The circulation department of the News four and a half years ago, when the present building was erected, was given room for the 35,000 circulation of the News and expansion room of about 50 per cent. With the present circulation of more than 66,000 daily and more than 72,000 Sunday, the quarters have become too cramped to permit efficient operation. Consequently this addition was made necessary.

State School Shows Progress.

Jacksonville—According to the report of Dr. C. W. Daugette, president of the State Normal School here, the enrollment for the regular session 1921-22 is 451 and for the summer session 610; total resident attendance, preparing for teaching, 852; non-resident students, 713; number of children in the training school 714, making a total of 1,565 teachers; a grand total of 1,739 receiving instruction. The counties represented in the resident enrollment are 43. Of this enrollment 443 are of high school education or more.

Seek Immediate Road Repair.

Hartselle—A large delegation from here attended a session of the county board of revenue in session at Decatur. The delegation went before the board seeking some relief from alleged bad conditions which prevail at this time on the West Pike between here and Danville. They made a strong representation to the board that work begin on resurfacing this stretch. A large travel comes daily over this stretch of road and it is imperative that something be done to make it passable, it is declared.

Strawberry Crops Ruined

Hartselle — Hundreds of dollars worth of strawberries have rotted in the fields here during the past 10 days on account of the continued and excessive rainfall. Two heavy rains were exceedingly disastrous. The wind did some damage here blowing some of the nice shade trees down on Main Street near the Christian Church.

Raise Funds With Bonds.

Jasper—The special election held in Jasper to determine whether the city should authorize the issuance of $50,000 of bonds for funding the floating debt of the city of Jasper, resulted in a "win" for the issuance of bonds—the result of the vote being 251 for the bond issue and 65 against. Part of this sum will be used for payment of debts incurred by the city of Jasper for the paving of the principal streets of the city and around the government building.

School Bonds Win.

Sulligent—Sulligent voted 134 to 6 in favor of issuing $10,000 in school bonds. The $10,000 building Sulligent already has is inadequate to accommodate the increasing population. The plan is to build another $10,000 building additional.

Elect Delegates

Gadsden—At a meeting of the League of Women Voters delegates were elected to represent Etowah County at the state convention in Montgomery.

CAN'T STAMPEDE HARDING

Some clever propagandists organized a "children's crusade" for the purpose of inducing President Harding to grant a general pardon to men convicted of interfering with the prosecution of the war. The children, of course, had nothing to do with it, except as they were directed by the managers, who financed the trip, prepared the banners and staged all the proceedings. Knowing that the "crusade" was wholly the work of agitators who had no direct interest in the prisioners but wish to establish the principle of freedom to oppose the government in time of war, President Harding refused to receive the crowd. Extreme radicals in all parts of the country are now endeavoring to create prejudice against Mr. Harding by declaring that he refused to receive the petitions of children for the pardon of their parents. The fact is that the President announced his willingness and intention to continue the consideration of each of petitions for executive clemency, deciding each case on its merits. But he is too level headed to be stampeded by crafty propagandists and has too keen a sense of justice and duty under the law to permit a carefully planned demonstration to determine his course of action. Instead of putting the President in an embarrassing position before the country, the propagandists have merely given him one more opportunity to prove his fitness for the high office he occupies. By refusing to be brow-beaten, Mr. Harding has won the confidence of the country in an increased degree.

INVISIBLY PRESENT

A Moscow publication says the United States is "invisibly present" at Genoa. So far as the United States is a subject for speculation by the delegates as to what they would like to get out of us in the way of loans and other favors that may be true. Thanks to the wise decision of President Harding, the United States is not going to suffer damages from Genoa any more substantial than the "presence" the Moscow correspondent thinks he discerns.

Supt. H. L. Foshee Replies to Writer

Clanton, Ala., May 18, 1922.

Editor Union-Banner,

Dear Sir:

I desire space to reply to an article in your paper recently signed by Mr. J. H. Jackson and also to some things he has told over the county in reference to actions of the County Board of Education. As Secretary of that Board I feel that I am in a position to tell the people of their actions and why such actions were taken on various matters.

In Mr. Jackson's letter of May 1st, he charges the County Board with unfairness, class preference, and other things; because of a ruling the Board made on July 29, 1921, which is as follows: "The Board rules that since they are charged with the care of all school property in the county and since they are required to do what they consider for the best interest of the schools of the county they rule that in the future no school building shall be used for religious gatherings without first securing permission from the Board; except where buildings were erected for both Church and school purposes, such buildings are exempt for the religious services of the denomination helping to erect them."

Mr. Jackson and some of the people of his community are responsible for this action. When the "Holy-rollers," "sanctified people" or whatever name they go by were running a meeting at Vida just prior to this action, someone cut down their tent and they had no place to hold services. A petition was circulated by these people in the community asking that the Jackson's Chapel school building be used for their meeting which had already been running several weeks. A petition was also circulated refusing them admission to the school. More patrons signed the petition to refuse the use of the school than did for them to have it, but they were not then satisfied and decided to use it anyway and the Board was warned that if the building was used by them it would happen to worse things than had their tent and this action became necessary as a precaution for the building.

I desire to add that one school building has been burned in this county as a direct result of this sect of people and the Board thought it best to take this action. If this is more than exercising their official duty I am unable to see why.

Mr. Jackson, I understand, is telling in various parts of the county that the Board has forbidden the reading of the Bible in the schools of the county. Every teacher, trustee, and informed citizen will readily know this is untrue for the laws of Alabama require that the Bible be read in every school in the State, EVERY DAY. Before any teacher is paid, she must certify to the fact that the Bible has been read daily by her in her school.

Why people want to misrepresent things in order to carry out a personal dislike against a person or persons I am unable to understand, but if any citizen desires to know what the Board of Education has done I will gladly show them the records at any time, and ektend an invitation to anyone to attend their meetings the last Friday in each month as they do nothing secretly or that they are afraid for the public to know.

Thanking you, I am,
Respectfully,
HOWARD L. FOSHEE.

The editor of The Union-Banner, while attending the Alabama Press Association last Thursday, had the pleasure of accompanying Dr. W. E. Hinds of Auburn, in his car through the country from Auburn to Tuskeegee. Making the trip with us were a lady from Illinois and a gentleman from Massachusetts. There were two things which seemed to cause quite a bit of vexation in the minds of those two friends from the north. The lady wanted to know if the terraces in the cotton fields were put there to beautify the hillsides. The gentleman from Massachusetts could not understand why all the country through which we passed was either plowed fields or "forests." He thought it more seemly that all the c untryside should be covered with grassy meadows and grazing cattle.

Mrs. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville was in Clanton last Saturday attending the Seventh Grade Graduating exercises. She was accompanied by the prize-winning class of the Maplesville school. There were twelve in the seventh grade of this school this year and all of them passed the seventh grade examination. The only other school in the county which made a 100 per cent record was the Lock 12 school which had a seventh grade of four students all of whom were awarded their diplomas.

J. L. Johnson, Business Manager of The Chilton County News, and W. M. Wyatt, Editor of The Union-Banner attended the meeting of the Alabama Press Association in Montgomery last week, making the trip with the Association in a body to Auburn and Tuskeegee.

We have observed right here in Clanton that the merchant or business man who uses printer's ink liberally and judiciously is the one who enjoys the best business. When you tell some folks that advertising pays, they think you mean it pays in some other city, but not in Clanton. They would not believe you if you tried to convince them that it pays even right at home. These same doubting business men wonder every day why so many people go in the store down or up the street and do not come into theirs. Here's the reason brother. Pick up a copy of The Union-Banner and you will see therein the advertisements of the merchants who are doing the bulk of the business that is being done in Clanton.

The place is three miles from Clanton on the Lock 12 road, and is about a quarter of a mile from the road. To get to the pond you turn off from the road and go out by the home of Mr. Gore. All who wish to go in are requested to come and bring their bathing suits. All the candidates are invited to come and clean themselves up for the race.

Mr. Alfred Robinson of Corinth was in Clanton Tuesday. Mr. Robinson has announced himself a candidate for the County Board of Education on the Republican ticket. He is a good man, who wants to serve the best interests of the people, and he assures us that he will endeavor to do that to the best of his ability if he is eleced as a member of the Board of Education.

M. O. CULP WRITES FROM BIRMINGHAM

Editor Union-Banner:

I will try to write a few things from this town, if you will be kind enough to give me the space.

So far as I know the health here is very good. I saw about all of the people of the city on the streets last night, and I never heard any of them complaining. I did not talk to all of them, but from the way they looked it seemed to me they were getting along all right.

Revival meetings are in full blast around here, and the people do not fail to go and take a part. It seems to me that the cities are doing more and taking a greater interest in church work than the people in the country.

Well, I am always glad to get The Union-Banner. I like to read of the happenings in my home county. While I have many good friends in Birmingham whom I like very much, yet my mind constantly wanders back to Clanton and Chilton County. Birmingham is a big fine town, but it never will be what it would have been, had it not been so far from Clanton.

I guess the candidates are stirring around old Chilton rather lively now. I saw a man from Clanton the other day. When I asked him how things were down there he said the candidates are just simply awful. He said they had shaken his hand until his arm sore. I told him if he could stand it till the election was over his arm would get all right again then. I hope every candidate in Chilton county gets elected, which I do not expect to happen at all.

I hope they will be elected by a Harding majority. What I mean by a Harding majority is that the Republicans may beat the Democrats as much as Harding beat Cox in 1920. Some weak kneed Republicans think because they can't make eight and ten dollars a day like they did during the war that Harding is to blame for it. What was they making the first two or three years of Democratic rule? Two and three dollars a day. What are they getting now? From three to seven dollars a day. The war caused the high wages of a few years ago and not the party that was in power.

I for one am glad that Warren G. Harding is in the President's chair, and I hope he will occupy it as long as Mr. Wilson did. The extravagance during the war is one of the main drawbacks now.

Well, I will close for this time, wishing The Union-Banner and all my friends in Chilton County much success.

Put in Storm Sewers.

Tuscaloosa—Bids for the construction of several storm sewers were opened by the city commissioners and the contract was awarded to J. A. Taylor of Northport, Taylor's bid being $3,443.60. A bid submitted by Sullivan, Long & Hagerty of Bessemer was only about $300 above this price and the Finnell company was somewhat above this. The contract calls for storm sewers on Broad Street from Twenty-Fifth to Twenty-Seventh Avenue; on Seventh Street to Eighth Street. This work will be started at once as it is to be completed before the paving of the streets along the same route can be done, the contract for which has already been let.

Telegraph Service Planned.

Oneonta—J. S. Fendley, Jr., announces that he will put in a telegraph station in Oneonta within the next 30 days. He will build a line into Gadsden and will connect with either the Western Union or the Postal. He has leased pole "privileges" from the L. & N., and will begin stringing the wires within the next few days. A station will also be maintained at Altoona. These towns have been without telegraphic service since the L. & N. won its suit over the Western Union about two years ago.

Rate Change Is Refused.

Montgomery—There is to be no change in freight rates on the transportation of fertilizers in carload lots from Birmingham to Mobile. The Alabama Public Service Commission issued an order denying the petition of Alabama carriers requesting that the rate on fertilizer, carload lots, per ton between these points be increased from $2.63 to $3.25.

Holstein-Fresian Winner.

Selma—To P. S. Hain of Selma goes the honor of owning the leading Holstein-Fresian cow in every class in Alabama. In a seven-day test the full age cow, Mary Del Beets Cornucopia 221,018, produced 588.3 pounds of milk containing 20.982 pounds of butter fat.

Alabamian Writes War History.

Decrease In Mine Accidents.

Birmingham—Alabama showed a reduction in the number of fatal accidents in coal mines during the month of March and was fourth in the consumption of explosives in mining operations the same month.

Tonnage Taxes On Coal.

Montgomery—Tonnage taxes on coal and iron mined during March totaled $36,100.78, according to records made public by the auditor's department. Coal tonnage taxes totaled $26,122.20, while $9,978,78 was obtained from taxes on iron ore.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

Mr. R. L. Davenport and son, Eugene, of Thorsby, were visitors to this community Sunday.

Chopping cotton is all the go here now. Some are already through but the majority of the farmers have only begun. If the weather continues favorable by the end of the week most every one will have their crops in pretty good shape and be ready for a good rain.

There is some kind of sickness making the rounds of the community. Nearly every day we hear of some one being sick. Nothing serious tho.

Miss Glois Manning, who has been spending several weeks with relatives in Birmingham and Ensley, has returned home and reports a most enjoyable time while away.

Listen here folks, we have organized a real Base Ball Team out here, which promises some real playing pretty soon. The writer is informed that there is to be a match game on the home diamond Saturday. Come out everyone and lets root for the boys.

Mr. D. O. Manning returned from Birmingham Wednesday last, where he visited relatives and friends for a few days.

Rev. Buford Lawrence filled his regular appointment at Mulberry Saturday and Sunday last.

Prof. James Franklin and wife of Pleasant Grove were visitors to this community Sunday.

Mrs. Kirby and Miss Eleanor Summers returned Sunday from a weeks visit to relatives at Vincent, Ala.

Prof. J. C. Veazey and family of Macedonia were visitors to this community Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. W. G. DeShazo returned to her home Saturday last after having spent a week with the families of Messrs W. H. Veazey and W. F. DeShazo. We are pleased to report that Mrs. DeShazo is on the high road to recovery.

Mrs. Emma Allen of St. Petersburg, Fla., is visiting relatives here and will spend a month or so with her neice, Mrs. W. G. DeShazo, during her convalesence.

Having two singing teachers with us Sunday everybody assembled at Isabella in the afternoon and we had a most enjoyable song service. There is some talk of a singing school here in the summer, and here's hoping that the promoters of it will be successful in their efforts.

Sunday school and prayer meeting is still on the boom, gets better every week. Remember folks that you have a cordial invitation to attend any or all the time. Come be with us.

Mr. D. O. Manning and G. H. DeShazo made a business trip to Maplesville last Friday afternoon.

Quite a number from here attended the seventh grade commencement exercises at Clanton Saturday. Most all from here who stood examinations passed and have received their certificates.

This community is soon to have a Raido Receiving Set. Mr. G. H. DeShazo is going to construct one shortly or as soon as he can secure the materials.

Mr. William Rasberry and son, Earmon, of Pleasant Grove, were visitors to this community Sunday.

While attempting to disengage one of his mules from a mower in which it had become entangled, Mr. W. H. Veazey hurt his back and has not been able to work since. We hope the hurt is not serious.

Mr. D. O. Manning and wife, Mrs. W. T. White and Mrs. Sidney Webb spent Tuesday in Clanton shopping.

TRAVELING HAZARDS

"The deportment of the traveling public has a greater influence on railway safety than is generally known, and the Safety Section of the American Railway Association in an appeal for the conservation of human life and limb gives some illuminating facts on the subject.

"Of the 229 fatalities occurring in railway passenger travel during the year 1920, about two-thirds were cases in which the individual himself was in some way involved in the chain of circumstances. For example, 28 persons were killed by falling from coach steps, 18 by falling from moving trains, 64 by being struck or run over, and 10 met their death by deliberately jumping from trains while mentally deranged or to escape penal servitude. More startling still is the fact that 64 passengers were killed and 1,299 injured in getting on or off moving and stationary trains.

"Once seated inside a railway car the traveler is in about the safest place in the world, and it is generally his own acts in gaining or leaving such position that create any substantial hazard. Notwithstanding the wonderful safety of passengers on the railways of the country, it is in the power of each of the billion travelers carried annually to make himself still more safe by being careful."

We cannot sell all the Drugs, Drinks and Toilet Articles, so we only sell the BEST.—Johnson Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

Mr .Lorenzo D. Popwell, our popular jewler and optician, went down to Mobile last week to attend the meeting of the Alabama Optical Association.

PATES CHAPEL

The Pates Chapel Singing Society met Sunday afternoon with a large crowd in attendance. In fact one of the largest crowds we have had since we organized our Society. We hope they will come again and help us out.

Directors for the evening were Mr. Chester Maddok, Mr. J. F. Robinson, Mr. H. Castleberry, Mr. Harrison Hayes, Miss Emily Pate, Miss Callie Edwards and Mrs. Eva Childress.

Organists were Miss Nora Franklin, Miss Mae Maddox and Miss Bonnie Littlejohn.

We were glad to see Mr. Robinson out to church again Sunday. We have been wondering what was the matter with him.

The Pleasant Grove Singing Society meets again next Sunday evening and lets all go and carry our books. We always have a cordial welcome over their and that is not all we have. We have some good singing.

ANNUAL MAY SINGING

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give us space in your paper to announce our singing.

The 23rd Annual Singing, known as the Salem Singing, will hold its 23rd session at Providence, Beat 16, 7 miles east of Clanton, on the Fourth Sunday in May. All singers are especially invited to come and bring books and dinner.

MAN SAVES WIFE IN THE NICK OF TIME

"My wife was unable to eat even the lighest food, and had fallen away to a living skeleton. She could not even keep doctor's medicine on her stomach and was tortured with pain. On the recommendation of a friend I bought a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and she is all right now and has gained forty pounds." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicits. One dose wil convince or money refunded. —Alred Drug Co., Clanton, Ala., and druggists every where.

TRAFFIC ON WARRIOR SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Tuscaloosa—A verified tonnage report of the Mississippi-Warrior service shows that the amount of tonnage handled on the Warrior river for the month of April, for redistribution, by far exceeds the tonnage handled here during any other month. The reasons given for this increase were the clearing up of general business and industrial conditions and the fact that shippers are beginning to realize the advantage to be secured by water shipments to Tuscaloosa, which works a 20 per cent saving in freight costs over the all-rail route and saves several days time in deliveries over the old system of ordering out of New Orleans.

May Install Radio Stations.

Roanoke—The county board of education of Randolphe county has taken under consideration the installing of two radio stations, one at the count yhigh school at Wedowee and the other at the high school of Roanoke. This action was proposed by the state several days ago and the matter is being thoroughly investigated by the loval board.

Walkers Farmers Diversify.

Jasper—Alabama must feed herself. That is the sentiment of a great body of farmers and business men in this section. The great issue of crop diversification is now sweeping over Walker County; the farmers realize now as never before that they must diversify crops in order to succeed on the farm.

Ice Factory Installed.

Enterprise—The Enterprise Cotton Oil Company has under construction a large ice and cold storage plant with capacity for 15 tons of ice daily. The plant when complete will take care of all demands for Enterprise, Elba and New Broskton, distributing its surplus to other towns in the Wire Grass section.

Artists At University.

University—Working on the theory that the seeing of one performance will do more to instill into students an appreciation of the best in art and literature than the absorbing of five lectures, the University of Alabama English Department this year is employing this means to accomplish such ends in the various classes.

Iron Works To Operate.

Russellville—Twelve men were put to work at one of the washers of the Alabama Fuel and Iron Company, repairing the machinery and making preparations to start work at full blast within a few days.

Rain Retards Farmers.

Attalla—Rains in this section have greatly retarded operations among farmers, many of them having done no planting whatever. Where planted, cotton has shown only a small stand and the young plants became stunted greatly during the cool weather which has prevailed. Bottom lands are still largely untouched and are becoming very foul with vegetation.

STATE TO BERAK PRODUCE RECORDS

More Cabbages, Strawberries and Sweet Potatoes To Be Shipped.

Montgomery—Reports to the bureau of markets during the week continued to indicate that Alabama will break its previous records in the shipment of cabbage, strawberries and sweet potatoes, according to the weekly summary of F. O. Hooton, supervisor of markets, Saturday.

Up to May 1, 1,075 cars of cabbage had moved from Alabama, compared with 896 cars last season, 301 cars of strawberries against 285 last year and 565 cars of sweet potatoes compared with 482 last year. Prices of cabbage and strawberries held firm while sweet potatoes are moving slowly at $1.15 to $1.25 a bushel on the central markets.

Pardon and Parole.

Montgomery — Charlie Thaxton, Etowah county convict, who has served since 1907 on a 15-year sentence for asault with intent to murder, was paroled into the state hospital for the insane by Governor Kilby. A lunacy commission examined Thaxton and reported him insane. Governor Kilby issued a full pardon to Will Alford of Montgomery, who served a term for assault with intent to murder and who was paroled by Governor Henderson in 1918. Records show that Alford has made a good citizen since he was released.

Two Railroad Cases Settled.

Montgomery—Of the three cases in which railroads operating in Alabama protested valuation fixed by the state tax commission on their tangible property for tax assessment for the current tax year, which cases were to have been arbitrated, two have already been settled, it is announced. An understanding has been reached between the commission and the A. B. & A. and N. C. & St. L. Railroads. The case of the Western Railroad of Alabama, however, is still pending.

RIVER TRAFFIC IN STATE IS SHOWING A RAPID GROWTH

BUILDING OF LOCKS AND DAMS AFFORDING DEEPER WATER AND BUSINESS IS SHOWING INCREASE.

Shippers of Alabama are recognizing the great advantages being offered by wator transportation and the increase for 1922 over 1921 in tonnage handled over the river routes promises to far eclipse any previous year.

For instance, it is stated by Manager H. F. DeBardeleben of the Mississippi-Warrior system, that cotton shipments at the new port of Demopolis, on the Warrior river, have "fairly swamped the system." On Tuesday of the past week so much cotton had been assembled at Demopolis that it became necessary for the Warrior system to despatch a special boat to that port to handle this cotton. Incidentally, 98 per cent of this cotton was consigned to the port of Mobile, from which point most of it will be exported to foreign countries.

To illustrate the growing importance of river traffic, it may be stated that in 1921 only 800 tons of cotton was handled on the Warrior system for the entire year, while up to May 1 of the present year 3000 tons of cotton had been handled. The big saving in freight is cause. To illustrate this saving: On a shipment of cotton from Selma to Mobile, part rail and part water route via Demopolis, the freight saving is 42 1-2 cents per bale. If Selma should ship 50,000 bales a year, which is a low average estimate, it will be seen that the river route will save something like $20,000 on the year's crop from Selma alone.

Big Growth of Freight.

The grand total of freight handled on the Warrior river in 1921 reached 247,532 tons. Of this tonnage 213,932 tons went down stream and 33,600 tons up stream.

Coal constituted the bulk of the down stream tonnage, the total tons handled reaching 130,780. Next came manufactured steel, this tonnage reaching 60,623 tons. Embraced in this steel were rails, plates, angles, nails, wire and other products, principally manufactured in the Ensley mills. Most of the shipments were loaded on steamers at Mobile and transported to Japan and China, though quite a bit of it went to Pacific Coast points. This all-water route from Birmingham saved many thousands of dollars in freight and opened up to the Alabama territory a market that could not have been reached except over the water route.

Up river shipments embraced 16,000 tons of Managanese ore, brought to the steel mills of the Birmingham district; 5,838 tons of salt; 3,224 tons of sugar; 2,073 tons of coffee; 1,700 tons of canned goods from the Pacific coast and considerable other miscellaneous merchandise. There was a saving of 20 per cent in the freight charges on all this tonnage.

The Warrior river now provides a minimum of eight feet from Cordova to Mobile and self-propelled steel barges are operated all through the year. These barges are equipped with steel containers and the most delicate of fabrics can be shipped by the water route with the same degree of safety as by rail.

The Coosa River.

If the system of locks on the Coosa, surveyed by the government, were completed, that stream, in connection with the Alabama, would become one of the most important for commerce in the whole of the country. The river is now navigable for the greater part of the year from Montgomery to Mobile, and from a short distance south of Gadsden to Rome, Georgia.

The completion of the locks which would carry boats over the shoals between Talladega and Wetumpka would make the stream navigable the year round from Rome, Ga., to Mobile, a distance of over 850 miles. The building of dams at these shoals by the Alabama Power Company for the purpose of generating hydro-electric power is giving new hope to the large territory served by this river that the government may take advantage of this work and soon make appropriations necessary to the building of the locks.

One of the provisions of the government survey of the Coosa calls for the construction of two or more storage reservoirs at the head of the Coosa in Georgia. It is estimated that these reservoirs can be very cheaply constructed because of the hilly character of the country and that sufficient water can be impounded in times of high water to make the stream navigable in all seasons by letting this impounded water out as it may be needed. One of the great advantages of these reservoirs would be flood control, as has been shown through the building of Lock 12 and Mitchell Dam by the Alabama Power Company.

A Statement for Fair-Minded People:

The Gorgas Steam Plant and the Government

After this country entered the war, the United States decided upon the construction of the nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals. The Government also being in need of power beyond the company's capacity to supply, the Ordnance Department decided to make an extension of the Warrior plant, and the company turned over to the government, upon its request, the foundations and underwater structures then in reserve for the extension of this plant for the company's own use.

The Power Company also turned its entire construction and engineering staff over to the United States, and constructed the 30,000 kilowatt extension to the Warrior plant, delivering power from same nearly a year before the Muscle Shoals steam plant was completed. At the same time, the Power Company placed the right of way owned by it at the disposal of the Government, and built thereon a 90-mile transmission line to Muscle Shoals from Gorgas in the record time of five months. Power was delivered to Muscle Shoals out of the company's system from May, 1918, until the armistice. This enabled the government to quickly secure the large amount of power required for construction and preliminary operation of the nitrate plants. A contract known as T-69 was signed between the government and the Alabama Power Company on November 7, 1918. This contract covered all construction work done by the Power Company for the United States and binds the company to purchase the government extension to the Warrior steam plant from the government after the termination of the war at a fair value.

The company's arrangement with the government, by which it turned over its foundations and other structures then in reserve for an extension of the company's plants, was accepted and relied upon by the company in good faith, and in connection with this extension the company expended in additional lines and other development work essential to the complete operation of the government extension, an amount in excess of $1,016,000. In addition to this amount the company had a large investment, aggregating [illegible] million dollars, in its own power plant and other existing facilities, service lines to coal mines and other industries, distribution systems in various towns and cities near the Warrior plant which receive their service from lines radiating from this station and from the large sub-stations at Bessemer and Magella, all or part of which investment now depends for its usefulness upon the location of the Warrior plant at its present site; and in addition, the company assumed contracts to deliver continuous power to consumers in various parts of the state in reliance upon this plant.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS "THE SANCTUARY" AT THE TABERNACLE

A large and appreciative audience heard Mr. Mitchell on the subject of "The Sanctuary" at the Adventist Tabernacle, Sunday night. Mr. Mitchell took his text from Hebrews 8:1-2; drawing the conclusion that if the Tabernacle of the Jewish economy, back in the days of Moses was a "shadow, a figure for the time then present," then there must needs have been a "pattern" (and he read Heb. 8:5 to prove it) after which the earthly Tabernacle was fashioned.

Then, after explaining that Paul in the 8th and 9th chapters of Hebrews, is picturing the work of Christ in the Heavenly Sanctuary, Mr. Mitchell read Heb. 3:1 showing that Jesus Christ is our High Priest, and that (Heb. 8:1-2) He is now ministering in the Antitypical services, services of which the ceremonies of the earthly Tabernacle were but "a shadow of good things to come."

Featuring the Feasts of the Passover, Unleavened Bread and the Waving of the First Fruits, the speaker then went on to show how these Jewish rites were shadows of the REAL Passover, Jesus Christ. Taking the command given by the Lord to Moses, that the Passover should be celebrated on the 14th day of the 1st month, and the death of the Saviour on the 14th day of the 1st month, Mr. Mitchell drew the conclusion that this Passover Lamb typified the "Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." Also, "For even Christ our Passover, is sacrificed for us." 1 Cor. 5:7.

Next Sunday night Mr. Mitchell will continue the study ,drawing the lesson from the ancient day of Atonement, showing the work of Christ in the Heavenly Sanctuary, and how vitally every one is connected with it. The readers of the Banner are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Rev. J. G. W. Bailey of Minooka was in Clanton Monday. He preached at Poplar Springs Sunday night. He will preach there again the second Sunday in June, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. W. Robinson.

Synopsis.

Place—New York, Home of Andrew Kinsley.

Act. I.—Andrew Kinsley, who is a wealthy gold miner, and his wife thinks there is nothing better than gold. Therefore they perfer and insist that their daughter, Alice, marry Prince Bavari, of the "Hapsburg."

Howard Carpenter, Sr., is also a wealthy gold miner and a partner of Kinsley.

Howard Carpenter, Jr., a philanthropic young man of truth and honor, who has found things better than gold, is also in love with Alice. He also knows how to make gold, for while building a beneficent institution in Georgia in memory of his mother he discovers gold.

Howard Carpenter, Sr., proposes to Kinsley a marriage between their son and daughter. Kinsley is insulted. Carpenter withdraws his partnership and turns his attention to his son.

Mrs. Andrew Kinsley works her designing scheme through Robert Woolsey, so she plots with him in order that Howard, Jr., may hear a marriage ceremony so that he may give up his idea of winning Alice. After hearing the ceremony Howard, Jr., leaves for Georgia.

In the meantime the Prince gets highly insulted at Alice's spurns, and talks of damage suits. Mr. and Mrs. Kinsley try to force Alice to marry the Prince but she concretely refuses, therefore resulting in her father disowning her.

Act. II.—Place, New York, Home of Howard Carpenter, Sr., study of Howard, Jr.

Miss Robinson takes care of Howard's business affairs.

Mrs. Howard Carpenter, Sr., is jealous of Howard's successes as compared to the son's failures, Robert Woolsey. Robert Woolsey finds signature of Howard, Jr., and plans a note to Alice Kinsley. He also plots to get Howard out of the way as he would then be sole heir of Carpenter's gold. Alice receives note, and demands an audience with Howard, Jr., but as he has already left she does not see him, but is wrongly accused by Woolsey, Prince and Carpenter, Sr.

Act III.—Place, woods of Northern Georgia.

Howard is living with the mountain people. Robert Woolsey, who wants to kill him, appears on trail but his plans are thwarted by the appearance of a mountaineer.

Tableau:

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

POOR ORIGINAL

(S. E. Norton, Manager.)

On Saturday afternoon, May 18, the students from the boarding department of Thorsby Institute and the members of the faculty were invited by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler to have a picnic in the grove to the south of their house. The weather was fine. They all had a grand time; plenty of "eats." A large bonfire was built around which they sat and sang and told stories until the moon came into sight and then it was time to go home.

Mother's Day was very generally celebrated in Thorsby, at the Congregational Church. There was an unusually large audience, and where possible, family groups sitting together. The Pastor, Rev. J. W. Davenport, delivered a very interesting sermon, on the family life and influence. Most of those present wore a flower as a token of remembrance of mother.

It is reported that C. M. Williams and family will soon return to Thorsby and occupy the A. K. Horn house.

Dr. Frank L. Moore of New York City, Secretary of the Congregational Home Missionary Society, will give the commencement address to the Senior Class of Thorsby Institute, on the evening of June 1st, at Bates Hall.

The piano recital by the pupils of Miss Agnes Gerald, head of music department of Thorsby Institute, will be given Saturday evening, May 20, at 8:00 o'clock, in Bates Hall. The following is the program:

Le Secret (L. Gautier) Margaret Butler, Iola Gerald, Ruth Sharpe.

The Ambitious Pianist (Geo. L. Spaulding) Floy Jackson.

Galop (Franz Behr) Kathryn Foss, Floy Jackson.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid Society will have their monthly Social on Thursday of this week, May 18th, with Mrs. Ed Piper.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper have the sympathy of the entire community, on account of the tragic death of their daughter-in-law, who was instantly killed when struck by a street car in Ensley, about eight o'clock last Friday night.

There is an industry in Thorsby conducted by a woman, Mrs. P. K. Villadsen, who for several years has successfully conducted the Pecan nursery, established by her late husband. The growing importance of the nut industry in Alabama is attracting considerable attenton.

PERSHING IS RIGHT

General Pershing declares that had this country been adequately prepared "there is little question that the United States under strong leadership could have prevented the world war altogether." It is a strong statement, but when we remember Mr. Wilson's vacillations towards Mexico, his pacifist attitude, and our general unpreparedness there is no wonder that the kaiser thought this country would never go to war and that he could proceed accordingly.

WAR'S HORRIBLE WASTE

Mr. R. C. Leffingwell was the assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of finances during the war. While he was in the treasury he became deeply impressed with the magnitude of government expeditures and the looseness, inefficiency and waste that are a part of government method. All the secretaries of the treasury since the outbreak of the war have shared this feeling of apprehension and concern with Mr. Leffingwell. I quote here a recent utterance of his on war expenditures:

"Of the $4,000,000,000, exclusive of interest on the public debt, spent in the fiscal year 1921, $1,101,615,013.32 was spent by the War department, $650,373,835.58 by the Navy department, $800,000,000 on the railroads, $230,000,000 by the bureau of war risk insurance, and $357,814,897.01 by the Interior department, mostly, I take it, for Civil war and Spanish war pensions—a total of $3,080,000,000 under these heads.

"In the fiscal year 1920 the War department spent $1,610,000,000, and the Navy department $740,000,000, a total of $2,350,000,000. Secretary Mellon estimates that in the fiscal year, 1921, the War department will spend $1,025,000,000, and the Navy department $700,000,000, a total of $1,725,000,000; and that in the fiscal year, 1922, the War department will spend $570,000,000, and the Navy department $545,000,000, a total of $1,115,000,000. This makes a three-years' total of $5,190,000,000.

"Germany went to war to realize on her investment in arms and armies. The burden of universal military service, expenditures on the army and navy, subsidies and doles, became intolerable. She thought she would repeat the exploit of 1870 and make war so profitable in territory and indemnities as to recoup herself for the outlay of 40 years' preparation. The splendid resistance of the Belgians and the French and of the little British expeditionary force made the short war a futile dream. The untrained manhood and unmortgaged resources of the Western World, of the British empire overseas, and finally of America, determined the issue. Germany suffered economic collapse, though her armies, beaten but not routed, were still on enemy soil. So Germany's military preparedness was her cause for making war and was the cause of her defeat. In the issue, it was economic preparedness that mattered most.

"Today, men, women and little children are starving to death in Europe because of the war's horrible waste and because of the still more horrible waste of after the war. Two years and a half after armistice, nearly two years after peace was concluded between Germany and the allies, millions of men are under arms, eating and wearing the produce of the fields and of the labor of a civilian population which must bear the load of taxes and inflation necessary to maintain those armies in economic idleness. The peoples of continental Europe are staggering under the load of armaments, far too great before the war and intolerable now. Their rulers hold themselves in power by subsidies and doles, by playing, now on their fears, and again on their avarice, still again on nationalistic ambitions or ancient racial hatreds. The allies have undertaken to insure Germany's economic recovery by insisting upon her disarmament and the payment of reparations which means the development of a huge export balance; but for themselves they reserve the doubtful privilege of remaining armed to the teeth. . .

"We have demonstrated our military power. We have shown what may be done in a few short month to make an army and transport it to wage a foreign war. We have no need to be aggressors abroad, we are invulnerable at home. Let us accept the responsibilities of the position of leadership which is ours, show the world how to beat swords into plow-shares, relieve the peoples of the world of apprehension and lead them back into the ways of peace and plenty. If we prepare for war we shall have it. If we lead the world in preparation for peace we may have that."

Steel Barrels.

If the statements of the makersare well founded, it is probable that teel barrels will eventually take the place of wooden ones. The steel barrl is composed of staves of that matrial locked together by an ingeniou device; the hoops and heads are also of steel. It is claimed that thesteel barrel is more durable and morecompact than the wooden one. As it is said to be lighter and cheaper, t has already had favor in various qurters. About 300,000,000 barrels are eeded annually in normal times, to sppply the demand in the United tates. Flour mills use about 90,000,00, the sugar industry 40,000,000, nd the cement industry 75,000,000.—Cristian Science Monitor.

CITIZENS ASKED TO SUPPORT OFFICERS BY JUDGE JONES

Declares the Jury Box is Protection for All Citizens if It Does Its Duty.

Montgomery, May 16.—In a comprehensive charge to the Montgomery county grand jury, which was sworn into service Monday, Judge Walter B. Jones appealed to the citizens of Montgomery county to furnish full support to the officers of the law in the enforcement of the statutes. He declared that the jury box is the protection for all citizens and that unless the jury box does its duty citizens cannot always be assured of protection.

"One of the discouraging signs of the times is the feeling which many citizens have that they will obey and respect those laws which meet their approval and that they are under no obligation to heed those laws, the policy of which they do not like," said the judge's charge.

"The good citizen, whether he agrees with the wisdom or necessity of a law or not should earnestly endeavor to observe it and to set an example of obedience to his fellows. We must understand that without law there can be no liberty and that it is the law which keeps civilization from slipping back. Those who disapprove of some of our laws have the right to do so and to seek in all honorable ways to repeal them. But no man has the right to evade or disobey the laws and the citizen cannot do so without grave harm to himself and to the welfare of his country."

Should Aid Enforcement

Judge Jones also declared that all citizens should aid in law enforcement both by serving as members of grand and petit juries and by furnishing all information which they posess. "The citizen must not only respect the law himself and thus encourage others to obey the law but he should do everything in his power to discourage vice and lawlessness and whenever the opportunity presents itself he should endeavor to give the officers of the law his full and hearty co-operation." continued Judge Jones. "Especially should those who sit on our grand and petit juries do their full duty for though legislatures may make laws it is in the jury box that the people accept or reject the laws made by their servants."

The charge also appealed to the people not to criticise officers unjustly. "No person in this country would countenance for a moment any abridgment of the time-honored right of free speech and the right of the citizen to freely criticise governments and men, but the fair citizen does wish, instead of so much thoughtless and unfounded criticism of officers of the law, that they might receive the substantial aid and co-operation of the people," he said. "Fair and just criticism is proper and right, but criticism engendered by malice and hate is wrong. If one-tenth of the men who indulge in criticisms of those who try to enforce the laws would obey the laws themselves and actively assist in their enforcement our country would have less lawlessness. Let us hope, for the sake of good government, that in the future there will be less unfounded criticism and more sympathetic co-operation.

COMMERCE BOOST FILE

So numerous have been the letters of commendation sent to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce by appreciative business men that a so-called "boost file" has been established. Any doubts as to what the Harding Administration is doing for the industries of the United States are quickly dispelled by reading the opinions of our industrial leaders.

Democrats threw a fit over the dismissal of a number of Federal employees and now it develops that a majority of those dismissed claim to be Republicans.

WEAK, NERVOUS, ALL RUN-DOWN

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me.

"I saw after taking some Cardui . . . that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person.

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me . . . My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments.

BETHANY

Well, here I come again. If you will permit me space in the valuable columns of your good paper I will give you quite a number of items which I hope will interest you.

Health is very good at present except the illness of Mrs. Sattie Williams who is in the hospital at Birmingham. Mrs. Josephine Gray is very ill of appendicitis. We hope them a speedy recovery.

Prof. J. M. Williams and family visited the home of Mr. C. B. Huett Sunday.

Everybody around these parts are farming from morn till night. You can hear the farmers say "gee" and "haw" almost at the same time.

Mrs. J. W. Cagle visited Mrs. C. B. Huett Wednesday afternoon.

We learn that Mr. Randolph Neely has been very busy this week planting cotton over. He says that he would not have had to plant over if the seed which he planted first had not been a wee bit damaged.

We congratulate Mr. C. B. Huett because of his nice bed of potato plants.

Prof. J. W. Cagle of the Mitchell Dam was attending to business matters at home Wednesday night.

The storm that came on May 6th blew up a fine shade tree for Mr. W. Y. Keel. The tree fell upon his well and ruined the water for the time being.

Mr. Tommie Gray and his sister, Miss Rubyie Gray have had the mumps recently. They are almost well now. We hope that none else in this community will have them.

Mr. I. D. Huett spent last week at his father's, Mr. C. B. Huett, as his family was visiting relatives in Coosa County.

The Gray brothers have at last sold their truck to Mr. A. W. Bone.

Mr. Charlie Gray was the first man to chop any cotton in this community. He began to chop Wednesday morning of last week.

Mr. Tommie Hill of this community visited home folks Saturday night.

Mr. David Dennis visited Mr. Wilbert Neeley Sunday afternoon. They report a nice time playing marbles.

Prof. J. W. Cagle of the Mitchell Dam, has been on a quandary as to whether he would teach music this summer or not. He has at last arrived to the conclusion that through his thirty day furlough, he will teach a 24 days school at Indian Grave.

Mrs. Leathe Neeley has been on the sick list recently, but is better now.

We wonder if we ever will hear any thing more from Maple Springs and Poplar Springs and Floyd. The Banner seems kindly blank without all of your news. And besides, I like to read news of all the places mentioned above. So please come again. We would also like to hear from Enterprise occasionally.

Mrs. J. W. Cagle went to Clanton on last Friday on a shopping trip.

Well, as news has about come to a complete focus, I will go for this time. If this misses the waste basket I will represent the same place next week. Thank you for this space, Mr. Editor.

There were a number of citizens of Maplesville here Monday attending the preliminary trial of Milton McCormick in the County Court.

ANOTHER 23RD PSALM

1. My husband is my boss I will not deny.

2. He maketh me to lie down a lot of times, when my very soul is hungry for some recreation out side the home responsibilities. He driveth me to the kitchen to cook for his own hungry self sake.

3. He restoreth to me the many dirty dishes to clean, while he takes a rest.

4. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death every time one of his eight children are born. He fears no pain or anguish for little does he care; his pipe smoke and unkind words do not comfort me.

5. He preparest himself with his clean pressed clothes, that I clean and press, and off to his gambling he goes. He anointest my life with trouble when he comes home drunk. The house runneth over with work.

6. Surely heart-aches and disappointments will follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the house of my master for ever.

COUNTIES MUST PROVIDE FUNDS

SUPREME COURT RULES APPROPRIATIONS FOR ERADICATION OF TICKS MUST BE PROVIDED.

TEST CASE IS AFFIRMED

Decision Based On Legislature Making Appropriations Mandatory Duty of Various Counties.

Montgomery—When the Legislature passed the law in 1919 providing for the eradication of margaropus annulatus (better known as cattle tick) it put upon the various counties the mandatory duty of providing revenue for the anti-tick campaign and no county can refuse to appropriate the funds, according to a decision of the Supreme Court.

The Mobile County Board of Revenue voted to discontinue the tick eradication work for the winter and decided not to make further appropriations. Mr. Batchelor, a citizen, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus requiring the board to continue the work and to make the appropriations. The board attacked the State law, contending that it was unconstitutional. It insisted that the caption contained two subjects. The lower court granted the writ of mandamus to Batchelor.

The Supreme Court affirmed the lower court in all particulars, held the law to be valid and decided that the board of revenue cannot use its discretion about making the appropriations. As long as the law is on the statute books and ticks are on the cows, the board must continue its part.

Plan Relief For Convict Families.

Montgomery—Mrs. L. B. Bush, director of the state child welfare department in a letter to all circuit judges and sheriffs in Alabama, has requested them to advise her concerning all needly families of convicts now serving terms in the penitentiary and their location. It is her purpose to have agents of the department visit these families and assist in providing some means for their support and comfort until the husband, father or other relative who has heretofore supported them, is released from custody. Through this plan, it is believed much want and possible suffering can be prevented.

Grant Petition.

Montomery—Permisison was granted to the Arkansas-Alabama Lumber Company in a decision rendered by the Alabama Public Service Commission to begin proceedings for condemnation of a right of way over the tracks of the Birmingham and Southeastern Railroad. The commission was divided in the decision, however. B. H. Cooper dissented from the decision of President A. G. Patterson and S. P. Gaillard, granting the lumber company's petition. During the session the Arkansas-Alabama Company filed a petition seeking to condemn another right of way in Elmore County. The property over which the right of way is desired is a 40-acre tract belonging to D. E. R. Lett.

Foundry Resumes Operation.

Tuscaloosa—After being closed for a long while, No. 3 foundry at Holt resumed operations and between 100 and 125 men were put to work. No definite time was given when the two other foundries will be put into opeation, but it is presumed just as soon as sufficient orders are received to warrant it. Holt is beginning to appear like old times when all of the big plants were running on all time with hundreds of employs.

Judge Reynolds was in Montgomery Tuesday attending to business matters.

To Operate Night and Day.

Gadsden—The wire mill of the Gulf States Steel Company will begin night operations this week for the first time since the war. The department will go on double turn because of the improvement of business, orders coming in now at a fairly rapid rate. Other departments will continue as they have for some time.

To Hold Trade Day.

Anniston—Plans were laid by the advertising club for the June Trade Day. At the luncheon meeting of the club it was decided to distribute $150 among those who do their trading on the June bargain day, June 6, and to add to the bargain offerings until the June event will be the greatest yet held.

Official Test Successful.

Mobile—The government $4,000,000 coal terminal, completed after a delay of several weeks, performed its functions properly during official tests. Col. G. M. Hoffman, member of the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, accompanied by Maj. Earl North, United States District engineer in Mobile, inspected the terminal and Major North explained the various features of the giant plant. Colonel Hoffman came from Washington to be present during the official test.

CANE CREEK

Dear Editor:

Here I come again with some of my junk, if you will allow me a small space just to say a few words, as I notice there hasn't been a peace about this wonderful little place in a good while.

Health in this community is very good as far as I know.

Our Sunday School is going right on. Everybody seems to have a willing heart to help. But hear, we haven't got enough of our older people. We hope to see more coming out soon.

Martin Asks for Your Support in Republican Primary

Clanton, Alabama, May 18th, 1922.

To The Republican Voters, Both Men and Women:

You, no doubt, have noticed my announcement for Sheriff subject to the action of the Republican Primary to be held on August 8th, 1922.

I am asking the voters of this county for the Sheriff's Office fully realizing the duties and responsibilities attached to the office. Having worked in the Sheriff's office a great deal and having had a great deal of experience in this line of work I have come to the conclusion that we need a good moral and sober man to execute the laws of the land, a man that can control his temper at a time when it is most needed. If you will pardon me for making a personal reference, I wish to say that in all my work as an officer I have never had to hit a single person with a gun or other weapon in order to execute the laws. With all due respect to other officers that may have had trouble in executing the laws, it is my opinion that trouble could have been avoided had the arresting officer used a little more judgment and common sense in dealing with the person accused. A Sheriff should be a man upright in every respect and bound to no set so that he would be in a position to execute the laws without fear or favor. Many innocent men are accused, in fact, very often the court charges a jury that a man is presumed to be innocent until he is proven guilty beyond all reasonable doubt. It is the Sheriff's duty when a warrant is placed in his hands to execute it with reasonable diligence, not to inflict upon the accused punishment simply because he has been so unfortunate as to have a charge placed against him. I do not believe that because a man is accused that he is guilty and he should be proven guilty by unbiased testimony.

I feel like with the experience I have had I am qualified and competent to fill the office of Sheriff and if I should be fortunate enough to be the Republican Nominee I will use all means and efforts in my power in an honest and honorable way to be elected in November. If I am not the nominee it is my purpose to support the nominee in our party in any way I can, and put my shoulder to the wheel and help elect him. Every voter in the county should vote for the man they think will make the best Sheriff for the whole people.

It is my purpose to make a thorough campaign and hope to have an opportunity to talk with each of you and if I cannot see you in person any assistance and favors shown me will be greatly appreciated. I am sure that if you assist in electing me to this office by your vote or otherwise you will never have cause to regret it.

Respectfully yours,

(Political adv.) LEONARD P. MARTIN.

LOCK 12 COMMUNITY

Every one seems to be enjoying the sun shine these days and are puting their whole time on work while the sun shines.

A crowd from Lock 12 went to the C. C. H. S. commencement exercises last Friday night.

A truck load of people from here went to church at "Maddox's Chapel" Sunday. All seemed to enjoy the trip.

Rosa Lee Mahan returned from a visit to Mitchell Dam Saturday.

Mrs. T. L. McKee and family spent Saturday night with Mrs. J. M. Mahan. They returned to Mitchell Dam Sunday.

School days are over and we believe that some in this part of the county have been exposed to spring fever or are very lonesome and will become very miserable before another session.

Yours for a better country.

REFUGE

Dear Editor:

Please give me a small space in your paper to say a few words.

The health of this community is good at present. Farming is moving along fine. Crops are looking good and it seems that everybody is feeling good.

Say, I want to say that we sure did have a good sermon given out by Rev. M. J. Parrish Saturday and Sunday. All who missed it sure did lose something fine. I think if some of our condidates could have heard it Sunday there would'nt be so much mud slinging through our papers and the editor could have more space to place something good for the good readers of his paper.

I want to say that our Sunday school is getting along fine, but say, come on young people and older ones and let us make it better if possible for the field is wide and laborers are few.

Our Singing Society met Sunday evening and had a good little singing. We hope to have more help next time for remember, we invite all singers and hearers, for the word says it is more blessed to give than to receive, so come and let us all work together.

I think there will be an all day singing here the second Sunday in June. There will be further announcemets of it if there is, so watch the paper for we want all good singers to come that day and make it one lang remembered.

Thanking the editor for this small space.

There will not be any Sunday School Sunday as it is the annual Singing day at Providence and a majority of our people wanted to go out there.

NOTICE

To the Pastors, Laymen and workers of the Chilton County Baptist Association, and all who will come, are requested to meet with the Unity Association in joint session at Clanton, May 29th, 1922, at 10:00 a. m. This is a very important meeting to all who are interested in the progress of our Association and the Master's cause. We would like for the ladies to be at this meeting.

FAREWELL SERVICE SUNDAY NIGHT

The farewell service of the Rev. P. G. Carter, Pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church, will be held next Sunday, May 28th, beginning at 8:00 p. m. At the morning service an account will be given of the Southern Baptist Convention recently held at Jacksonville, Fla. Following the morning service a call conference of the church will be held.

The services next Sunday will close a pastorate of two years and four months which is a longer pastorate than any of the previous ministers for the past twenty years.

During this time the magnificent church building has been erected at a total investment of $36000.00, the Sunday School doubled and the congregation trebled. Eighty-... bers have been added ... This is the best record in ... story of the church. Regret among the citizens of Clanton and throughout the entire county is expressed at the resignation, and thereby the loss to the community of th splendid services rendered in behalf of the moral and civic interests of Clanton, the entire county, and the Chilton and Unity Baptist Association. It is anticipated that a large appreciative audience will be present at the evening service to which everybody is cordially invited.

SUMMARY OF YEAR IN CLANTON SCHOOL

There have been some people who want to know what has been our actual standing in figures this year. I give below a brief summary of things:

No. enrolled, 367; No. received by Transfer, 33; Total, 400; Average daily attendance, 321; No. who came until close of school, 304; No. Promoted, 258; No. Promoted to High School, 21; average No. of pupils to teacher, 50; average No. per teacher as shown by average daily attendance ...; average monthly salaries, including principal, ... average salary of assistants, ...0; average monthly salary of teachers when figured for 12 months, $66.00.

The School Board met May 18th and elected a Superintendent. The following teachers have been re-elected for another year:

Ira Pegues, Superintendent; Miss Alice Selman, First Grade; Miss Eula Mae Vines, Second Grade; Miss Woody Rawlison, Sixth Grade; Mrs. Carrie D. Thomas, Fifth Grade. There are three vacancies, one in First Grade, the Third Grade, and Fourth Grade. As soon as filled these will be announced.

Some have asked for a Summer school in order to make up a deficient subject. If enough want me to justify my returning I will teach six weeks beginning the first Monday in July. Tuition will be $5.00 per month for one subject, $7.50 per month for two, payable in advance. No one will be allowed to take more than two subjects. If anyone is interested see Mrs. P. D. Wilson as soon as possible so I can make my plans accordingly. Mrs. Wilson has full authority to act for me.

Two rulings of the Board will be rigidly enforced:

1. Resolved, that no child be admitted to the first grade the first term who is not six years old on or before the first day of October and that no child be admitted to first grade the second term who is not six years old on or before January 1st.

2. Resolved that no child be admitted to first grade the first term after first week of school and that no child be admitted to first grade the second term after the first week of second term, unless said child was sick and presents a doctor's certificate to that effect or has moved into this district after said dates.

The reason for the above ruling is patent to every teacher. Each pupil coming into the first grade late forms a separate and distinct class. Some parents have infringed on the six year limit so far that it is necessary to put the bars up and give notice that the rule will be strictly adhered to.

Respetfully submitted,
IRA PEGUES.

ALABAMA NEWS

35,000 CUBIC YARDS OF ROCK MOVED BY THE BLAST.

Verbena—One of the largest shots ever made in Alabama was touched off by the Alabama Power Company at Mitchell Dam, when a heavy charge of dynamite was set off at the company's quarry about a half mile below the dam, blasting more than 35,000 cubic yards of rock to be used in dam construction.

Preparations extending over a period of five months had been made for the blast. Four large electric well drills had been kept constantly busy at the quarry day and night drilling a total of 17 holes six inches in diameter and 160 feet through the hardest kind of stone, known as hornblend schist.

These holes were loaded with 18,000 pounds of explosives, attached to 3,000 feet of fuse. Everything was in readiness for the shot by 10 o'clock Thursday morning, when the blast was set off and the large mass of quarry rock was shot and shattered ready for use in the dam construction.

TUSCALOOSA RAILROAD SHOPS ACTIVE AGAIN

Tuscaloosa—Another indication of better times was shown this week when the Mobile and Ohio Railroad shops took on all former shop employes and added a number of new workers in all except the car department. They are working full time. It is stated by a Mobile and Ohio boilermaker who has been in the employ of the road about as long as any one connected with the shops here, that there are now more boilermakers in the shops at this point than have been at any time during the past 10 years.

All heavy work which has been heretofore sent to the huge shop at Whistler, near Mobile, is now being done in Tuscaloosa, resulting in the employment of many steel workers, mechanics and men skilled in similar crafts.

Bradford Unable To Collect.

Montgomery—Frank Tally Bradford of Jefferson County, who obtained a judgment for $1,000 against J. F. Dowis, former deputy sheriff, for false arrest, cannot force the National Surety Company, Dowis' bondsman, to pay the judgment under a decision of the supreme court

The company's bond was limited to $2,000. Agnes May Sims obtained a judgment for $2,000 against Dowis and the company and the judgment was paid by the company. The supreme court held that the payment of this amount relieved the National Surety Company of all obligation on the bond.

Stolen Safe Recovered.

Anniston—The iron safe containing between $400 and $500 in cash and checks, stolen from the office of the filling station of the Texas Oil Company here, was located in a field near the Morrisville Road about three miles from the city by some boys, who reported the find to the local manager of the company. The safe had been cut into through the bottom by means of a blacksmith's cleaver and sledge and all of the cash and checks removed except about 30 cents in small change.

Stills Are Captured.

Montgomery—State law enforcement officers as a result of raids carried out in the counties of Morgan and Mobile, captured two stills of 60 gallons capacity each and 1,290 gallons of beer. In Morgan County three men were arrested for alleged violation of the prohibition law and 14 gallons of liquor destroyed. Three men were arrested on charges of operating a still in Lawrence County.

Wage Increase Announced.

Birmingham—A wage adjustment has been effected by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company through which the ore miners will receive an advance in wages of 15 per cent and the coal miners in the employ of the company will receive approximately 10 per cent.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. N. A. KICKER LAST FRIDAY

The people of Clanton were shocked last Friday morning to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Newt Kicker, which occurred at his home in West End about five o'clock a. m. He had not been feeling well for a few days prior to his death but no one expected that his physical condition would bring fatal results so soon.

After getting out of bed, he began to put on his shoes, and collapsed, death resulting immediately.

Mr. Kicker was 62 years old, and had spent the majority of his years as a citizen of Clanton. He had in the past been engaged in business here. His life was such that he had won the confidence and warm friendship of practically every citizen of the town. He was a warm hearted, congenial person and it may be truly said that his circle of acquaintances, which was indeed large, now feel that they have lost a very close and devoted friend.

Funeral services were held at the Clanton Methodist Church Saturday afternoon, Rev. D. M. Pearson officiating. Interment was made in Clanton Cemetery by Undertaker Martin, as hundreds of sorrowing friends and relatives watched the performance with bleeding hearts and tear-stained faces.

Mr. Kicker leaves a wife, Mrs. Sallie Kicker, two brothers, John Kicker of Autauga County, Andrew Kicker of Montgomery; one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Courtney.

MILLARD BOSWELL BURIED AT COOPERS

The body of Millard Boswell, who was killed in France during the World War, was buried at Coopers on Monday of this week. The young man was the son of John Boswell of Coopers. The funeral was preached by Rev. S. M. Adams, and was attended by a large number of friends and relatives. A squad of returned soldiers took part in the burial. As the body was placed beneath the earth in its final resting place the firing squad rendered the salute of honor, which is the soldiers last earthly respect for the remains of a dead comrade.

FALSE TAX THEORIES

The Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer says: "If the people could have a voice they would say raise money for the government through the income tax and not through the iniquitous tariff proposed by the Republican leaders at Washington. The income tax places the burden on wealth. The tariff taxes the poor and the middle classes equally with the rich. It is strictly a per capita tax."

If we are without a protective tariff industry will shut up shop, agriculture will be curtailed, purchases will be fearfully decreased, men will be out of employment, and no one will have an income which can be taxed. Income tax depends largely on the prosperity of the country, and that depends more largely on American dominance in the domestic market. A school boy knows that. If it is assumed that the tariff is "strictly a per capita tax" it might be shown that the per capita tax from tariff in Great Britian is something like $15 while in this country it runs about $3 even under the protective policy. However, people who insist on buying foreign goods are those who pay the tariff, and since the importers, in order to sell their goods, must sell them at prices which will meet American prices, the tendency is to soften the effect of this method of taxation. In addition, the tariff is an indirect tax, while the income tax is a direct tax which is paid by the man of taxable income and added by him to the cost of his output, be it commodity or service.

BRICK MAKING PLANT NOW IN OPERATION

Did you know that there is now in operation a full-fledged brick-making plant close to Clanton? It is a fact whether you know it or not. Mr. L. W. Thomas is operating the plant at Kilgore's Gap on the Lock 12 Road. He is turning out good brick now in commercial quantities. Mr. Thomas brought a sample of his product to The Union-Banner office last Saturday, which will be shown to anyone who may be interested in seeing it.

It is the hope of Mr. Thomas that he can secure enough local patronage to warrant him in extending the capacity of his plant to much larger proportions.

MR. JACKSON REPLIES TO SUPT. FOSHEE

Lomax, Ala., May 21, 1922.

Dear Editor:

Will you please allow me space to reply to Mr. H. L. Foshee, as he holds me and some of my neighbors responsible for the unjust ruling that the Board of Education passed July 29, 1921?

I am sure that Mr. Foshee would like to hold some one else responsible and not himself.

Now, to the honest hearted people, I want you to distinctly understand that I don't intend to work for or against any party or sect, but for equal rights to all white people.

Now, I am going to base what I say on what I know to be facts and not on what I hear, as Mr. Foshee has done.

First, I want to state that our school house was built by her patrons and the deed was made to her trustees and patrons, and their successors to be held forever, for I gave the land and dictated the deed, and the State hasn't a dollar in it, so I think the house should be left to the majority of the people of this district to use it as they see fit, absent of school days.

Second, as to the tent of Mr. Biler's being cut down and having no place to hold service is false, although there was some dirty work done around the tent.

Third, as to the petition being circulated by this people, asking permission to use the school house is also false, but one of my neighbors asked me for permission for these people to use the house as I was trustee at that time; other neighbors advised me to prohibit these people using the house, but we could not agree, as that was not treating my neighbor as I would like him to treat me, so we decided to settle it with a petition.

Sixty two were against and forty in favor, so I told my neighbor, the one who asked permission, that Mr. Biler could not use the school house. Therefore, I consider that we settled it neighborly and honorably, so I think the dissatisfied party was on the opposing side from the complaint he made to the Board. An attempt to use it by these people is also false.

In regard to my going over the country telling that the Board forbids the reading of the Bible in school is also false, but I have stated that I consider reading the Bible in school was, or should be, religious service and according to his own rule it was forbidden and still say so. But listen, he says it was done to keep out a certain sect. That is true. That can be proven by responsible people and may be done, for I am to make complaint at the proper time and at the proper place.

If our government can't protect our constitutional religious rights I want to know in the fear of God and in the name of justice what a government is for.

I fully realize that not only our school houses and homes are in danger but also our lives when we oppose a certain class.

But God forbid that we put men into office to pass laws to pacify people who will burn our houses or take our lives.

If the Board will repeal that ungodly rule, and publish that they have, I think it will be well for them and all of the people of the county.

Now, I want to say to Mr. Foshee that I have no more argument through the paper for him, for the paper is too valuable to reply to people who have their argument on "hear-says" and not facts, but if he wants to discuss our constitutional religious rights with me he may do so at the court house. If he will fix the date I'll be there if God will permit me to do so.

Respectfully,
J. H. JACKSON.

P. S.—The above statement made by Mr. Jackson in regard to the school house and using same is facts.

ALABAMA LAWS NOT AFFECTED

STATUTES ON CHILD LABOR WILL CONTINUE IN FORCE IN STATE.

WAGE INCREASE ANNOUNCED

Recorder May Try Doctors—Railroad Shop Active—Cotton Mills To Resume.

So far as Alabama is concerned the decision of the supreme court of the United States, declaring the federal child labor act invalid, will have little or no effect, according to a statement issued by Mrs. L. B. Bush, director of the child welfare department of the state. The entire system for enforcement of child labor regulations in this state, she declared, has been based upon the state and not the federal law. The requirements of the child labor law now in force in Alabama, Mrs. Bush said, are fully as high as those of the federal law. She added that both laws have at all times been enforced vigorously and that even a greater effort to safeguard the children of Alabama will be made now that the federal act has been declared void.

CHILD WELFARE LAWS ASKED OF STATE

Montgomery—Legislation looking to the broadening and strengthening of the work of the State Child Welfare Department was recommended in a report submitted by a special committee also recommended legislation for the building up in every county of a modern juvenile court system and the working out of a plan whereby funds from the counties or the state or both can be used for giving specific aid to children and good mothers left destitute by death or desertion. Other recommendations for proposed legislation made by this committee, cover marriage laws, adoption, health laws, apprenticeship, compulsory education, child labor and child-caring institutions.

RECORDER MAY TRY DOCTORS.

Supreme Court Holds City Judge May Decide License Question.

Montgomery—The long fight over the right of the city recorder of of Birmingham to try persons for practising medicine in Birmingham without obtaining licenses from the state board of medical examiners ended when the supreme court held that such power is vested in the recorder.

James A. Edwards, practitioner, was arrested on a charge of practicing without a license. He was convicted and appealed to the circuit court. The circuit court held that the recorder had jurisdiction to try the case. Edwards appealed to the court of appeals, which sustained the lower court. The supreme court declined to interfere with the decision of the court of appeals.

Birmingham—Charges that President D. E. McLendon, president of the city commission, and Commissioner W. B. Cloe "shielded and protected" municipal employes in attempts to graft and that they made pre-election promises of jobs "with reckless abandon" in violation of the law, are contained in the special report of the Jefferson county grand jury, made public Friday. No indictments were returned.

Besides the two commissioners, the brunt of the grand jury's report falls on George Moore, superintendent of the street department, who is accused of attempting to extort $275 from an employe of his department. The jury recommends his immediate discharge, along with Jim Hughes and Barney Phillips, street department employes.

Other alleged deeds of the present city commission which are condemned by the grand jury are the expenditure of about $1,800 for a private toilet, the erection of garages with city labor and material on the property of Commissioner W. B. Dickson and the property of George Moore, and the use of city automobiles for private purposes.

The report also states that the lowest bid for the sale of five motor trucks to the city was disregarded for one $5,200 higher.

Daylight Saving Is Asked.

Mobile—A petition signed by about 75 clerks of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, asking that the city adopt the daylight saving plan for the summer, has been filed with the board of commissioners. A hearing will be given on the matter when arguments for and against the proposal will be heard.

State, county and city law enforcement officers are making war on Mobile gamblers.

A Statement for Fair-Minded People:

Service—Not a Commodity

Electricity must be sold as it is generated— or generated as it is sold. Until a storage battery of large capacity is perfected electricity cannot be generated and stored away for future use; consequently, electric power generated at our plants must be coincident with the demand and vary according to that demand.

The ideal system of the Power Company which serves Alabama and the territory to the west and southwest will constitute a network of transmission lines interconnecting with the power companies in Georgia and the Carolinas on the east and Tennessee on the north, extending through Memphis as far west as Little Rock, covering the states of Alabama and Mississippi and extending along the gulf coast from Pensacola to New Orleans. The Alabama Power Company is in position to best realize this ideal of public service.

Perhaps within ten years, certainly within twenty years, every industrial center within that territory will be linked together with every other industrial center, and, in fact, with every other community within a radius of hundreds of miles. They will be receiving electricity for light and power and for commercial and industrial application from the great power plants on the Coosa, Tallapoosa and Tennessee, and from plants located at the mouth of the coal mines in the Warrior coal fields. Interconnection of the great power plants now in existence, or proposed within this territory, will enable the company to take advantage of the diversity of the natural stream flow between drainage areas and also supply with the greatest economy any amount of steam power required in the territory.

Furthermore, great water powers in Alabama and adjacent states, which within themselves are otherwise would be always unserviceable to man, will be made serviceable by means of the inter-connected system. The extension of this network of lines means bringing electric power closer to the farms, and there is no question that within a short space of time a great amount of electric power will be used for drainage purposes in the swamp lands of South Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, thus converting great waste areas of fertile land into producing territory which will rival the irrigated lands of the west in productivity.

Since the Alabama Power Company came into this field of public service in 1912, it has studied the needs of the various parts of this and adjoining states with the view of developing power and bringing it to the home and the factory. The sixty-three cities and towns in Alabama now directly in touch with the lines of our company are thus insured for all time of an adequate supply of energy. Many sections of the South and Southwest are too far removed from water power to enjoy its benefits as the years pass and the price of coal advances; so will the benefits of hydro-electric service to the communities now served become the greater. Indeed, the time should come when the cities and towns which have hydro-electric power will have a great natural advantage over other sections which have none, and this fact alone will be the means of attracting industries and development

It is, therefore, a matter of grave importance to every community in Alabama and other sections of the South and Southwest for a great source of power as Muscle Shoals to be withdrawn from public service.

(This advertisement is the statement of President Thos. W. Martin of the Alabama Power Company, and published in pamphlet form, copy of which is available on request.)

"THE THORSBY TRIBUNE"

The Union-Banner is in receipt of the first copy of "The Thorsby Tribune," a new weekly newspaper which is to be published in the hustling little city of Thorsby.

We have always recognized and appreciated the "push" and progressiveness of the people of Thorsby. The people there have been reaping good results from their systematic practice of community co-operation. they have always put forth diligent efforts to establish and maintain institutions that would show to themselves and the outside world the real advantages of the Thorsby spirit. We can assure them that they have never had any one single agency in their midst that can do any more than the right kind of a local newspaper. We hope they may succeed in making "The Tribune" the reflector of the best ideals and aspirations of Thorsby through which the outside world may get a better glimpse of more and more of the wonderful advantages of living in Chilton County.

The Union-Banner has sought in the past to give proper representation in its columns to Thorsby. In return we have received a hearty measure of co-operation from the people of the town. We thank them very sincerely. The representation of Thorsby shall continue in The Union-Banner. We want our readers to know something of what is being done up there because it will be a stimulant toward better conditions if many more of our communities would grasp the "Thorsby" spirit.

U. S. NOT HINDERING

Washington, May 22.—"The want of good faith on the part of those who are conducting propaganda for the purpose of involving the United States in Europe affairs is clearly manifest when it is represented that commercial relations with Russia await the action of the United States Government, asserts the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "The United States is not at war with Russia and never has been. If any American wishes to trade with Russia as either a buyer or a seller, he is at perfect liberty to do so.

"The fact of the matter is that Russia has nothing to sell which other nations wish to buy, and Russia has no money with which to purchase goods that are for sale in other countries. The title to property in Russia is uncertain, in view of the Soviet policy of confiscation. Because of the suspension of production there is practically nothing in Russia for sale. Because the Soviet government plundered the banks and seized all the capital of men who had saved, and has printed paper rubles to such an amount that the currency is now of little value, there is no money in Russia with which to buy. Neither has Russia any credit. A nation that has once adopted the policy of repudiation and confiscation can never agai enjoy the confidence of another nation or the men of other nations until the policy of confiscation and repudiation has been reversed.

"That there were no legal restrictions upon commerce between Russia and citizens of the United States was stated by Secretary Hughes soon after his letter declining to send representatives to the Genoa Conference. He pointed out in his letter of declination that the Conference was almost purely political. In his subsequent statement he emphasized the fact that whatever economic problems remained to be solved need not wait upon the Genoa Conference so far as this nation is concerned.

"There is plenty of money in the United States seeking investment either in industry or in the securities of other governments. Money of that sort has no national prejudices. Safety of the investment and a reasonable return, are the sole considerations, and whenever the Russian Government or the industries of Russia can hold out to the capitalists of the United States or of any other nation a reasonable assurance of repayment, there will be little delay in securing all the assistance that is reasonably needed in the restoration of that harassed country, rich in resources but neglected in development."

REFUSING DUE CREDIT

In those "good old days" when the Democratic party was in power and the purse strings of the national treasury hung loose, there was nothing too good for a deserving Democrat. "Put him on the payroll," was the easiest solution of the problem of caring for a Democrat in search of an easy way of getting a living, and if the Democrat had such radical theories as to identify him with the Socialistic program, so much the better. Anyone in the government service who wanted something in his office either went out bought it and had the bill sent to the government department, or he "put in a requisition" which went through in due course and produced the goods. The Democratic administration let contracts on the "cost-plus" plan, which invited every man connected directly or indirectly with the contract to make his costs as high as possible. At the front door of the Treasury Department the slogan was "subscribe until it hurts," while at the side door, where the money was paid out, they adopted the motto of St. Vitus, "On with the dance' let joy be unconfined."

After eight years of that sort of wanton wastefulness, the people revolted and put the Republican party in power, and that party has cut expenditures, reduced taxes, dismissed needless employees, adopted a budget system, consolidated buying agencies, and put the government service on a businss basis. Nevertheless, the party that formerly betrayed the people by extravagance is now trying to betray them by misrepresentation—declaring that the Republicans have not accomplihsed the reforms above stated. They are now as prolific in the spreading of false accusations as they formerly were profligate in the spending of public money. They were dishonest with the people when in power—they are equally dishonest when out of power. They proved themselves unworthy of trust and now seek restoration to trust by demonstrating more unworthiness. They misjudge the intelligence and temper of the people now as they did during eight years of riotous rule.

HUGHES SERVES AMERICA

"A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country and in his own house" is a somewhat cynical saying of the New Testament. With respect to Secretary of State Hughes we might delete the "not." On March 8th, when he declined the invitation for the United States to participate in the Genoa conference, he replied:

"It is impossible to escape the conclusion that the proposed conference is not primarily an economic conference, as questions seem to have been excluded from consideration without the satisfactory determination of which the chief cause of economic disturbance must continue to operate, but is rather a conference of a political character in which the government of the United States could not helpfully participate.

"This government — views with the most friendly and eager interest every step taken toward the restoration of economic conditions that will permit Russia to regain her productive power, but these conditions, in the view of this government, cannot be secured until adequate action is taken on the part of those chiefly responsible for Russia's present economic disorder."

So we stayed away from Genoa. And who is there who can truthfully say that Secretary Hughes had not correctly sized up the situation or had not correctly determined in advance what the outcome would be?

In his reaffirmation of March 21 he said there could be no trade with a vacum and that so long as a system persisted in Russia which vetoed the essentialbases of production all consideration of economic revival was futile. When bolshevism is kicked out of Russia perhaps the European powers can talk business sense.

Tumulty might now write a book on "Wilson as I Didn't Know Him."

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

Health is very good and everyone is enjoying life to the fullest extent apparently.

Everybody is as busy as can be with the farm work, trying to get a few jumps ahead of the grass. If the weather continues favorable most of the farmers will be in fairly good shape so far as work in the crops go, within another week.

We were disappointed Saturday afternoon when the boys who were to tie up with the home boys, failed to show up. But our boys were not to be stuck so easy, they got together a couple of nines and played a right snappy little practice game. We are informed that the visitors are to come next Saturday and then you may look out for some real ball playing. Root, graunt, and squeal for the boys. Lets show them we are behind them.

Mr. T. L. LeCroy made a business trip to Maplesville Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Walter Lambert and James LeCroy were taking in the "sights" of Clanton and "Killgore's Gap" Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Bill Lambert has moved his saw mill to a new location near Mr. LeCroy's and will soon be ready to manufacture lumber.

Mr. J. C. Veazey has for the past few days been engaged in domg the carpenter work incident to the erection of Mr. Lambert's mill.

Mr. D. O. Manning made a business trip to Maplesville Saturday afternoon.

Mr. W. G. DeShazo spent Saturday afternoon in Clanton shopping.

Mr. D. O. Manning and family visited in the Liberty community Sunday afternoon.

Mr. "Doc" Grooms of Stumps Hills was a week-end visitor to friends and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlen Peters are the proud parents of a fine boy baby.

NOT INTERFERING

The New York World, which long endeavored to induce the United States to join the League of Nations, recently published a special dispatch from Genoa saying that "America is injecting herself into the Russian muddle at the conference." If the World would print something within the range of plausibility, it would be easy to understand the motive, but it is impossible to imagine what the World expects to gain by printing something that is so manifestly absurd.

VACATIONS IN EUROPE

Now it is announced that the Genoa conference will adjourn and all Europe take a vacation until the United States "comes in with its aid." Well, the United States is not going to take a vacation, neither is it "coming in with aid" until Europe shows more indications of doing something to help itself besides quarrel. The people of the United States are at work—most of them. They are starting up more factories, reclaiming more arid land capable of use in agriculture, developing new water powers, and restoring the neglected railways. The working people of America are in no mood to support the vacationists of Europe.

Rev. J. G. W. Bailey and wife of Minooka were visitors to Clanton on Monday.

Next Saturday, May 27th, will be observed as Children's Day at Isabella Methodist Church. Come and bring well filled baskets and lets spend the day in praising God.

Mr. Earmon Rasberry and Wallace Veazey of Pleasant Grove and Macedonia were "Fording" round these parts Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Harmon Breadhead of Sardis was a pleasant caller in this neck of the woods Sunday afternoon.

Several of the young people attended the graduating exercises at the Dallas County High School on Tuesday night and report a remarkably good time, but then, we young folks out here have a good time all the time. Come see.

Mr. Sidney Webb and family leave for Coosa County the last of the week to spend several days with relatives and friends and to attend Home Coming Services to be held at Poplar Springs, Coosa county, next Sunday.

Well, as everyone is too busy farming to do anything else, I will have to cut the "Doings" off here. Good bye till next week.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING

One of the most enthusiastic meetings in the history of Thorsby Chamber of Commerce was the "open forum" at the Congregational Church last Monday night. Something has at last been accomplished by this organization that people can see, and there were many expressions of delight and feliciation when the audience were gathered under a flood of white light from temporary lights installed in the church for the occassion, as a demonstration of officiency of the new electric light system now being installed in Thorsby by Mr. P. G. Ault, who has recently become a resident of Thorsby and is installing here an up to date electric light system for the town and residences, public buildings etc. Mr. Ault has gone about this matter in a thoroughly business like manner. He has invested his money and prepared to demonstrate to the people of Thorsby just what kind of service he can give, without asking for financial aid from the people. He has done this in good faith and we sincerely hope that his confidence shall be justified by results in patronage which will be of mutual benefit to all concerned. We might mention that the Street Lights now in use are only temporary to test the working of the plant. Much stronger lamps and better arranged will soon be installed. Mr. Ault was present at the Monday night meeting to explain his intentions and answer questions regarding costs of equipment for home uses and prices for current.

Another item of public interest announced at the meeting was the launching of a $50,000 corporation for the erection and operation of a Cotton Gin at Thorsby. Progress is being made along this line.

Still another enterprize which has been fostered by the Chamber of Commerce, was the inception of a new local paper for Thorsby under the title of "The Thorsby Tribune." Sample copies of which have been circulated during the past week which showed creditable work on the part of its promotors. Several subscribers were secured at the meeting.

THORSBY INSTITUTE NOTES

Because of the fact that the next issue of The Union-Banner will be Thursday, June 1st, which is also "Commencement Day" at Thorsby Institute we shall attempt to note all the principal events that are planned for the intervening days in order that our people may be able to make their arrangements to attend whatever is of most interest to them.

Athletics.

Thorsby Institute is initiating into its athletic activities an inter-class Class Track Meet, to be held annually on Commencement day. There will be something like fifteen of them in number, consisting of long distance runs, short sprints, running, high and broad jumps, pole vaulting, shot put, hurdle and relay races. To the class scoring the largest number of points, a silver trophy will be presented, the same to be retained by the victors until they are defeated by some other class in following meets. This Silver Trophy is being given by Thorsby Hardware Company, and is to be called "The Thorsby Hardware Trophy," in honor of the donors. Members of this company, two of whom are trustees of Thorsby Institute, are true supporters of good clean athletics, and it is an inspiration to the students of Thorsby Institute to know that there are such men in Thorsby giving their support to this phase of student life.

The Institute will soon be putting out teams that do credit to the school and town, and give the people of Thorsby and vicinity some games that are worth seeing. This meet is arousing much enthusiasm and class spirit, and it is felt that the contest is going to be a heated one. A permanent record of the best contestants in each event is to be kept posted in a public place, and these records themselves will be something to be competed for each succeeding year and will cause the annual meet to be considered more seriously.

At 10:00 a. m. Thusday, June 1st, the Tennis Club will play off the finals of the Tennis Tournament to detemine the individual champion tennis player of the Institute.

A base ball game is scheduled for 2:30 p. m. on the same day between Thorsby Institute and Calera, and promises to be an interesting game. The Institute closing its schedule with this game will have completed a successful season, taking into consideration a number of handicaps it has suffered.

Saturday, May 29th, 1922, Eight P. M. Prize Speaking Contest.

Confession, Anon; Little Boy Blue, Eugene Field; The little Quaker Sinner, Anon, Myrtle Jones; The Humoresque, Van Dyke, Jennié Robinson; selections from "The Last days of Pompeii," Bulwer, Lytton, Porter Lee Music; Highah Cultah in Dixie, Dorothy Dix, Mae Ward; Vocal Solos, Miss Agnes Leary; the new South, a speech by Henry W. Grady, Truman Pierce; the Three Hundred, Ellis Parker Butler, Thirwell Nolen; How th eGospel Came to Jim Oaks, Anon, Gresham Lowery; Over the Baluster, Anon, Mary Ella Gerald; Piano Duet, Pearl Carlson and Jennye Robinson.

Sunday, May 28th, 11:00, A. M. at The Congregational Church.

Rev. T. C. Cassiday of Birmingham, President of Alabama Methodist Protestant Conference, will preach the Baccalaureate sermon. Singing will be led by Thorsby Institute Chorus and the Senior class will be present in a body. They are as follows: Dora Caswell Bracken, Essie Mae Ward, Inga Sophia Erdahl, Jennye C. Robinson, Lula Marie Flummer, Palma Kathrine Dahl, Nels Albert Nelson, Francis Earl Leary, Alphus Chester Maddox, Leo Chester Langston, Charles Wesley Glasscock.

Examinations for The Last Term Begin Monday, May 29th.

Class Night Program, Wednesday May 31st, eight p. m., Song, by the class; Poem, Leo Langston; Prophecy, Jennye Robinson; Will Earl Leary; Class song, composed by Inga Erdahl, Piano Solo, Inga Erdahl; Reading, Mae Ward; Ideal Faculty meeting, The class.

The Class Night Program will be somewhat unique in some features, especially for those who expect to have responsibility for discipline in a school, as the class will present a Faculty Meeting as they think, from their experience, such a meeting ought to be conducted. Seniors and faculty extend to young and old a most cordial invitation.

Commencement day dinner will be on the Campus at 12 o'clock, under the auspices of The Ladies' Guild of Thorsby. All friends of the school are invited to come with full baskets as usual.

Commencement exercises, Thursday, June 8th, at eight p m., will consist of songs by the school chorus, Essay, Alabama, By Jennye C. Robinson; Essay, Prohibition, by Charles Glasscock; address by Rev. Frank Lincoln Moore of New York, Secretary of The Congregational Home Missionary Society. Presentation of Diplomas and prizes. The public is cordially invited.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their regular monthly social at the home of Mrs. A. F. Reagan, Thursday afternoon at two thirty.

Miss Bertha Littleton spent the week-end at her home in Thorsby.

Mrs. A. K. Horn spent the day Monday in Thorsby on business.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton are expecting a visit from their son, Mr. Sereno G. Norton of Kenvil, New Jersey, early in June.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION

To be Held in School District No. 4, Chilton County, Alabama.

Notice is hereby given that a special Election will be held at the regular voting place in Stanton, Alabama, in School Dilstrict No. 4, of Chilton County, Alabama, on the 12th day of June, 1922, to determine whether or not a special district tax of thirty cents on each one hundred dollars worth of taxable property shall be levied and collected annually on the taxable property of said District for the present tax year and continuing for a period of eight years. Said levy is proposed to be made for public school purposes within said District. The boundary of said District No. 4 is as follows:

Firestone CORD TIRES

The section at the right was cut from a new Cord of the same size. Careful measurements show that only 1/3 of the tread of the tire on the Yellow Cab has been worn away after this long, gruelling test. The carcass is intact after more than 11,000,000 revolutions.

Firestone Cords have averaged over 10,000 miles on Chicago Yellow Cabs (1,200 cabs all Firestone equipped). In thousands of instances, they have given from 15,000 to 30,000 miles.

Look at the tread—scientifically angled and heavy in the center where the wear comes, tapered at the edges to make steering easy and to protect the carcass against destructive hinging action of high tread edges. The carcass is air bag expanded to insure uniform tension and paralleling of every individual cord. It is double "gum dipped" to make sure that each cord is thoroughly insulated with rubber.

This is the reason why Firestone Cords unfailingly deliver extraordinary mileage. It explains the unanimous demand of thoughtful tire buyers for these values. The local Firestone dealer will continue to provide the personal service that makes Firestone tire comfort and economy complete.

LOST!

Found,—that glorious feeling that comes with a clear, pure, ruddy complexion.

250 Pimples, 736 Blackheads and 3 Boils!

No reward is offered, because they are lost forever! No question will be asked, except one question, "How did you lose them?" There is but one answer,—"I cut out new fad treatments and guesswork; I used one of the most powerful blood-cleansers, blood-purifiers and flesh-builders known, and that is S. S. S.! Now my face is pinkish, my skin clear as a rose, my cheeks are filled out and my rheumatism, too, is gone!" This will be your experience, too, if you try S. S. S. It is guaranteed to be purely vegetable in all its remarkably effective medicinal ingredients. S. S. S. means a new history for you from now on! S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

His parents and friends mourn his loss from this community and others too. We extend our heart sympathy to his dear parents and hope God will be with them through all their burdens. DELIBERATION, NOT VACILLATION

Washington, May 22.—"There is no vacillation in the Harding makeup," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "The present incumbent of the White House is deliberate in forming his opinions and is remarkably sound in the conclusions he reaches. Having reached a decision he adheres to it, unless some change in circumstances gives cause for a change in attitude. After weighing all the facts regarding the Genoa conference, Mr. Harding decided that it was not such a conference as the United States should take part in since its purposes were political rather than economic. The conference came to naught and immediately a subsequent conference was planned and an invitation cabled to the United States. On the same day of receipt of the invitation, President Harding declined it, saying that the same reasons which prompted the rejection of the former invitation are applicable now. Thus Mr. Harding strengthens the confidence the American people have manifested in his wisdom and courage."

SHOULTS

Dear Editor:

It has been quite a hard decision whether or not to send news from here as it has been some time since we have written, due to the fact that the writer has been away in school, though we feel like our space is still vacant for us.

The farmers are very busy now. They like to see the nice showers, but they make the grass grow as well as the crops. The more rain, more work. A very progressive farmer stated a few days ago, that a nice shower once a week for about three months would please him very much.

Our Sunday School is making rapid progress under the careful management of Mr. H. R. Oden as Superintendent. He is adopting new plans most every Sunday that are very helpful to the teachers and the school. He has been Superintendent of the school for several years. We feel that we could not find another that would be more competent for the place. Most all the young people of the community are regular in attendance. We wish for a larger attendance of the older people.

Miss Myrtle McAfee is back in Sunday school now, where she is much delighted in teaching the primaries. She has been in the place for more than two years, and she misses them very much when away, though she is always in Sunday school some where.

Mr. Horton Walker, who was a student of the B. C. H. S. last session is home to spend his vacation.

Mrs. John Bowden and children of Birmingham are visiting parents and grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Oden. Mrs. Bowden had an operation about three weeks ago, and has come to stay until she regains her strength.

Mr. Artemus Maness has returned from Newton, where he has been attending B. C. I.

Some were made very happy last week to receive letters from Miss Marie C. Thomas of Clanton, the primary teacher here last winter. Miss Thomas was loved and admired by all who knew her. Her work in the school was a great success. Everybody of the community, especially the children, are wishing to have her back to teach the next school.

Little Sarah Louise McAfee spent last Sunday with her cousin.

Mrs. George Hamrick and children of Stanton spent Saturday night and Sunday with relatives of this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Ellis spent Sunday with parents of Mrs. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. John Ingram.

Miss Myrtle Ingram and her brother, Willis, spent last Saturday night and Sunday with their aunt of Cox, Mrs. Margarett Lawley.

Mr. and Mrs. Colhorn Garner's baby has been very sick with erysipilas for the last two weeks. They have made several trips to see the doctor. It is now getting along nicely.

Mrs. Sallie Honey Sucker is visiting relatives of Montgomery.

Mr. F. A. Ellis, truck driver of Thompson and sons, went above Tuscaloosa Saturday to move Mr. Frank Williard and family there. Mr. Willard has been employed by W. M. Thompson and sons.

Mr. Percy Wallace spent Saturday night with Mr. Fulton Moore.

MAPLE SPRINGS SINGING

The Singing at Maple Springs last Sunday seemed to be a feast for all present. Those who were not present missed one of the best singings that has been held in this section.

The officers for the day were Mr. J. Z. Mims, Chairman, with a committee consisting of Messrs R. T. Grant, J. B. Jones, W. T. Gilliland.

Following are the directors for the day:

Messrs Ralph Grant, Ammie Boswell, Ira Grant, Maxie Boswell, Grover Gilliland, A. A. Beard, O. L. Devaughn, L. T. Grant, Archie Devaughn, Lee Grant, R. T. Grant, Louis Henderson, Jesse Jones, J. A. W. Mims, and Luther Little

Organists were Messrs Ammite Boswell, Ralph Grant, Lee Grant, A. A. Beard, Misses Letha Mims, Beatrice Little and Mrs. C. B. Norrell.

The eleven o'clock hour was occupied by Rev. Dykes, who delivered a wonderful sermon. The people were given many good warnings which will not be forgotten soon.

Will take pleasure to thank you, Editor, for your kindness to grant this space in your paper.

C. D. HUGHES, Sec'y.

COMMISSIONERS CONSIDERING ROAD TO COOSA COUNTY

The court of County Commissioners of Chilton County were in session Tuesday of this week considering the proposition of a road to Coosa County for a permanent route after the back water comes up from Mitchell Dam.

The back water will obstruct all the roads which now connect Chilton and Coosa counties, and put all the old ferries out of commission. The proposition now under consideration is to designate and establish a road and a ferry some where between Lock 12 and Mitchell Dam that can be used permanently in future years.

On Tuesday the members of the Commissioners Court in company with Capt. Lay and other Power Company officials, went over all the roads and territory in the scope of the back water area. The court has decided to call a meeting of all citizens of the county who are interested in this matter to be held at the Court House on June 14, and they request a good attendance at this meeting. It is the purpose of the Commissioners to select the best route possible for this road, and they want to hear the ideas and opinions of all citizens who may be able to shed any light on the proposition. The Alabama Power Company also manifests an interest in the proposition.

BURGLARS ENTER STORE AT COOPERS

The store of the Cooper Produce Co., at Coopers was entered by burglars Monday night. Almost everything in the store was either carried away or demolished. The owners of the store, Mr. DeLoach at Coopers and Tom Taylor and Jesse Baker at Clanton, with county officers and blood hounds from Spigeners, got on trail of the thieves Tuesday morning and located the goods where they had been hidden in a swamp. It is believed that the parties who stole the goods from the store can readily be found from the clues which the officers obtained Tuesday.

This is the third store robbery that has occurred at Coopers recently.

THE JUDGMENT

This was the subject considered by Mr. Mitchell at the Adventist Tabernacle, last Sunday night. There seems to be considerable interest in the manner in which Mr. Mitchell is dealing with the subject started with three weeks ago, viz. The Sanctuary. Last night's subject of The Judgment was considered from the viewpoint of the ancient Sanctuary service, and if the increasing attendance at these meetigs is a barometer of the interest of the Clanton people, it is certainly sure to increase rather than decrease, for next Sunday night, at 8 p. m., Mr. Mitchell will consider the topic of "The Law and the Gospel."

Dealing with the ancient Sanctuary service, and reading Heb. 8:5, Mr. Mitchell went on to show that in the old service, the Israelites were aware of the time for the Day of Atonement, or a day of Judgment. So then, if the ancient service was a shadow of the Heavenly service, we may know when the great day of atonement, or Day of Judgment, of the true Sanctuary in Heaven is near at hand. This is a reasonable conclusion, and there in Hebrews 8 and 9, and in Exodus 25 and Leviticus 16 we have Biblical proof.

Showing that from the Scriptures we have reason to believe that we are now living in the great antitypical Day of Atonement, Mr. Mitchell made a strong appeal that every citizen of Clanton "make his calling and election sure," that we employ "the Advocate in Heaven," Christ, the Savior of mankind.

Next Sunday night at 8 p. m. Mr. Mitchell will explain the relation of the Law to the Gospel. Every reader of the Banner is extended a cordial invitation to attend these services. Special Music will be rendered.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which griped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive."

Costs a Little More

Gilster's Best is not a cheap flour. It is a quality product, made for those who know and appreciate finer flour. It costs more to manufacture, and sells for a few cents more than cheaper flours.

But the delicious flavor, the dependability of your baking, and the fact that Gilster's Best requires less lard more than make up for the slight difference in cost.

If you prefer a self-rising flour—Gilster's Featherlite or Gilster's Mother's Joy.

REFUGE

Our Sunday School is still moving along. Owing to the annual singing at Providence next Sunday, we will not have Sunday School here. But we will have prayer meeting at early candle light on Sunday night.

There is some talk of an all-day singing here the second Sunday in June. Definite announcemet will be made later.

Capt. W. P. Lay of Gadsden is spending a few days in Clanton this week.

SHILOH

Dear Editor:

Please grant space for a little chat from this place.

Mr. Green seems to be enjoying himself since so much rain and warm weather. He is looking fine. It has been all rest but now it is all work and no rest.

Our Singing Society met last Sunday at the usual hour and was opened by the chairman, with prayer. Miss Alice Dobbs and Miss Lena Billingsley were appointed the arranging committee to arrange the program. Directors for the session were as follows:

F. I. Popwell, N. S. Deason, T. W. Billingsley, Mrs. A. E. Billingsley, Miss Alice Dobbs and Miss Maggie Traywick. All directed two songs each. Organist for the evening was Mr. George Anderson. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves. We are glad to see so many young people taking part in the song service. It is one of God's given talents to mingle our voices in singing praises. The Society closed to meet next first Sunday evening at 3:00 p. m. We cordially invite one and all, young and old, to come and help in our Sunday School and song services.

We feel sad to state that the death angel visited the home of Mr. John Mims on last Sunday evening and called from their midst their darling son, Vernon, who had been in bad health for some time with consumption. Weep not dear father and mother, friends and loved ones, God does all things best and bids his loved ones to rest. So strive to meet Vernon over yonder where the week cease from troubling and the weary be at rest.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT FRIENDSHIP

In Addition to Singing on the Fourth Sunday P.M. In June.

There has been prepared for the afternoon of the Fourth Sunday in June, at Friendship Baptist Church, a special program, which will include not only singing led by any directors who may be present, but also some important talks on vital subjects by able speakers. The following is the arrangement of the program:

Singing, opened at 1:00, by W. O. Rich singing two songs. Short lessons, by other directors, who may be present.

2:30, Subject, "The Relation that Music has to the Church Work," by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

3:05, "The Leading Sins of the Day," by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

3:40, "What a Church means to a Community," by Rev. M. J. Parrish.

4:05, "Advantages in Advancing the Cause of Christ now as Compared with Forty Years Ago," by Rev. S. M. Adams.

4:40, "The Indebtedness of a Community to Church," by Rev. E. A. Norris.

Each speaker will have twenty minutes to discuss his subject, which will allow fifteen minutes between each address to be devoted to singing, by different leaders who may be present.

We feel that a varied program of this kind will be a great help to our church, as well as the singing society, and everybody is urgently invited to come and take part with us.

The subjects that have been selected are very important ones, and the men who are to handle them are in every way capable of their tasks.

Leaders of music are urged to come as we hope to be able to place all who are present on the program for a short lesson.

CLANTON'S LOSS IS MOBILE'S GAIN

Weep Not, Dear Friends of Church and City.

"He came, he saw, he conquered," and now he has gone on to another field seeking new strongholds of the devil which he may assail, and erect thereon the glowing banner of victory for his Lord and Master, Jesus Christ. We refer to none other than Rev. P. G. Carter, the inimitable pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church, who rendered his farewell to Clanton last Sunday night.

In spite of the inclemency of the weather a good congregation was out at the services. All the churches of the city united in the event. The Rev. D. M. Pearson of the Methodist Church, was present and made some kindly remarks in regard to the esteem in which the Rev. Carter was held by his people and by himself.

The subject chosen by Rev. Carter for his farewell message was based on the text "Ye shall know the Truth, and the Truth shall make you free." The discourse was a defense of the policy adopted in the preaching of the truth as followed during his pastorate.

We can say to the credit of Rev. Carter that there has never been in our time a more earnest and zealous citizen and pastor in our city. He is a born hustler and his zeal for work is nothing less than his highest and purest delight. His methods did not pelase everybody, but he worked right on just the same. You could knock him down, but he wouldn't stay down.

With all his shortcomings, we believe he has done a great measure of good here. That he will be missed in Clanton goes without saying.

He left this week to take up his new work in Mobile. We wish him success in his new field, and we expect soon to see the announcement flash forth from the South that Carter has chained the devil hard and fast and cast him in the middle of the Gulf of Mexico.

AUTAUGAVILLE

Mrs. Susie Hard of Autaugaville motored to Prattville and was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Bob Williams.

Miss Vera Vardaman of Notasulga was the guest of Miss Agnes Robinson of Autaugavile.

Mrs. Clifford Kent motored to Wetumpka, and was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Blackmon.

The many friends of Mr. J. B. Gray of this place will be glad to learn that he is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Sessions of Collins Chapel were visitors to Clanton Monday.

OUR POST OFFICE ALL DRESSED UP

Doesn't Look Like it Had Been Through A Fire.

You wouldn't think the Clanton Post Office had ever been charred and smoked and water soaked in a fire which gutted the whole building, if you judged from the appearance of the lobby now. Everything is all dressed up in its Sunday-go-to meetin' clothes, and presents a fancy appearance.

The whole aspect is a credit to the fine workmanship of Mr. C. R. Waters. New cabinet work has been made to take the place of those sections that were burned, and over all is a new coat of varnish that touches the entire arrangement into complete harmony.

Postmaster Wiley is making every effort to [illegible] office up to the high[illegible] both in its outward[illegible], as well as in the [illegible] important matter of service to the patrons.

Mayes, the owner of the building is to be commended for the interest he has taken in making the place the most appropriate and convenient that it is possible to do.

Dept. of Archives and History, Thos. M. Owen, Director.

MULE KILLED BY LIGHTNING

About noon last Saturday, as a hard rain was descending upon the city, a sudden and somewhat unexpected bolt of lightning flashed from the clouds, striking a tree in the hitching ground just north of Mrs. Heath's home. A mule which was hitched to the tree was killed instantly. The mule was owned by Mrs. Jeff Williams of the western part of the County.

We understand that the good citiens of the county pitched in together and bought the lady another mule.

BENNETT PREACH HERE SUNDAY

We are requested to make announcement that Rev. S. H. Bennett of Montgomery will occupy the pulpit at the Clanton Baptist Church at the eleven o'clock hour next Sunday morning. At the morning service announcement will be made as to the evening service.

The public is invited to attend this service.

BASEBALL GAME HERE FRIDAY

There will be a baseball game on the Clanton diamond to-morrow, (Friday) between the Clanton boys and the team of the Montgomery Baraca Class. A good attendance is expected, as the game promises to be a good one.

POOR ORIGINAL BLEED THROUGH

JUDGE REYNOLDS RESENTS UNJUST CRITICISM OF THE COUNTY COURT

Judge Reynolds is somewhat incensed, and we believe rightly so, over what seems to be an effort by disinterested, irresponsible and designing parties to criticise and maybe seek to influence the decisions which he makes in the trial of cases in the County Court. The point in question has arisen out of his disposition of the case of J.T. Morris, Mitchel Dam, in which it was alleged that Morris got drunk on May 14 and treated some parties rather violently.

The alleged facts in the case, as well as the true facts as presented in the Court, are set forth in some correspondence that has been exchanged between Judge Reynolds and Mr. Dowdle at Mitchell Dam and Governor Kilby, to whom Mr. Dowdle appealed in the matter.

There is also another feature about the correspondence that will be noted with interest, to-wit: The attitude that Judge Reynolds manifests toward those who would attempt to criticize his acts in the Court, or essay to dictate to him how he should conduct cases and administer punishment or fines. It does not please Judge Reynolds for anybody to criticize his official acts upon the strength of pure misrepresentatons and mistatement of the facts, and when ever they do it, be they high or low, they always meet with a stubborn resistance from him when they try to pull such stuff.

Dowdle's Letter.

Mr. Dowdle seems to have known a great deal about the Morris case, and not feeling like Judge Reynolds did the matter right, he proceeded to tell Governor Kilby just wherein the County Court up here was failing in its duty. Fllowing is his letter to Governor Kilby:

"Verbena, Ala., May 17, '22.
Gov. Thos. E. Kilby,
Montgomery, Ala.
Dear Sir:

May I have a few minutes more of your time by relating one more of the incidents happening here in our little place?

On last Sunday, May 14, one of the whiskey heads in this place became well intoxicated, went in a little Greek restaurant, making several threats that he would kill every one in there. He made a jump at the proprietor with a long knife, running him through his building out of the back. Mr. F. A. Ghlledge of Verbena was there at the time and made a jump to act as peace maker, so he immediately turned on him, bruising him in several places. By this time our officer arrived, and with quite a little difficulty arrested him, placing four charges against him namely, public drunkenness, disorderly conduct, assault and attempt to murder, abusive language and resisting the officer. He was carried to Clanton jail, where on Monday, May 15 he plead guilty to all four charges and was fined $10.00 and given thirty days, but the time was suspended. so he paid the $10.00 and is back here to cause more trouble, according to his threats.

Is it possible that the laws of our good country will let a man off with four charges against him like these for $10.00? I am a Master Mason, and my membership is at Fairview No. 644, Burmingham, Ala., and consider myself a law-abiding citizen; and I would be glad to know if our laws of today are gonig to be handled this way.

I did not see this occurrence on last Sunday, but was told by several who did see it.

I want to thank you very much. I only want to find out the enforcement of the laws in this county.

Thanking you very much, I am,
Yours truly,
W. T. DOWDLE."

Governor Kilby's Letter.

Upon receipt of the foregoing letter of Mr. Dowdle, Governor Kilby sent it to Judge Reynolds with the following letter of his own:

"Montgomery, Ala., May 20, 1922.
Judge L. H. Reynolds,
Clanton, Ala.
Dear Judge Reynolds:

Enclosed I hand you letter of W. T. Dowdle, dated Verbena, Alabama, May 17th, concerning a case in which the punishment does not appear to have been sufficient for the offense committed—that is, if the facts are correctly stated. I presume the case was handled by your court. If so, kindly advise me all the circumstances as disclosed by the evidence.

Yours very truly,
THOS. E. KILBY,
Governor."

Judge Reynolds' Reply.

When Judge Reynolds received the Governor's letter with enclosure of the Dowdle letter, he at once wrote to both Mr. Dowdle and the Governor, in which he left no doubt as to the way he felt in the matter. His letters will explain themselves.

Following is a letter to Mr. Dowdle:

"Clanton, Ala., May 22, 1922.
Mr. W. T. Dowdell,
Verbena, Ala.
Dear Sir:

Governor Kilby has just sent me the letter which you wrote him May 17th, 1922, in referennce to the cases which were in my Court against W. T. Morris.

I notice that you state in your letter that there were four charges against Mr. Morris, namely: Public Drunkenness, disorderly conduct assault with intent to murder, abusive language and resisting an officer. You say that he plead guilty to all charges and was fined $10.00, and is now back down there to cause more trouble.

The above is not true, and the facts are not as you have stated them. J. T. Morris was charged with Assault and Battery, case No. 2288, in this case I fined him $10.00 and cost. He was also charged with public drunkenness, case No. 2289, and was fined $25.00 and cost in this case, the total cost and fines in both cases amounting to $87.20, and these two were the only charges against him.

It was my intention to give this man 30 days hard labor, but Mr. Mitchell, who said that Mr. Morris worked under him, and Mr. J. M. Mahan, who is a good citizen of our county, who also works at Mitchell Dam, said that Mr. Morris is a splendid citizen, and his only fault was occasionally he would drink too much whiskey, and while I have never in my life touched a drop of whiskey, I sometimes sympathize with a poor unfortunate man who gets drunk, for you know it is not only a fact that some of our private citizens take too much but sometimes some of our public officials are charged with getting too much.

Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Mahan further stated that Mr. Morris had an invalid wife who was almost eaten up with a cancer, and that he had some small children who were entirely dependent upon his labor for their support, and for a long time he had kept his wife in a hospital for treatment and had taken good care of her. After considering all the facts in the cases, I decided that the above punishment was sufficient.

Mr. Morris was not charged with assault with intent to murder, and if he had been, I could not have assessed a fine against him, for I have no jurisdiction in a case of this kind.

There was no evidence before my Court that Mr. Morris had a knife or used any kind of a weapon. I had a long letter from Mr. F. A. Gulledge explaining the case, and he did not mention a knife, or state that a weapon of any kind was used, but on the other hand Mr. Morris had several wounds on his head and face that he received.

I will state to you that I make decisions in my Court on what I consider law and justice, after I hear the evidence that comes before me, and I am always glad to hear any citizen in the interest of justice and right, but it has never been my policy to let any one dictate the decisions of my Court, though they may think they are ever so important or may represent some great corporation, or hold any other high position.

I always try to use common sense, apply the law and evidence and decide according to the dictates of my own conscience, regardless of whom it pleases or displeases.

If you are going to run the County Court in this County, I suggest that you be at the Courthouse here on the first Monday in each month and then you will be in better position to state the facts and not make false reports.

You state in your letter that you are a Master Mason. I will say for your benefit that I am a Thirty-second Degree Mason, and a Shriner, but I do not run my Courts on Masonry, but any person, even though he be a poor man who is unable to be a Mason, or even if he be some negro, can obtain justice in my Court.

If there is any further information that you desire about these cases or any other matter in my Court, I shall be glad to inform you.

Yours very truly,
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

P.S.—I notice from your letter that you hail from Jefferson County. It may be the custon there for the Judges to report to you and explain their decision, but I have examined the Statute and do not find the law that requires me to explain the decision of my Court, and I am only writing you out of the high regards I have for our Governor.

L. H. R."

Copy to Kilby.

A copy of the letter to Mr. Dowdle was enclosed by Judge Reynolds with the following letter to the Governor:

"Clanton, Ala., May 22, 1922.
Hon. Thos. E. Kilby,
Montgomery, Ala.
Dear sir:

Enclosed find copy of letter which I am writing W. T. Dowdle of Verbent, in reference to the Morris cases.

I appreciate your letter and the information contained therein.

I am always glad to have any suggestion from you or any of the other State Officials, in regord to my office, but will say that I feel like I am responsible for the decisions of my Court and I try to make them according to law, the evidence and what I consider is right, whether it pleases the public or not.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS."

Kilby's Congratulations.

The above correspondence was terminated by a letter from Governor Kilby to Judge Reynolds, congratulating him upon the stand he took in the matter. The letter of the Governor is as follows:

"Montgomery, Ala., May 25, 1922.
Hon. L. H. Reynolds,
Clanton, Ala.,
Dear Judge:

Your letter of May 22nd, with enclosure of copy of your letter to W. T. Dowdle of Verbena, May 22nd, is received. I congratulate you upon the splendid answer you gave Mr. Dowdle to his false charges. I fancy he will take a second thought next time before making statements which he cannot substantiate.

Yours very truly,
THOS. E. KILBY,
Governor."

We do not know what may be the motives behind those who would raise such a question about the judicial acts of Judge Reynolds. But it is an admirable fact that they have not caused much fright in the mind of the man they are seeking to discredit. We commend the Judge for the brave stand he has taken and for the firm answer he made to Mr. Dowdle. We are glad to publish the correspondence in order that the public may know all the facts in regard to the matter.

Rev. P. G. Carter left Clanton on Tuesday night for Mobile where he goes to take charge of a Baptist Church.

Foreign Labor Aids Its Products.

Washington, May 30 — "Democratic leaders in the Senate who are directing a filibuster against the Republican tariff bill profess deep concern for the welfare of the American consumer," remarks the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "In their great solicitude they are willing to sacrifice the American producer. They want a tariff bill drawn along lines as to encourage the importation of the products of foreign countries so that the American consumer may be able to buy more cheaply. In their zeal in behalf of the foreign producer and the American consumer they betray themselves by some very noticeable inconsistencies.

"Recently one of these Democratic leaders charged that the State of Connecticut had become prosperous under a protestive tariff law. Republican Senators gladly admitted that this was true, whereupon the Democratic speaker changed his attitude by asserting that this prosperity had been made possible by the importation of cheap foreign labor. Now let us see where that assertion leads him and his party.

"If it be true that cheap foreign labor comes to this coutry, it comes because it can get better wages here than it does in Europe. It comes not only because it can get better wages but because it can buy more of the necessities and comforts of life with a day's wages in this country than in Europe. If that labor should remain in Europe and be there employed in the production of goods, the goods produced with that labor at wages cheaper than the same labor would receive in America would, under a Democratic tariff law, be shipped to the United States without the imposition of a protective duty. That being true, the American laborer would not be freed from the competition of the cheap labor; he would be in competition with that cheap labor while working in Europe instead of the same labor at far higher wages in the United States. Manifestly it is better for American labor to compete with the higher paid labor in the United States than to compete with that same labor at lower wages in Europe.

"The Republican policy is absolutely consistent. The Republicans passed and still maintain an immigration restriction law. They not only propose to restrict importation of labor of Europe but also restrict the importation of products of that cheap labor by the imposition of a protective tariff.

"Professed concern for the welfare of the American consumer is manifestly insincere, for no man can be a consumer uless he is first a producer earing the money with which to buy the goods he consumes. The Republican policy is to give employment for all who desire it at wage which will permit the maintenance of an american standard of living. While it is not impossible that this aim shall be attained in every individual instance the records demonstrate that in an immense majority of cases the American laborer is better fed, better clothed, and better housed when American industry has benefit of a potective tariff than when we are operating under free trade.

"The prosperity we enjoyed during the war, when freign imports were limited and when our export market was greatly extended, merely confirms this fact, for the Democratic free trade law was practically suspended in its operation during that period."

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since . . . I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too.

EXECUTIVE COMM. UNITY & CHILTON

Meeting at Clanton Baptist Church, Monday, May 29.

The meeting of the Executive Committee of the Unity and Chilton County Baptist Associations, which was held at the Clanton Baptist Church last Monday, proved to be one of the most enthusiastic gatherings of church workers that has been held in a long time. It was a meeting of thorough religious enthusiasm, and a great manifestation of the spirit of God in the hearts of workers in His Kingdom was in evidence.

The attendance included members of the Executive Committee of the two associations and also a large number of delegates from churches, and pastors and workers who are vitally interested in the advancement of the cause of Christ.

The following ministers were in attendance: T. J. Deason, W. A. Goss, W. W. Ribinson, W. P. Lowery, M. J. Parrish, S. M. Adams, B. F. Dykes, E. A. Norris, S. H. Bennett, Buford Lawrence, G. G. Williams.

Delegates from the Unity Association were: W. I. Mullins, J. M. Parrish, Rev. M. J. Parrish, Rev. W. A. Goss, W. T. Johnson, Rev. E. A. Norris, Rev. G. G. Williams, Rev. W. W. Robinson, J.L. Robinson, Mrs. H. Kendrick, Miss Geneva Goss.

Delegates from the Chilton County Association were: W. J. Billingsley, Rev. W. P. Lowery, Rev. B. Lawrence, Rev. B. F. Dykes, W. W. Hand, Mrs. W. W. Hand, Miss Omie Hand, Mrs. Amie Robinson, Miss Alice Wyatt, W. O. Rich, J. D. Collins, T. A. Maddox, W. C. Martin, Rev. T. J. Deason, W.W. Deason, M. S. Deason, J. M. Mims, Henry Harris, R. L. Williams, W. G. Sessions.

The meeting was opened at ten o'clock with song and prayer by Rev. M. J. Parrish. Rev. W. P. Lowery was elected Chairman of the meeting and Rev. W. A. Goss secretary. Upon completion of the organization, the enrollment of the delegates was made.

An address was delivered by Rev. S. H. Bennett in which he spoke for one hour. He outlined plan whereby a great revival of religion and the savnig of lost souls might be accomplished through a season of earnest devotion and prayer by the Christian people of the two associations. His address was closed by a prayer.

Following the address of Brother Bennett, short talks were made by Revs. Adams, Dykes, Norris and Lowery.

The meeting was dismissed for dinner with prayer by the Chairman Rev. Lowery. The ladies of Clanton did themselves much honor by the splendid dinner which they served the visitors, and the hospitality that they showed in entertaining the meeting.

After the meeting was reopened with song and prayer byRev. Buford Lawrence, short doctrinal talks were made by Revs. Adams, Bennett, Lawrence and Lowery. Rev. G. G. Williams made a talk on denominational education, in which he urged Baptist people to send their boys and girls to Baptist Colleges.

The discussions continued further with talks on a plan for a church census in the two associations to determine the status of the people as to church membership etc. This mat ter was ably spoken of by E. A. Norris, W. I. Mullins, S. H. Bennett, T. J. Deason.

A motion was made and adopted providing for the appointment of a key man in each association to conduct the census. W. I. Mullins was elected key man for the Unity Association, and W. O. Rich for the Chilton County Association. These men will have direction of this work. All clerks and deacons of the various churches of the two associations are urged to write their key man at once for instructions as to how to proceed with this census. The required number of cards will be furnished upon request to the key men, together with a full explanation of the plans and purposes of the census. It is planned to have the campaign completed by all the churches by July the first, at which time the revival meetings will begin.

Before adjournment a resolution was adopted thanking the ladies of Clanton for their kindness in entertaining the delegates.

SUPREME COURT INVALIDATES LAW

STATUTE AIMED AT HIGH PRICE MAKERS IS DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

CREAM INDUSTRY GROWING

Anniston Merchants To Grant Full Holiday—Many will Attend Training Camp—Veterans Refuse Proposal.

Montgomery—The Alabama Anti-Profiteering law is unconstitutional and void, according to a decision by the Alabama Supreme Court, which held that:

"The act so far as it relates to the prevention and punishment of profiteering as defined in Section 2 is a clear abuse of the police power and is offensive to the declarations and guarantees of our bill of rights and also to the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution." The opinion states in conclusion:

"We hold it to that extent unconstitutional and void."

The case in which this decision was rendered originated in Jefferson County and involved the alleged sale or offering for sale of a pair of silk hose by a Birmingham merchant. The appeal from the judgment of the Jefferson Circuit Court which held the act unconstitutional was originally taken to the court of appeals. A constitutional point being involved in the case, however, it was certified to the supreme court for that body's opinion. This opinion will in turn be certified to the court of appeals.

BUTTER INCOME $7,541.31

27,290 Pounds of Product Turned Out At Auburn.

Auburn—During the last year the college located here received 23,731.9 pounds of butterfat, which was churned into 27,290 pounds of butter, according to the annual report recently compiled by Prof. W. H. Eaton, manager of the creamery. A total of $7,541.31 was paid for butterfat during the year.

The college creamery serves 40 patrons, most of whom live in Lee County, but a few live in Macon and Chambers counties. Throughout the year Chicago prices were paid for butterfat.

Aside from its regular operations this creamery serves as a laboratory for the training of students in dairying, provided a local market for the surplus cream produced by the farmers in the surrounding territory and endeavors to build up the dairy business throughout Alabama.

In his report Prof. Eaton calls attention to the fact that the Auburn creamery was the first established in Alabama, which was done early in 1914, and that there are now 21 creameries in the state, which made approximately 4,000,000 pounds of butter in 1921. Prior to 1914 there were no commercial dairying in Alabama.

CREAM INDUSTRY IN CLEBURNE DEVELOPED

Fruithurst — Cleburne County is breaking away from the one crop system. Cream is now being shipped from Fruithurst, Heflin and Muscadine Stations on the Southern Railway. The first 5-gallon shipment was made from Fruithurst May 7, a year ago. Now 125 gallons per week is being shipped from this point and 175 gallons from the county. This cream is being shipped to Anniston creameries.

MOBILE'S BUSINESS WOMEN PLAN RECREATION CAMP

Mobile—A health and recreation camp for women, similar to those held in the mountains of North Carolina and other sections of the country will be conducted at Pine Needles, the Summer clubhouse of the Mobile Business Women's Club on the eastern shore of Mobile Bay, it has just been decided by the club. The camp will last for two weeks and will be similar to those held in other sections of the country, a special program of recreation, exercise and rest being carried out.

Merchants Abandon Half Holiday.

Anniston—The local retail stores will be kept open on Thursday afternoons and employes given a full holiday with pay every two weeks on another day, it was decided at a meeting of the Retail Merchants Association.

Farmers Planting Crops.

Hartselle—Entering the second week of pretty farming weather the farmers are industriously engaged in planting their crops. With the present week fair, much of the crop can be planted. The low lands intended for corn are still unbroken, but these can be gotten into during this week and good progress made on planting them also. Cotton is being chopped and under the influence of abundant sunshine the plant is growing.

Our New Linotype.

It is not our custom ordinarily to make any apologies for our paper. The Union-Banner is in the habit of doing the best we can every week and then take the consequences without complaining.

This week we have been engaged in the task of taking down our old Model 15 Linotype and putting in a new Model 8. To make this change and also get out the paper has been quite a job for one week, and we feel like saying to our readers that if you find any shortcomings in this issue of the paper, we ask you to be easy with the criticism, and give us a chance to redeem ourselves next week.

Our new machine is already in operation. It is a great improvement over the old one, and we hope to be able to show it to our friends who may call to see us, and also to tell our readers something about it in next week's paper.

The One-Party Argument.

When you hear a fellow spouting forth the puerile argument that a one-party rule of the affairs of government is productive of the best results to the people, ask him which one of the parties he thinks should rule, and he will invariably reply, the Democrats.

To hear a man say that his political party is the sole and only salvation for the people is like the fallacy that some people advance to the effect that their particular religion is the only salvation for the soul.

Any political party could render a just and equitable administration of the affairs of government if it would go about the job in the right way. But all of them will not be right all the time.

Hence, the reason why we should have more than one party. When one party goes wrong the people can bring judgment and condemnation upon it by intrusting their affairs to another party that will do the right thing.

We do not see how a Democrat in Alabama can contend that a rule by his party to the exclusion of all others, is best for the people, in the face of the miserable mess that party has been making in this state year in and year out for the past half a century.

Those states of our glorious Union which have gotten the most out of their government in the past are the ones which have exercised political independence. When one party failed to take care of their interests they voted for the other party.

As an instance of this, some of the Western states voted Democratic in 1912, because they had failed to see where their interests would be served by the Republicans. For a term they got what they wanted out of Wilson's administration. But then the Democrats got lazy again and neglected their charge; so in 1920 those states went Republican again, and now they are getting all the attion they demand.

If one-party government were the better plan, don't you know that this country would have adopted it before now? That one-party argument is bunk from start to finish. The only fellow who would argue it is the fellow who wants his own party to be the ONE party.

A Political Utopia.

It could be possible by divine direction (not human administration) that one political party given uninterrupted and ever lasting control of a county, state or nation, would render a just and equitable management of affairs. But to think of such a thing being possible on this vale of tears is stretching the imagination entirely too far to attract the practical mind.

We have had the one-party mess in Alabama since the Civil War, and even Democrats who profess to have any conscience at all will admit that the system has been a failure in many ways.

Well, why has there not been a change? you may ask. The reconstruction prejudices have been strong enough to hold the people in bondage. But not all of them have stood hitched when the bloody shirt was waved. There were over seventy-seven thousand men and women in Alabama who saw the error of their one-party way and voted for Reynolds, Republican, against Underwood, Democrat, in 1920.

Just as long as people listen to the one-party argument of the Democrats, just that long will we have a government of no good effect in Alabama. Thanks to the intelligence of the good people of Chilton County, they are not to be classed among the one-party crowd. Long ago they broke away from that fallacy. And it will take somebody with a slicker tongue than has yet appeared to fool them back into it again.

We have Kept the Faith

The New York World, published in America and supported by good America and supported by good American coin, prints a cartoon which represents Uncle Sam as "still sulking in his tent." Sulking, eh? The only sulking we did was during the period when the World was helping Woodrow Wilson gain re-election on the plea that he "kept us out of war." The election over, we soon entered the conflict, sent 2,000,000 men over seas and trained 2,000,000 more ready to go. We raised $26,000,000,000 by bond issues and taxation, ate corn meal in order to send wheat flour to Europeans who refused to eat corn meal, stinted clothes, loaned ten billion dollars clothes, loaned ten billion dollars to the Allies, sacrificed our boys on every battle line on the Western front, and paid European countries for every bit of damage we did to any class of property, even in some cases paying for damage that was purely imaginary. Since the war we have continued paying interest on the debt Europe owes us, we have sent ship loads of food and clothing to Russia, we have extended some six to eight billion dollars of additional credit to other nations, and have given every creditor all the time he asked. We have done everything Europe asked us to do except make the supreme sacrifice of American independence and American traditions.

There will be no Reversal.

With an air of telling something new and important, the internationalists proclaim that the United States "has not closed the door on Russia." Of course not. But it has closed and locked the door on recognition of a government that practicts repudiation and confiscation. It has also closed and locked the door on interference with the political affairs of Europe. The internationalists, by their assertion that the door has not been closed, seek to create the impression that the Harding administration stands ready on slight pretext, to reverse its policy of upholding America's traditional avoidance of European entanglements. They grasp at any straw that seems t offer the least encouragement to hope that they may be able to cause the United States to make the "supreme sacrifice" advocated by Mr. Wilson. Mr. Harding was elected on the issue of keeping out of Europe, he has reiterated his stand on that subject, and there is no chance whatever that he will change his mind. The internationalists might as well reconcile themselves to the inveiable and turn their attention to the restoration of America to normal.

Rouse Yourselves

The activity of those who are trying to induce the United States to take upon itself the troubles of Europe ought to be effective in arousing those unhyphenated Americans who believe that the United States will have enough to do to mind its own business.

Fawncy Meetin$ You.

Lady Astor has no sense of humor. On her visit to the White House she twitted Secretary Christian because of his leaving the Democratic party and becoming a Republican. She called him a "renegade." But Lady Astor left the United States and became a British subject. What's the word?

One Party—Which?

We heard a fellow say the other day that the two-party argument is the most absurd political argument ever used in a campaign. He went on to say that one party was enough. The next day we saw him and he was going up and down the street with his hat off shouting "Vote the Democratic ticket and be Happy." Yes, his kind are satisfied with one-party rule, provided of course, that it is the Democratic party that is ruling.

GOD'S STANDARD IN THE JUDGMENT

This was the subject of the sermon at the Tabernacle, on Second Avenue South, last Sunday night. The bad weather and other town attractions were not considered hinderances by the interested Clanton folk, and as Mr. Mitchell carries the subjects out in harmony with the Sanctuary question, many others will also be attracted.

Bringing to view the Antitypical Day of Atonement, and showing that it was a fulfilment of the Type, (Heb. 8:5) Mr. Mitchell read Acts 17:31 as his text, "Because he hath Appointed a Day in the which he will Judge the world in righteousness, by that Man whom he hath ordained, whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised Him from the dead."

Then reading I Peter 2:21, "For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also sufered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow in His steps," Mr. Mitchell went on to show that if the Lord was to judge us by Jesus Christ (which He said was going to do, in Acts 17:31) then we should be living up to the standard that Christ lived up to. And, the text in I Peter would convey this thought to our minds. Also, the promses of life and reward were to those who overcome sin and the Devil. According to John in Rev. 22:12 and 14, this class are those who kept His commandments.

Reading John 15:10, Christ kept the commandments, and Eccl. 12:13 14, commandments are the "whole duty of man." This being true, we today, if we follow in the footsteps of the Savior, will endeavor to keep the ten commandments, as they are rules by which we will be judged in the great day of Judgment.

Next Sunday night, at 8 p.m., Mr. Mitchell will preach on the subject, "Should Christians Keep the Sabbath?" Special music. Song service before the preaching.

Mr. Will Reynolds has bought a large tract of timber land near Tuskeegee, and has already begun the operation of a saw mill there.

Mr. C. T. Walker of Lawley was here Thursday attending the meeting of the Court of County Commissioners.

Wm. R. Baker Writes More About Politics

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few things in regard to the situation in this county as I see it.

Politics are getting a little hot in this section. The people are beginning to understand the situation. There is a great deal of discussion in regard to the School Board recently. Mr. J. H. Jackson in his letter a few weeks ago caused the people to begin to think. However, many of the people doubted that the School Board had actually passed a ruling prohibiting the holding of religious services in the school houses in this county until last week when Mr. H. L. Foshee, the County Superintendent of Education and Clerk of the School Board came out in a piece and said that they had made such a ruling. I want to ask the question is it fair and right that the people of the county cannot have any say so in regard to the school houses that they have built? I do not believe that the County Board of Education has any right to say that the people that put their money in the building of the houses cannot use them for religious worship without first obtaining a permit from the School Board. According to the order they passed you can use the school houses for any purpose except religious worship. Since when has religious worship been restricted in this country? Should a man die out in the country somewhere and his neighbors carry his body to some school they would violate that order. The Superintendent leaves the impression that this order was made to prohibit just one class. But has the County Board of Education the right to say how any man should worship God, or what religion he should profess?

I, for one, believe that it is time for the people of this county to wake up. The time has come when the common people cannot legally elect their own teachers. They have absolutely no control over their schools. I believe that it takes longer now to educate a child than it did ten years ago. Not withstanding that we are almost burdened to death with taxes to run the schools with.

I hope that the people of this county will elect a school board this year that will give the people at home some say about their local affairs. And then I believe that we will have better schools.

I see that we have two new candidates for the School Board. Mrs. Howard and Mr. A. L. Robinson. I hope that they will let the people of the county know how they stand on these questions.

I see in Mr. Harris' letter in last week's paper that he says that if he is elected Judge of Probate that he will work in harmony with the School Board. I regret very much that Mr. Harris made this statement, for it carries with it the fact that he endorses the action of the School Board in this County. And should he be elected Judge of Probate and all the bills are passed that is filed there by Mr. H. L. Fohsee, the Superintendent of Education and the Board of Education, the county Treasury will be in a bad fix. It has been reported that stamps used in a political campaign and bills advertising a field day have been filed with the Commissioners Court.

I have also heard it rumored that Mr. H. L. Foshee said that he was going to see to it that a full ticket was in the field this time that was satisfactory to him and in sympathy with his faction. I have also heard that he, with a few others, held a meeting in his office in the Court House one Sunday for the purpose of selecting a complete ticket.

It seems to me that the School Board tries to see how much money they can spend. It is reported that the Commissioners have had to turn down several bills that they have filed with the Commissioners. I understand that the stamp bills for the Superintendent has increased about ten times under the present Bard's administration.

I believe that an itemized statement of the School Board's expenses should be published twice a year just like the Commissioners Court. And not publish it in bulk, like they did last year. I notice in the last report one item in Bulk: "County Superintendent and assistant $2,-438.18," and other amounts about the same way, and if one can tell anything about it they can do more than I can.

The expenses of the School Board has increased in so many ways I cannot mention all of them. They have added the attendance officer, which is to be paid, and most of the time this officer has been a Democrat like the Assistant Superintendent.

I believe that Judge Reynolds did the right thing in not convicting some people he had before him brought there by the attendance officer. I know of several that were so poor that they did not have sufficient food, and others that were not able to buy clothing for their children. And if Mr. Harris is going to work in harmony with the Board of Education, if he is elected Judge of Probate, we poor people had as well say farewell liberties.

It is reported that much of the time of the Superintendent and his assistant is taken up in writing political letters for some of the candidates of his faction. This seems to me to be very wrong to use the School money to pay an assistant Superintendent of Education to assist the Superintendent in managing political campaigns. Why not do away with the Assistant Superintendent and let the Superintendent look over the schools and let his candidates look after their own campaigns. I would like to ask, with the present condition where are we drifting.

In conclusion I want to say that I believe in electing people to office that will consider the interest of the common people. I am in favor of electing those that their records are good and defeating the members of the School Board who have ignored the wishes and rights of the people.

I wish also to add that I have no personal grudge against Mr. H. L. Foshee or any of the Board.

Sincerely yours,
Wm. R. BAKER

The Safest Way is to Carry Less Money

Receipts are awkward things to keep. Aren't they?

They vary in shape from theatre ticket to letter-head size. Even Edison couldn't invent a file that would ever keep them in shape. Who wants to keep them any way?

Why don't you pay by check? Then—you could have all your receipts the same size. Furthermore you can't pay a bill that way without getting a receipt.

Every paid and cancelled check returned by us or kept on file in this bank is a recipt for money paid.

It is safer to pay your bills by check. It doesn't pay to carry too much money around.

Start a checking account with us today.

This bank continually strives to give you, as a depositor, the maximum of safety in handling your funds. With this thought in mind, we have purchased for your use, Super-safety Insured bank checks, which are tamper-proof. A glaring white spot gives instant warning when a Super-safety check has been tampered with. The senstive surface color disappears, leaving a vivid white splash when acid, rubber or knife erasure is attempted, giving warning of spuriousness.

We furnish you an individual Super-safety Check Alteration Bond which protects you against loss in case your checks are fraudulently altered or "raised" by the use of acid, rubber-erasure, knife scratch or pen change, when properly wrtten with ink or a check writing machine, or typewriter. You are insured for a total of one thousand dollars.

Your insured checks mean added positive protection, as your currency while in curculation.

This additional Service of Safety is furnished without charge.

Tell your friends.

TWO MORE STORES ARE BROKEN INTO

Robbers at Verbena Monday Night, and are at Jemison Tuesday Night.

Burglars in this section continue their operations unabated, it seems. Reports state that the store of H. T. Williams at Verbena was entered on Monday night and a large quantity of goods carried away.

Tuesday night the performance occurred at Jemison, when the store of Sam Reynolds was visited by the gang. So far no arrests have been made. It is said that some of the goods of Mr. Williams were found the next day in possession of a white man, but the man got away before the officers could take charge of him.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager.)

The principal event in Thorsby this week is the 16th annual commencement exercises of Thorsby Institute, beginning Sunday, May 28, with the baccalaureate sermon at the Congregational Church, when Rev. T. C. Cassady of Birmingham preached from the text, "A Workman that Needeth not be Ashamed." The house was filled to capacity, and the speaker held the close attention of old and young from start to finish of a 45-minute address, calling attention to the need for workers in fields of Christian service in all parts of the world.

Wednesday night, May 31st the Graduating Class of eleven young men and women who have finished the prescribed high school courses, held the stage at Bates Hall for a couple of hours, during which time they entertained in their own way, the large audience gathered for the occasion.

Last Saturday night, May 27th the annual Declamatory contest among students of Thorsby Institute, held the boards at Bates Hall, which was filled to the doors. There were eight contestants who had been selected at a try-out in February, they were Misses Jennye Rbinson, Mae Ward, Myrtle Jones and Mary Ella Gerald, and Messrs Porter Music, Gresham Lowery, Truman Pierce and Thirwell Nolen. First prizes were awarded to Mae Ward and Gresham Lowery, and second prizes to Mary Ella Gerald and Thirwell Nolen. As a matter of fact, there was so much of excellence in the work of those who did not receive prizes that many wondered how the judges could make their decisions.

Thursday, June 1st, "Commencement Day," at 10 a.m., there will be Tennis, in which Finals will be played to determine who is the best tennis player in Thorsby Institute. At noon comes the annual Commencement Day dinner, on the grounds, under the auspices of the Ladies Guild of Thorsby. The afternoon will be devoted to athletic contests on the campus.

At 8 o'clock, p.m., in Bates Hall, on Thursday, June 1st, the Commencement program will be given:

School March—Invocation, Rev. J. W. Davenport; Spring Song, by the School Chorus. Essay — "Prohibition" Chester Glasscock. "Leafy June is Here," in Beauty Girls Chorus. Essay, "Alabama," Jennye T. Robinson. Address,"What are you Worth," Rev Frank L. Moore, D.D. "Springtime Quartette." Presentation of diplomas. Announcements of prizes for the year. Benediction, Rev. E. W. Butler.

It is a pleasure to note the very commendable work in several lines as well as deportment and scholarship of students in the 8th grade in Thorsby Institute, under the direction of Miss Emily Tyler. There are upwards of forty of these students whose work in mathematics, reading and general good scholarship is remarkable. Last Friday morning they gave a delightful program, as follows: Recitations, Anna Bel Lee, Bretha Bolles. Selection from Building of a Ship Richard Butler; Charge of the Light Brigade, Mabel Pate. Incident of the French Camp, Lois Prim. The Brook Verona East. Love of Country, Gerald Smith. Lochinvar, Frances Lowery. John Gilpin, Lorena Prim. The Boys, Gerome Wilson. The Haven, Ruth Martin.

It is always interesting to note the rise of progressive young men and we take pleasure in calling public attention to the activities of Mr. Eli N. Bentley in matters that make for improvement in this community. Previous to his entrance into U. S. Army service Mr. Bentley was employed with the Newel Auto Company of Birmingham, and soon after joining the army he was detailed as a member of Motor Transport, in convoy service carrying motor trucks and supplies overland from Chicago to Baltimore. This psition he held for about two years, during which he learned considerable about motor vehicles. In 1918, while in army service, he married Miss Maud Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Robinson of Thorsby. After dscharge from the army he engaged in mercantile business for a time in Birmingham, coming to Thorsby in the spring of 1920, he formed a partnership with Mr. Harry V. Thompson in the garage business. In January of 1922 their place of business was destroyed by fire, and shortly after that the partnership was dissolved, and Mr. Bentley has since been engaged in erecting and equipping an entirely up-to-date garage. He has a building 35 x 80 feet one story, with basement under the rear half of it. He will conduct a general garage and Ford supply depot, with a full stock of Ford parts. One feature if his equipment is a visible and filtering gasoline outfit, and another is a power pump for supplying free air. Mr. Bentley will open for business June 1st, and has every reason to be proud of his achievement in providing such a substantial and attractive building equipment for his growing business. We certainly congratulate both him and the town of Thorsby.

In the basement of Mr. E. N. Bentley's building Mr. Tom L. Robinson will conduct the only vulcanizing establishment in Chilton County. He has a complete outfit for doing good work, and we bespeak a liberal patronage for him. This is another enterprise that will be launched in Thorsby June 1st.

Mr. Olaf Larsen of Chicago, a graduate of Thorsby Institute in the class of 1920, is a visitor in Thorsby for commencement week.

Mr. Waldemar Lefsted of the class of 1921 is also visiting his mother for two weeks.

Mr. Ivey Horn, who has been working at Mitchel Dam for some time past had a serious fall last week and has been laid up for repairs in a hospital for several days.

Mrs. Magne Anderson has been spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. Ivey Horn at Mitchel Dam during the past week.

This is the day when it is expected our electric lights will be turned on for business.

A Statement for Fair-Minded People:

The Story of a Lost Industry

Encouraged by the attitude of the public and looking to the future expansion of various industrial activities in Alabama requiring cheap and reliable power, Mr. James Mitchell and his associates sought permission in 1912 for another large development at Lock 18 on the Coosa River. The plan proposed, enthusiastically supported in Congress, contemplated the erection at Montgomery of an immense plant requiring abundant power for the manufacture of nitrates for fertilizers in times of peace and munitions in times of war. The necessary bill was prepared by Mr. J. W. Worthington, then Vice President of the Power Company, and was introduced by Representative Heflin and passed by Congress. The capital for this development was to be entirely foreign—but it did not occur to anyone that foreign capital was not welcome in these lines of public service. The then Governor of Alabama telegraphed the President urging him to approve the bill on the ground that it would vitally affect the material interests of the state.

President Taft, however, vetoed the bill on August 24, 1912, on the ground that it did not contain certain provisions now in the Federal Water Power Act, and in the course of his message the President said:

"I deem it highly important that the nation should adopt a consistent and harmonious policy of treatment of these water power projects which will preserve their value to the Government whose right it is to grant the permit. The necessity for the adoption of such a policy has recently been pointed out, with my approval, by the Secretary of War, and I see no reason why this bill should be exempted from the safeguards which have been recommended by him in the cases of other bills now pending before Congress."

The nitrate plant proposed in 1912 to be located at Montgomery was forced to locate outside the United States and this great industry was lost to the South.

(This advertisement is the statement of President Thos. W. Martin of the Alabama Power Company, and published in pamphlet form, copy of which is available on request.)

Highway Association Open Meeting.

Montgomery, Ala.—Open sessions in the future, as in the past, the best system of accountancy obtainable, immediate maintenance of completed roads, and awarding of contracts were among the principal matters passed on at a two day session of the Ala. State Highway Commission which adjourned late Friday evening.

Alabama will have a system of highway recording and accounting second to none when a resolution introduced by Chairman Rogers and adopted by the Commission becomes effective. The resolution provides that for the purpose of assisting the department in expending bond issue money and federal aid funds to the best advantage. State Examiner of Accounts E. A. Henry be sent to Washington and other points to study records and systems as used in road building by the Federal Government and some of the states more advanced in road work. For three weeks, Examiner Henry has been making a detailed study of the system of accountancy as now used by the Highway Department, and has pronounced it modern and effective; it is with the idea of making any improvements possible that his examination comparison will be made elsewhere. The Commission, it is said, realizes that methods of bookkeeping do not build roads, but believes that the enormous amount of money to be expended in the years to come warrants the highest safeguards and clearest records obtainable.

"That there may be no question in the minds of the public as to whether the meetings of the Highway Commission are open or executive, be it resolved that all meetings of the Highway Comission and all records of the Highway Department are open to the public, and that all persons interested are invited to all such meetings" reads a resolution adopted at the same meeting. Recent statements concerning former meetings had been the practice of the Commission, and with a purpose of disabusing this idea the resolution was heartily recieved and unanimously adopted. The session was entirely harmonious and pronounced one of the busiest in the recollection of the Commisioners. Seldom have larger delegations appeared in the interest of various roads. One party numbered 150 enthusiasts, while Butler County sent a delegation of 45 men and women.

Purchase of machinery for use in maintaining roads was authorized, in keeping with the announced policy of the Commission that maintenance would begin as soon as construction was finished.

Contracts for building a road in Chambers County and for surfacing a Morgan County road with asphaltic tar were awarded, and advertisements for bids on projects in Macon and Limestone Counties ordered.

Delegations from Jefferson, Chilton, Elmore, Pike, Montgomery, Clay Butler, Cleburne, Crenshaw, Pickens Fayette, Hale, Randolph, Bullock & Etowah counties presented various requests and departing seemed mainly pleased with the disposition made of their claims.

Announcement of the sale of the first issue of road bonds to the Alabama house of Ward, Sterne & Co. of Birmingham and Montgomery, was received with satisfaction. On motion of Senator Craft, the Commission voted to accept the invitation of a delegation from Jefferson County and hold the next regular meeting in Birmingham.

The Home of the Soul.

In olden times it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never completely used up as he is when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

POOR ORIGINAL

MR. BOLL WEEVIL IS ALREDY HERE

O. R. Robinson Reports Four Found in His Cotton Last Week.

Mr. O. R. Robinson of Refuge Community, in the eastern part of Beat 4, was in Clanton last Saturday, and reported to The Union-Banner that he had already found four boll weevils in his cotton field.

Look out farmers. These rainy days are the most favorable to the weevil, and if the wet weather continues, some drastic measures have got to be taken against this pest or else they will make a complete destruction of the cotton crop.

Every weevil you destroy now will mean that you have put hundreds of them out of business later. It will pay you to look close for them and destroy them now, as has been demonstrated by many farmers in former years.

SINGING at REFUGE

Mr. O. R. Robinson and Mr. J. E. Miner request us to announce that there will be an all day singing at Refuge, five miles northeast of Clanton, on the Second Sunday in June. This is a hustling little church, and they promise to have some good singers on hand that day. We assure you that you will enjoy yourself if you go spend the day with them.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

CLYDE HENLEY IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Young White Man Hit by No. 3 Near Lomax, Late Tuesday P.M.

Clyde Henley, a young white man, age 22, was hit by fast L. & N. passenger train No. 3, just north of Lomas Tuesday evening, and was instantly killed. No. 3 stopped and picked up his body, bringing it to Clanton, where the same was delivered into the hands of Undertaker Martin.

The dead man was the son of Gip Henley and Mrs. Mattie Robinson of Lomax. His father died some years ago. He made his home with his mother at Lomax, and was employed on the section gang of the railroad. He was off duty on the day he was killed.

It is stated that as the fast train rounded the curve just above Lomax, the fireman saw the young man sitting on the track just a short distance ahead of the train. The whistle was blown, but he made no move, and before the train could be stopped it had struck him.

The body was buried at Lomax Wednesday afternoon.

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. From this moment on, cast from your mind all dread and fear, and feel every day as the months roll by that great freedom from much of the suffering which thousands of expectant mothers undergo, unnecessarily. And when the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It aids the muscles and tissues to expand easily. It penetrates quickly. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. There is no substitute. Avoid useless greases sometimes recommended by the unknowing. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

NOTE—Write for valuable free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important authoritative information which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend," to Bradfield Regulator Company, BA 16, Atlanta, Ga.

POOR ORIGINAL

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME X. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1922. NUMBER 7

HARRIS REPLIES TO LETTER OF BAKER

Clanton, Ala., June 8, 1922.

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County, Ala.

In my letter which was published in The Union-Banner under date of May 18, 1922, wherein I outlined a general policy by which I would be governed should I be elected your Probate Judge, I had the following to say in regard to the schools, viz:

"I believe in good schools, and as we are paying quite a large amount of taxes toward the schools, it would be my policy if elected to cooperate with the Board of Education in an effort to make the schools of the County BETTER, and to use my influence to secure for the rural boys and girls equal educational opportunities with the town boys and girls."

In the Union-Banner of last week, June 1, 1922, in a letter headed "Wm. R. Baker Writes More About Polities," the following paragraph appears:

"I see in Mr. Harris' letter in last week's paper that he says that if he is elected Judge of Probate that he will work in harmony with the school board. I regret very much that Mr. Harris made this statement, for it carries with it the fact that he endorses the action of the school board in this County, and should he be elected Judge of Probate and all the bills are passed that are filed there by Mr. H. L. Foshee, the Superintendent of Education and the Board of Education, the treasury will be in a bad fix. It has been reported that stamps used in a political campaign and bills advertsing a field day have been filed with the Commissioners Court."

I am sorry that Mr. Baker misrepresented the meaning of and misquoted me in what I had to say regarding the schools. A careful reading of the foregoing will show that I had two objects, and only two, in view when writing on the subject. The first was to cooperate with the school board in an effort to better the schools of the County. I think that the Probate Judge should cooperate with all the officials elected by the people in an effort to obtain an improvement of the county affairs and to obtain the very best results possible, for the money spent.

To better the schools would in itself eliminate the very evil complained of by Mr. Baker, if such evil exists. I am not advised of the truth or falsity of there being bills filed with the Commissioners Court for illegal claims against the County; however, I do say that in the event I am elected Probate Judge and there are left for action or filed for action by the Court, illegal claims against the county, I will use my influence and power to see that same are not passed or paid regardless of who may file them.

As stated in my letter, if I am elected, it will be my policy to adhere strictly to running the County on a basis of economy and reduction of every expense which could be eliminated without detriment to the best interest of the people and the County.

The second object I had in view when writing about schools, was to use my influence to secure for the rural boys and girls equal educational advantages with the town boys and girls.

I do not know of any service I could render my fellow countrymen that would be of greater value to them than securing for them adequate educational advantages. The country boys and girls are entitled to as good opportunities as any, and I would, if elected, use my influence to see that all corporations were taxed as individuals for this purpose.

I am in favor of taxing the Alabama Power Company, and if this was done, a burden would be lifted from the shoulders of the farmers and taxpayers of this County, and better schools could be maintained.

I am writing this that I may be clearly understood as to my policy as outlined in my letter of recent date and not for the purpose of controversy through the paper, for I will not engage in such. I shall adhere to my former declaration that I am opposed to mud slinging and unfair methods in political campaigns.

I am connected with no man or set of men, and have no one directing my campaign, but am running my own affairs, asking for your support on my own merits, and leaving the voters to determine the results. I am paying my own expenses.

I pledge my honor that the above is true, and I defy anybody to prove that it is not true.

Thanking you for any consideration, I am, Respectfully,

H. A. HARRIS.

J. BICE ELECTED COUNTY TREASURER

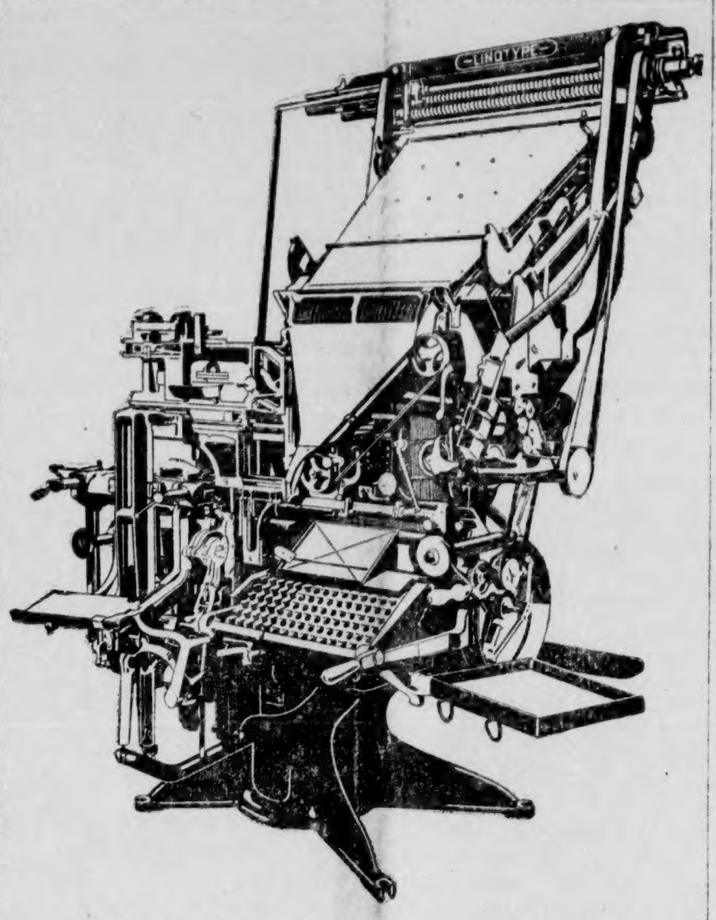
The court of County Commissioners of Chilton County held a meeting last Thursday for the election of a County Treasurer to succeed Mr. John A. Thomas, resigned. The place was given to Mr. J. Bice of Thorsby.

Mr. Bice is a well-known and deserving citizen, having been engaged in public business of one kind and another in Chilton County for many years. He has served in the position of County Treasurer before, and therefore the work is not new to him.

The office of Treasurer will be up stairs in the Court House, and Mr. Bice will be here practically all the time to look after the same. He says that he will have somebody else to look after the business on days when he cannot be here.

Prof. Cecil E. Harris, who has been teaching this year at Raymond, Miss. is in Clanton this week spending a few days with home folks. He is going to Peabody College for a summer course. Mr. Harris has been principal of the Raymond School for the past three years, and goes back again next year.

Our New Model Eight Linotype Machine



In keeping with the policy of this paper to give to its readers the very best newspaper possible; and also to make available to our patrons a printing plant with equipment capable of turning out the very best quality of printed material at any minute it may be wanted, the management of The Union-Banner is pleased to state that we have added a new Model 8 Linotype Machine to our equipment. This machine is the last word in efficiency, and is not excelled by any piece of typesetting machinery in the world.

For the past six years we have been using a Model 15 Linotype. This machine, though not capable of doing a very wide range of work, has enabled us to build up The Union-Banner from practically nothing to a widely circulated home newspaper of prestige and confidence.

The Model 8, picture of which appears at the head of this column is a much more versatile machine than was the Model 15 and is capable of doing a much wider range of work and accomplishing the task with even more ease and facility than the 15.

Of course it would be dry reading for us to enumerate the various technical differences between the new machine and the old one. But we do wish to say that we now have a printing shop equipment that is second to none in Alabama for a town of this size.

To our friends, we wish to say that you are invited to come in and look us over when you are in town. Bring the wife and kids along and let them see this wonder of the typesetting art in operation. You will enjoy seeing it at work more than reading about it.

And if you hear anybody talking about having printing done, just remind them that The Union-Banner is fully equipped to turn out the very best work at any time we are called on, night or day.

PULPIT COMM. TO GET NEW PASTOR

The Clanton Baptist Church in conference last Sunday, appointed the Board of Deacons as a pulpit committee to take up the matter of finding a preacher who is available as pastr of the church. The Deacons held a meeting Sunday afternoon and organized themselves for the job, discussing some of the important mat ters that are to be consideed in connection with the task which has been entrusted to them by the church.

The pulpit committee will consider this important matter well and fully, and at the proper time make recommendations to the church.

PROVIDENCE
(BEAT 16)

Editor Union-Banner:

Allow me space to say a few words in regard to the Annual Singing at this place. Owing to the fact that Salem church had to dissolve on account of back water from [illegible] Dam, Providence gave the annual May Singing a h[illegible] in order that the church might safeguard its interests as a religious service, it was legally adopted in a regular confernce Saturday, June 3. The following Articles of Constitution were adopted:

Archives and Dept. of History, Director, Thos. M. Owen.

Articles of Constitution.

1st. This singing shall be known as The Providence Annual May Singing (successor to Salem Annual May Singing).

2nd. The Chairman, Assistant Chairman and Secretary, shall be members of Providence Church, and shall be elected by said church as often as the church thinks best.

3rd. It shall have a Program Committee of three. Said committee shall be appointed annually by the Chair the chairman of said committee to be a member of this church.

4th. This singing shall be for the good of the public, but shall be under the jurisdiction of Providence Church.

5th. None but recognized Protestant Christians shall conduct music in any session of this Singing.

Despite the rain and wind, we had a good singing the fourth Sunday. We hope to have equally as good or better next May. Come to Providence; you are always welcome in preahing, Sunday School or inging.

Respectfully,

G. C. POWELL.

CARD OF THANKS

Lomax, Ala., June 2, 1922.

We take the geatest of pleasure in thanking the people in and around Lomax for their assistance and kindness and beautiful flowers in the recent and sudden death of our beloved son and brother, Clyde Henley, which kindness and assistance will never be forgotten.

MATTIE HENLEY,
ROBERTA JACKSON,

BARBECUE JUNE 17 AT BILLINGSLEY

Mr. W. J. Patrick of Billingsley was in Clanton Monday, and asked The Union-Banner to make the announcement that there will be a big barbecue at Billingsley on Saturday, June 17th, for the benefit of the new Baptist Church which is to be built there.

It is being arranged to have some "big guns" go off at Billingsley on this occasion, as several reputable speakers will be present.

Mr. Patrick says that an invitation is extended to everybody to attend this occasion. A good time is assured in advance.

The Wadesonian Theatre No. 2

The above is the name of the new pic[illegible]w just opened up in Clanton, proprietor is Mr. C. W. of Calera, who also runs a picture show in his home town. Some weeks ago Mr. Wade took over the Strand Theatre here, and has been for several days making a new home for the show. For this purpose he has thoroughly remodeled the old Baptist Church building, which will serve admirably.

For one to be blindfolded and taken in this theatre, and while a show was going on allowed to see, he would think that he was inside some of the fine movie houses of Birmingham. The windows have been stopped up, a large stage built with dressing rooms on either side, a balcony built for the colored people, inside painted and varnished, equipped with several electric fans, and for seating there are nice opera chairs. A brand new picture machine has been installed costing several hundred dollars, and Mr. Wade says he will add another of these machines soon.

The present management promises to adhere strictly to the ue of only highly moral and educational pictures, and we wish to highly commend Mr. Wade for this step. A clean picture show, judiciously managed, is an asset to any town, and can be made a source of much good to a community.

The opening show was held last Saturday afternoon, and same show repeated Saturday night. For a week or so there will be a show only on Saturday night, but in a short while, Mr. Wade says, he will have two shows a week, one on Tuesday night and one on Saturday night.

We bespeak for Mr. Wade the liberal patronage of the people around Clanton, so that he may be able to build and maintain a decent place of amusement in our town.

Will Reynolds returned Saturday from Tuskeegee, where he spent last week getting his saw mill in readiness to begin cutting lumber. He has recently bought a tract of land down there that has got four million feet of timber on it.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT FRIENDSHIP

In Addition to Singing on the Fourth Sunday P.M. In June.

There has been prepared for the afternoon of the Fourth Sunday in June, at Friendship Baptist Church, a special program, which will include not only singing led by any directors who may be present, but also some important talks on vital subjects by able speakers. The following is the arrangement of the program:

Singing, opened at 1:00, by W. O. Rich singing two songs. Short lessons, by other directors, who may be present.

2:30, Subject, "The Relation that Music has to the Church Work," by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

3:05, "The Leading Sins of the Day," by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

3:40, "What a Church means to a Community," by Rev. M. J. Parrish.

4:05, "Advantages in Advancing the Cause of Christ now as Compared with Forty Years Ago," by Rev. S. M. Adams.

4:40, "The Indebtedness of a Community to Church," by Rev. E. A. Norris.

Each speaker will have twenty minutes to discuss his subject, which will allow fifteen minutes between each address to be devoted to singing, by different leaders who may be present.

We feel that a varied program of this kind will be a great help to our church, as well as the singing society, and everybody is urgently invited to come and take part with us.

The subjects that have been selected are very important ones, and the men who are to handle them are in every way capable of their tasks.

Leaders of music are urged to come as we hope to be able to place all who are present on the program for a short lesson.

OAK HILL

Old uncle A. F. Vandiver visited us Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night and preached three fine sermons, which were enjoyed by all present, except the sinners, for it was made plain to them that they could not be saved unless they changed their way of living, but he is loved by all who know him, both saint and sinner, this was evidenced by the liberal contribution that was given ot him Sunday morning. We were glad to have him with us and we truly hope and pray that God will bless and give him srength and add to his life many years yet that he may visit us again and to preach the gopel and tell the glad tidings to many people yet before he calls him home from his field of labor that he has been enjoying in for more than fifty years. As we sat and listened to him our minds wondered back to our child hood days when we used to hear him preach at old Rocky Mount camp ground, many years ago, and we were so carried away that we forgot to say any thing about the all day singing that it has been our custom to have here on the second Sunday in June, so we decided to put it off until a later date, which will be announced later.

Our Singing Society met with the Jemison class Sunday evening and in spite of the rain we had some good singing. Those who directed were W. H. Conway, Leonard Glasscock, E. L. Glasscock, Charles Glasscock and Prof. A. H. Glasscock. Organists were Misses Lena Glasscock, Ruby Collum and Mittis Hymon.

The Society meets with Union Grove next Sunday evening at 2:00 o'clock.

Henry Teel of Sylacauga was here Monday to see his brother Strawter who is ill. Henry's friends here will be interested to learn that he got married a few days ago.

Reede Taylor, young son of the late L. M. Taylor, went to Montgomery last week, where he will take a course in Draughon's Business College.

The Home of the Soul.

In olden times it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never completely used up as he is when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

Now that the weather has cleared up, there is being some farming done that will make folks sit up and take notice. Everybody has gone at it like they meant to get it all done before the weather man changes his mind and lets it rain some more.

The writer spent Thursday last in Clanton taking in the sights.

Say, all you folks with your flivvers, come on out this way now when you go for a joy ride; the road is getting fine now, as it is being given a real overhauling by Mr. Robert Popwell and his crew. They certainly are to be congratulated on the class of work they are doing. All we folks want is more of it.

Mrs. D. O. Manning left for some few days visit to Jasper Saturday morning. She will also spend some time with relatives in Birmingham and Ensley before returning home.

Mr. D. O. Manning made to business trip to Clanton Saturday morning.

The writer attended the meeting of the County Council of the United Farmers of America at Clanton Saturday morning and got quite a bit of inspiration out of the meeting. This organization is a coming thing and if you haven't joined yet, make it your business to get in line and help put it over the top.

Mr. W. F. DeShazo, W. T. White, D. O. Manning and W. H. Veazey attended the special meeting of Dipping Vat Inspectors at the Court House Saturday afternoon.

Oh yes, I told you all that our base ball boys were coming to the front, and they have. They went over to Maplesville last Saturday afternoon and tied up with the Maplesville boys in a rather heated game. Up until the first half of the third inning the Maplesville boys had our boys going to the tune of 6 to 1, but here the Mulberry boys kinder shut down on them and when dark overtook them at end of the fifth inning the score stood 7 to 7. As the Mulberry boys had the lead as to innings they would have walked off with the victory easily if they could have play-the tie off. Some of the boys say that they are to play thetie off some time before long and that they are going to tear 'em up like lightning.

The correspondent has been told that Liberty Hill is to play the Mulberry boys on the home diamond Saturday afternoon. Everybody come out and give the boys a lift.

Miss Lena Manning spent Saturday in Clanton shopping.

It is indeed with regret that we report that Mrs. White is seriously ill again. The trouble seems to be something in the nature of a nervous prostration. They are considering taking her to the Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton for treatment.

Rev. Gilbert filled his appointment Sunday last by preaching one of the best sermons we have heard in some time, even if he was somewhat under the weather physically.

Remember folks, that you still have an invitation to attend our prayer meeting on Sunday nights. Come on and be with us, we will make it worth your while if you will only come.

If you find the doings somewhat short this time, just lay it to the fact that every ne is so busy with the farm work that there is but little else going on and therefore but very little to report to the paper.

Of course the Macedonia boys were all down Sunday afternoon. That's regular.

Mr. J. C. Veazey of Macedonia was a visitor to our prayer meeting Sunday night.

Mrs. Bertha Davenport and son, Eugene, of Thorsby were pleasant callers to this community Sunday afternoon.

We saw the radiant face of Mr. Marion Littlejohn of Liberty, in this neck of the woods Sunday.

Raymond Marcus of Montgomery, accompanied by his wife, is in Clanton visiting relatives. He passed the State Examinatin, as a licensed embalmer and undertaker on May 11. He goes to New Orleans this week for a specjal course of six weeks studying embaiming at Tulane University.

MEN WANTED—I want to hire 25 good men to run a saw mill, located seven miles of Tuskeegee; will pay one dollar a day and board; want a good edgerman and muledrivers; also one good four-mule team to haul logs.

Mr. Lonnie Teel of Sylacauga was in Clanton the first of this week. He was called here to the bedside of his brother, Strawter, who is suffering serious injuries sustanied in an auto accident a few days ago.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager.)

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Peterson announce the birth of a son Friday, June 2nd, whom they have named Charles Norman

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Peterson announce the birth of an eight and a half pound daughter Monday, June 5th. Her name is Katherine Immogene.

Rev. James W. Davenport has made arrangements for an absence of three months during the summer and left Wednesday for Daytona, Fla., where he expects to spend a month as supply for the pulpit of the Congregational Chuch at that place. His plans for the other two months are not definitely decided but will probably include a course of study.

Rev. W. H. Clem, a recent graduate of Atlanta Theological Seminary, arrived in Thorsby last Friday night, and preached morning and evening on Sunday at the Congregational Church where he will substitute for the pastor, Rev. James W. Davenport, during his three months absence. Rev. Clem is a pleasing and forceful speaker and from early indications appears to be affable and a good mixer. He is a young man and will no doubt be popular with the young people of Thorsby.

Mr. Sereno G. Norton of Kenvil, New Jersey, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton, arrived in Thorsby Wednesday night, May 31st, in time to attend Class night exercises and Commencement at Thorsby Institute where he graduated in its first graduating class in 1910. Mr. Norton now occupies a position of responsibility with The Hercules Powder Company as an expert Chemist, and is now on a tour of inspection of several of the Company plants with a view to improvement in some of their methods which he has introduced in the manufacture of Nitro Glycerine, Nitric Acid and Dynamite. He expects to spend two or three weeks at their north Birmingham plant and will spend his week-end in Thorsby.

Thorsby Institute Library will be open to the public (During Vacation) Saturdays from 2 to 5 o'clock P. M., in charge of Miss Mary Ella Gerald. It is the desire of the Trustees and Faculty that the people of Thorsby and vicinity shall freely use the reading matter embraced in this Library of upwards of 5000 volumes.

The commencement exercises of Thorsby Institute Class of 1922 were marked by several incidents which show growth and improvement in many directions. The attendance was probably the largest ever assembled in Bates Hall and in spite of the fact that many were obliged to stand during the entire program there was little disturbance from the audience. There were eleven graduates, the largest class in the history of the school, and it may be worthy of mention that nine of them reside within four miles of the school buildings, which indicates that the people of Thorsby and vicinity now more than ever before realize the splendid character of the school located in their midst. The address of Rev. Frank Lincoln Moore, D. D., of New York was entirely worthy of the occasion and intended to help people to visualize the life that is worth while and to seek to measure up to their privileges.

Two essays had been selected, by judges, from all that had been prepared by members of the class, as being in some respect better than thers and worthy to be read as samples of the work of the Class. This does not imply that the others had no merit, but there simply was not time to hear them all. Mr. Chas. Glasscock had prepared a very interesting paper on Prohibition while Miss Jennye Robinson read a very interesting paper on "Alabama" which she had written.

Each year, at Commencement, a good deal of interet and friendly rivalry centers about awards of prizes that are offered for various points of excellence on the part of students. This year there was a long and varied list as follows: The Tupper Attendance Prizes, one dollar to be given to every student who has been neither absent nor tardy throughout the chool year. The students receiving this prize were: Dora Bracken, Tressie Barrett, Richard Butler, Margaret Butler, Pearl Carlson, Plato Deason, Mary Ella Gerald, Mabel Howard, Annie Hughes, Esther Johnson, Spurgeon Kelley, Olean Mims, Truman Pierce, Ruth Sharp, Mae Ward.

Perry Prizes: Prize No. One, A Five Dollar Gold piece to the boy who has made the greatest improvement for the year in physical, mental and character Development, won by Fred Tatum; Perry Prize No. Two, Two and a Half Dollars in gold to the girl who makes the greatest physicial improvement during the second Semester, through the medium of the physical training provided by the school and also through individual effort towards better carriage either in or out of school. Won by Mary Ella Gerald.

Perry Eighth Grade Tuition Prize. To that pupil in the Eighth Grade, who received the highest scholarship average, a ten Dollar Tuition prize to be used at Thorsby Institute next year. Won by Lorena Primm. Honrable mention to Palmer Lefstead.

Perry High School Tuition Prize. To that pupil in the High School who receives the highest scholarship average for the year, a Ten Dollar Tuition prize to be used at Thorsby Institute next year. This prize was divided between Esther Johnson and Mary Ella Gerald as each made an average of Ninety Six for the year.

Declamatory Prizes, to be given to the Institute students who were awarded the first and second places in the annual Declamatory Contest. First Prize, Mae Ward and Gresham Lowery; Second Prizes, Mary Ella Gerald and Thirwell Nolen.

Senior Prizes: Highest Scholarship for Senior year, divides between Jennye C. Robinson and Mae Ward, each having Ninety Five Per Cent.

Highest Scholarship for entire High School Course, divided between Dora Bracken and Mae Ward, each having Ninety Two Per Cent.

Illinois College Scholarship, Illinois College offers to the boy and to the girl of the graduating class of Thorsby Institute, who rank first or second among the boys or among the girls during the entire High School Course, a Scholarship which amounts in money value to one hundred dollars. Applicants must have a grade of at least ninety per cent for the last year of High School. Won by Girls, Mae Ward and Dora Bracken; Boys, Nels Nelson, ninety per cent.

Piedmont College Scholarship. Piedmont College offers a Tuition Scholarship to the student in the graduating class of Thorsby Institute, who ranks highest in scholarship. The student must have been at Thorsby Institute for more than one year. This prize was divided between Dora Bracken and Mae Ward.

An event which indicates improvement and marks progress in material things for Thorsby, is demonstrated in the fact, that hereafter Thorsby Institute will do business entirely within its own buildings, so far as the Boarding department is concerned. In spite of the business depression of the past year and the peak prices of several previous years, Thorsby Institute has been slowly but surely adding to its facilities for housing and feeding those of its forces and students who are obliged to live away from home. In 1920-21 a cottage was built on the school campus chiefly as a residence for Rev. James M. Graham who was then engaged in Community Development work, in which Thorsby Institute was interested. Mr. Graham has recently made a change in his business and will vacate this cottage September 1st next. This building then becomes available as a rooming house for girls who are students in Thorsby Institute.

But the big thing that is of vital interest to everybody who is interested in the school is the practical completion of the interior of the new building designed for the culinary and domestic science departments of the school. While the exterior walls are not finished, they are weather proof and entire equipment used by the school in the Thorsby Inn building and another large dwelling known as "The Annex" has been moved in and will be put in place before school opens in the fall.

While intended originally and ultimately for use as Dining Room and Kitchen the building is so spacious that part of it can be used, temporarily to house about twenty five people and rooms have been provided for this purpose, and yet there will be fifty per cent more dining room space and one hundred per cent more kitchen and store room space than the school has had since the girls dormitory was burned in the spring of 1918. Not only this, but there are floods of light, and plenty of heat and ventilation. The finish of the woodwork and decoration of walls and ceilings are very attractive and in excellent artistic taste. Modern Plumbing has been installed and an adequate Sanitary System provided.

In most building enterprises it turns out that the first estimate falls far short of the cost, but in this instance there is a happy relief from such a condition. Mr. C. H. Thompsen, of Thorsby, made a sketch for a building, that was approved by the Trustees, but before making detailed plans and specifications several changes were made which would materially add to the cost of construction. Mr. Thompsen's estimate on the original design was $10.000 for the building only. This did not include painting, plumbing, heating and a sanitary system, all of which were afterwards added and are now a part of the completed work, and still has been enough less than $10,000 expended to finish the exterior walls. Mr. Thompsen was not only employed as Architect but was also employed by the building committee to have entire charge of construction, and purchase of materials, on requisitions approved by the building committee, consisting of M. J. Soberg, Chairman; S. E. Norton, J. P. Sorensen, J. M. Graham and E. W. Butler. Mr. Thomsen has shown himself entirely competent and trustworthy in every detail and the result is a building and equipment that is most admirably adapted to the purposes for which it was intended.

The Athletic Contests on Thorsby Institute Campus last Thursday were greatly hampered by a drizzling rain. The Tennis games were called off and other events were held under difficulties.

Both the long jump and the mile foot race were won by Mr. Leon Mims, and the pole vault was won by Mr. Leo Langston. The exact records of these events are not available as the athletic coach, Mr. Owen Sappington, neglected to supply us with the figures before leaving for his home in Georgia.

Miss Elizabeth J. Robinson, another teacher, left for her home in Birmingham Friday morning.

Mrs. Ella Cochrane, house mother at the boys domitory, left for her home in Nebraska Saturday morning.

Cheap Flour is False Economy

It is a fact that a high-grade flour requires less shortening, less baking powder, fewer eggs. Good cooks have told us that they use just half as much lard when baking with Gilster's Best Flour.

The small difference in cost between Gilster's Best and ordinary flours, is more than made up in the saving on ingredients. It is real economy to use Gilster's Best Flour.

If you prefer a self-rising flour—Gilster's Featherlite or Gilster's Mother's Joy.

CANDIDATE FOR LEGISLATURE STATES POSITION ON SOME IMPORTANT MATTERS.

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I have had several requests from citizens of the county to make a public statement of some of the things I shall stand for and work to accomplish if I should be elected to represent the county in the Legislature of Alabama.

In compliance with this request I will say that I shall be glad to inform the people at any time how I stand on any public question. Right at this time I cannot go into all the details of the matter and make a statement that will cover everything. In the first place, I do not know all the questions that may arise to be acted upon by your representative. Then in the second place, I have been very busy of late and have not had the time to prepare a lengthy address covering all the things which I could enumerate as a fixed policy, should I be elected.

I want to say first that I deem it a very important matter to have the responsibility of representing my people in the Legislature, and if I should be elected, I assure every citizen in advance that I shall enter upon the duties of the office, fully aware of the interests of the people of my county and the state. There are many very vital matters which I expect to come up in the next Legislature. In all of them it is going to be very important that you have a representative who will stay by the interests of the common people.

The question of taxation is always an important matter before our state Legislature. I think it will be so in the next session. My idea of taxation in the state is to have our laws so constructed as to equalize the burden of taxes so that it will fall with the same proportionate weight upon the shoulders of all people, regardless of wealth, position or power. I do not believe in loading down the poor man with taxes and letting the rich corporations get by with less than their share, measured by the same rule with which the poor man is measured.

As the question of the Ala. Power Company paying taxes is a live issue at present, and I feel sure will come before the next Legislature, I desire to say to the people that I am in favor of repealing the law that has heretofore exempted them from paying taxes for a period of ten years on water power developments. I feel that our County is proud of the great developments that have been made in our county by the power company, and I believe that our people want to be fair to them in all things. But I believe they should pay taxes on their holdings and developments in the same way that anybody else would be taxed.

I believe this is fair both to the power company and the people of the county and state.

I do not favor the repeal of the laws which extend the right of eminent domain under our statutes.

I shall make every effort possible to secure a local bill for Chilton County which will give our people the right to elect their own County Treasurer.

I believe also that our state educational law should be amended so as to give the people in each county the right to elect their county superintendent of education; and further to give the people in each rural school district full authority to elect their own trustees. These trustees elected by the people in any school district should have absolute control of the school property in their districts.

I am in favor of abolishing the office of tax adjuster in every county in Alabama, and putting the matter of valuation of property back in the hands of the people. I believe that men who own farms in Alabama are the best judges as to their value; and I feel that they can be depended upon to assess the same correctly.

There are some other measures which I desire to place before the people before the primary, and will do so just as soon as I have the time. Meanwhile, I invite any suggestions from the people as to what their ideas may be on any questions. I want to represent you honestly and fairly, and to do that I must know what you want.

Respectfully,
W. M. WYATT.

BETHSALEM

Owing to the continued wet weather the past week, there has been but very little farm work done around here and some of the farmers are getting pretty blue over the way the grass is growing. We hope we will have some beautiful weather right away.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS KEEP THE SABBATH?

A large crowd listened with intense interest, while Mr. Mitchell answered this question last Sunday night, at the Adventist Tabernacle. No doubt that many that were there, came after reading the report of the previous sermon, and the announcement of the subject for last Sunday night.

Mr. Mitchell answered this question from the Christian's viewpoint, using as the basis for his remarks Mark 2:27, "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." Along side of this text, the speaker then placed John 1:1-3, Col. 1:16, and drew the conclusion that, if Jesus Christ was the Creator of "all that were made," and the Sabbath "was made" for man, the only conclusion we can draw is that the Saviour Himself made the Sabbath.

"Man" in the text was then shown to mean mankind, and not the Jewish race only. And, if we follow Christ, as all Christians should, we will keep the Sabbath; for in John 15:10 we read that Christ did, and then there is the injection recorded in John 13, "I have left you an example that ye should do as I have done."

Next Sunday night the subject will be "The Sabbath in the New Testament." Song service, and special music. Sermon at 8:00, P. M.

WASHINGTON LETTER

DEMOCRATIC HOKUM

Here is a Democratic paper that tells us one day that the people are against the Republican party because it stands in with "big business" and then the next day it asserts that the Republicans can't get campaign contributions this year because they will not stand in with big business. And in the face of this contradictory information we notice that the Republicans largely predominate in the registration of voters for the future primary elections and the primaries already held are most largely participated in by Republican voters. If the Democrats had any foundation for their assertion that both big business and the mass of the voters were against the Republican party, they would be less active in trying to shape Republican affairs.

NEW ARMY PAY RATES

The Senate has passed the adjusted army compensation bill that provides a new basis of pay of the officers and enlisted personnel of the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, the coast and geodetic survey, and public health service. The act is to become effective at the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1st. The new pay schedules will mean a reduction in the compensation of some, but an increase in that of others. Chairman Wadsworth of the Military Affairs Committee declares that it provides increases from time to time based both on length of service and rank, so that a career in the army will offer added inducements for the young men. The war time rates of pay will expire on July 1st, and would have been succeeded by the pre-war schedule had not the present bill been enacted. The new rates will cost about $1,000,000 more than the pre-war rate based on the present strength of the services, but will be a saving of $16,000,000 below the total based on the present rates.

PARLEY GETS BLUE RIBBON

The platform of the Indiana Republicans marshals the facts concerning the national administration at Washington in a way that must carry conviction to the voters. It gives first place in the list of Republican achievements to the Washington armaments conference. Then come the business administration of President Harding, the enactment of the budget law and all other pieces of legislation that have brought so much benefit to the taxpayers, the pending tariff bill, and the marked tide of prosperity that is setting in all over the country.

FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD

The son of the late Henry P. Davison of New York has chosen a political career in preference to membership in the firm of J. P. Morgan where his father was so prominent. The elder Davison impressed on his son by both precent and practice the facts that money is not everything, and that it is the duty of young men who have the opportunity to devote as much of their time as possible to the public service. Young Mr. Davison is possessed of a comfortable fortune, but instead of applying himself to increasing it he will devote his talents to more altruistic purposes. He is furnishing an example that may well be followed by other young men of character and education.

SHILOH NEWS

Please grant a small space in your paper to say a few words from this place.

We are glad to state the health of this community is fairly good. sems that everybody is moving right on with their grass, in spite of so much rain we are coming right on. We would be proud to see some sunshining weather.

Services were held at Shiloh Saturday and Sunday as usual. We are glad to say we had two fine sermons rendered by Rev. T. J. Deason, our pastor.

The singing society met Sunday afternoon at the usual time and hour. The service was opened by the chairman, F. I. Popwell. The singing was fine by all the directors. We hope to see our church with the Sunday School and Singing Society move on with progress. We intend to make one of the best.

We are sorry to state that Mr. Jobie Wright is very ill at the point of death. Mr. Wright lives in the Bethsalem community and has been in ill conditions for some time.

We are glad to state that Mr. Lonie Keen is improving after a few days of sickness.

I will ring off for this time. Much success to The Union-Banner and the dear editor. We will try to come again soon.

Rev. S. H. Bennett of Montgomery was here Sunday, according to appointment, and preached a very enlightening sermon to a good congregation at the Baptist church.

PROPOSED NEW GIN AND BONDED WAREHOUSE

If you have not already taken stock in the new Thorsby Gin and Warehouse Company, you had better hurry, as it is to be one of the best business propositions that has come to Thorsby for some time. And then you cannot help but realize the need to have the town, as well as the splendid advantages that Thorsby will have in having an up to date Gin and Warehouse.

The plan of the organizers calls for a three-eighty saw Gin outfit, all new machinery, which will guarantee the best and quickest service. The machinery that is so far selected is the Gullette make, which is surpassed by none.

This Gin will clean your cotton from all inferior lint, caused by the boll-weevil, and other rubbish and will give you more lint cotton in weight per bale from your seed cotton than any other machinery on the market today.

The Gullette people say they back this statement absolutely in every respect.

It is further proposed to purchase the warehouse and create a bonded warehouse. A bonded warehouse is of great advantage to the farmer, as all cotton stored in the same is graded by a government grader, and cotton so graded can be sold anywhere in the United States subject to this grade. This means that the whole country is practically the market for your cotton, and insures the farmers of the bigest return.

When you read this, we want you to think of what this means to you and our town, and then go out and get your neighbor interested also. If we all pull tgether we can get what we go after, and Thorsby will become a better town.—Thorsby Tribune.

MASTIN BROTHER'S POULTRY FARM

Among the interesting enterprises of Thorsby and vicinity is the poultry farm of Mastin Brother's, located on the Birmingham and Montgomery highway three miles south of Thorsby. On this farm are to be found about eight hundred standard bred S. C. White Leghorn hens, mostly of the "Hillview" strain and all of them selected for their egg laying abilities. That they live up to their purpose in life is attested to by the fact that they produce more than a bushel of snow white "hen fruit" every day and not even taking a vacation on Sundays or legal holidays. During March they averaged 500 eggs per day. Many of these eggs set in the 1200 egg incubator, which were sold for hatching purposes or is part of the equipment to be found on this farm. This incubator is one of the most up to date machines, and is giving highly satisfactory results. Next year the machine is to be enlarged so as to meet the demand for day old chicks. Many people prefer to buy their chicks when one day old rather than to hatch them themselves. Durng the past season Mastin Brothers furnished their customers with over 900 biddies, but were unable to fill all orders.

In addition to the mature fowls now in their yards they have more than twelve hundred growing chicks, which give promise of furnishing good laying stock for the coming season. Included in this number are fourteen chicks hatched from a setting of eggs purchased this season from one of the leading poultry farms in this country, the setting of eggs costing $10.00. Though their stock is already far above the average, their purpose is to continually improve it both by selecting the best birds from their own flocks for breeding purposes and by introducing new blood into their flock from the best that other poultrymen can produce.—Thorsby Tribune.

Henry-Nonnenmacher Wedding.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized at Grace Episcopal Church, Anniston, Ala., at half after five o'clock, on Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Margarete Nonnenmacher, the lovely young daughter of Mrs. Charles Nonnenmacher and the late Charles Nonnenmacher, became the bride of Mr. Leonard G. Henry. The church was beautifully decorated with hydrangers, ferns and palms, while on the altar were roses and two candlelabras, each with sixteen lighted tapers.

Prior to the entrance of the wedding party, Mrs. Judge C. Kyle rendered a program of nuptial music, assisted by Mr. Eric Doering, violinist and Grace Church choir. Mr. Scott Roberts sang in his splendid way "At Dawning" and as the wedding party approached, the choir sang Lohengrni's Weddnig March .

First entered Messrs Earl L. Jackson and Elbert H. Grogan, followed by Messrs L. Russell and Roy Mason who came up the center aisle and took their places before the altar.

Next entered the Maid of Honor, Miss Elsa Nonnenmacher, who was her sister's only attendant. She wore a becoming frock of apple green taffeta combined with cream lace, and carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty Roses. The bride entered with her brother, Mr. Carl F. Nonnenmacher, of Atlanta, by whom she was given in marriage. She was radiantly beautiful in her bridal dress of Duchess satin, embroidered in pearls, carrying an arm bouquet of sweet peas showered with valley lillies. Her veil of airy tulle was caught in her dark hair with orange blossoms in coronet effect bringing out her girlish beauty. Her only ornament was a beautiful string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

The groom entered from the vestry with his best man, Mr. George Marshal Brummel, awaiting the bride at the altar, where Rev. James Moss Stoney, Rector of Grace Church, performed the beautiful and impressive Episcopal ceremony. During the ceremony Mrs. Kyle played "To a Wild Rose" very softly, and the choir sang "O Perfect Love," after the benediction was pronounced. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used as a recessional as the bridal party left the church.

Immediately after the ceremony the relatives and friends of the two families repaired to the home of the bride's mother for the reception. The entire lower floor of the home was thrown open for this occasion and was artistically decorated in hydrangers and ferns. The guests were welcomed at the door by Miss Ruby Nonnenmacher, wearing handsome black satin, and Miss Helen Doering in a becoming frock of blue georgette. In the receiving line were the bride and groom, Mrs. Charles Nonnenmacher, mother of the bride, handsomely gowned in black lace over gray satin, with corsage of lavender sweet peas, Mr. Carl F. Nonnenmacher, Mrs. George Henry, mother of the groom, wearing an attractive dress of white georgette with corsage of lavender sweet peas, Mr. George Marshall Brummel, Miss Elsa Nonnenmacher and Miss Louise Nonnenmacher, who wore a stunning dress of periwinkle lace over satin with corsage of sweet peas. In the library each guest registered in the bride's book, which was gracefully presided over by Miss Lillian Stokes who was lovely in white Canton crepe with lace. Here also were displayed the many handsome and useful wedding gifts, testifying the love and esteem in which these young people are held.

In the dining room was the bride's table, the center piece of which consisted of the bride's cake in basket shape, beautfully embossed with orange blossoms, white roses and lillies of the valley, from the base of which extended green and white narrow ribbons. The round table was artistically arranged in the bride's colors of white and green softly lighted by candles in silver candlesticks and was covered with a handsome lace cloth. White and green tulle extended from chandelier and was caught to the edges of the table. Here a dainty ice course was served to the guests by a bevy of pretty girls and young matrons, all handsomely gowned. These were Misses Louella Brummel, Kathleen Williams Martha Graham, Mrs. Benjamin Dudley Williams, Mrs. Elbert Boozer (Sallie Foster). Assisting in the library were Misses Florence Wilson, Daisy Henry and Mrs. George Marshall Brummel, sister of the groom. About two hundred and fifty called during the hours of the reception to extend their felicitations to the happy young couple.

The cutting of the bride's cake by the wedding party created much merriment, each one drawing a dainty green or white ribbon from the cake and finding the usual little silver trinkets attached.

Immediately after the reception the bride changed her wedding dress for a smart tailleur fashioned gown of midnight blue poiret twill with blouse of oriole knit silk combined bisque crepe de chine. With this she wore a most becoming Regina hat of oriole milan straw trimmed with ribbon of the same shade, and other accessories of dark brown, carrying a handsome purse of hand tooled leather. Mr. and Mrs. Henry left for Birmingham on the eight o'clock train and from there will go to Cincinnati, Niagara Falls, Toronto, New York, and other eastern points, returning by boat by way of Norfolk. After the tenth of July they will be at home to their many friends at their bungalow on Fourteenth and Christine Avenue.

The above will be read with much interest by Clanton friends of Misses Elsa and Margarete Nonnenmacher, who have visited Mrs. J. J. Pickens, Miss Bess Thomas and Judge and Mrs. E. B. Deason quite often. Miss Elsa Nonnenmacher formerly made her home with Judge and Mrs. Deason and was a teacher in the Grammar School for three years.

It will consist of music selected from the old book of Christian Harmony and Sacred Harp. Classes will be present from Birmingham, Montgomery, Gadsden and Coopers, and a cordial invitation is extended to all persons desiring to participate.

It is desired by the arrangement committee that all automobile parties come by way of Verbena, Ala., and all persons coming by train will be met at Coopers, Ala., by a special train furnished by the Dixie Construction Company and will be able to leave the dam in time to get afternoon accommodation.

J. W. Hayes of Mitchel Dam will be in charge of the singing, and requests that lunch be trought if possible, as accommodations are limited in this respect.

All who cme to the Dam will be able to view the construction work which is going forward at a rapid rate, in addition to enjoying the all day singing.

MAPLESVILLE

Here we come again with some news from our community, as it has been quite a while since we have noticed any news from here.

The farmers are very busy now. They like to see the beautiful showers, but they make the grass grow as well as the crops.

Our Sunday School is making rapid progress under the management of Mr. Jake Wallace as Superintendent. He adopts new plans most every Sunday that are very helpful to the teachers and the school. He has been Superintendent for quite a while and we feel that we could not fnd another that would be more competent to fill the place. Most all of the young people in this community are regular in attendance, and we wish for a larger attendance of the older people.

Mr. J. O. Mize and daughter, Ethel, and several others motored to Shoults Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Albert Shuff of Birmingham spent Wednesday here with Miss Ollie Louise Bearden.

Miss Annie Spivey spent Sunday with Miss Jessie Seales.

Mrs. Emilie Bankhead and little daughter, Blossom, has returned to their home at Jasper, after spending a few days with Mrs. Bankhead's mother, Mrs. T. U. Crumpton.

Since Mr. Albert Shuff has been spending his vacation here, he says he likes country life much better than city life, but we don't think he likes the country life so much as he does a special friend who lives here.

Mrs. Mattie Harlin left Tuesday to spend the remaining part of the week in Haynes with her sister, Mrs. Lays White.

After spending a few days at Thorsby with relatives Mr. W. B. Scott has returned.

MONTGOMERY BARACAS DEFEAT CLANTON

(By Steve Hardee.)

A large number of fans were down at Polk's ball park on last Tuesday afternoon to see Montgomery tramp on Clanton 4 to 3.

Luther Pyron, despite the razzing of the Montgomery Baracas, (his former team mates) shot at him, pitched an excellent game of ball.

Geo. Wyatt is just as much at home in the out field as Brooks Lawrence is in a saloon. Geo. is a good infielder and that's where he belongs.

One of our infielders made three errors, but we promised not to say anything about first basemen. Out side of making seven errors Clanton did fine. Following is the box score:

The Safest Way is to Carry Less Money

Receipts are awkward things to keep. Aren't they?

They vary in shape from theatre ticket to letter-head size. Even Edison couldn't invent a file that would ever keep them in shape. Who wants to keep them any way?

Why don't you pay by check? Then—you could have all your receipts the same size. Furthermore you can't pay a bill that way without getting a receipt.

Every paid and cancelled check returned by us or kept on file in this bank is a recipt for money paid.

It is safer to pay your bills by check. It doesn't pay to carry too much money around.

Start a checking account with us today.

This bank continually strives to give you, as a depositor, the maximum of safety in handling your funds. With this thought in mind, we have purchased for your use, Super-safety Insured bank checks, which are tamper-proof. A glaring white spot gives instant warning when a Super-safety check has been tampered with. The senstive surface color disappears, leaving a vivid white splash when acid, rubber or knife erasure is attempted, giving warning of spuriousness.

We furnish you an individual Super-safety Check Alteration Bond which protects you against loss in case your checks are fraudulently altered or "raised" by the use of acid, rubber-erasure, knife scratch or pen change, when properly wrtten with ink or a check writing machine, or typewriter. You are insured for a total of one thousand dollars.

Your insured checks mean added positive protection, as your currency while in curculation.

This additional Service of Safety is furnished without charge. Tell your friends.

A Statement for Fair-Minded People:

EarlyHistory of the Gorgas Plant

The Alabama Power Company, having acquired the necessary lands and other rights, began the construction of the Gorgas steam plant in 1916, completing it with the first unit of 30,000 H. P. in 1917. There were installed all necessary boiler equipment, stokers and other auxiliaries such as coal cranes, coal conveyors, ash handling equipment, coal storage yards, coal handling tracks, coal mine development, mining machines, mine locomotives and coal cars.

The existence of these structures and equipment ofered to the government during the war a situation of which it could take immediate advantage; and through making use of these structures and equipment the United States acquired a supply of power within five months.

The absence of these structures and equipment, or the failure of the United States to take advantage of this situation, would have delayed considerably the necessary supply of power, as the construction of an individual steam plant by the government would have required a year, or longer.

In designing the Gorgas plant preparation was made for an ultimate installation of three 30,000 H. P. units, and all intake and discharge water canals and underwater foundations for the extensions to take care of two more units were put in with the original installation.

Upon its completion the Gorgas plant then became a most important distributing center for electrical energy, as well as the reserve plant upon which the power company could depend. The company then proceeded to contract with new customers, extending its service into many localities of the state not then served.

Today, during low water in the Coosa River, the Gorgas plant supplies 57 per cent of the total output of power which the Alabama Power Company has contracted to deliver.

CONGRESS AND THE PRES. COMMENDED

A Few of the Many Things the Republican Administration Has done for Country.

Washington, June 5.—The plank in the Republican state platform of Indiana dealing with national affairs is worthy of the study of every voter, especially those who may have any lingering doubt that the Republicans can make a successful fight this year based on the record of the Republican Congress and Republican President. They lank sums up the achievements of the last fifteen months in a way that must bring conviction of success to the Republicans and consternation to the Democrats. The plank was as follows:

"We congratulate President Harding upon the accomplishments of the first year of his administration which have left his fellow countrymen and the world his debtors. Under his leadership there was initiated and carried to a successful conclusion the greatest single move made toward the end of all war—the conference for the limitation of armaments conceived and called by President Harding, its product being promptly ratified by a Republican Senate.

"We have the treaties agreed upon in that conference as great forward steps in the interest of the world and humanity.

"We commend the business administration of President Harding. The increase in value of government securities and the abolition of the nuisance taxes, as well as the improvement in general business, are due to the culminative effect of the policies of the Republican administration.

"The enactment of the splendid budget law by a Republican Congress, in response to a request of a Republican President is but typical of the hearty cooperation and harmony which is betwen the legislature and executive branches of the government under its administration by the Republican party.

"We commend our Republican Congress for its splendid record; for the several acts which extend legitimate aid to the basic industry of agriculture; for the laws for the revision and reduction of taxes.

"We commend Congress for handling the industrial situation as a problem in which all Americans are vitally concerned, and for its evidence of all efforts to cure industrial depression with radical and socialistic remedies which would only work a greater injury to the wage earners. By lifting the burden of taxation Congress benefitted the working men particularly because they are the ultimate consumers who bear the brunt of the heavy taxes.

"As a result, business is experiencing a revival. The number of unemployed is less than half of that of a year ago, industry is on the upgrade, payrolls are being increased and the wage earners are assured that relief is at hand from the industrial depression in which the Democratic administration left them.

"We favor the earliest possible repeal of the present Democratic tariff law, under which there has been a widespread depression and unemployment before and since the world war and the enactment of a protective measure extending to American labor and enterprise tariff rates fully equalizing the cost of production at home and abroad. We predict that the enactment of a tariff law adequately potective of Ameican labor, in conjunction with the other constructive measures of the Harding administration, will be followed by a complete resumption of industry and an era of prosperity without parallel in our national history."

NO. ONE WILL NOT STOP AT CLANTON

L. & N. Wins Contention by Decree of Judge Jones of Montgomery.

Compliance with the order of the Public Service Commission requiring the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company to maintain Clanton as a flag stop for its southbound passenger train No. 1 would be burdensome on interstate commerce, Judge Walter B. Jones of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit, held, Monday, Judge Jones issued a decree vacating the order of the Public Service Commission.

This order was issued by the Public Service Commission June 9, 1920. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad appealed from the action of the commission to the circuit court. The grounds of appeal included the contention that adequate passenger service is provided for Clanton without maintaining that point as a flag stop for southbound passenger No. 1 and that the enforcement of such an order would result in interference with interstate commerce.

Judge Jones said in his opinion that from the evidence submitted it is shown that the passenger train service now furnished by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad is adequate and ample for the needs of Clanton and the adjacent community.

"Passenger train No. 1 is an interstate train operated by the complainant from Cincinnati, in the state of Ohio, to New Orleans, in the state of Louisiana," reads an excerpt from the opinion handed down by Judge Jones. "It is a highly competitive train and at the present time maintains as fast a schedule as can be reasonably maintained by the complainant.

"A compliance with this order of the Alabama Public Service commission will be a burden upon the complainant's interstate commerce and will constitute a direct interference with the interstate business of the complainant. It will materially handicap the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company in competing with other railroad companies for passenger traffic business from the north to the cities located on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company in the states of Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana."

It was held by Judge Jones that from the facts and circumstances in the case, as shown by the testimony, that the order of the Public Service Commission was unreasonable and unjust.

Friend Farmer

WHO is looking after and protecting your interest when you are at home and at work?

WHO is going to protect you when you carry your products, the fruit of hard toil, to market?

WHO is going to advise you and assist you in time of trouble, and protect your personal interest?

WHO is going to champion you and your interest in questions of finance, legislation, roads, schools, and taxation?

WHO is going to checkmake large landed interests, and popularize home ownership, and thus give you a chance to own and have a home of your own?

WHO is it that's meeting the issues of the farmer squarely, without pretense or sham, and demanding an immediate adjustment of his grievances?

WHO IS IT that's seeking your membership and support from proofs of what has been done, instead of what is to be done?

ANSWER:

The only unquestionable and undebatable answer you can give, is, that it's the

RATE REDUCTION TO COME JULY 1

TEN PER CENT REDUCTION OF FREIGHT RATES BOTH INTERSTATE AND INTRASTATE.

TO BUY REGISTERED CATTLE

Birmingham Commission Legal—Alabama Coal Scale Fixed—Klan Helps Church—Rains Damage Crops—Tonnage Tax Paid—Disabled Veterans Organize.

Montgomery—Railroads in Alabama will make a reduction of 10 per cent in all freight rates, both interstate and intrastate, July 1. This information was given the public service commission by A. R. Smith, vice-president of the Louisville and Nashvilel road, who spoke as chairman of the committee of railroads. Mr. Smith said the railroads had accepted the report of the interstate commerce commission, which provided for reductions of one half in the last increase of 25 per cent permitted by the commission, the reduction being a net decrease of 10 per cent in all rates.

The public service commission of Alabaam ordered the same reduction on intrastate rates in Alabama as soon as the interstate commerce commission acted. Mr. Smith, not having been advised of the action of the Alabama commission, requested permission to make the decrease in intrastate rates. In accepting the decrease, Mr. Smith said the railroads do not agree with the conclusion of the interstate commerce commission that there will be a net return of 5.75 per cent to the railroads under the new rates. He also declared the railroads could not agree that the reductions are justified in the southern group, but would hope that reductions in labor costs would mean that the legal earnings of the railroads could be maintained.

Disabled Veterans Organize.

University—A chapter of disabled American Veterans of the World War has been organized in this city and the following officers were elected: Judson Snead, C. C.; Carl McCaffrey, V. C. C.; F. C. Wood, adjutant; W. C. Taylor, treasurer; John Otis and Charles B. Thomas, sergeants-at-arms. Summer vacation for vocational students will not be given until August, when two weeks will be given before the opening of the fall term. Meetings of the recently organized club will be held in Morgan hall during the summer and all members are looking forward to its progress with much interest.

Tuscaloosa Hospital Bonds Sold.

Tuscaloosa—The Sidney Spitzer Company of Cincinnati was awarded the Tuscaloosa Hospital bond issue of $50,000. The bid of the Spitzer Company was in the sum of $47,560, or a ratio of 95.12 per cent of the par value of the issue. The bonds bear five per cent and mature in 30 years. The new city hospital, costing $100,000, is well under construction and will be completed by the middle of August. Teh remaining $50,000 was paid by popular subscription among the citizens of Tuscaloosa.

Three Alabama Women Survive.

Out of 49 women surviving whose husbands fought in the War of 1812 three live in Alabama. The others are scattered through 22 states of the nation. Those living in Alabama are: Mrs. Julia Ann Smith, 86, Wadley, widow of Private James Pugh, Virginia Militia; Mrs. Jane E. DeWitt, Mississippi militia, and Mrs. Missouri T. Godwn, 79, Pell Cty, widow of Private Alexander Godwin, Tennessee militia.

To Buy Registered Cattle.

Dadeville—The Dadeville Civic Club is making arrangements to buy at least three registered Jersey bulls and is starting a campaign for better cattle on the farms of the county. Many of the leading farmers are taking an active interest in the matter.

New Rate is Established.

Mobile—A rate that will put Mobile on parity with New Orleans for Pacific Coast business for exports to Cuba and South America will soon be in effect. The rate will apply on canned goods, dried fruit, beans and other commodities shipped from the Pacific to Gulf ports and then exported to southern points.

Alabama Coal Scale Fixed.

Alabama's coal scale was fixed at 25 cents per ton below the final Garfield scale by a decision of Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, announced following a conference with Alabaam coal operators, during which the operators agreed to this scale as being fair. Under the Garfield scale the price for the bulk of run-of-mine coal varied from $2.45 to $2.85, which by Secretary Hoover's fair price decision is now fixed at $2.20 and $2.60.

NO COMPROMISE WITH DISHONOR

Time Will Bring Approval of the World to Harding Administration.

Washington, June 12.—"Time will undoubtedly bring the Harding administration a world-wide approval of its course in declining to send representatives to Genoa or The Hague to attend a conference which would recognize the Soviet government of Russia," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Johanthan Bourne, Jr. "President Harding's decision was based upon fundamentally sound reasons, and, though certain European interests may be temporarily displeased, they will ultimately realize that the course pursued by the United States was best for the permanent welfare of Europe and the world.

"To recognize the Soviet regime and extend it a loan of the desired billion dollars would not lead to a restoration of industry in Russia. Ten billion dollars would be used directly or indirectly to maintain the military organization by which the Lenine government keeps itself in power. If the money should be directly employed in industry, other funds to a corresponding amount would be withdrawn from industry, to support the military organization. The whole bolshevik scheme of confiscation, euphoniously called 'nationalization,' is unsound and must ultimately fall. A loan to the Soviet government cannot afford even a temporary relief to the Russian people. Pouring American money into the vaults of an international thief would but encourage the thief to continue in his evil ways. It would afford him the means of supporting himself in his nefarious business.

"Certain European nations would like to see the United States extend direct aid to Soviet Russia, for they would be the immediate beneficiaries of every dollar so spent. In the end, however, they will see the futility of such compromises with dishonor, and will commend the wisdom and courage which guided President Harding in refusing to temporize with Bolshevism."

CARD OF THANKS

We take great pleasure in thanking, both white and colored, citizens of Clanton for their kind assistance given us in the sudden death of our son, Willie K. Draper.

SPEAKING AT MAPLE SPRINGS

There will be public speaking at Maple Springs School house on Friday night of this week.

NOTES OF INTEREST FROM THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE

E. A. Summers, a white man, was arrested at Mitchell Dam last Sunday on a charge of public drunkenness and carrying a concealed weapon.

Anna McWhorter, negro woman, at Mitchell Dam was arrested last Sunday. She is charged with stabbing a negro man with a knife while the two were engaged in a fight.

Will McNeill, negro man, was arrested last Sunday at Mitchell Dam on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Two white men giving their names as Joe Moore and Will Goodman, were taken from passenger train No. 2 by Sheriff Gore last Sunday morning and placed in jail. The arrests were made upon instructions received from Birmingham. The two men are believed to be mail robbers. They are in jail here awaiting further investigations by the post office authorities.

BETHANY

I am indeed glad to state that health of this place is very good at present, except Mrs. N. O. Stroud, who has the mumps. we sympathize with her and truly hope her a speedy recovery.

Farmers are still very busy around these parts. Everybody is very busy fighting "general green's army."

Mr. Bennie Dees has deserted this community here of late, and returned to the Mtchell Dam.

To show our deep gratitude to Mr. L. P. Cagle we must state that he has proved himself to be the champion farmer of this community.

Mr. I. C. Dees of Mitchell Dam spent Saturday night with his cousin, Mr. A. D. Huett.

Miss Prudie Boockholdt spent Saturday night with her esteemed friend, Miss Myrtle Keel.

Mr. Dalton Weldon was seen to pass through this community late Saturday afternoon.

Prof. Ivory D. Huett has contracted for an eighteen days music school at Bethsalem this summer. We hope him a wash pot full of success.

Mr. David Dennis, of the Flaketown Graphite mines was a visitor to this community recently. We were glad to see him again.

Say, folks, Democrats or Republicans, I expect it would be a good idea for us to watch after the mad dog proposition a little more closely now for awhile. Several dogs around here have had the grand priviledge of passing from time into enternity by acting a little strange recently.

Mr. Robert Morris and family visited the home of Mr. C. B. Huett Saturday night.

We congratulate Mr. Randolph Neeley because of his nice stand of cotton which he has at last been able to obtain.

Prof. J. W. Cagle of Mitchell Dam, paid his regular visit to home folks Saturday night.

We are indeed glad to state that Mrs. C. B. Huett is rapidly recovering from her recent sickness.

Mrs. J. W. Cagle and Mrs. R. C. Morris visited Mrs. Nellie Hatcock Saturday.

Mr. C. B. Huett has hastened his dog out of this timed world by shooting, thus causing the writer much sorrow which he hopes to soon out grow.

Rev. B. F. Dykes and family are visitors to this community now.

As news is running low I will consider myself hushed until next week. But look out for me then.

You can bring the color to your cheeks and the sparkle of health to your eyes by taking Tanlac.—Upchurch Drug Co.

ALL DAY SINGING AT MITCHEL DAM

Verbena, Ala., June 7—Preparations are being made for an old fashioned "all day singing" to be held at Mitchell Dam on Sunday, June 18, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

It will consist of music selected from the old book of Christian Harmony and Sacred Harp. Classes will be present from Birmingham, Montgomery, Gadsden and Coopers, and a cordial invitation is extended to all persons desiring to participate.

It is desired by the arrangement committee that all automobile parties come by way of Verbena, Ala., and all persons coming by train will be met at Coopers, Ala., by a special train furnished by the Dixie Construction Company and will be able to leave the dam in time to get afternoon accommodation.

J. W. Hayes of Mitchel Dam will be in charge of the singing, and requests that lunch be brought if possible, as accommodations are limited in this respect.

All who cme to the Dam will be able to view the construction work, which is going forward at a rapid rate, in addition to enjoying the all day singing.

There will be public peaking at Shoults School house on the night of June 23rd. Everybody is invited to be there.

MALARIA AND TYPHOID ARE TO BE ERADICATED

Jobs Will Be Given to Ex-Service Men who can Qualify for the Work.

Montgomery, Ala., June 12—In the fight against malaria and typhoid in Alabama, the State Board of Health is planning to give a few good positions as inspector to former service men who are entitled to vocational training and desire to learn sanitary engineering work. These positions will pay from $100 to $150 a month and will enable the former soldier to learn a profession for which there is always a demand. The trained sanitary engineer and inspector never have to hunt for jobs.

These men will be placed in charge of the work of drainage, ridding communities of mosquito breeding places screening, and other activities of the engineering department under the direct supervision of a competent sanitary engineer.

Arrangements have been made with the Veterans Bureau for training a limited number of former soldiers in this work.

A campaign is on to eradicate malarial and typhoid disease in Alabama, especially in the small towns and rural sections and the progress thus far made is most satisfactory. Deaths from malaria in one county have been reduced from 54 in 1917 to 10 in 1921.

Twelve other Southern states are engaged in this fight against these diseases and the Alabama State Board of Health is endeavoring to lead the list in accomplishments along this line.

Malaria work is being done in cooperation with the United States Public Health Service under direction of Dr. L. D. Fricks and it is the purpose of Dr. Fricks and the State Board of Health to secure inspectors strictly on the basis of skill and efficiency instead of allowing them to be appointed to pay a political debt.

If there are in Chilton county any ex-soldiers entitled to vocational training who would like to learn to be trained sanitary inspectors, Dr. S. W. Welch, State Health Officer, would like to get in touch with them.

Barbecue, Base Ball. Games, Public Speaking, and All Round Big Time.

Mr. A. L. Dyer of Stanton has requested the Clanton papers to announce that preparations are being made for a barbecue, ball games and a public speaking at Stanton on the 23rd of this month. They are expecting to have a big day, and invite everybody to come.

An effort is being made to get Judge Brandon down there to speak, but if it is not possible to get him, some other good speaker will be obtained.

Plans include two ball games for the day. One game will be played with the Stanton and Brent Teams contending for the honors. And Mr. Dyer says they are going to try to get the Clanton team booked for the other game.

The proceeds of the day will go to the Stanton school which is now being built.

Fillmore Childress of Thorsby, was among the visitors to Clanton Tuesday.

BAPTISTS OF CLANTON HEAR REV. OGLETREE

The congregation of the Clanton Baptist Church was delighted last Sunday night to listen to a very forceful sermon by the Rev. W. D. Ogletree of Montevallo. The visiting minister from our neighboring city came here upon the invitation of the pulpit committee of the Clanton church to fill the pulpit, the church at the present time having no regular pastor.

Rev. Ogletree preached a very interesting sermon, which was received with great satisfactin by his hearers. The church is making preliminary plans to extend a call to a new pastor as soon as possible, and it is probable that Rev. Ogletree will be considered by the pulpit committee.

OUR OWN QUARTETT

Chilton county will not be compelled in the future to "order" quartett singers from Tennessee, Texas, or some foreign clime. We have one of our own that is rapidly coming into prominence. It is composed of Green Retherfrd, Jesse Jones, Renfro Jones and Herbert Lowery. They have already sung at several different places in the county with splendid success. They have several dates ahead now, and promise a program of much interest.

Last Sunday they sang with the United Singing Society at Unio Grove. On the fourth Sunday they will be at Oak Hill.

STRAWTER TEEL DEAD.

The death of Mr. Strawter Teel occurred about 7:30 o'clock last Friday morning at his home in Clanton. He had been ill for about two weeks suffering from injuries received when he was run over by an automobile.

The deceased leaves a wife and one daughter and one son. His remains were buried in New Salem Cemetery Saturday, after funeral services at the home, conducted by Rev. Pear-

The many friends of the family in Clanton extend their sympathy to the bereaved ones.

SOME FOREIGN TARIFF CHANGES

United States is Not the Only Country Engaged in Tariff Revision.

Washington, June 13.—The United States is not the only country engaged in tariff revision. Austrian duties on nonluxury goods, as paid in paper, have been increased to 1,000 times the basic gold rates which will give some idea of inflation in that country. In Hungary the basic duties on imported luxuries are to be multiplied by 170 when paid in paper. There has been a teriffic depreciation of exchange in this country, a fact which was emphasized recently when a printing house in Budapest circularized this country with an offer to furnish the paper, envelopes, print, fold, address and pay postage on 10,000 circulars for 25,000 kronen, or, as the house pointed out, $36 in American money. "Please let us have sample copies of advertising literature you desire printed, upon receipt of which we will promptly furnish you with advantageous offers," said the Hungarian advertisement. The best price that could be obtained in New York City on the same was $293.50.

The new tariff amendments became effective 12th, last. The duties on articles have been increased as much as five times the former rates. If any such proposition was presented to the American people there would be a roit. As it is, the minority are putting up an awful wail because of duty rates which on the average will probably not exceed those of the old Payne law.

The new tariff of the Virgin Islands of the British West Indies has for preferential rates on goods of British origin, in harmony with the general British scheme of preferentials to products of the British Empire. The United Kingdom has now established the imperial preferential system in practically all its territary.

In mesopotamia the duties on a large number of products have been materially increased. In Argentina the Minister of Finance has issued a resolution providing that "goods which, in accordance with the tariff of values and its complementary regulations, must be weighed inclusive of their wrappings and internal containers will be subject to an increase of 10 per cent of their respective valuation." In the Union of South Africa, where heretofore large amounts of advertising have been sent by Amreican firms, they are collecting a duty on catalogs, price lists, etc.

These countries are looking after their own interests and the United Sates must look after its own.

DEATH OF MR. HONER

Harry C. Honer, age 43, died on Tuesday at Mitchell Dam, where he was living with his daughter. Mr. Honer had been sick for a long time and his death was not altogether a surprise. The funeral was conducted from Martin's undertaking parors on Wednesday by Rev. D. M. Pearson of the Clanton Methodist Church, after which burial took place in the Clanton Cemetery.

THE REFUGE SINGING

The all day singing at Refuge Sunday was fine. The house was called to order by O. R. Robinson, after which prayer was offered by Mr. W. H. Robinson. Mr. W. H. Robinson served as Chairman for the day. O. R. Robinson, J. Dudley Collins and T. J. Miner was appointed arranging committee. Program was as follows: Directors for the morning, W. H. Robinson, G. C. Powell, J. E. Miner, O. R. Robinson, E. L. Powell, T. G. Wyatt. All three sang three songs each. Next a fine quartette by E. L. Powell, J. W. Cleckler, G. C. Powell, R. M. Robinson. After which adjourned for one and one-half hours for dinner. A table was filled with plenty of good things and everybody was invited to come up and eat, but there was plenty left. Was called back to order at 1:30 by a duet rendered by W. H. Robinson and R. M. Robinson. Directors for the evening were as follows: R. M. Robinson, O. L. Devaughn, J. W. Cleckler, C. H. Robinson, J. A. W. Mims, J. H. Lembrick, R. E. Powell, all three songs each. After which a fine quartette was rendered by O. R. Robinson, R. M. Robinson, G. C. Powell, O. L. Devaughn. Organists for the day were: Misses Lillie Mae Weldon, Letha Mims, Martha J. Mims, Margie Easterling and C. H. Robinson. A short talk was given by Rev. M. J. Parrish, which came in nicely. Closing song was, "God be with you till we meet again," by W. H. Robinson. Dismissed by Rev. W. W. Robinson. We had a large crowd including several of our good candidates, which were glad to have with us. It seems that everybody was interested in the song service and not the things of the world for words cannot express our thanks and gratitude to the good people for their good behavior and kindness which they showed to us and to their God while at this place. So everyone is cordially invited to come back agan. Our singing society meets every first and third Sunday evenings at 2:00 p. m. Everybody is invited to come and attend our services that will and desires to.

Sunday is our regular preaching day. Come, everybody that can, for I am sure that Rev. M. J. Parrish will have something good for us. Thanking the editor for this space in his good paper, I will close for this time

ALABAMA NEWS IN PARAGRAPHS

A CHRONICLE OF THE WEEK'S HAPPENINGS IN BRIEF FORM.

WEEVIL DOING MUCH DAMAGE

Fighting Bean Beetle—Trade Body Organized—Coal Mines To Operate—Gas Companies Cited—Screening Law Upheld—Auburn Buys Jerseys

Montgomery—Residents of Alabama's three largest cities, Montgomery, Birmingham and Mobile, are interested in a citation issued by the Alabama Public Service Commission. In this citation the commission calls on the Birmingham Railway, Light & Power Company, the Montgomery Light & Water Power Company and the Mobile Electric Company to show cause why their regulation which requires a deposit in advance by consumers for an etxension of gas mains or electric distributing lines should not be revised.

Trade Body Organized.

Huntsville—The campaign for the building up of the Chamber of Commerce is expected to be finished within the week and there is no further doubt now that it will be a success. The original goal was 400 members and of this number 353 have already been signed up. Committees of business and professional men have been working an hour or two each day enlisting new members for three years and several committees were dispatched to the country after prominent county business men and farmers.

To Fight Bean Beetle.

Mulga—Some difficulty is being experienced by the gardeners and truck growers in this section in their efforts in trying to successfully fight the bean beetle, due to the continued rains. It is said that every application of remedies to check their destructive work is soon destroyed by a rain and in many gardens and truck farms they are rapidly destroying the bean crop.

Station Name Change Asked.

Robertsdale—The citizens of Robertsdale, Baldwin County, appeared before the Public Service Commission, asking that the L. & N. R. R. be required to change the name of their station at Robertsdale and give it the name of the town. At present the railroad has this station named on its time tables as Silver Hill. It appeared from the evidence brought out that at the time of establishing the station, there was no town existing there, and the station was located to serve a town named Silver Hill, some three miles off the line and has never been changed, although there has now grown up around the station quite a substantial little town, which in the postal guide is named Robertsdale. The matter was heard at length and taken under advisement by the commission.

New Peach Appears.

Albany—"The Eubanks Prospect" is the name of a new peach which has made its appearance here. According to J. Y. Newton, on whose place the tree is located, it was bought from a Mr. Eubanks, who lives in Prospect, Tenn., was brought here last January, set out, and already has borne ripe fruit. "That's speed," was Mr. Newton's only comment.

Auburn Buys Jerseys.

Auburn—The purchase of three excellent Jersey cows by the Experiment Station from the famous W. J. Ezell herd, Lewisburg, Tennessee, is announced by Prof. J. C. Grimes, head of the Animal Husbandry Department. They were selected by William Hardie, Dairy Specialist for the Extension service, a few days ago.

Screening Law Upheld.

Montgomery—Birmingham's city ordinance requiring the screening of fruit stands and meat markets as a general protection against flies were upheld in a decision by the supreme court in the case of N. A. Barrett, et al, versus Frank Rietta, et al, appealed from the Jefferson Circuit Court.

Coal Mines To Operate.

Hanceville—The Stouts Mountain Coal Company will resume operations in a few days, working full time as they now can find sale for their coal, which for the last few months has been hard to sell.

To Build Highways.

Decatur—The Morgan County Board of Revenue is meeting at the courthouse to give the final touches to arrangements for the issuance of road bonds totalling $409,000. The work is expected to begin early next month. It is the plan of the board to begin work in each of the commissioner's districts simultaneously. The county projects will be built in addition to the ones contemplated by the state and federal governments.

CENTRAL HOSPITAL NOW HAS MANY PATIENTS

Large Number of Cases Being Handled With Marked Success.

Things have been in a rush at the Central Alabama Hospital for the past week or more. Practically the entire capacity of the building devoted to the care of white patients has been taken up. There was only one vacant room left most of the time, and for part of the time every room was occupied.

"Tip" Popwell, son of Walter Popwell, was brought to the Hospital last Saturday with a mangled hand. He received his injuries from a tractor.

Mrs. Jeff Jones who was operated on last week, is now able to sit up, and will be out in a few days.

Mrs. Julia Cleckler, who was operated on last Friday for appendicitis and other troubles is rapidly recovering.

Mr. Gip Melton's little boy has been in the hosptal to have a cut foot repaired.

Mrs. Will T. White of Mulberry underwent a serious operation last Saturday and is now rapidly recovering.

Mrs. Willams of Billingsley is in the hospital for treatment; also Miss Annie Mae Huckabee and a child of Tom Smitherman.

ALL DAY SINGING

There will be an all day singing at Pleasant Grove Church, four miles South west of Jemison, on the 4th Sunday in June. All singers and lovers of music are invited to come and bring your 1922 song books and well filled baskets.

Common Sense About Eczema and Eruptions!

Here's Something About S. S. S. That You'll Be Glad to Hear.

You might just as well know it right now,—the cause of skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, boils and so on, is right in the blood. There is no getting away from it. Science has proved it. We prove it. You can prove it.

When the cause of skin troubles and eruptions is in the blood, it isn't common sense to simply treat the skin.

Let S. S. S. Give You An Angelic Skin!

A bottle of S. S. S. will prove to you what is happening in your blood. S.S.S. is a scientific blood cleanser.—it drives out the impurities which cause eczema, tetter, rash, pimples, boils, blackheads, blotches and other skin eruptions. When these impurities are driven out, you can't stop several very nice things from happening. Your lips turn naturally rosy. Your eyes sparkle, your complexion clears. It becomes beautiful. Your face looks like that of a prosperous, ruddy, well-fed, refined gentleman, or if you are a woman, your complexion becomes the real kind that the whole world so admires. S.S.S. is also a powerful body-builder, because it builds new and more blood-cells. That's why it fills out sunken cheeks, bony necks, thin limbs, helps regain lost flesh. It costs little to have this happen to you. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

We Know What it Is.

A Democrat, asking himself the question," What is the Public Service Commission anyhow?" answer his own query this way: "It must be just a few juicy cogs in the state political machine."

You are eminently correct, brother; but you shut your mouth on your answer just before you told the real underlying truth of the situation. The Public Service Commission is not by any means the only fat juicy cog in our state political machine. There are various and sundry others.

How is it that the Democratic party in Alabama can get by with their schemes which put over these useless juicy jobs for their select faithful and oppress the masses? Here's the answer: They are enabled to do it because the people of the state have been politically blinded and hog tied by that infamous fallacy of one-party make-shift government.

Why have not the Democrats in control of Alabahma's governmental affairs long since cut out the useless offices and juicy cogs? Because they don't want to do it, and the people of the state have not adopted any practical means to make them do it. They will never do it so long as Alabama's people let themselves continue to be hoodwinked by a one-party system that can only boast of "a historical record, that has always stood for absolute white supremacy in the south, and has lived up to its convctions."

Mr. Democrat, while your party has been flaming the red rag of prejudice in your face and keeping you as mad as the devil about "historical records," so-called "white supremacy," and high-sounding convictions," right behind the screen which you have never been permitted to see through, they are continually and ceaselessly adding the "juicy cogs" of one-party politics that is and has ever been grinding away the only vestige of free government that you could ever hope to claim.

Democrats must have more faith and patience than old Job or less political sense than it takes to run a goober-parcher, to let themselves continue to be fooled by the promises of their party leaders in Alabama to reform their system and cut out the fat, juicy, useless cogs. They have been lying to you for the last half a century, and you know that they have not done any better. They have been telling you that the one-party, Democratic party government was the best for you, and you know, if you know anything, that it has grown worse and worse day after day, and year after year.

The only way for you Democrats who want the useless juicy cogs cut out of your party to get what i rightly yours is to lay aside that mess of nigger prejudice with which you have been strangled to death and vote the Republican ticket. By doing this you can show the Democratic spell-binders and hood-winkers that you are on to their game of deception. Then you will begin to see the juicy cogs lose some of their juice and some of the convictions get more convicting and some of the historical records give place to some real present-day legistation and government that will be worth while to people who are living in the present day atmosphere.

One-party, bosh! The fellow who tries to make folks believe that the Democratic one-party system in Alabama is best for the people, is in our opinion, making of himself a ridiculous aspect in the minds of all practical, thinking peple.

Look out people, the Democratic party in Alabama has at last decided to reform and live a better life. Or at least they say they have taken uch a notion. Don't suppose you ever heard of them making such promises before, did you?

The Democratic party in Alabama has become such a "one-party" party that they are actually about to drift into practice of a "one-candidate" party. Most all the leading Democrats in the state are advocating the plan of having only one candidate for Governor, to-wit: Bill Brandon, and giving him the office carte-blanche. Bill has taken his own sweet time about announcing his platform, but that is all right. It would have suited the "one-party" crowd if he had refused to state any platform at all. How in the name of high heaven can anybody figure that the people have a chance to elect the kind of officers they need when there is only one party in the state, and that party has only one candidate for governor? That is some Democracy, eh? Yes, not only Democracy with a capital "D" but possibly in "all caps."

We don't blame a man particularly for being a Democrat, provided he don't know any better; but we are made to feel sad when we encounter one of those birds who contends that his party, and only his party is safe for the people of the state or nation.

Attorney Grady Reynolds made a business trip to Birmingham Tuesday.

Chilton County Gets Publicity.

Mr. J. N. Dennis has submitted to The Union-Banner an interesting copy of "North and South" a magazine published at Louisville, Ky., which is devoted to the industrial and agricultural resources of the South. This copy dated May, 1922, deals with "Attractive Alabama—Tennessee Valley to the Prairie Belt," and is profusely illustrated with photographs of farm scenes in all counties along the L. & N. Railroad from the Tennessee River to Montgomery. In addition to the pictures there is also contained in the magazine a great deal of interesting reading matter, giving many facts and figures of the agricultural progress of these counties.

In the section which is devoted to Chilton County, pictures are shown of the Rhode Island White Chickens of Dr. Mastin; a combination wheat, vetch, crimson clover, bur clover and yellow sweet clover of Mr. J. N. Dennis; White Leghorns on the poultry farm of Mastin Brothers; J. D. Collins' wheat field; oat field of Judge L. H. Reynolds; view of Thompson peach orchard at Thorsby; the Chilton County High School at Clanton. Thestory which accompanys these pictures is very interesting, relating in a well arranged summary what can be done with the lands and resources of Chilton County in the hands of live and progressive farmers.

The Time is Not Yet.

When the Republican party of Chilton county fails to render to the people a just, fair and equitable administration of the country's business, you can depend upon it then that the people will turn the Republicans ut of the offices and try the Democrats a spell. That is right, and is an incontrovertible example of the fact that the "more than one party" system of government is the best for the people. But we want to add just this word. We do not believe that the time has yet arrived when the people are ready to turn away from the Republican party. For the past six years we have witnessed a management of the county by Republican officials, the fairest, most economical and most business like of any period the people of the county have ever seen.

Therefore we feel that our people are satisfied with the Republican party's way of serving them, and we do not believe that the great majority of them have any distant idea of turning to the Democrats. We believe this holds true withut regard as to who is nominated for the various offices by either party.

Britain Dependable.

Delay of Great Britain in ratifying the armaments treaties must not be taken as any intention on the part of the British of evading their terms. The English law provides that treaties must receive the endorsement of the dominions before they are ratified by the king. The proceeding takes time, but meanwhile the British admiralty has taken steps that practically make the treaties operative. The personnel of the ships is being reduced to the point that the navy reduction treaty permits, stores of ammunition are being cut down, preparations are under way for breaking up certain capital ships, and a bill is being drafted for introduction in Parliament that will enable the carrying out in full of the treaty obligations. It is expected that the measure will pass at about the time the dominions have all signified their assent to the undertakings.

A Losing Bargain.

Everybody in Old Home Town felt proud when it secured a furniture factory several years ago. True, the factory employed in flush times only a superintendent, a combination bookkeeper-stenographer and about a dozen workmen. But it was Old Home Town's first factory.

The Old Home Town Commercial Club had to make an alluring bid to win the factory away from other country towns that nursed hopes of industrial greatness. Two acres abutting the railroad yards were bought by popular subscription and given as a free site; moreover, it was generally understood the tax collector would be "reasonable" in his visits to the factory.

About the same time the factory was secured the farmers in the county decided to build a co-operative elevator and shipping pens. They took up with the Old Home Town Commercial Club the matter of getting a good site near the railroad yards. But the commercial club wasn't interested; it didn't particularly like the idea of farmers getting into business. It figured that the first thing anybody knew they'd be steppng on some town merchant's toes. If the farmers wanted a site they could see the real-estate men about it.

So the farmers finally located their elevator and shipping pens at Newburg, a village some ten miles distant frm Old Home Town. Newburg didn't have a factory and wasn't very hopeful of ever getting one. It welcomed the farmers and saw that they got a good site at a fair price. After all, some of them were neighbors who bought quite a lot of stuff at Newburg stores in the course of a year.

The furniture factory in which Old Home Town once rejoiced is closed now. It was too small to stand the keen industrial competition. The superintendent, the bookkeeper-stenographer and the twelve workmen have moved away to where they can find work. The merchants in Old Home Town are complaining about business being poor these days; they say they haven't many regular customers as they once had and wonder why.

The answer is that they have lost the trade of something like a hundred farm families that now do their buying at Newburg, because there is where they market their grain and livestock. More farmers are turning to Newburg every year; it really isn't so much farther when you have an automobile. And the Newburg business men seem to appreciate the farm trade. It's pleasant to go there.

Hundreds of Old Home Towns are still making or trying to make the same losing bargain to-day. They are reaching out after the will-o'-the-wisp of factories and mills and paying little attention to the greatest factory—the farm. Yet in the main they all are wholly dependent for their prosperity on the farms that surround them—they always will be. —Country Gentleman.

Private Capital Only.

There is every reason why surplus American capital should be invested in the restoration of Europe, but it should be private capital, invested in private enterprise in accordance with the usual principles and practices of private Business. So far as American capital is needed for the development of enterprises in the United States, it should, and will, be used here. The people who have saved some of their earnings and have it available for investment, naturally desire to invest it as close to home as possible. But there are many indications that there is a surplus of capital, and there is no place where it can be more usefully or profitably used abroad than in devastated Europe. If wisely invested, it should bring satisfactory returns.

The occasion for government loans has passed. Europe does not need and should not have more government loans granted on grounds of national expediency. What Europe needs is a restoration of private industry through which the govenments may get back on a normal basis. The investment of money in private enterprise is purely a private transaction and should be, as it evidently will be, conducted on purely business principles so far as amounts, security, rates of interest, and time are concerned. Whenever American business leaders who are now in Europe negotiate loans on terms which they deem satisfactory for the safety of their own money, they will undoubtedly find plenty of fellow citizens with far smaller savings, who will be glad to join in financing the loans.

Government officials may be capable censors of the political propriety of foreign loans but they are hardly proper judges of security and terms on which loans should be made. The men whose money is to be loaned and who stand to gain or lose by the soundness of their judgment, are the only ones whose sanction should be relied upon.

In accordance with its general principle of putting less government in business and more business in government, the Harding administration is wisely leaving the money lendng business to private enterprises.

New officers for the Congregational Christian Endeavor Society for the summer are, Miss Lorena Primm President, Wilbur Peterson Vice-President, Jessie Mims Secretary, Margaret Butler Treasurer. On Tuesday night the society held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler what they called a two-cent entertainment. There were eight side shows and refreshments, and one of these departments could be patronized for two cents, but the whole could be had at a bargain price of ten cents. There was a good crowd and lots of fun.

At the Sunday night meeting, led by Miss Bernice Williams, there was a good attendance in spite of the fact that many of the Institute students had gone home for the summer. Owing to careful preparation on the part of the leader, there was the usual interest manifest and the meeting was a decided success.

At a meeting of the Congregational Sunday School Council, after church service Sunday morning, Mrs. C. M. Wililams was elected teacher of the intermediate class for girls, and Rev. W. H. Clem as teacher for the intermediate class for boys.

Miss Bertha Littleton has finished her review course at Massey Business College in Birmingham, having passed all examinations with an average grade of 98. After resting at home for a few weeks she will take up a position in an office at Clanton.

Mr. Willie Scott of Maplesville is spending a few days in Thorsby.

After resting at home until June 24th she goes to Laurel Falls Camp for Girls, at Clayton, Ga., as instructor in Arts and Crafts and also as one of twelve counsellers having charge of the young ladies in the camp and summer school. THORSBY INSTITUTE NOTES

Nothing indicates the high standard of work done by faculty and students so much as the standing of individual students both in deportment and scholarship as shown by their report cards at the end of a semester or the school year. Out of an enrollment of 100 during the school year, there was an average attendance of eighty per cent, the highest in the history of the school, and of these fifteen boys and girls received each a prize of $1.00 for being neither absent nor tardy while many others very nearly won in the race.

Twenty five of the eighty in average attendance made a score of no grade below eighty five and upwards to ninety, while three of the number made unusually high grades for the school year. They were Dora Bracken and Mae Ward, ninety-six each, and Nels Nelson, ninety-two. Others in the first honor roll were Allie Bagwell, Codie Bell, Pearl Carlson, Verona East, Mary Ella Gerald, Almon Graham, Ena Green, Annie Hughes, Esther Johnson, Myrtle Jones, Yancey Kelley, Palmer Lefsted, Jewell Marin, Martha Martin, Ruth Martin, Jessie Mims, Russell Petersen, Lois Primm, Lorena Primm, Jennye Robinson, Mattie Scott, Medie Swilley and Earnest Varden.

In addition to the above first honor students, thirty-five made grades from Seventy-five to eighty-five and secured a place for their names in the second honor roll. They were Tressie Barrett, Louise Brown, Margaret Butler, Richard Butler, Olaf Dahl, Palma Dahl, Eugene Davenport, Ulato Deason, Benjamin Dykes, Inga Erdahl, Marie Flummer, Reilous Franklin, Charles Glasscock, Pauline Gray, Mabel Howard, George Johnson, Floyd Jordan, Spurgeon Kelley Earl Leary, Frances Lowery, Chester Maddox, Mae Maddox, Arthur McCrory, Olene Mims, Nels Nelson, Thurwell Nolen, Lee Pate, Wilbur Peterson, Truman Pierce, Edith Robinson, Claudie Smith, Gerald Smith, Glover Smith, Arnold Soberg and Jerome Wilson.

After a careful scrutiny of this second honor roll list we find that at least fifteen of the students named therein are slated for the senior class of 1922-23 which is a very creditable percentage of the average attendance.

Miss Emily Tyler, whose very efficient work as eighth grade teacher in Thorsby Institute the past year, left Thorsby last Wednesday for her home in Connecticut. Miss Tyler is not expected to return in the fall, but it is reported that she will go to France where she occupied a position during the great war, and won many friends among the French people. She wil be greatly missed in Thorsby Institute class rooms.

When Miss Emily B. Ellsworth, Associate Principal, Miss Lois Leech, Matron, and Yancey Kelley, Handyman, all of Thorsby Inisttute, begin their well earned vacations, as they expect to do this week. We shall know for sure that "school is out." Miss Ellsworth and Miss Leech will visit Mammoth Cave, Kentucky, where Miss Leech will meet a sister who will accompany her to Saint Paul, Minn., and Miss Ellsworth will go with them as far as Chicago, going from there to her home in Portland, Conn., for the summer. Both are expected to return to Thorsby and take up work for the next school year about August 25th. Yancey Kelley will go to his home in Andalusia, Ala., and expects to return about September 1st.

Miss Ruth Gerald, who for the past year has been office assistant and teacher in the business department, will remain in Thorsby most of the summer and attend to whatever correspondence may be required from Thorsby Institute office, while Miss Jenkins, whereever she may be will keep in touch with the preparations for the coming school year. Rev. E. W. Butler will remain in Thorsby at least a few weeks longer and attend to the financial affairs of the school.

PATES CHAPEL

Happiness seems complete in the Pates Chapel community. Let us always be thankful for what we have.

On Saturday night a social was given at the home of A. Maddox in honor if his son, who is home on a vacation from Piedmont College. Some of the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cleckler, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cleckler, Messrs Monroe Franklin, Enoch Hayes, Harrison and Vastine Hayes, Paul Barret, Amos Smith, Clifford Childress and Lee Pate, Misses Fannie Pate, Emily Pate, Nora Franklin, Zemma Hayes and many other yound ladies.

The Pates Chapel singing society met Sunday evening with a large crowd. Many beautiful songs were directed by the following people: Chester Maddox, J. S. Castleberry, Harrison Hayes, Emily Pate Miss Edwards, J. Scott, H. Castleberry, Mrs. J. A. Cleckler, Mrs. Eva Childress and Prof. James Franklin. Organists for the evening were, Miss Nora Franklin, Mrs. Eva Childress and Miss Mae Maddox.

Come on, Pates Chapel. Lets make our community what it should be. These singings are held on every second and fourth Sunday evenings for every one. We are always glad to have visitors from other communities. We are made strong by their presence. Let us help each other. We hope to have a quartette at our singings from now on. This will add variety to our singing. "Variety is the spice of Life," so every one come to Pates Chapel next fourth Sunday in July and see what we have for you. Because of the all day singing at Pleasant Grove the Fourth Sunday in June and the all day singing here for the old people the Second Sunday in July, we will not be able to meet again until the Fourth Sunday evening in July. Don't forget to come then tho.

DISTRICT S. S. CONVENTION

On Sunday afternoon, June 25, we will have a District S. S. Convention at Isabella. All Sunday Schools in District No. 3 are urged to be represented.

DELLA WILLIAMS.

Mr. L. V. Branch, resident engineer of the Alabama Power Company at Mitchell Dam, was in Clanton on Wednesday, discussing road matters with the Court of County Commissioners.

CLANTON PLAYING GOOD BASE BALL NOW

The baseball team of Clanton is making a good record this season. All the players seem to have got a good streak of enthusiasm and cooperation into their bones, and the result is some of the best played games ever witnessed.

Blocton came here last Saturday for a double header, and the honors were divided between the locals and the visitors. The first game was won by Clanton with a score of 11 to 8. Webb Parrish pitched and Dick Hayes received him behind the plate. The second game was taken by Blocton, score 6 to 1. Luther Pyron and Dick Hayes were Clanton's batteries in this game.

Clanton went up to Aldrch Mines for a game Monday, in which Luther Pyron shut them out cold as an ice house to the tune of 11 to 0. It was a no-hit, no-run game for Aldrich, only one man getting as far as the first station. The work of Pyron and Hayes in this game was extra fine.

Tuesday Calera came to Clanton and got a dose of Red Wagner's hair tonic which sent them into a staggering defeat, Clanton winning by a score of 8 to 3. Dick Hayes was Clanton's catcher again. Baer and Scott did the honors for Calera.

The feature of this game was pulled by Broadus Connattser. The score stood one and one with Clanton at the plate and two men down with three on base. Broadus took the willow and walloped the pill for a three base hit against the fence, and the three men ahead of him passed over the home plate in fast succession. This grand stand play set the crowd wild, and took all the life out of the visitors.

Aldrich Mines comes to Clanton for a game next Monday afternoon.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

Generally speaking, health is very good at present and everyone is busy as can be trying to get their crops worked out during this pretty weather and in an effort to have their corn laid-by by the fourth of July.

Messrs Edmond, George, Arch, and Malcolm Manning visited their sister, Mrs. White, the first of last week. Edmond has been teaching in Texas for the past year. When he stopped off here, he was on his way to the University of New York, where he will take a post graduate course.

G. H. DeShazo is now employed as deputy to the County Tax Assessor, and is rounding up the delinquent personal property assessments in this beat.

The writer spent Saturday and Sunday in Clanton.

Mr. D. O. Manning made a business trip to Maplesville Saturday afternoon.

Mr. William Walker spent Saturday in Clanton.

Mr. D. O. Manning and sister, Mrs. Laura Webb visited their sister, Mrs. W. T. White at the Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton Saturday night.

Mrs. D. O. Manning who has been spending some time with friends and relatives at Jasper and Birmingham, returned home Saturday night. Mrs. Manning states that she had a most splendid visit and enjoyed the trip beyond her proudest expectations.

Rev. Buford Lawrence of Jemison filled his regular appointment at Mulberry Saturday and Sunday, preaching two very able sermons.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Veazey and family of Macedonia were visitors among frends and relatives here Sunday.

Mr. Earmon Rasberry of Pleasant Grove was a very popular visitor here Sunday.

Yep, they were all here Sunday—meaning of course the Macedonia boys.

Commissioner D. H. Gentry and W. F. DeShazo motored to Selma Sunday.

We are pleased to be able to report that Mrs. W. G. DeShazo is improved enough to go pleasure riding Sunday afternoon.

Mr. William and Miss Margaret Walker made several calls among friends in this community Monday morning.

Mrs. White was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton on last Thursday. She was operated on for appendicitis and is reported to be doing nicely.

The United Farmers of America came in on last Thursday afternoon and worked out Mr. White's crop for him. Mr. White has lost considerable time from his farm work owing to the sickness of his wife, and wishes to use this opportunity to extend to all who helped his heartiest thanks and appreciatons.

Mr. W. F. DeShazo made a business trip to Clanton Saturday.

Hip! Hip!! Hooray!!! I told you so. Maplesvlle was expected here to play off the tie resulting from the last game between them and the Mulberry boys but they failed to register their presence here Saturday afternoon, but we were not without a game by any means, for as I stated last week Liberty Hill boys came over and locked horns with our boys in a very one sided game. They were such easy fellows to beat that our boys walked away with the victory just about as easy as getting money from home without writing for it. When the game closed the score stood Mulberry, 26; Liberty, 4. Brace up Liberty, don't let that discourage you all you need is practice. Mulberry is to play Stanton Saturday afternoon on the Stanton diamond. Everybody come and root for your home team and lets walk off with another victory.

Yes, the afternoon Sunday School and prayer meeting continues to grow and get better. You can't keep a good thing down so come on everyone and lets put it on still a higher plane than we have ever known before. There is nothing whereby you could spend yur time to better advantage or get more lasting good, than to spend that time at Sunday school and prayer meeting. Come bring someone with you and if you don't enjoy the services, we don't charge you anything to say so. Will you help us to help you?

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Calfee and family of Birmingham were visiting relatives here the past week-end.

Evils of Constipation.

Perhaps the most serious of the diseases caused by constipation is appendicitis. If you would avoid this dangerous disease, keep your bowels regular. For this purpose Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.

Sanford Clark, a sterling citizen and loyal Republican of Beat 5, was in Clanton Monday.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment, applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

Better Flour—Better Biscuits
The best cook in the world can't make good biscuits with poor flour. You owe it to your reputation as a cook to use the highest grade of flour you can buy.
There is no better flour made than Gilster's Best. It costs a little more than ordinary flour, because we pay a premium for our wheat—and because the flour is ground finer and sifted oftener. But you can taste the quality in your biscuits.
If you prefer a self-rising flour—Gilster's Featherlite or Gilster's Mother's Joy.

A WORD FROM JUDGE S. M. ADAMS, TO THE VOTERS

Thorsby, Ala., June 10th, 1922.

To the Voters of the Fifteenth Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby:

Ladies and Gentlemen:-

I wish to say to you that I am engaged on my little farm doing my own work, and it will be imposible for me to see each voter, and for that reason I wish to say a few words in this letter, and first I will appreciate the votes of the people, and if elected will do what I can in their interest. I do not think we need many additional laws, but on the other hand, we need some changes, in the Tax and Election laws. I cannot see why just about half of the State and county officials should not do the work they all do, and thereby save to the Tax payers, half of the expense of the officials, and I have never believed that it is just to tax the farmer even down to the old hen and chickens, and allow the corporations to go free of taxes. I will do all I can looking to equal rights to all and special priveleges to none, on this subject. I do not believe that our prohibition laws should be interfered with, except to make them strong-

The enforcement of the prohibition laws according to my information is fully paid by the violators of the law, and certainly all good citizens want to see the laws enforced. Hoping to meet as many of the voters personally, as it is possible for me to do, and feeling that no candidate for public office should conceal his position on public matters, I invite interrogation on public questions.

I am yours sincerely,
S. M. ADAMS.

Since the weather has been so beautiful for the past week there has been some farming done. The people around here have had lots of grass in their crops, but everyone you hear talk says he is about up with his work, and if the weather stays beautiful for a few more days we think every farmer will be about ready to sit in the shade.

The Farley Brothers were here last week to begin erecting the new public school building and we hope they will succeed in their work, for it is a great interest to the people of this community, all the people seem to be in helping all they possibly can.

In the evening at six o'clock the Baptist Young Peoples meets. We have a splendid B. Y. P. U., but we would be glad to enlist new members. We have a large number of older people present at each meeting, and the training which this society furnishes is valuable to the older people as well as the young people. It is so much more interesting if we have a large crowd of older people present at this society.

Rev. W. J. Ruddick will deliver his usual sermon at 11 o'clock Sunday, and every one is invited to come for we always hear a very interesting sermon when Mr. Ruddick preaches for us.

We are all very sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Adams, which occurred last Friday. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Stanton Saturday morning. Mrs. Adams died at a very old age, and was always a Christian lady.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT FRIENDSHIP

In Addjtion to Singing on the Fourth Sunday P.M. In June.

There has been prepared for the afternoon of the Fourth Sunday in June, at Friendship Baptist Church, a special program, which will include not only singing led by any directors who may be present, but also some important talks on vital subjects by able speakers. The following is the arrangement of the program:

Singing, opened at 1:00, by W. O. Rich singing two songs. Short lessons, by other directors, who may be present.

2:30, Subject, "The Relation that Music has to the Church Work," by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

3:05, "The Leading Sins of the Day," by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

3:40, "What a Church means to a Community," by Rev. M. J. Parrish.

4:05, "Advantages in Advancing the Cause of Christ now as Compared with Forty Years Ago," by Rev. S. M. Adams.

4:40, "The Indebtedness of a Community to Church," by Rev. E. A. Norris.

Each speaker will have twenty minutes to discuss his subject, which will allow fifteen minutes between each address to be devoted to singing, by different leaders who may be present.

We feel that a varied program of this kind will be a great help to our church, as well as the singing society, and everybody is urgently invited to come and take part with us.

The subjects that have been selected are very important ones, and the men who are to handle them are in every way capable of their tasks.

Leaders of music are urged to come as we hope to be able to place all who are present on the program for a short lesson.

Predictions Coming True.

Some year or so ago the editor of The Union-Banner, some of the doctors of Clanton, and a small group of other citizens of the town got it into their heads that a hospital could be established, built and operated successfully in this thriving city. The Union-Banner started out to printing things which the editor dreamed about the proposition; and the doctors and other citizens at the same time began to talk it here and yonder.

Of course, as is true in all cases, some of the "good" people of the town promptly took up their hammers and began to knock and discourage the idea. In a few cases which we heard of, all of us hospital enthusiastis were pronounced as "nuts" and altogether eligible for the bug house.

We are glad to state now that conditions at the hospital are panning out in a measure of success that even surpasses our glowing predictions. Dr. Gragg, we believe was accused by some of the anti-hospital enthusiasts, of being the most over-optimistic hospital advocate in the whole bunch. And we do know that he was mighty strong for it; but even he, so far as we know, never made any predictions for the institution that were too strong for the actual success that has been already and is yet being accomplished.

Our hospital is a go, in spite of everything. Right now there is only one room for white people that is not occupied. It has been so far more than a week and the people who are going there for treatment are getting pleasing attention and satisfactory results.

We predict now that it will not be long before the knockers will be trying to buy some stock in the hospital. But as far the small bit which The Union-Banner owns, we are pleased to say that it is not for sale.

Practically all the doctors of the town and county are working together very admirably in bringing about the splendid success that is being accomplished.

A Statement for Fair-minded People:

Fertilizer and National Defense

The offer of the Alabama Power Company for the completion and operation of the Muscle Shoals hydro-electric power not only does not seek to de feat the purposes of the National Defese Act to Provide nitrates in time of war and fertilizer in time of peace, but makes such results possible in a most practicable, businesslike manner. We definitely offer 100,000 horsepower of secondary power free to thegovernment for the manufacture of nitrates for war or fertilizer.

None of those who have made an offer on the Muscle Shoals project have made fertilizer. There are two plants—the cyanamid, or Nitrate Plant No. 2, constructed at a cost of $70,979,000, and Nitrate Plant No. 1, constructed at a cost of $13,682,301, to use the Haber process. While the cyanamid process has been successful in the fixation of nitrogen, it is now admitted by every one to be very expensive, and regardless of the cost of the power, it is doubtful whether it can compete with the Chilean nitrate or theammonia produced by the by-product coke oven. On the other hand, Nitrate Plant No. 1, if it is further inproved to use the Haber process, should be able to compete successfully with any other source of nitrogen.

It has been clearly brought out before the House Military Affairs Committee thatMr. Ford will only make fertilizer so long as it can be made at a profit. Therefore, whatever amount of fetilizer may be expressed in the offer, it must be considered in the light of the testimony before the committee, namely, that the manufacture may or may not continue, depending entirely upon its commercial success. It must be further borne in mind that only Nitrate Plant No. 2 is proposed to be used as a nitrate plant, Mr. Ford proposes to convert Nitrate Plant No. 1 into an auto factory, and assumes no obligation with the government of any kind to maintain that plant for nitrogen purposes.

Is it, therefore, in the interest of the public that either one or both of the government nitrate plants at Sheffield should be destroyed? Is it not the wise government policy for both of then to be maintained with the view of meeting conditions as they develop in the future?

On the other hand, the Alabama Power Company offers to set aside for the govenment, or its nominee, sufficient power to operate Nitrate Plant No. 2, viz: 100,000 horsepower free of cost If, therefore, the use of the No. 2 plant is continued, or if any other plant is constructed in its place to make nitrates, the power will be available at any price the government sees fit to sell it to the manufacturer Thus the Power Company has made a definite commitment of a large amount of power for fertilizer purposes or war purposes and has in this way contributed to this purpose one of the principal elements. In fact, the object of the government in undertaking the water power development was to produce power or the manufacture of nitrates; and now, having this opportunity of obtaining power free, without any further capital expense, fulfills the purpose of the law.

We definitely offer 100,000 horsepower of secondary power free to the government for the manufacture of nitrates for war or fertilizer.

None of those who have made an offer on the Muscle Shoals project have made fertilizer. There are two plants—the cyanamid, or Nitrate Plant No. 2, constructed at a cost of $70,979,000, and Nitrate Plant No. 1, constructed at a cost of $13,682,301, to use the Haber process. While the cyanamid process has been successful in the fixation of nitrogen, it is now admitted by every one to be very expensive, and regardless of the cost of the power, it is doubtful whether it can compete with the Chilean nitrate or the ammonia produced by the by-product coke oven. On the other hand, Nitrate Plant No. 1, if it is further improved to use the Haber process, should be able to compete successfully with any other source of nitrogen.

It has been clearly brought out before the House Military Affairs Committee that Mr. Ford will only make fertilizer so long as it can be made at a profit. Therefore, whatever amount of fertilizer may be expressed in the offer, it must be considered in the light of the testimony before the committee, namely, that the manufacture may or may not continue, depending entirely upon its commercial success. It must be further borne in mind that only Nitrate Plant No. 2 is proposed to be used as a nitrate plant, Mr. Ford proposes to convert Nitrate Plant No. 1 into an auto factory, and assumes no obligation with the government of any kind to maintain that plant for nitrogen purposes.

Is it, therefore, in the interest of the public that either one or both of the government nitrate plants at Sheffield should be destroyed? Is it not the wise government policy for both of them to be maintained with the view of meeting conditions as they develop in the future?

On the other hand, the Alabama Power Company offers to set aside for the government, or its nominee, sufficient power to operate Nitrate Plant No. 2, viz: 100,000 horsepower free of cost. If, therefore, the use of the No. 2 plant is continued, or if any other plant is constructed in its place to make nitrates, the power will be available at any price the government sees fit to sell it to the manufacturer. Thus the Power Company has made a definite commitment of a large amount of power for fertilizer purposes or war purposes and has in this way contributed to this purpose one of the principal elements. In fact, the object of the government in undertaking the water power development was to produce power for the manufacture of nitrates; and now, having this opportunity of obtaining power free, without any further capital expense, fulfills the purpose of the law.

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes.

Note: Write for valuable free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important authoritative information which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend," to Bradfield Regulator Company, BA-23, Atlanta, Ga. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

NEW HARMONY

Health of this community is very good.

The farmers are busy with their crops. Crops are looking fine, but the boll weevils are here, plenty of them. The United Farmers are doing good here. Every farmer in this part have joined but a few and they will in the near future.

All the boys went in and worked out Mr. Tom Henley's crop Tuesday. He has had bad luck. His wife has been in bad health all the year, so we all gathered up and went up there and made things look good. But that is a duty we owe one another. We ought to do more than we do to help one another. It makes us have a better feeling towards each other. We are not social enough. We are too selfish to help one another. We are too apt to say something bad about one another. Lets don't say the thing. Lets say something good or not say at all. We must be men. That's what it takes to do the best things. We spoke of our little order. We must stick together. We have got the little black boll weevil but that is not the one we are after, it's the one that's got on the colars and ties that hurts us and we hope to see the day when all the farmers will stand up for their rights. That's the only way they will get them is to put their sholdiers to the wheel and push. It looks like the time has come when we must do or die. We can't get the market price for anything.

Mrs. Sarah Bates and Miss Bates visited Mitchell Dam Wednesday. Hope they had a good time.

In olden times it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never completely used up as he is when his stomach is out of order. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

JOHN MARTIN WRITES ABOUT POLITICS—PAST PRESENT AND FUTURE

Says He Wants Reynolds for Probate Judge of Chilton County Again.

Jemison, Ala., Junne 12, 1922.

Editor Union-Banner:

I have taken an interest in politics for the last twenty-five years, have never wanted any office, but was convinced a long time ago that it was best to elect officers that were with the people. We followed Judge Honeycutt, some on foot, some on horseback, to put him in office, but he was cheated out of it after we had elected him. In 1892 we reelected him Probate Judge and he took charge of the office, and promised the people that he would stand by them to the end; but somehow the Clanton crowd got the upper hand of him and lo and behold, he went over to them soul and body; and how it hurt us to see him working against us and in favor of the Clanton bunch. But there appeared another Moses to lead us, in the person of Judge Adams; and we again rallied our forces, and he promised us that he would go with us all the way, even through the fiery furnace if need be. So we elected him, and he went in with a bulge, swept everything out of his way, and we were sure we had a Probate Judge that would die by us. But the mighty influence was brought to bear, and soon this mighty and powerful man was hypnotized, and we woke up one morning to find him like those that had gone before, over in the enemy's camp, working for them and against his people.

Well, sorrow was over the county. We were like a bunch of sheep with no shepherd. We looked around for some one else to lead us, and brought forth L. H. Reynolds who had been raised among us, who had stood by us in all our trials, and when Judge Honeycutt let our flag trail in the dust, and Judge Adams would stand by and clap his hands, when the enimies were persuing us, yes, Lewis Reynolds was ready to step out on the firing line, and defend us, and for over twenty-five years he never refused, but was always ready to raise his voice in the defense of the people.

In 1904 we elected him Probate Judge, and he stood true to us, lowered our taxes, got the County out of debt, left cash in the treasury, and left us with lowest tax rate we have had for many years. In 1910 he was defeated, but he did not do like our former leaders, desert us; he walked out of office, still a Republican, and was just as ready to help the party as he was in office. Voters I want you to stop and think what Judge Reynolds did the six years he was out of office. Will you please tell me who was it that was at every poitical speaking, representing us? And he always holds up his side to the credit of his party. We can always leave any joint meeting between the two parties satisfied when Judge Reynolds speaks for us. Judge was busy many times when we called him, but he always responded.

In 1916 we re-elected him. The county had got in debt. We have had to build a Courthouse, dip cattle, but the Judge never got worried. He stayed on the job, fought to save our money, and some times the Commissioners would not back him up as they ought to, but we always know where to find him, fighting for the rights of the people.

You need not take anything the Judge Says about his work in the office. You can take what Democratic Examiners say about it, and then he is entitled to re-election.

Republicans, are we to defeat a man with such a record as Judge Reynolds—thirty years fighting our battles, never has misplaced a dollar of our money, the affairs of our county has improved both times under his management?

We know he can manage the office. We know he has had the experience. We know he has been true to us and our party, and we know he is the only Probate Judge that we have elected that has. We know the Clanton crowd, nor any other crowd cannot control him. We know he uses his own judgment, and if we will only read the correspondance between the Govenor and one Dowdell and him we can convince our selves that he is running the office.

I was on the train not long since, and met up with a leading Democrat and one of the largest tax payers in the County, who said he was going to vote for Mr. Messer, but that he knew Reynolds would be elected, and said he ought to be elected, for he is the only one running that was qualified to fill the office. Yet on the account of politics he would have to stay by his party.

Republican Voters, I started out in 1892 in politics, by helping chase a negro, that was riding a Democratic mule trying to get negroes to vote a Democratic ticket, and yau know from that time to the present I have never had any faith in a Democrat's politics. They took a false position then, and are still taking one now. You can read their paper one week after another, and they are still harping on the Negro, when they know there is nothing in it.

I want us to have one of the most respectable campaigns we have ever had. I am against the first candidate that I hear talking about their opponent. It is all for a purpose. This a family primary, and we want to elect the nominees, and there is no use in talking about our friends. I repeat that if I hear any candidate talking about their opponent, I am sure against them.

I am glad Mr. W. M. Wyatt has come out for Representative. I feel like he will make a good one. We have had too much lawyer business in the legislature. They have ruined this Country. I feel like Mr. Wyatt will do what he says he will.

Well, I will close as this is my first letter to the public, and I am not a good writer, but I felt like there was some things that ought to be said, and I have tried to make my ideas plain.

I have the very best of feeling for the rest of the candidates, but it is a bad time to swap horses, and we know we have a good plow horse in the person of Judge Reynolds.

Voters, when you go cast your ballot, look over the names of the candidates, and then reflect for a moment and see how many of them has been ready to fight our cause. We have had the Democrats to fight all the time. Look down the list and see what they have done when they did not want an office.

We can tell better what they will do by what they have done, than by what they say they will do.

The Democrats are making their threats that they are going to have the wonderful Thomas Heflin, Judge Brandon, and Major Jeffers to speak in this county during the campaign. May I ask who will we expect to defend us? If we was to depend on some that are anxious to lead us, we would all be scared to death, but when we know Judge Reynolds will be present, we feel safe. Some are saying that the report of the State Examiners is a fixed up matter. Well if any one has no more sense than that, he is not qualificd for any position. Some are talking about what the courthouse cost, and many other things.

I want to say in conclusion that when we elect a Probate Judge he will have to stand or fall on his merits, and what some one else has done, or what they have not done, will be no help to the one we elect. We had better vote for all candidates on what there is in them, and their ability to fill the office.

I have watched politics pretty close, and I have never heard Judge Reynolds fight a Republican, but he always trys to keep peace, and I wonder what will happen if we should put any one in the lead of our party that would always be talking about Republicans, and trying to get up confusion.

Voters, when you go to the polls do not forget to vote for Joseph E. Cobb for Commissioner from the First District. Mr. Cobb was born here and has been raised where he lives, and has always voted with the people, and we can depend on him to do his duty as Commissioner if we elect him.

Respectfully,
J. H. MARTIN.

THORSBY vs. DIXIE

In regard to the game between Thorsby and the Dixie Construction Co., on June the 10th, we wish to make some corrections in the box score as published. The game instead of being 6 to 4 in favor of Thorsby was 9 to 0 in favor of Thorsby due to forfieture on account of the Dixie refusing to play after several decisions of the umpires in which they felt they were not being given fair play.

We, as Dixie Construction Company players, wish to say that we are sorry that the game progressed and terminated as it did for it would lead one to form a bad opinion of our team as ball players, gentlemen and true sportsmen, but still we feel that we were justified in quitting a game in which we could see no chance to win.

We have played about eight games this season between Clanton, Jemison and others and have beaten these teams and been beaten by them and in all these games put together we have not had the argument that we had in that game, and in no other game do we think that we were not given fair play and we are certain that our opponents think the same.

As Thorsby has a good, fast team, we would like to arrange another game with them to be played on neutral ground. We would prefer that they visit us where we could treat them as our guests and gentlemen, but under the circumstances, we think it would be better to arrange a game to be played on neutral ground with neutral umpires and may the best team win.

Dr. Will S. Wilson of Montevallo was here Monday to witness the game between Clanton and Aldrich Mines.

W. J. Moates of Pletcher was a visitor to Clanton on Monday.

MR. J. A. SAMPLE WRITES ABOUT SOME SCHOOL MATTERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Wil you please publish this for the benefit of the people of Beat 8 of this county in regard to the school at Stanton?

We have never been asked to come in and help build the school, and in the next place, we on the south side have united with Dallas County, and have paid all those people asked of us to help build their school. We are still meeting all demands made upon us for the support of said school, and we think it would be folly for us to pull out and unite with the Stanton school, as it cannot be any better than the Dallas school. And as our taxes are already so high till we are cramped enough without being cramped still more to help build another house for someone else to be benefitted by. And if it comes up again to be voted on and only the property owners vote, of course we will beat them again, regardless of the schemes that were done by the Chairman of the school on the 12th.

Now if the people would draw a boundary line that would not cover so much territory, it probably would work, but for me to help force the negro to help school my children, I will never to so, for some of them can hardly live now. So I hope one and all will think of this.

Respectfully,
J. A. SAMPLE.

MULBERRY VOTER WANTS MRS. HOWARD ELECTED

Reason is Given That Women Are Entitled to Recognition in Officeholding.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you kindly allow me a small space in your most valued paper to say a few words to the voters of the County in regard to the candidacy of Mrs. Inga Howard?

First I want to try to show the voters and especially the men of the county that we should by all means, give Mrs. Howard what she is asking for. We are, or should be, very proud indeed of the host of ladies who have aligned themselves up with our party, and to show our appreciation of the fact we could do nothing better than to nominate Mrs. Howard as a member of the County Board of Education. Considering the host of ladies in the party I think that they have let us off very light indeed, when it comes to demanding public recognition and a share of the County offices. Mrs. Howard is the only lady in the party who has asked for anything at all and it appears to me that we are honor bound to support her in her aspirations.

I am not personally acquainted with Mrs. Howard but I am informed on good authority that she is one of the best school teachers in the county and that she has good business judgment to go along with her other accomplishments. Now as about 75 per cent of the teachers in the county are ladies and there does not seem to be any prospect of the percentage changing any time soon, I think that it would be very appropriate to have a lady on the board.

Of course the ladies are going to stand behind Mrs. Howard anyway, and it is nothing but right that they should, it is to the men that I address this article, and now fellow Republicans get your thinking cap on and think over this matter seriously and I think that you will come to the same conclusion that I have, and put your shoulder to the wheel and nominate Mrs. Howard in August and then do even more pushing to elect her and the whole ticket in November no matter who the nominees may be.

Now in conclusion, I wish to say that I have no personal grudge, or anything else against any of the men in the race for the County Board of Education, but under the prevailing circumstances I feel that it is absolutely necessary that we have a lady on the board and that lady must be Mrs Inga Howard. Now all together and lets put the entire ticket clear over the top by nominating the very best that is out for the various places and then all fall in line and put the ticket on such high plane that our friends, the Democrats, will never be able to even smell the smoke of the battle let alone be in the fight at all.

Now all together and lets woop'er up and roll 'em in for Republicans.

THE OLDEST BANK In Chilton County

PROUD OF HIS DAD!

Dad was telling the folks at home about a fight he saw down town. He said: "One fellow hit the other one with a club and nearly knocked his brains out."

The young hopeful of the family, proud of his dad, said: "They couldn't knock any brains out of your head, could they, dad?" He meant to be complimentary, but it didn't turn out just that way. But if dad has an account at our Bank, we'll say he has some brains in his head, and is probably smart enough to keep them there too. It requires more brains to SAVE money than it does to EARN it or to SPEND it.

No Deviation From our Policy of Avoiding Foreign Entanglements.

Washington, June 20.—That American participation in the investigation of conditions in Asia Minor does not constitute a deviation from our policy of avoiding foreign entanglements, is asserted by the Republican Publicity Association in a statement issued this week by the president of that organization, Jonathan Bourne, Jr.

Dept. of Archives and History, Thos. M. Owen, Director.

Association:

"Efforts eagerly at every incident which can be distorted into an intention of an intention on the part of the Harding Administration to vary from its determination not to interfere with purely European affairs, a writer for a prominent Democratic paper finds a manifestation of such a tendency in the decision of the Department of State to co-operate with Great Britain in investigating the situation in Asia Minor. This, says the Democratic writer, arouses the deepest interest in Paris. The question is asked, 'Does it mean the reentrance of the United States into European political affairs?'

"This ardent advocate of the League of Nations should not deceive himself. Participation in a study of Armenian conditions does not indicate reentrance, or any change whatever from the traditional American policy. The United States has never been an isolated nation. It has never hesitated to participate in affairs in either Europe or Asia or Africa where the United States has any interest whatever.

"In the early days of our government, when all the leading nations of Europe were paying tribute to the pirates of Tripoli, the United States sent gunboats to the Northern cost of Africa.

"During Roosevelt's Administration, when a bandit in Morocco had kidnapped an American citizen, President Roosevelt sent the demand for 'Perdicardis alive or Ruzzuli dead.' He stood ready to send a fleet or an army to enforce the demand.

"Without any hesitation whatever the United States sent its troops into China to participate, along with other civilized nations, in restoring order and protecting American rights. We engaged in the war in Europe not as an interference in European affairs but as a protection of our own interests.

"In Asia Minor today American citizens are being subjected to the violence and indignities perpetrated by the unspeakable Turk, and it is for that reason that the United States Joins Great Britain in conducting an investigation in order to learn the exact facts and decide upon the steps that should be taken to protect American along with other national interests.

"The United States does not bind itself to act in any matter in which the United States has no direct interest. The trouble with internationalists is that they are unable to discern the difference between a proper enforcement of American rights and a meddlesome interference with the affairs that are no concern of ours."

BLEED THROUGH

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT FRIENDSHIP

In Addition to Singing on the Fourth Sunday P.M. In June.

There has been prepared for the afternoon of the Fourth Sunday in June, at Friendship Baptist Church, a special program, which will include not only singing led by any directors who may be present, but also some important talks on vital subjects by able speakers. The following is the arrangement of the program:

Singing, opened at 1:00, by W. O. Rich singing two songs. Short lessons, by other directors, who may be present.

2:30, Subject, "The Relation that Music has to the Church Work," by Rev. W. W. Robinson.

3:05, "The Leading Sins of the Day," by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

3:40, "What a Church means to a Community," by Rev. M. J. Parrish.

4:05, "Advantages in Advancing the Cause of Christ now as Compared with Forty Years Ago," by Rev. S. M. Adams.

4:40, "The Indebtedness of a Community to Church," by Rev. E. A. Norris.

Each speaker will have twenty minutes to discuss his subject, which will allow fifteen minutes between each address to be devoted to singing, by different leaders who may be present.

We feel that a varied program of this kind will be a great help to our church, as well as the singing society, and everybody is urgently invited to come and take part with us.

The subjects that have been selected are very important ones, and the men who are to handle them are in every way capable of their tasks.

Leaders of music are urged to come as we hope to be able to place all who are present on the program for a short lesson.

SOME SPUDS GOING THROUGH

Malley White opines that all the land between Montgomery and Mobile and a greater part of the Gulf of Mexico must have been planted in Irish Potatoes this year, judging from the train loads of the things which have been passing here during the last few days, making their way to the north where people have never learned any better than to spend their good money for spuds, and even worse than that, eat them. And what's more, he says all indications are that the territory which was planted in spuds is yielding a record crop.

Mr. White, who is our well known railroad telegraph operator at the Clanton depot, relates the following concerning this wonderful Irish potato business:

One day last week a fellow down in Baldwin County called up the railroad traffic manager in Birmingham and asked him this question: "Can you furnish me with five freight trains a day for the next ten days with which to move Baldwin County's Irish potato crop to the northern markets?" We suppose that said traffic manager must have fainted at the suggestion of such an inconceivable amount of spuds. We know he did if he has ever been in the United States army.

At any rate, when he had recovered his poise, he suggested to his Baldwin county correspondent that he must have meant five cars a day instead of five trains a day. A more definite statement was then made to the railroad man wherein it was explained that five trains of thirty-five cars each a day were wanted for a period of ten days. This of course settled the argument about what was wanted, and the traffic manager came up for air the second time. He asked for a few minutes to figure on this tremendous proposition.

He turned the matter over in his mind a while. He wondered if those Baldwin county farmers had received a tip of another war coming on next year in which Uncle Sam would need a surplus of Irish potatoes to feed his doughboys. He searched his brain for some excuse for so many potatoes and none could be found. But that was not getting that 1,750 freight cars ready to haul potatoes.

After about two hours the traffic manager grabbed the wire and shot this laconic message down to Baldwin County: "Get your 'taters ready old boy. The cars will be there as fast as you can load 'em. The L. & N. Railroad has never fallen down on any job that came our way, and you are not going to bluff with your little handful of spuds?

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

East Nashville, Tenn.— The efficiency of Thedford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver.

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr Parsons describes —valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Thedford's. E 28

LIBERTY HILL

The Singing Society met Sunday afternoon with a large crowd and splendid singing.

The directors for the afternoon were: Messrs Glover Smith, Leonard Culp, Zack Lowery, Misses Etta Foshee and Claudie Smith. Organists for the afternoon were Misses Blanche Riggins and Etta Foshee.

All singers and lovers of music are invited to come and take part in the singing. If we do not know you let yourself be known, for we are always glad to have good singers with us. We use the Ganus and Showalter books and if you have a new book, bring it along for we like all of the books that are good.

The Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are progressing very well, but we need to take more interest in both, and show our faith by our works.

Rev. A. L. Foshee needs more help to make the church work go. So everybody get behind the thing and help push instead of sitting around the roots of trees talking politics and waiting for the service to start before going into the house.

Remember that we sing on the first and third Sundays in the afternoon.

THE CHAIRMAN.

RECORD TONNAGE TO THE NORTH

ALL SORTS EOF STUFF MOVING FROM ALABAMA TO NORTH AND EAST.

SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL TESTS

Bar To Meet In Mobile—Railroads Must Screen Windows—Grain Rate Reduced—Rotarians Furnish Milk—Expert Studies Malaria.

Birmingham—"I have never known a heavier movement of freight from the south towards the east," said W. F. Geaves, general agent of the New York Central lines. "All sorts of stuff is moving to the east from Alabama and adjoining states in record quantities. There seems no end to it.

"Especially heavy movements embrace cast iron pipe, lumber, kaolin, peaches, melons, cotton mill products, etc. The eastern roads are relying more and more on the freight moving from the south for their earnings.

"The outlook was never better. The south is still a virgin field in many respects and its development cannot be measured. It is proceeding by leaps and bounds. Already the cotton mills of the south produced more than 60 per cent of the cotton cloth of the country and the proportion in their favor is growing.

"The eastern carriers will more and more in the next 10 years look to the south for their earnings. They thoroughly appreciate this development and that is why they have offices in the south keeping on the watch for it.

"Our lines are especially alive to their southern connections and gratified at the wonderful increase in tonnage originating in the south."

Railroads To Screen Windows.

Montgomery—All railroads operating in Alabama were called upon by the Public Service Commission to say whether or not they have complied with the law of 1919, which requires them to keep the windows of all passenger trains screened at all times. The demand for a report resulted from complaints of several citizens, who said some of the railroads had never complied with the law. The act of 1919 requires all railroads operating passenger trains to screen the windows of passenger coaches with wire netting under rules prescribed by the Public Service Commission. The commission, shortly after the law was enacted, adopted a rule requiring the wire gauze to be not less than 14 meshes to the inch and to be fixed as to not interfere with the movement of the lower window.

Scientific Tests in School.

Birmingham—Sicentific tests and measurements to ascertain the ability of pupils were used with encouraging results in the county schools during last session, according to the annual report of Prof. E. B. Irwin, assistant superintendent of education. By the use of such measures he estimates that 500 pupils were promoted who otherwise would not have been and the county saved $14,250. He expressed the hope that the tests which are being used by some of the larger colleges may be substituted in the county as the principal basis for promotions next year.

Camp Maps Ready.

Montgomery—Special maps which show aat a glance the home station of each national guard unit in Alabama have just been received at the adjutant general's office and copies are being mailed to all organization commanders. The map, it is stated, will be specially useful in the mobilization of state troops for duty in any emeregency which may arise.

McClellan Recruiting.

Anniston—Capt. B. F. McClellan, active recruiting officer at Camp McClellan, has announced that free transportation is now being furnished by the War Department from Birmingham to the local post to applicants for enlistment in the army.

Grain Rate Reduced.

Albertville—Acting on a complaint filed by the merchants of Albertville, concerning the rate on grain from Albertville to Gadsden, the Alabama Public Service Commission has been successful in securing a material reduction in the charge complained of.

Abbeville Wants Better Service.

Abbeville—Reduction in electric and water rates and the furnishing of better services are requested of the Alabama-Georgia Utilities Company by the town of Abbeville in petitions filed with the Public Service Commission. The town complained that present rates are excessive and that the companies are not furnishing the service necessary to meet the needs of the people. Both petitions were set for hearing July 5.

After an extended visit to relatives in Georgia, Mrs. R. C. McDavid has returned home.

You Can't Beat This

WHEN you pay your household bills, C. O. D. packages and all general expenses with Protectu checks, you are sure that the amount of the check is protected from being raised, if by accident your check is lost and may pass into the hands of either an amateur or professional check raiser.

With the Protectu system, you can make your check proof against check raising. This check has a series of numbers lithographed in indelible ink on the end of the check. By a cutting device, the end of the check is cut or torn when the check is made out so that the highest amount indicated on the margin represents the maximum limit of the check.

We have arranged to supply all of our customers with Protectu checks and a Protectu folding pocket cover with cutter attached as shown in illustration. JOHNSON DRUG COMPANY GETTING BIGGER

The store of Johnson Drug Company in Clanton has enjoyed a period of successful business since its beginning about two years ago. As a result of this progress, the store is being expanded and remodeled in order to take care of the growing trade.

The office of Dr. Johnson is to be removed from the drug store building into the new building facing Sixth Street, and thus leave the entire building facing second Avenue to be devoted to the use of the drug store.

Mr. A. L. Farley, the manager of the drug store, is receiving the congratulations of his friends upon the splendid progress which the business has attained under his direction.

SIXTH STREET—CLANTON

Six months ago, when The Union-Banner bought a lot and began to erect its present building, there was not a single business house on the west side of Sixth Street. Now, in the same block with The Unon-Banner Bulding, there are three more new brick buildings, one occupied by Baker & Taylor,one by G. C. Armstrong, and the other is to be occupied by Easterling Cafe as soon as it is completed.

Some weeks ago Uncle Tom Taylor bought the west half of Jesse Jones' Blacksmith Shop, and has already moved his grist mill there. Mr. C. W. Wade has made a swell theatre out of the old Baptist church building, where he is exhibiting his picture show.

On the west side of the street, opposite Taylor & Baker, Dr. Arthur Johnson is putting up a nice building, in one side of which he will have his office, and the other side will be rented for a store.

To make a long story short, Sixth Street is moving some, and all the rest of Clanton is moving with it.

ANOTHER COTTON BLOOM

Wednesday afternoon The Union-Banner received by mail a cotton bloom from Mr. R. N. Connell, who lives in the Refuge community, six miles northeast of Clanton. He found the blossom in his field on Tuesday, June 20.

Mr. J. Mell Martin was called to Equality Monday on account of the illness of his mother. He returned to Clanton Wednesday and reports that his mother is improving.

A Statement for Fair-minded People

Fertilizer and National Defense

The stream flow records of the Tennessee River show that the 100,000 horsepower of secondary power offered to the Federal Government by the Power Company for the manufacture of fertilizers and munitions of war, will be available for 84 per cent of the time; that is, that the entire amount will be available on the average for eighty-four per cent of the year. For a short period during six of the past thirty-two years no part of this secondary power would have been available. As the manufacture of fertilizer is a seasonal business, so the fertilizer business is seasonal, and therefore the secondary power at Muscle Shoals is entirely satisfactory for fertilizer manufacture.

At one of the committee hearings in 1921, Mr. R. F. Bower, of the American Farm Bureau, stated that secondary power should be used in the manufacture of nitrates at Muscle Shoals; that Nitrate Plant No. 2 would require about 100,000 horsepower for that purpose and that the primary power should be used in public service because the use of the secondary power would result in making a cheaper fertilizer than would the use of the primary power. At the recent hearings before the Military Affairs Committee of the House, Mr. Swann, of the Federal Phosphorous Company stated that he was planning to use secondary power from various power developments in Alabama and elsewhere in the manufacture of fertilizer by electric furnace methods. The Federal Phosphorus Company is now engaged in manufacturing phosphoric acid and has definite plans for going forward with the manufacturer of other fertilizer elements and has carried its work further than any other Manufacturer in this country. In many ways we have assisted this company in reaching its present state of development with the purpose of creating fertilizer as well as to provide an additional market for large volumes of power. We have such confidence in the plans of that company that we expect to see fertilizer production advanced within a reasonable time to the point of manufacturing a complete fertilizer.

The offer of the Alabama Power Company for the completion of the Muscle Shoals project leaves the Government in full title and possession of its two nitrate plants and provides sufficient power for their operation to full capacity without further expense and creates without cost to the government immediately adjacent to these plants an immense power reserve for any further emergency that may arise. Under these circumstances the government may go forward with plans for fertilizer production, or it may lease its facilities at nominal rental and provide free power for others to engage in fertilizer production with suitable provisions to protect the price of fertilizer produced at the plant until it reaches the hands of the ultimate consumer.

The farmer deserves every consideration in the problem of maintaining the productivity of his soil, and it is the duty of the government to assist in bringing about such a result. The art of nitrogen fixation is in its infancy, if the statements of all the technical experts of the world are to be accepted. If power continues to be essential, the offer of this company provides the hoped-for relief at Muscle Shoals. Instead of the offer defeating the purpose, it preserves and assures it. A study of the evidence before the Congressional Committee considering the subject will satisfy any one of the correctness of this statement.

SECOND CHOICE JOKER IN ELECTION LAW.

There are many peculiarities in the election laws of Alabama, one of which is the provision for second choice voting. Many people who have studied this provision have become confused as to how it operates in the nomination of candidates. We have been requested to explain the matter so that the voters of the county may more clearly understand it.

By reference to the Acts of 1915 of the Legislature of Alabama, we find the following provisions in regard to second choice voting and the counting of same in determining nominations:

"Where there is one candidate to be nominated and only two running, there will be no second choice votes."

We might illustrate the above provision in the case of the two candidates for Probate Judge on the Democratic ticket, Mr. Messer and Mr. Mullins. A person voting for either of them first choice, cannot vote a second choice for the other.

Another provision in regard to second choice voting is as follows:

"First and second choice votes shall not be cast by a voter for the same candidate, and in the event that shall be done, only the first choice vote shall be counted."

This is easy to understand. For instance, if a voter casts a first choice vote for Judge Reynolds for Probate Judge, he cannot at the same time vote a second choice for for the same candidate. But in the event both a first and second choice vote is cast for the same candidate, only the first choice vote is counted.

In most of the cases to come up in the primary of August 8th on the Republican ticket there is to be made one nomination for each office, and we have three or more candidates running for these offices. In such cases the following provision applies in regard to the second choice votes:

"In cases where there is to be nominated only one candidate for a particular office, if such candidate shall receive a majority of first choice votes, he shall be declared nominated for such office. If no candidate shall receive such a majority of first choice votes, then the nomination of such office shall be between the two candidates receiving the highest number of first choice votes, and shall be determined by adding to the first choice votes of said candidates the second choice votes which they respectively receive, the candidate thus receiving the greater number of first and second choice votes shall be declared nominated."

This provision will apply to the Republican candidates for Probate Judge, Circuit Clerk and Sheriff, because there is to be only one nomination made for each office, and there are in each instance three or more candidates running for each nomination.

In the first place if any one of the three or more candidates for any office receives a majority (or more than half) of the total number of first choice votes cast for all candidates for that particular office, then such candidate would be declared the nominee for that office, without regard or consideration of the second choice votes.

But if no candidate receives such a majority of the first choice votes then the second choice votes would come into consideration in the manner provided for in the last quotation above.

A close study of the operations of this second choice clause will reveal that it might result in a man's second choice vote counting for more than his first choice. In other words, the race in some cases might be ternimated in such a way that a man by voting second choice would virtually kill his first choice vote entirely. It could reduce itself to the same proposition as a man voting for one candidate and his wife voting directly against him for another candidate.

We urge the voters of the county to give this matter a close study in order that they may be fully informed as to the manner in which the result will be finally determined.

And please bear n mind as we go along that this complicated manner of counting votes is anòther of the crazy quilt concoctions of the one-party system of government in Alabama. It might be called a plan figured out by the Democrats to have a candidate nominated when he really aint.

MR. A. L. ROBINSON EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS

Wants People to Know How he Stands Before They Vote for Him.

Verbena, Ala., June 19, 1922.
Editor Union-Banner:

Being a candidate for membership on the County Board of Eduation, I feel that the peopie of the county are entitled to know how I stand on certain matters concerning the schools, before I ask them to vote for me.

In the first place, I want to call your atetntion to what is generally known already, that is, the office to which I am asking to be elected is not a paying office. I want the office because I want to be of service to the people of my county in upbuilding and forwarding the cause of education. I have been in sympathy with our rural schools ever since I reached the responsibilities of manhood, and have been a school trustee in my own District for several years. Having been so situated and having studied the school question carefully, I feel that I am qualified to serve you as a member of your county school board.

I believe in, and would practice, if elected, the plan of equal rights to every boy and girl in Chilton County, whether they be the sons and daughters of the wealthy city man, or the poorest family in the most extreme section of the county.

I think the County Board should see that an adequate school is maintained in easy reach of every boy or girl in the county. The method of consolidating our rural schools might be all right under some conditions, but I do not favor it as a general policy. There are no doubt many instances where a teacher can be carried to the children much cheaper and more satisfactory than the children can be carried to a teacher. I would not favor consolidation of schools in any case unless the actual facts and figures showed that such a plan would be the best for all parties concerned.

My views of religious matters has always been what I consider the standard set up by our forefathers, to-wit: That every man, woman or child has the right to worship God according to the dictates of his or her own conscience. If the people in a given community want to worship in their school house, I do not believe anybody has any right to hinder them.

If I am elected as a member of your County Board of Education, I pledge you now that I would always be in favor of giving the people in the various school districts all the privileges and rights possible in so far as the election of their own teachers and trustees, and in the management of their school business and school property.

If elected, my desire shall be that I may be a servant of the people, and not a boss. I want the people of the county to be their own bosses in school matters. And if I am elected to the School Board, it is my hope that I may assist them in getting what they want in the way of schools and the better education of the young and rising generations.

I assure you that I shall appreciate it if you will vote for me in the primary of August 8th. If I am nominated, I will do my best for the entire ticket in November.

Respectfully,
A. L. ROBINSON.

Mr. Alfred Baker of Route 5 was a visitor to The Union-Banner office last Saturday and reported the first cotton bloom we have heard of this season. Mr. Baker stated that he could have brought us the blossom but he forgot it when he left home on Saturday morning.

NO WONDER FOREIGN DIPLOMATS INTERFERE

Washington, June 20.—"It is not surprising that foreign diplomats, as charged by Senator Watson, of Indiana, have been interfering in matters of domestic concern to the United States," says the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "They had the pattern aptly drawn for them in 1918-19 when an American Chief Executive, presuming on a mandate from our people which he not only did not possess, but which in the Congressional elections of 1918 had been explicitly denied him after he had earnestly appealed for it, went abroad and attempted to regulate the domestic affairs of foreign nations. And to encourage foreign interference in our domestic affairs the diplomats and foreign representatives guilty thereof have had no little encouragement from a group of internationlists still active in this country.

"'Foreigners are coming here and telling us how to run our country and how to conduct our Government,' declared Senator Watson, 'and what laws we are to pass, and are interfering, I think, unjustly in our domestic affairs. I call attention to the singular fact that the men who tried to get us into the league of nations are the ones who are trying now to defeat this bill (the tariff)—free trade and internationalism react in opposition to it.'

"Not only that, but there is evidence to show that foreigners are taking a hand in writing our school histories or having them prepared by writers of internationalistic tendencies, to the end that the youth of the land may look upon the achievements of the American nation as ordinary and the American leaders in war and statecraft as mediocre, even venal. This is all a part of the game to break down the spirit of nationalism.

"The criticism of Senator Watson will undoubtedly have considerable effect in arresting the attempt of foreign diplomats to take the key from our hands and open up our ports to free trade. Shortly after the Senator's speech it was announced that the British Ambassador would leave the United States on an extended vacation. He no doubt hopes that the matter will have blown over ere his return, and that may be true so far as he is concerned, provided there is no repetition.

"But the Ambassador from Italy, Signor Ricci, evinces little desire to observe diplomatic punctilio. He declares that 'tariff duties are an international problem, and as such are a proper subject for discussion by a diplomatic agent of a foreign country.' That may be true in a limited sense, but the proper place to discuss them is in the office of the Secretary of State, and not on the stump or in public halls. If the Democratic party had one-half the patriotism that was possessed by that party 34 years ago, it would not encourage a foreign ambassador to side with it on a domestic issue. In 1888 Lord Sackville West, the British minister to the United States went no father than to advise a correspondent, supposedly of British origin, to vote for the re-election of Cleveland. On the fact becoming public, that doughty Democratic President peremptorily dismissed West as persona non grata. Sackville West wanted Cleveland re-elected in order that free trade might be perpetuated and the British manufacturers might retain control of certain trade in the American market. Signor Ricci may well take heed from Sackville West's fate. No American representative in Italy would display the execrable taste of interfering with Italy's tariff law, which is itself highly protective."

Help You Choose Tires

500 miles at 94.48 miles an hour—a relentless grind over a rough-finished, sun-baked concrete and brick pavement at record-breaking speed—that is the gruelling test Oldfield Cord Tires underwent successfully at Indianapolis Speedway May 30th. They were on the winner's car for the third successive year and on eight of the ten finishing in the money, upholding the confidence successful race drivers have in the trustworthiness and ability of these tires to meet the greatest demands of speed, endurance and safety. Their records in every other important race have been equally as good.

Consider this achievement along with another test of Oldfield quality made at Wichita, Kansas, this past winter and early spring.

34,525 miles on rutted, icy Kansas roads, running day and night on a Studebaker stock car without a single tire change. This test was made by a group of Wichita automotive dealers in a tire, oil and gasoline economy run. Mayor Kemp of Wichita was official observer and made affidavit to the mileage and service given by Oldfield tires.

You may never subject your tires to the gruelling experiehce of Indianapolis nor the steady grind of bad winter roads, but it is good to know you can get such safety and mileage economy by buying Oldfield tires. Ask your nearest dealer.

165% Increased Business
The buying public is the surest barometer of the value of any article. Their approval of Oldfield value has been demonstrated by the increase of 165% in business for the first five months of 1922 over the corresponding period of 1921.

Agents Everywhere
Oldfield Tires are distributed through 73 branches and distributing warehouses in all parts of the United States. More dealers are constantly becoming Oldfield agencies and Oldfield Tires are now available in your community.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women,—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people, it puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

Mr. W. Y. Nix Writes About Sheriff's Race

Maplesville, Ala., June 19, 1922.
Editor Union-Banner:

Will you allow me space in your much appreciated paper to say just a few words to the voters of Chilton county?

Now Brother Republicans, as you know that my boy is in the race for Sheriff of this county, I want to say that I did not put him out, nor he did not put himself out, but some of the leading citizens of our county have asked him to make the race. I want to say that I have been in political work more than thirty years; have been on your committee more than twenty-five years and never asked for any thing from the county and all that I have done I did it believing that it was to the best interest of the whole people, and I am not ashamed of anything that I have done in our cause.

Now, if you think that I have done anything worth while, just reward the boy by giving him your vote on the eighth of August and it will be appreciated, both by him and myself, and listen, if the majority says that someone else is the man, I am behind him with both feet up.

With best wishes to the Union-Banner and its readers.

NEW DODGE TOURING CARS ON DISPLAY AT PATTERSON & INGALLS

As shown in the advertising columns of today's Union-Banner, a new model Dodge Brothers touring car is on display at Patterson & Ingalls' show rooms on Dexter Ave., Montgomery, Alabama.

The new Sedan will be on display Wednesday morning. The 1923 model is much improved, the new high radiator and hood being especially noticeable, making the car appear in a class with much higher priced productions. The inside of the dash is finished with a double curve, giving greater knee room. The windshield is a clear vision type with the weather strip clear below the driver's view. The new top is finished with permanent Gypsy curtains, saving a lot of trouble in putting up the curtains in a sudden storm. The springs while of same type as before, are now two inches longer all around, which makes a very easy riding car.

The finished car with outside door handles in nickel, makes an extremely neat and aristocratic appearance.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

We had almost been praying for a rain, but we didn't want just exactly what we got on last Friday. Altho we are not going to make any kick whatever. The storm was rather heavy in this immediate community and did considerable damage to the crops and buildings. It blew the roof off Mr. Summers' barn and over turned one of Mr. R. L. Veazey's poultry houses, besides blowing down a good bit of timber. Most all the terraces in the fields broke and did lots of damage.

Health continues to be good, and we are truly thankful for it.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. White is improving very rapidly at the Central Alabama Hospital.

Mr. W. T. White and the writer made a hurried call at Clanton on last Thursday.

Messrs W. T. White and W. F. DeShazo made a business trip to Maplesville Saturday morning.

Mr. W. H. Veazey and son, Renfroe were in Clanton Saturday morning shopping.

Mr. D. O. Manning and the writer, Misses Annie and Glois Manning, made a business trip to Maplesville Saturday afternoon.

Messrs R. J., C. C. and Spurgeon Williams, and Solomon Sansom attended the old time singing at Mitchel Dam Sunday.

Mr. Wilbur Veazey of Macedonia was a pleasant visitor here Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning and family spent Sunday at Mitchel Dam in attendance at the old time singing, and report a splendid time.

Mr. Earmon Rasberry of Pleasant Grove was a visitor to this community Sunday afternoon.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather there was no ball game on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Harmon Broadhead of Sardis was a pleasant caller here Sunday afternoon.

Messrs Wilbur and Wallace Veazey Clifton and Fred Merchant and Jimmie Ward, of Macedonia were perambulating around these parts on Sunday.

Mr. W. C. McGraw has made himself a present of a perfectly good Ford flivver.

On next Sunday, June 25th, at 2:30, p.m., a District Sunday School Convention for District No. 3, will be held at Isabella Church, 10 miles west of Clanton. Everybody in No. 3, who are interested in the building up of the Sunday School is invited to be present, and let's make this an evening that will result in much good and accomplish much for the Lord.

The Home of the Soul.

In olden times it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never completely used up as he is when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton, Ala.

The Safest Way is to Carry Less Money

Receipts are awkward things to keep, aren't they?

They vary in shape from theater ticket to letter head size. Even Edison couldn't invent a file that would ever keep them in shape. Who wants to keep them any way?

Why don't you pay by check? Then—you could have all your receipts the same size. Furthermore you can't pay a bill that way without getting a receipt.

Every paid and cancelled check returned by us or kept on file in this bank is a receipt for money paid.

It is safer to pay your bills by check. It doesn't pay to carry too much money around.

Start a checking account with us today.

This bank continually strives to give you, as a depositor, the maximum of safety in handling your funds. With this thought in mind, we have purchased for your use, Super-safety Insured bank checks, which are tamper-proof. A glaring white spot gives instant warning when a Super-safety check has been tampered with. The sensative surface color disappears, leaving a vivid white splash when acid, rubber or knife erasure is attempted, giving warning of spuriousness.

We furnish you an individual Super-safety Check Alteration Bond which protects you against loss in case your checks are fraudulently altered or "raised" by the use of acid, rubber-erasure, knife scratch or penchange, when properly written with ink or a check writing machine, or typewriter. You are insured for a total of one thousand dollars.

Your insured checks mean added positive protection, as your currency while in circulation.

WATERMELON GROWERS ORGANIZE IN ALABAMA

Farm Bureau Expects to Market 1,500 Car Loads This Season.

Auburn, Ala., June 18.—Alabama watermelon growers numbering 100 representing 8,000 cars, are organized for cooperative marketing purposes and will sell 1,500 or more cars of melons this year. Information to this effect is contained in a statement by H. M. Pearson, Marketing Specialst for the Extension Service, which is cooperating with the farmers in an organized way in marketing their melons.

The Association is known as the Alabama Farm Bureau Watermelon Association, having headquarters in Montgomery. Most of the growers are located in central and southeast Alabama.

To assist the watermelon growers in this, their first state-wide attempt to market melons cooperatively, the Extension Service, which includes the county agents, will devote much time in the watermelon counties during the remainder of June and July, to the marketing of this product.

Strict regulations are being made, and will continue to be made, regarding quality, size and grading; and each melon will carry a label bearing the brand name "Alabama Sweetheart," which will be very effective in introducing the Alabama melons to the consumers throughout the country.

OAK GROVE

The Children's Day at this place last Sunday was as fine as could be, under the circumstances. The attendance was extra good, and no place could have had better order. We always have that. We did all we could to interest the audience, which we think we did, as you could have heard a pin drop during our exercises.

We had with us nearly all the candidates, whom we were glad to see. We could not give them all a part in the exercises. Wish we could have done so.

At eleven o'clock Judge Reynolds made an able speech on the subject of religion, church and Sunday School, and Temperance. We know that he has always lived up to what he talked, and his address was very impressive. At the close of his lecture he went right into a collection for the church, starting it off with ten dollars. We got subscribed and paid in $895.50 in less than twenty-five minutes. If anybody can beat that in these had times, we would like to help do it.

Then we adjourned for an hour and a half. The good ladies picked out a nice place in the grove and spread enough nice dinner to feed all the people. There was left enough to have fed them again.

We all stick together in harmony and we have a good time. Our pastor is doing some good work here. He got nine more members here Sunday and Sunday night.

I will try to send to the paper next week the names and amounts that were paid on our church.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

Gilster's Best is not a cheap flour. It is a quality product, made for those who know and appreciate finer flour. It costs more to manufacture, and sells for a few cents more than cheaper flours.

But the delicious flavor, the dependability of your baking, and the fact that Gilster's Best requires less lard—more than make up for the slight difference in cost.

A TALK ON THE PRINCIPLES OF THE UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA

Purposes Not Understood By All—Small Farmer Bearing Load—Needs Help.

(By M. W. LAMB)

The general principles and purposes of the United Farmers of America are so little known even among the members that it has been deemed advisable by this office and the General Executive Committee, to get out some information in order to uniform the work, and make mistakes and misunderstandings a thing of rare existence throughout the organization.

Please bear in mind that the United Farmers of America is not organized to fight anyone, or to attempt to dictate to any one how they are to manage their own personal affairs. We recognize the absolute folly in any one class attempting to rule the world, and not only abhor the spirit which prompts such views, but condemn it as un-American and unworthy the serious considerations of the membership of any organization. All that the United Farmers of America wants, is a square deal and equal rights with the commercial and financial interest in the manner of markets, finance, roads, schools, taxation, etc.

We believe in free speech, free press, honest toil and no graft. We believe in better schools, better churches, better roads and better citizens. We believe in Universal Agricultural and Individual Prosperity. This means prosperity for every man, woman and child worthy of it.

Honest labor faithfully performed, with a fair and reasonable price for the products of this labor is necessary in order for the farmer to feed and clothe his family, and give his children a reasonable education, so as to enable them to compete with the world in making and maintaining a home for his old age and for protection against charity.

The farmer today plays but one end of the great game of trade and commerce. He is powerless in an unorganized condition to cope with the situation and make the same success that others are able to make. Under the present system, he is forced to go into the open market and buy at the other fellow's price, accepting his measures and weights as a matter of fact. If he is skinned in the transaction, he has no other redress than to quit dealing with such person, and try another, only to find, perhaps, that he has swapped the devil for the witch. Then when he has something to sell, he is face to face with the fact that he again is denied a say in the great game of money making, and must necessarily accept what is offered him by the buyer. In this, he is also powerless to defend or protect his personal interest, and consequently finds that success in this enterprise is very hard to achieve.

What manufacturer, jobber, or wholesaler would allow the retail dealers of this country to set the price on their products and what would be the consequences, if they did? Yet that is just what the farmers of this country have been doing from the beginning of time. Is it any wonder then that poverty, want, privation and shame, are the only rewards for the industrious farmers of our land and country? Is it any wonder that they in time become grouchy and suspicious? Ah, my friends, too many times have they been beaten and robbed of their hard earned products which in many instances represent their entire life savings.

The average small farmer of today is recognized only as a cog in the world's machinery of production, without voice, without redress, and without any assurances whatever that he will receive even the necessities of life, much less the chance to lay by something for a rainy day. Is this right, is it just and fair? The United Farmers of America promises to use its machinery to adjust this great wrong, and make agriculture what it was intended to be in the beginning, a chosen and recognied calling by all men, irrespective of calling or profession.

Great questions of the hour are considered and passed upon without the knowledge or consent of the masses of the world. At no time are the small farmers of the country invited to sit in council upon questions affecting them as a whole or in part. The die is set, the cast is made and when, where, and how is their interest protected? We are not complaining because of this condition, but are organizing to overcome it, and make it possible and advisable for those who have the authority to do so, to take the advantage of the situation, and afford the small farmer hereafter an opportunity to meet and have a voice in matters of state and commerce.

Questions which affect the people as a whole, should be heard by the people as a whole. Questions affecting agricultural people should be heard by those who are actively engaged in the pursuit of agriculture. Too many times in the past have those in authority recognized only those who are engaged in farming thousands of acres, while those who actually do the bigger part of the work are ignored altogether. What perhaps is best for one class of farmers is not really just what the majority would approve of, and in order that justice may be done, and confidence abound, it is in our opinion necessary to grant hearing to all.

We are opposed to large landed interest and in this, we believe our selves right. No nation of tenants can hope to long endure. The only safe policy for a nation to pursue, is one of constructiveness. The homeless of a nation can not be depended upon in emergencies, or at least, they should not be expected to respond to the needs of their country as quickly and as readily as those who have the very best of homes, and the comforts of life. Then too, the people who own their homes are for the most part, more dependable as a rule, than those who do not. This is no reflection upon the tenants as a whole, but rather a reflection upon a system that allows a few to own the earth, and charge a tribute, which is, in too many cases unjust and exorbitant. Too, the plantation method of farming is not to the interest of business, as usually those who are thus engaged have their own stores, gins, etc., thus making it rather difficult to do business with the tenant as a rule since, perhaps, the landlord has them so tied that to attempt to do business with them, other than for strictly cash, would mean a partial, if not total loss.

The population of our country is growing so fast, and the power of our great corporations and trusts becoming so great that it may become necessary to limit private fortunes, in order that those who are honest and industrious may have a chance to lay by something for their old days. There is not much encouragement to advocate more production, when a few men get or gobble up all that is produced. What we most need at this time is a more just and equitable distribution of the proceeds of labor. The United Farmers of America will endeavor to so adjust the present system, as to eliminate the needless and useless middlemen and thereby guarantee to the producer a more equitable price for his products.

We have no quarrel with anyone. We are just an ordinary, every day business concern, trying to do business in a business like manner. Courting no favors that we are unwilling to extend to others, having a system of our own and trying to adhere to that system, absolutely looking after our own interest in our way, as we believe we have a perfect right to do. Our members are for the most part, just plain, common, every day, free born American citizens, as free from Bolshevism as the average organization which is made up of people of every known creed and faith, which is practiced or recognized in America today.

We believe in the competitive system of doing business and will take pleasure in doing business with any one. Should they succeed in getting the best of us in any way, take it, and welcome to it. If we get the best of them in any way, let them do the same. We are not babies, and are not crying out to every passer by for assistance. We know what we want and believe that we know how to get it. Should we fail in this, our effort, we will blame no one but ourselves. The whole world is before us, and the laws of our country are behind us. We fear no man in this battle, and will never surrender without a great struggle. We believe that we are right in our contentions and are willing to stand upon our record at any and all times.

We court the fullest investigation possible, resting in the belief and knowledge that our plans and purposes come nearer meeting with approval of those whom we are trying to get together, than any other farm organization in America today. We stand squarely for the little home owner, and the tenant, and share croppers of this country. We are bold and out-spoken in championing their cause, and promise to them, and to the world in general, that we will do everything possible to achieve our pronounced ends, and bring about conditions that will be satisfactory to both the honest business man, and the little industrious farmer.

DOGS HAVE DISEASE THAT RESEMBLES RABIES.

State Experts Say There is no Cause for Alarm as Dogs Are Not Mad.

There is prevalent among the dogs of Alabama a disease so closely resembling rabies that a number of people have become unduly alarmed. Believing that they had been bitten by a mad dog, they sent the heads to the Laboratory for examination. Examinations of these heads invariably prove negative. In view of the fact that rabies cannot be definitely determined by laboratory tests alone, many people have been advised to take the anti-rabies treatment as a matter of precaution.

Familiarity with one or two points of these two diseases is usually sufficient for the average person to tell the difference between them. An animal afflicted with rabies has continuous symptoms, running wild, leaving home, a change in disposition, becomes irritable and cross, refusing food and drink, snaps at nearby objects, as many sick dogs will. These symptoms become continually more pronounced with no normal intervals. Convulsions occur only just before death where the dog is afflicted with rabies.

The other disease among dogs is characterized by a seizure of fits or convulsions occuring as one of the first manifestations. These fits last a few seconds or minutes, in which time the dog may foam at the mouth and bite any nearby object, but as soon as the fit is over he becomes normal until the next seizure. Usually between these fits the dog eats and drinks and in all ways acts like a well and healthy dog. Sometimes if the disease is serious, paralysis appears during one of the convulsions and the animal eventually dies. Often, however, there is a complete recovery which is not true of the dog afflicted with rabies.

A striking difference which makes this disease distinguishable from rabies is that the fits occur early and are one of the first symptoms and that between attacks the animal acts and appears perfectly normal, a thing which is not known to occur in an animal that has developed rabies. There is no necessity for killing such dogs. They usually recover from the disease with no serious results. The only necessity is to treat the dog as a sick animal and keep him shut up during his sickness. Persons bitten accidentally by dogs with this disease need fear no more consequence of the result of the bite than of one from a healthy dog.

LAMPTON'S HOUSE PAINT BEST BY TEST

Do You Want Your Paint To Last?

We are pleased to announce that we are prepared for spring and have on hand a complete assortment of Lampton's house paints. Made by the old established paint firm of Lampton, Crane & Ramey Co., Incorporated, Louisville, Ky., these products are backed by an iron clad guarantee and a reputation for the making of dependable paints that was established a quarter of a century ago.

As you know, some people only know paint by it's name but we know that many so called paints will not stand the test of a scorching sun and the trying weather changes of this climate, which in fact, are hard on even the very best paint.

You have seen houses that were painted in the Spring that looked fine when the paint was fresh but before the summer was over looked as though they had not been painted for several years.

That was because a cheap paint was used—not a pure paint made of pure white lead, zinc and linseed oil fully ground and scientifically mixed as are Lampton's famous paints.

When you paint with Lampton paints no matter what color you use—you know that it is going to last—you know that it is going to wear longer, look better and be more economical in every way.

Come in and let us tell you more about this absolutely pure paint and let us show you the guarantee that stands behind it. Come and get a free Lampton's color chart. See us for anything else you want in the paint line—varnishes, finishes, brushes etc. Glad to see you.

THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME X. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 1922. NUMBER 10

JUDGE REYNOLDS' APPEAL TO REPUBLICANS FOR A HARMONIOUS CAMPAIGN.

He Does Not Counsel Spirit of Bitterness and Undue Criticism Among the Republicans.

Clanton, Ala., June 26, 1922.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please permit me to say a few words to the Republican Voters, through your paper.

Several people have asked me why I was not convassing the County, and to this I will answer that the duties in my office keep me busy all the time and besides I feel like the people of this County know what they want without me going to see them and trying to tell them what to do. I have never engaged in taking voters one at a time and talking to them about political matters. I have preferred to say what I had to say in public for if the public is interested in what I have to say, then let them hear it; however, I am not criticising any one for visiting the voters.

Republicans, we must not have any confusion in our Party. We must keep in mind that the most important part comes after the nominations are made for we must elect our Ticket. Remember that the Republican Party is more important than any individual candidate, for it was born of a necessity and brought forth to protect the interest of the people and for over a century it has performed its duties well. It existed long before any of our candidates were born and will live long after we have passed off the stage of action. It was not organized to elect just a few men to office but for the benefit of all the people.

The first thing to consider in making nominations is the qualifications of the person to fill the office that they are asking for, and then their loyalty to the Party. Both of these will have to be judged by the past for we can never tell what any person will do in the future.

This is a peculiar campaign. Some men pledged themselves to certain candidates four or five years ago. I have in mind two prominent Republicans that have told me they promised a certain candidate four years ago that they would vote for him, that they were sorry they made the promise but they would have to be honorable and live up to their promise.

I have not had any one going over the County for four years pledging men and women to vote for me. I have said repeatedly that it was not my intention to run again for Judge of Probate but after I was solicited by many of the leading Republicans I decided to enter the race and all I ask is for the voters to consider all the facts connected with the nomination and then vote their honest convictions; keeping in mind first the qualifications and then the interest of the Republican Party.

I have never run for office that some Democrats did not take more interest in the Republican nominations than they did in their own. They generally walk the streets and tell the Republicans, "if you nominate Reynolds we can beat him, but if you nominate a certain other candidate we cannot defeat him."

I will say right here that I am running in a Republican Primary and asking for Republican votes, and that I am running on my own merits and not on what some one else has done or failed to do. Lincoln said, "If we have no house, do not try to pull down our neighbor's house, but try to build a better one."

Some Democrats think I ought not to run again and some Republicans seem to be taking the same position. I do not know where any one gets the right to say who shall and shall not enter a race, for the Republican Executive Committee laid down our rules and they are the only power that I know of who has the right to say who should and who should not enter the race, but if I have made a mistake in entering the Primary you voters may settle that at the election, and I am glad that it will not be left to one or two to pass on.

I do not want a single misapprehension. I want every voter that votes for me to know all the facts. I do not want any one to vote for me just because they do not want some other one, for I feel like my record is sufficient for the voters to know whether or not they want me. I appreciate the interest my friends are taking in me and I again ask them not to say anything about either of my opponents. I hope no one will write an article criticising either of them. I have been asked to make some speeches but I assure the public that there will be no mud slinging from me, for as I have stated, I stand for the Republican Party and for the election of the ticket after the nominations are made. For thirty years I have stood by whatever action my party did and have accepted its doings without a murmur.

The Democrats haven't a chance to elect their ticket unless we have confusion and split up our vote after the Primary. We know that they are doing all they can to cause strife among us but I hope the Republicans will not permit this to be done.

I am sure we all remember how Mr. Wilson got to be President, for it was only by the Republicans splitting their vote, so we must look to the interest of the Republican Party if we expect it to survive. If it is necessary to defeat any candidate for the Party to succeed then let him go, for as I have said, the Party is more important than any candidate.

Everybody is invited to the speakings; all the candidates seem to be in good humor and all seem to be looking to the interest of the Republican Party.

I hope you voters will consider what I have said and then vote for the man that you think will benefit the Party most and that will do most in helping to elect our ticket.

I hope to see the next Legislature of Alabama give back to the people some of the liberties that have been taken away from them in the past few years. Especially do I believe that our school laws should be changed so that our people can have the right to elect their County Superintendent of Education. And further, I want to say that I believe that local trustees and teachers in the rural schools should be chosen by the people in the districts which they shall serve, and that the trustees in any school district should have control of the school property in that district.

I have always believed in and stood for the rights of the people, and I am not in favor of legislating these privileges away from the people, by putting matters which the people should control into the hands of a Board.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

P. S.—All Soldier boys who have not been exempted from Poll Tax are urged to bring their Discharges to the Probate Office immediately so that we can have them on the list of voters for the Primary, as this list will be made right away.

HOSPITAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Central Alabama Hospital was held at the court house in Clanton at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, June 26th. A good representation of the stockholders was in attendance.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, President of the institution, presided at the meeting. He made a report to the meeting covering the work of the Hospital during the first three months of its operation. Embodied in his report was also a report from Miss Annie H. Gardner, Superintendent. Both the reports of the President and Superintendent showed a very successful record for the beginning of the institution, and indicate that the future of the Central Alabama Hospital is certainly bright and highly promising.

One item of particular interest in the report of the Superintendent was that which showed that in the first three months the hospital has made a net profit above expenses of over five hundred dollars.

The election of officers for the next year resulted as follows:

Dr. V. J. Gragg, President; Dr. I. C. Wood, Vice-President; Dr. T. J. Marcus, Secretary; W. M. Wyatt, Treasurer. Board of Directors, Dr. N. S. Johnson, J. Q. Wade, C. B. Cox and M. A. Gore.

After some interesting discussions the meeting adjourned.

THE OLDEST BANK In Chilton County

PROUD OF HIS DAD!

Dad was telling the folks at home about a fight he saw down town. He said: "One fellow hit the other one with a club and nearly knocked his brains out."

The young hopeful of the family, proud of his dad, said: "They couldn't knock any brains out of your head, could they, dad?" He meant to be complimentary, but it didn't turn out just that way. But if dad has an account at our Bank, we'll say he has some brains in his head, and is probably smart enough to keep them there too. It requires more brains to SAVE money than it does to EARN it or to SPEND it.

REV. NORRIS SAYS HE IS FOR MR. H. A. HARRIS

Denies Reports That he Favors Candidacy of Judge Reynolds for Probate Judge.

Edtor Union-Banner:

Will you give me a small space in your paper so that I can explain to the voters of Chilton County the truth. I am not in politics, and do not like to say anything publicly in regard to the matter, but I feel that I want the good people to know the truth. I do not make false claims and do not like for anyone else to do so.

It has been talked that I am for Judge L. H. Reynolds for Probate Judge. I want to say that this report is not true. I have stood by him in years gone by, but I do not think that he is the proper man this time. I feel that it will be the greatest mistake that our party has made in many years if he is elected again.

I want to say that four years ago I went to Mr. H. A. Harris and asked him not to run for any office until time to run for Probate Judge. I pledged him my support then, and he promised not to ask for anything until time to run for Probate Judge. He has kept his pledge and I shall keep mine. When I had this talk with Mr. Harris four years ago, I thought that he was the ideal man, and my mind has not changed yet.

I will say in regard to Bro. W. T. Bean that if he has any special friends in Chilton County, I know that they are many. I am one of them and I know that he is fitted for any office in the county. There is no office too good for me to help give him, if I were not obligated, but Mr. Harris has my support this time. I want Bro. Bean and his friends to know that I am not opposed to him.

We have a candidate for Member of the County Board of Education from our Beat, in the person of Mr. A. L. Robinson. I have known him since boyhood, and I know that he stands for equal rights to all and special favors to none. I do not think that the good people of the county will make any mistake to vote for him. The present Board consists of good men, and are my friends, but almost all of them live in the northern part of the county, and we feel like it would be fair play to give us this one in our part. I am asking this little favor, and you can grant it by casting your vote for A. L. Robinson.

I am sorry that I have had to write this letter. I do not want anyone to make false claims to gain votes.

Respectfully,
E. A. NORRIS.

ANOTHER VOTER ENDORSES FOSHEE AND REYNOLDS

Mr. Cleckler Believes in Keeping Officers Who Have Made Good Record.

Editor Union-Banner:

I see from the paper that there are several men running for the various offices in the County. I believe that they are all good men. However, they cannot all be elected. Therefore I believe that the voters of the county should carefully consider the qualifications of each candidate for the particular office that he is running for and then vote for the man that it best qualified for that office.

I have given the matter careful consideration and after considering the matter carefully arrived at the conclusion would be best for the ... elect the men to offi... been tried and ... the office that they ... and that they are now ... to re-elect them to.

I cannot see how the voters of the county can see how they can benefit themselves by defeating Judge Reynolds and Mr. M. D. Foshee for the offices they are running for.

Judge Reynolds has been our Judge of Probate for the last six years and since he has been in office you could take your county warrant to the County Treasurer and get it cashed. You did not have to hunt up some scrip buyer and discount it 40 or 50 cents in the dollar. He has made one of the best records of any Judge of Probate in this State. And in addition to being one of the best Judges in the state he has fought the battles of the Republican party in the county for the last thirty years. And it looks to me like the Republicans of this county would be ungrateful to defeat him.

In going over the candidates for the office of Circuit Clerk and considering carefully the qualifications of each candidate I can see no reason to defeat Mr. M. D. Foshee, with the records he has made in the office and give it to some one that has never had any experience in the office. He has also made one of the best records, if not the best, of any Clerk in the State. The voters of the county should consider their own interest instead of the interest of the various candidates. There is not a man in the race that is not perfectly able to make a living for himself and family. And any man that is competent to make a good Circuit Clerk is perfectly able to make himself and family a good living. And any man that cannot do this would make the county a very poor officer. And the voters of the county does not owe any man an office. Therefore the voters of the county should consider their own interest. It is impossible to give every man in the county an office. Therefore we should pick out the man that can run the office and give the best service to the people of the county, and I do not see how any man can figure that a man that has not had any experience in the Clerk's office can run it as satisfactory to the public and with as little delays in the Court and expense to the county as Mr. Foshee can do with the experience he has had in the office. And should we defeat him with the record he has made what inducement would there be for the next man to make a good officer? He would know that we had just defeated a man that had made one of the best officers in the state and one that had done his best for the party and the people of the county. Another thing that we should consider Mr. Foshee has given his entire time to the office. And he has never been too busy to look up any records for the people of the County whether in his office or some other office in the court house when the people have ask or written him to do so for them, and he is only asking the people to re-elect him to the same office that he now holds. He is not trying to change to some office that he does not know anything about.

I do not believe that it would be right to defeat the officers that are now running for their same offices back and gve it to some one that does not know how to run it. I do not believe that the county is in a financial condition to pay the expense of our courts to wait until a Clerk learns how to run the office. Why not elect a man that has been tried and proven that he knows how to run it and put the money that the county would lose in learning some one to run the office on our public roads where it would help the general public instead of one man?

In conslusion I wish to remind the people of the county that they took a chance and changed offcers once and it cost the taxpayers of this county more than two hundred thousand dollars and the county will not get over it in the next twenty five years. And I want to ask why take a chance now when we have men that we know can and will fill the offices right?

Hoping that Judge Reynolds and Mr. M. D. Foshee will be nominated and elected by a good majority, and thereby the people of the county show them that they appeciate the way that they have managed the offices intrusted to their care, I am,

Yours very truly,
J. D. CLECKLER.

BLEED THROUGH

C. REESE MULLINS PLATFORM

Candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County, in the Coming Democratic Primary Election, on August 8th, 1922.

1st. I believe in a majority of the white people ruling the affairs of this County, State and Nation, and the negro having no voice.

2nd. I believe in the cooperation of our County officials with our State officials in keeping our schools up to the present standard and to gradually improve them as fast as possible, which I believe can be done with less taxes than we are now paying.

3rd. I am in favor of improving our roads and keeping them up better, which I am sure can be done with less money, if properly managed.

4th. I am in favor of a reduction in our tax rate of at least one-fourth or more, and abolishing all unnecessary offices, which will mean a saving to the tax payers of the County amounting to several hundred dollars annually.

5th. I am in favor of making it compulsory for every white man and woman in the State, between the ages of 21 and 45, to pay a poll tax, which would then entitle them to vote, and which would go to the education of their children.

6th. I am in favor of all being taxed equally, I mean according to values of their holdings. The farmer, the merchant, the banker and the corporation—let the corporations pay as well as the farmers and the others. Treat all alike and give all a fair deal.

7th. I am in favor of Henry Ford getting the Muscle Shoals property, which in my opinion would give to Alabama and to all the South new life, and make every old hill side in Alabama blossom like a rose, with cheap nitrate of soda.

8th. I heartily endorse the manner in which the old soldiers home and inmates are now cared for, and I would like to see the appropriation for them increased. They fought our battles, and I am now in favor of them having the best of care.

9th. I am in favor of our County Superintendent of Education being elected by the people and also the County Treasurer.

10th. And last but not least, I am in favor of Woman Suffrage. I am glad to say that they can now vote, and that I was in favor of this from the beginning and did everything I could for its passage and voted for it; and especially I am in favor of women serving with our County Superintendent on our County School Board.

It is not my intention to make any speeches until after the primary on August 8th, but then I will be ready for a fair and open discussion of the issues of the day.

I will greatly appreciate and solicit your vote and influence.

Respectfully,

C. REESE MULLINS.

FAIR VIEW COMMUNITY

Here I come again asking for a small space in your paper to write a few lines about this community.

Health is very good at present.

The death angel vsited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Vance Monday morning and took their sweet little baby. We all feel sad for them, but we know it is done with its suffering here on earth. We know it is at rest.

Will speak a few words about the farmers. They are getting along very nicely with their work. Don't hear any complaint, except wishing for a good rain. The crops are needing rain and Iam sure it would make the people feel better, we have such awful warm meather.

Guess there is going to be an all day singing at Pleasant Grove church Sunday in the old books. Guess all the old people will enjoy the singing, as most of them are fond of hearing the old time music. But we all need a lot of what is called the old time religion. I am sure times would be a good deal better and there wouldn't be so much wild cat liquor made and sold to the young men and cause them to bring trouble to their poor mothers. Not only the young men but some of the older ones like to drink, and that makes a very unhappy home, unless the entire family likes to enjoy life that way. Not very many that likes that way of enjoying life. I am sure there are other ways to spend the money that all the family would enjoy a part of it. And if we all had a lot of the old time religion there wouldn't be so much of this ungodly work going on.

If this misses the waste basket I will come again some time.

MT. NEBO

The singing society met Sunday afternoon with a very good crowd and good singing.

Directors for the afternoon were Messrs Sam Henley, Sim Henley, Henry Scott, Mr. Stevens, Mesdames Glennie and Eula Culp and Miss Annie Culp.

We had a quartette by Mesdames Glennie and Eula Culp and Messrs Henley and Stevens. All singers and lovers of music are invited to come and take part in the singing. We are always glad to have good singers with us. The society meets every second and fourth Sunday afternoon.

FRIENDSHIP NEWS

We hope everybody who attended the services at Friendship Sunday enjoyed them, and were benefitted thereby.

Rev. S. M. Adams delivered a fine sermon in the morning at 11 o'clock. The crowd met back in the afternoon at 1:30 and after an hour of good singing able speeches were delivered by each of the speakers on program, also had a lesson between each lecture.

We were indeed glad to have the visitors with us, both singers and speakers, as well as everybody else, and we extend a hearty invitation to them to come back again.

The B. Y. P. U. play Sunday night was a grand success. We also had the Clanton quartette to sing for us, after which Rev. E. A. Norris preached a good sermon.

We were very sorry to know that Mr. and Mrs. James Gillespie's baby was very badly burned by hot grease last Thursday night, but glad to say it is improving some.

Mrs. W. W. Hand and daughter, Omye, visited Mrs. H. A. Harris of Clanton, who is sick, last Monday.

Mr. F. O. Robinson is working with Mr. Dudley Thompson at the mill now.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Collins, Jr., have left our community and moved near Providence in order to be near his work at his father's mill.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

Will you allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words in regard to this community?

Health is very good at present, and everybody is getting their crop ready for a good rain, which we need badly.

He will tell you something that will help you. He preached two splendid sermons Sunday, which were enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. J. M. Popwell of near Clanton was visiting relatives and friends here Saturday and Sunday.

DEATH OF MRS. HILYER

Mrs. Dixie Hilyer, wife of Mr. Frank Hilyer, died on last Thursday, June 15th. She was sick but a short time of one week with pneumonia. She bore her sufferings with patience. She leaves behind her a husband, two boys and one girl, and some grand children to mourn her loss, but weep not, dear husband, children and grand-children, for the great consolation is that our loss is heaven's gain. Let all live here on this earth so that we can meet Mrs. Hilyer in the time to come.

Mrs. Hilyer was 58 years old. She joined the Missionary Baptist Church at Sardis church in Coosa county at an early age and lived a true christian life until her death. Her remain were carried back to her home church for burial.

Mrs. Hilyer will be greatly missed in her community. She was kind and loving to all whom she met. To know her was to love her.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends for their kindness and assistance showed during the sickness and death of our loved one.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS NEXT MONDAY

There will be a Summer School in Seventh Grade room of Grammar School, beginning next Monday, July 3rd. It will be on the tuition basis and run strictly according to summer school methods namely, pupils will be in classroom only while their classes are in recitation. At all other times, pupils may be at home or out under the shade trees. Pupils need not come until time for their classes. Summer work is hard on both pupils and teacher and I have made the above rule so as to make it easy on all. Tuition Rates will be: In classes of three or more, 1 subject 6 weeks $6.00; 2 subjects 6 weeks $10.00. In classes less than three, 1 subject 6 weeks $7.50; 2 subjects 6 weeks $12.00. Tuition payable in advance on FIRST day. Decide for sure whether you want to go to school before you come, because if you "start in" and then "drop out" no money will be refunded.

Please see me as to what you want to study, so I can arrange a schedule.

DR. HINDS OFFERS FARMERS METHODS TO KEEP UP WITH THE BOLL WEEVILS

Recent Reports Show a Heavy Boll Weevil Outbreak in Alabama Already.

Auburn, Ala., June 26.—Recent reports reaching Auburn are that there is a very heavy boll weevil outbreak in Alabama and Dr. W. E. Hinds, Entomologist for the Extension Service, has outlined methods for control.

In his recommendations, Dr. Hinds states that the first step in boll weevil control is to gather and destroy them by the hoop and sack method, provided 50 or more weevils are found on each acre. This should be done as the squares begin to form, and the cotton near the woods, ditch banks, and other weevil shelter should have extra attention.

Dusting should begin when it is found by investigation that 10% of the squares are punctured, provided the soil and other conditions indicate a yield of one-third bale or more per acre and whenever the indications are that weevils will destroy one-fourth of the crop. Dusting should be repeated every five days until the third application is made, following which the cotton should be carefully watched and dusted again when the weevils puncture 15% or more of the squares and bolls that are less than two-thirds grown.

The only methods recommended for cotton where soil and other conditions indicate a yield of less than one-third bale to the acre are to use the hoop and sack and also pick up and destroy the infested squares.

Dr. Hinds calls special attention to the importance of having dusting machinery on hand, stating that "for less than 10 acres of cotton a hand dust gun, costing about $15, is suitable. For 25 to 50 acres the one-mule, two-row type of machine, costing about $125, is advised. For from 50 to 100 acres the two-mule, three-row cart type of duster is the only machine to be considered." He also states that many of the dusting machinery companies have already sold out.

On an average, about 30 pounds of calcium arsenate are required for the season or 6 to 7 pounds per application.

Dusting is insurance which should not cost over $5 per acre, but failure to dust may cost $15 to $30 per acre.

SOME "LIVE ISSUES FOR DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN USE

The Democrats are trying to evade many live issues while discussing dead ones. This statement is made as comment upon the address by Mr. Cox in which the league was the most prominent subject. The league is not an appropriate issue in the coming Congressional campaign, for the reason that congressmen have no vote on that subject and only about one-third of the senators are to be chosen. Moreover, the league is not a live issue today. If it is desired to settle real issues by appeals to the votes of the people, there are abundant opportunities.

The Republicans are about to pass a protective tariff law and are opposed by the Democrats. Make that an issue.

The Democratic administration asked that the railroads be continued in government operation for five years, and the Republican congressmen refused their assent. Make that an issue.

The Democratic administration made recommendations for appropriation and the Republican Congress cut $2,500,000,000 out of the estimates. Make that an issue.

The Democratic administration refused to demobilize after the armistice until the Republicans prodded them into activity. Make that an issue.

The Democratic administration discredited Liberty bonds as collateral at banks and forced the bonds out of the banks, with a depressing effect upon values. The Republican party has taken a more business-like view of the duties of the government toward its securities and raised the market value of bonds some 18 per cent. Make that an issue.

The Democratic administration maintained some 266 government periodicals which were used largely for propaganda purposes and the Republican Congress directed the discontinuance of all but a few of them. Make that an issue.

The Democratic administration refused to revive the War Finance Corporation for the benefit of American agriculture, and the Republicans not only restored the corporation but put it into effective operation. Make that an issue.

The Democratic Congress left the American farmer open to almost free competition from all the rest of the world. The Republican Congress enacted an emergency agricultural tariff law. Make that an issue.

The league issue is dead. Even if it were not dead, it is a matter with which representatives in Congress have nothing to do. Above are cited a number of questions that have come before Congress, with Democrats on one side and Republicans on the other. There are plenty of real issues there, without striving to make false issues.—Spencer (W. Va.) Record.

GRASPING AT A SHADOW

There are 435 members of the House of Representatives, of whom 301 are Republicans, giving them a party majority that some members consider top-heavy. Some of the Democratic leaders profess to believe that they will be able this year to overturn this majority. Probably not many of them actually think there is more than a remote possibility of this, but it gives them a goal to strive for.

The hopelessness of the thing, from the Democratic stand point would not be so apparent if the party had a single constructive issue upon which to make a campaign. Any issues that they put forth must be negative unless they can dig up a new one very rapidly, and men do not accomplish by negation. Before a man or a party tears down, it must have something with which to replace the thing destroyed. Thus far the Democratic campaign merely has been one of querulous fault-finding and the capitalization of dissatisfaction arising out of the now rapidly passing industrial depression.

These are poor timbers upon which to build a platform that can weather the gales of a political campaign. Fault-finders will become popular about the same time that crap-shooting becomes the national indoor sport of missionary societies.

Nor does this mean that those who raise the standard of unrest will not attract to them some followers, for they will; but rather that the hard, common sense of the American people will demand, before they vote for a change, to know what is meant by the change, and if the Democratic party has nothing to show it will be defeated much as it was in 1920, when, at least, it had in the League of Nations and the personality of Woodrow Wilson the shadow of an issue.—Muncie (Ind.) ELECTION RESULTS SHOW ENDORSEMENT OF RECORD OF REPUBLICAN CONGRESS

Primaries in Eight States Sustain Candidates Who Are Up Again for Re-election.

Washington, June 26. — Eight states have held primaries at which nominees for Congress were selected by all parties.

In these primaries 92 Republican members of the present House of Representatives were candidates for renomination on the Republican ticket. Of these 92, the vast majority were unopposed. Of those who were opposed in the primaries, only six were defeated—two in Illinois and four in Pennsylvania. Summed up, out of 92 Republican members of the present House of Representatives who have gone before the people of their districts in primaries this year and asked for an indorsement of their record and the record of the Republican Congress 93.5 per cent received that indorsement. The following is a detailed statement of the results in each state where a Republican primary has been held to date:

South Dakota: The entire Republican delegation in the present House, three in number, asked for renomination and all secured renomination.

Illinois: 21 Republican members of the present House asked for renomination and 19 received renomination.

Indiana: 12 Republicans of the present House asked for renomination and all received renomination.

Pennsylvania: 29 Republicans of the present House asked for renomination and 25 received renomination.

Oregon: The solid Republican delegation of the pesent House, three in number, asked for renomination and all received renomination.

Iowa: 10 Republican members of the present House asked for renomination and all received renomination.

Maine: The solid Republican delegation, four in number, asked for renomination and all received renomination.

Minnesota: The solid Republican delegation, 10 in number, asked for renomination and all received renomination.

The query naturally arises: If there were any widespread dissatisfaction with the record of the present House why does it not manifest itself? If this Congress were in fact the "do nothing" Congress that its Democratic critics represent it to be why don't people refuse to endorse its members? If the people of the country were as dissatisfied with the present administration as the Democratic leaders and publicity mediums claim they are, would not this dissatisfaction show itself at the polls when the present Republican members of the House of Representatives present themselves to the voters of their district is asking for an indorsement not only of their individual records but of the collective record of the Congress of which they are a member and of the record of the Republican party and administration to which they have given their undivided support?

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me if lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches."

CEDAR GROVE

Health of this community is very good at present, but we are needing rain just now, for the crops are needing it very much.

The church held its regular services last Saturday and Sunday with very good attendance. The paster Rev. Limbrick , rendered one of the best sermons that the writer has ever heard and if the people will do as he bids we will have one of the greatest revivals that has ever been in the history of Cedar Grove.

We are going to arrange a Singing Society at this place and we want everybody to get behind the thing and make it a go. If you sing bring somebody with you that can sing and make them sing when you get there, for singing goes a long ways in making the church a go.

So far as we know now we will meet on the Second and Fourth Sunday afternoons with the exception of the Second Sunday in July, so get your local organ tuned and come to sing.

We take pleasure in announcing an all day singing at this place the Fourth Sunday in July, in the Christian Harmony and Sacred Harp books. So everybody come and bring your books and a well filled basket and lets enjoy the day singing praises to our creator.

PLEASANT GROVE

An interesting singing was held at this place Sunday. There was nothing to keep everyone from having a good time. Had a fine singing, good preaching and dinner plentiful for everybody. All those who didn't come to the singing missed something good.

Rev. Dykes preached an excellent sermon at this place, both Saturday and Sunday. Everyone in the house seemed to enjoy the sermon Sunday, and also the singing. The opening song was sung by the Chairman, Prof. James Franklin, and then prayer by Rev. Dykes.

Directors for the day were James Franklin, J. Z. Mims, Marion Cofer, Chester Maddox, Lum Scott, J. C. Veazey, Vester Campbell, Mardis Smitherman, Burl Martin, Mrs. Eddie Childress and C. C. Cobern, all five minutes each. We also had three quartettes by the Clanton quartette in the morning, which was enjoyed by all, and one in the afternoon by James Franklin, Chester Maddox, J. C. Veazey and Monroe Franklin, which seemed to be enteresting to all. Late in the afternoon we had one duett by Prof. James Franklin and his daughter, Mrs. Eddie Childress.

Organists for the day were Mrs. Eddie Childress, Mr. Willie Culp and Miss Nora Franklin. No. 196, "When the Singers Get Home," was sung by the chairman for the dismissing song, after which we were dismissed by Rev. Dykes.

So you see all who didn't come missed something good.

CARD OF THANKS

We have never before so fully realized the pitiful inadequacy of our language and the utter impossibility of putting into words the deep gratitude of our hearts, as we do at this moment.

The wonderful thoughtfulness, the gracious sympathy and the timely and most efficient aid rendered to us by the good people of Clanton during the sickness, death and burial of our precious little boy, Jack, is something that savors more of heaven than of earth. We are overwhelmed with gratitude to you every one. Our hearts are overflowing with a realization of how great and how glorious a thing the sympathy of such friends as these we have learned to know in Clanton can be. Even to the hour when our feet will splash the cold water of the river of death, and over beyond, in the land where little Jack is now resting up from his long years of suffering here, our hearts will treasure the memory of your kindness and our most earnest prayers will cluster around the throne of grace that the great and merciful God may always guard, bless, keep and save you every one. Grateful yours,

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Corley.

The little boy was laid to rest in the Clanton cemetery on Tuesday.

THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

We publish this week a notice from the chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, calling attention of the voters to the State Democratic Primary Election to be held on August 8th. We are at a loss to understand why this advertisement was sent to a Republican newspaper instead of the Democratic organ of the county. The State Chairman of the Democratic party must not know that there is a Democratic paper in Chilton county; or on the ohter hand he must not be aware of the fact that The Union-Banner is "out of step" with the Democratic tune.

But be that as it may, we are carrying the advertisement according to his instructions, and we feel sure that most of the Democrats in the county will read it, for those of them who do not subscribe for our paper borrow it from their Republican neighbors and read it every week just the same.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager.)

ANNOUNCEMENT

From July 1st Miss Ruth Gerald will have charge of local matters of correspondence or business connected with Thorsby Section of The Union-Banner during the absence of Mr. Norton, who desires to thank the people of Thorsby and vicinity for the support he has received in his work in connection with this paper and its Thorsby business. It is our desire to make The Union-Banner as interesting and helpful to our people as possible. The publishers are liberal in their ideas of space and desire both advertising and local news items also job printing. While Miss Gerald has not had much practical experience in the work, now assigned to her, we feel that it has been placed in good hands, and earnestly solicit the hearty co-operation of all Thorsby people in helping her to gather news and other items of interest.

Mr. Sereno G. Norton, who for several weeks has been engaged in supervising some changes in equipment and methods in the Birmingham plant of the Hercules Powder Company, and making short weekly visit to the home of his parents in Thorsby, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton, has completed his work and will return to his home at Kenvil, New Jersey. Leaving Birmingham Wednesday of this week, going by rail to Jacksonville, Fla., and thence by Steamer to New York. Mr. Norton will be accompanied to his home, by his parents, who plan to make an extended visit among relatives and friends, whom they have not seen for many years. They will also visit various places of interest, and their plan is to keep the people of Thorsby informed as to their movements by weekly letters, to be published in The Union-Banner.

A letter from Dorothy Rogers to Margaret Butler, brings information that her father, Rev. Charles T. Rogers, has had a stroke of paralysis, but does not state very clearly his present condition. Mr. Rogers will be remembered as a former resident of Thorsby. He is now located in a small town, near New York City, in charge of a home for children of foreign missionaries, sent to this country to be educated.

On Friday evening of last week the Lutheran Ladies Aid, held in their park, an evening sociable and sale of ice cream and cake. The fame of these ladies as providers of good "eats and coffee" has spread far and wide, as was in evidence by the number of Automobiles discharging their passengers at the entrance. For the first time the park was electrically lighted brilliantly, which added greatly to the comfort and enjoyment of all in the large company assembled.

Miss Lorena Graham left Thorsby, Sunday morning, for Laurel Hill camp and school for girls in Georgia, where she will be engaged for two months as a member of the faculty. Mrs. Graham left Sunday evening, in company with her son, Clarence and his wife, whom she will visit at their home in Anniston.

Mrs. E. W. Butler will leave Thorsby on Friday morning, June 30th, for two months in the mountains of North Carolina. She will be accompanied by her daughter, Dorothy. Rev. W. H. Clem, Mr. R. L. Turner, with Harris and Ruth Turner, spent several days last week at the Coosa river. They are not telling any big fish stories.

Mr. C. P. Turnquist left Thorsby last Wednesday morning for Wauseka, Minn., where he will spend the summer with his daughter, Mrs. Sam Thornson. He will stop en-route at LaPorte, Ind., for a visit with his daughter, Augusta, wife of Mr. Carl Peterson.

Mr. Wm. C. Neal arrived from Indiana last Wednesday. He is looking well and is reported to be desirous of selling his property in Thorsby.

Thorsby Concert Band, under the leadership of Mr. J. O. Johnson, has been practicing regularly two evenings a week for several months, and is now in fine shape to furnish good music and plenty of it throughout the day, for Thorsby's big celebration next Tuesday, July 4th.

Thorsby will certainly put up a clean front for her visitors next Tuesday. The Hardware store is making liberal use of paint, and Foshee is putting up a new handsome awning. The store fronts and windows are receiving attention, which makes them as attractive as a beautiful girl, and even Mayor Carter has caught the clean up spirit, as manifested in his diligent supervision of one lone darkey cutting and pulling weeds about town.

OLD MAIDS CONVENTION

The Fidelis Class of the Baptist Sunday School presented a play, with the above title, at Bates Hall last Saturday night, which for clean fun was the peer of any entertainment put on this stage in many a day, or night.

There were more than a score of characters in the cast, and from start to finish there was no hitch or fumble in the parts. While some members of the company have long since ceased to be eligible for membership in any organization of Old Maids, they certainly evidenced a lively memory of the days that have been. And although the whole performance was in the nature of a delightful extravaganza there was enough of solemn fact in it to add a touch of human interest. Space forbids description of the different characters or enconiums on individual efforts, but we can say that it is seldom one sees an amature performance wherein each player had their parts so nearly letter perfect, and seemed to lose self consciousness to such an extent that they actually represented the characters for which they were cast. The audience was large and appreciative and a worthy cause was aided in a substantial manner.

This writer does not often express sentiments in poetry, but some verses learned upwards to fifty years ago, and which he has not since seen in print and do not know the name of the author, but is sure any copyright of it has expired years ago. It seems so "pat" just here that I am sure our readers will enjoy it.

"I dreamed a dream in the midst of my slumbers,
And as fast as I dreamed, it came into numbers;
My thoughts ran along in such beautiful meter
I'm sure I ne'er saw any poetry sweeter.

It seemed that a law had been recently made
That a tax on old bachelors pates should be laid;
And, in order to make them all willing to marry,
The tax was as large as a man could well carry.

The bachelors grumbled and said 'twas no use,
It was simply injustice and horried abuse;
And declared that, to save their own hearts blood from spilling,
Of such a vile tax they would not pay one shilling.

But, the rulers determined them still to pursue,
So they set the old bachelors up at vendue;
And a crier was sent through the town to and fro,
To rattle his bell and his Trumpet to blow;
And to cry out to all he might meet in his way,
Forty old bachelors sold here today.

And presently all the old maids in the town,
Each in her very best bonnet and gown;
From forty to sixty, fair, plain or pale,
Of every description, all flocked to the sale.

The Auctioneer then in his labors began,
And called out aloud as he held up a man;
How much for a Bachelor, who wants to buy?
In a wink every maiden responded, I, I.

Well, the bachelors all sold off in a trice!
In short at a highly extravagant price,
And forty maidens, some younger, some older,
Each lugged a bachelor home on her shoulder.

It is a custom among the Scandanavian element of Thorsby to celebrate, annually, June 21st as Midsummer day. In keeping with this custom, a picnic was held on the grounds of Miss Caroline Skinnis, half a mile north of town, last Wednesday which was attended by a goodly number who spent the day in play, feasting and other social enjoyments.

UNCLE MOSE ROBINSON WRITES LETTER

Verbena, Ala., June 26th, 1922.

Editor Union-Banner:

There has been quite a bit of discussion on politics lately, and the time is drawing nigh when we shall go to the poll and pick our nominees. I feel that I have some information that will be of great value to the people of Chilton County in choosing the right nominee for Probate Judge, and it is my duty to let the people know this information. I have been in politics in this county for a long time, and have seen many candidates elected and defeated. I have seen successful officers and failures. You will pardon a personal reference, I served the people of this county thirty-two years as County Commissioner. Of course, I made my mistakes, so will any one else you elect. I have had the pleasure of "breaking in" several Probate Judges, and I think I am qualified to state what is required of a Probate Judge.

The administration of the County Offices may be likened unto a business concern, for truly it takes a good business head to administer the affairs of the County successfully and economically. If you were the owner of a private business and had a certain man or manager who was making money and in every way making a success of it, would you, for a minute, think of changing the managership into other hands, without experience? Not a single voter, man or woman, would do so. No person would ever think of taking this chance. Then why think of changing the managership of Chilton County? It is your business just as much as your farm or your store is, and greatly more important.

I refer to Judge Reynolds. He has made us a good Probate Judge. There is not a single thinking man, woman or child in Chilton County that will deny it, Republican or Democrat. He has proven himself capable of managing the affairs economically and successfully, and is gradually getting the County out of debt. The examinations made by Democratic State Examiners show that he has managed the affairs more successfully than the majority of Probate Judges in the State. (If you have not read the report of the Examiners, before you cast your vote, I will ask you to please do so.) If Judge Reynolds is elected he will go smoothly ahead with the office, there will not be the customary mistakes and legal propositions and extra expense to the County, that is always present when a new officer is installed. It is no reflection on new officers for every old officer also made his mistakes. Judge Reynolds' twelve years in office has certainly made him the most qualified man for the office. We know what he has done in the past and what he will do in the future, while we do not know what a new man would do, and certainly he could not do as well, not having the experience.

May I ask, what is the reason for the change? Is it that you think another man would make a better Judge? I don't think a single person in this county will say that. Then is it to give the salary to some one else? That seems to be the reason of some. Listen to me, good people. The salary of this office goes to one man, it benefits only the incumbent, while the duties, the services and the method of adminstering this office either benefits or harms the entire county. If he is a successful officer his services are a benefit and an honor to the county, if unsuccessful, they are a loss and harm to the county. I think you will agree with me that all new officers are experiments, some turn out good, some bad. There is no human living that can predict the success or unsuccess of any officer. We do know the past character of men as citizens and men we expect their character to remain so, but as to their ability as an officer we do not know. We have only to experiment. A man may have an excellent character as a man, as a Christian man, and yet he utterly and absolutely is a failure as an officer. It might be then when we take an old and trusty officer out of office, one who has been weighed in the balance and found good, and substitute in his place a new unexperienced one simply because we think he should have a little share of the salary or "pie" as sometimes called, it might be that in order to please one man, as I said before, the incumbent, we will cause harm to the entire county. If a man cannot make a fair living without the office then certainly he cannot manage the County's business successfully.

My experience in the Commissioner's Office convinces me that 80% of the work and management of the Probate Office is done by the Probate Judge, and no set of Commissioners can make a success of the work of the county without a good strong and well qualified man for Probate Judge. They have to look to the Judge for information. They are at the Courthouse only a few days in the year, and how could they be expected to manage so difficult and complicated business, without the help of a Judge that was in every way qualified?

I will say, that I like all the candidates for Probate Judge, but I don't believe they are as qualified as Judge Reynolds to hold the office. They are young men and have plenty of time, they can wait at least six years longer. We need them both to teach school and this race will put them in line for next term.

If an officer fails to do his duty the people will and should not re-elect him, another man should be put in. But when an officer has done all expected of him and has made you an humble and efficient servant, he should not be removed. Judge Reynolds has had hard sailing for the past six years and is just now getting the affairs of the county in good shape, the next six years will be much easier, and you would be an unappreciative people to take him out, the best Probate Judge we have ever had and put another man in simply to give the other a little of the salary.

In conclusion, let me say, that any candidate who goes into an office for the salary only is not qualified to fill it. He is looking out for the interest of his own pocket book and forgettng the people he was elected to serve. The question of salary should not enter into the race.

Lets go to the polls on August 8th and nominate Judge Reynolds for our Probate Judge for the next six years. He deserves that much at our hands, he has struggled for us in the past years, both in office and out. He has made an innumerable host of friends by serving all alike, by his fearless and unprejudicial management. He has saved the county money by his practice of economy. Is it right to turn him out now without even the smallest reason? Lets show an appreciation for what he has done for us in the past by giving him an overwhelming nomination on August 8th, and we can assure ourselves that we will have a man in office capable in every way of managing the office, a man unafraid to speak his convictions, uninfluenced by any clique or crowd, except the people as a whole, and a man honest and fair. The past will bear me out in all I say.

With the vey best wishes for the party, the county, and all the people, I am,

Respectfully,
MOSES ROBINSON.

FARM FOLKS WILL HAVE BIG TIME AT AUBURN

Special Preparations Being Made for A Week of Value and Interest to the Farmers.

Auburn, Ala., June 26.—The week of July 31 to August 5 has been designated "Farmers' Week" in Auburn and hundreds of farm folks from all over Alabama are expected to be here and take part in the annual festivities and exercises.

Following the plan which worked so well in 1921, "Farmers' Week" this year will include not only the farmers but the farm women, club boys, and club girls and also the county farm and home demonstration agents, making it a complete gathering of farmers.

Definite plans regarding the program and for the entertainment of the visitors while here were worked out at a recent meeting of Extension workers and others directly interested in the office of Professor I. N. Duncan, Director of the Alabama Extension Service.

To make the work directly instructive and entertaining special programs and exercises will be arranged for the club boys, the club girls, the women, and the men and at certain periods during the week all will come together to participate in general meetings of interest to all.

Like all previous annual farmers' meetings in Auburn the lectures and demonstrations this year will be very practical and calculated to furnish working information to each individual so that he or she may go back home and put it into operation. All subjects will be treated by men and women who are practical experts in their particular lines. A special invitation is extended to every farm perron or others interested to attend this annual gathering of farm people.

USE 16-MESH SCREEN TO KEEP OUT MOSQUITOES

State Board of Health Urges People to Guard Against Mosquitoes as well as Flies.

Montgomery, Alabama, June 26.—According to announcement of plans for fighting malaria in Alabama during the mosquito breeding season, the engineerng department of the State Board of Health is working on the defensive as well as the offensive. In addition to eradicating breeding places of these disease carriers, an effort is being made to secure the cooperation of hardware and builder's supply men in furnishing only such screen wire as will keep the mosquito out as well as prevent the common house fly from gaining admittance to the home.

The State Board of Health has secured the promise of a large number of merchants to handle only the sixteen mesh screen wire which is a little more expensive than the twelve or fourteen mesh, but experience has proven that the coarser mesh will not keep out the mosquito which is almost if not equally as dangerous as the fly.

Some of the merchants, approached by Mr. Hazlehurst, of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, have, while very readily agreeing to the plan, offered the suggestion that while they would not sell the coarser wire, their customers might order it elsewhere, or simply send a mail order house for the adjustable screen with the twelve or fourteen mesh wire in it.

To prevent this and to put the general public on notice that the wire screen coarser than sixteen mesh will not protect against the mosquito, an appeal is made direct to the people of Chilton County through the columns of The Union-Banner to insist upon the sixteen mesh screen wire when purchasing either direct from the local merchant or when ordering. It is also important that your carpenter be requested to use the finer screen when you get him to screen your house.

PRESIDENT HARDING FOR "CAREFUL CROSSING"

Says More Care Used at Railroad Crossings would save Many Lives and Much Property.

The following letter was issued by President Harding to the Secretary of the Steam Section of the American Railway Association, with reference to the "Careful Crossing Campaign":

"My attention has been called to the fact that under the auspices of the American Railway Association, an intensive campaign is to be waged for eliminating accidents at railroad highway crossings.

"The complete success of such an effort would mean the saving of thousands of lives, the prevention of many more thousands of injuries and incidentally the prevention of a great property loss. Of course, the ideal solution is elimination of grade crossings, to which all possible energy and means should be unceasingly directed. But the extent of our country and its railroad mileage make apparent that not for many years of utmost effort could this be effected. There should be constant pressure for elimination of these danger spots, practically in the more populous areas, pending which there is need for just the kind of preventive effort that your Association is planning. Among these measures, the most effective would seem to be to arouse in the minds of drivers a sense of their personal responsibilities. When thoughtlessness is allowed to usurp the place of vigilance, as too often happens, the scene is set for tragedy. Reminders, and still more reminders, of the need for caution at railroad crossings are needed.

"Surely, the effort you are undertaking is appealing, and it ought to have the most generous and general support."

DEMOCRATIC TARIFF POLICY FAVORS MANUFACTURERS IN FOREIGN NATIONS

Our Prosperity Demands Protection of American Producers and our Own Factories.

Washington, June 26.—"Now that women have a vote, the free traders are making a special effort to deceive them into believing that a Republican protective tariff will force them to pay an excessive price for goods," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "The plea of the Democrats has always been to the consumer—the producer be damned. It is our guess that the great majority of American women voters have discernment enough to know that the first great essential is prosperous production, for without prosperous production there can be no satisfactory consumption. The wife of a producer is interested in her husband's earning power, and she is not likely to vote for the political party that would throw her husband out of employment in order that she may buy more cheaply commodities made in Europe or Asia.

"The Democratic policy is 'buy where you can buy the cheapest.' That means, in actual practices, that we should 'buy our wool in Australia or South Africa, our silk goods in the Orient, our hides in Mexico, our beef in Argentina, cotton and wool manufactures in England, cutlery, optical goods, and various other commodities in Germany, glassware in Belgium, lemons in Italy, and so on down the list. If we are to maintain or successfully compete with the prices foreign producers are able to quote, and the American producer, under a Democratic tariff would, in normal times, sell only what the foreigner could not supply.

"If we are to buy abroad, as the Democrats would have us do, in the alledged interest of the consumer, then the American producer must either close down entirely or greatly curtail his production. Every producer who diminishes his operation reduces the number of his employees and the market for American goods is thus further curtailed.

"It is an economic fact often repeated but not fully appreciated, that a dollar spent for productive purposes in the United States changes hands ten times in a year. The wage earner spends the dollar for food, the merchant pays it over to the wholesaler, the wholesaler hands it on to the manufacturer or packer, the manufacturer uses it to buy from the farmer, and the farmer buys clothing, and so on. If that dollar be sent to Europe or Asia, it circulates there, doing the service it should do in America.

"Records of the Democratic administration show that when the Underwood tariff law went into effect in 1913 we had a balance of merchandise trade in our favor, but that balance steadily declined until April, 1914, when we were actually buying more goods abroad than we were selling abroad. It seems incredible but it is true that this, the greatest producing nation in the world, was buying more than it was selling, and for the simple reason that a Democratic tariff law made it easy to import foreign goods. As a result American mills were closed and there were millions of men out of employment until the war in Europe shut off imports and created an unprecedented foreign demand for American goods.

"In the face of these records and the indisputable fact that we must have prosperous producers before we have consumers, it is incredible that any considerable number of women will be misled into voting for the privilege of buying goods in foreign lands at prices which American industry cannot compete."

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lowe and children of Birmingham are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Foshee this week. The two families are spending the week camping on Coosa River.

LETTER FROM MR. JASPER N. DENNIS

Clanton, Ala., June 27, 1922.

To the voters of Chilton County, Alabama,

Greetings:

In making my announcement for the office of Sheriff of Chilton County, I beg to say that it was after due consideratin of the gravity and importance of the office, and in response to the requests of numerous citizens of your county, that I agreed to ask for any office at this time.

Feeling under many obligations to the people of our county for past favors and support, and that any loyal Republican who has been honored by the people's support should be submissive to the wishes of the Republicans in that county; I have agreed to make the race for nomination and if nominated, for the election of Sheriff of your county.

I ask that you investigate my past record as an officer as well as the life I have lived. If you find that I have made good as an officer, kept the work of the office in a way creditable to our citizenship as well as to my party and to myself, and if I have lived a life that shows consistency in one charged with the enforcement of the laws of the country, give me your vote and influence, and if nominated and elected I promise as faithful performance of the duties of the office as it is possible for me to give.

I believe that you are entitled to and want a Sheriff whose life, past and present, is consistent with the laws he is expected to enforce and at the same time one who will use fairness, kindness and common sense in the discharge of his duties.

If elected my highest ambition will be to do my duty under the law with the utmost kindness possible toward all and to know nothing but duty and right and to see that all have a square deal from the office of the Sheriff.

If the above meets your approval, go to the primary election on August 8th, 1922, call for a Republican ticket and for Sheriff make your cross before the name of J. N. Dennis.

If in your best judgment one of the other candidates will make a better Sheriff, then vote your honest convictions and I will help elect the nominee.

Yours for the best conditions possible in which to rear, educate and train our children.

J. N. DENNIS.

MRS. HOWARD MAKES PUBLIC STATEMENT

To the many voters of Chilton County with whom am not personally accquainted, and to others who may not know my views, I take this means of letting you know how I stand in regard to a few things pertaining to the County Board of Education:

But first I wish to thank my good friends of Beats 2 and 14 and also Mr. DeShazo, for their kind compliments and splendid support. To know that one's best efforts are appreciated does one good and inspires us to do better things.

Let me ask this favor of you, do not vote for me just because I am a woman; to satisfy a supposed craving in the hearts of women to hold office. The majority of us women do not feel that way about it. We don't want to deprive the men of any honors but we do feel that the welfare of humanity rests upon us as well as upon the men and we are willing to bear our share of the responsibility.

And yet because I am a woman and mother I may have a deeper feeling for humanity and especially for children than a man could have. You all know the old but true saying "A mother is the child's best friend." As the future of the nation depends upon the training we are giving our children at home and in school, it behooves us to put forth our very best efforts to give them strong minds and bodies and above all a desire to be good men and women. And when we think of the disgraceful conduct of the people of Herrin, Ill., we realize what a tremendous task is before us.

No small amount of this training must be received at school. Therefore our teachers should be the very best characters. In case the local trustees do not know of such a teacher, that is, the best obtainable, I am sure a good County School Board can be of much help to them. But I do not think the Board should use any autocratic power which may have been given it to overrule selections of teachers made by the trustees and patrons. The two should work in harmony.

The same holds true in regard to holding religious meetings in school buildings. We, whose fore-fathers dared to cross the broad Atlantic in the frail boats of that time and brave the many dangers which this country then presented in order to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience; certainly it is not for us to say how and where our fellow man shall worship. At least, not to restrict them from their own buildings. To be sure a public school property does not belong to a few that gave the most to have it built but to every person in the district whether they gave anything to it or not (tho personally I have more respect for a person that gives all they can to such a cause.) But majority should rule. Because it does belong to all the people and was put there primarily for the use of educating the children, as such it must be protected. I don't know what the law is in that respect but it should be the duty of the Sheriff to see that it is protected in case of danger of being set on fire or otherwise destroyed.

I believe it is the main duty of the County Board to favor and advance the cause of education to the limit of their ability. And to see that every dollar spent brings full value to the people of the county.

Because I have been a teacher and am a parent, I feel that I am better qualified to be a member of the Board than if these experiences were not mine.

I should like to meet and personally know all the voters of the county but as I can not do that, I trust that these lines will give you an idea of what kind of person I am; that you will know whether you want to give me your support or not. I believe that each person should use his or her own best judgment in their selection of officers without being tied with promises to anyone.

Yours for Education,
MRS. INGA HOWARD.

A Statement for Fair-minded People:

Tax Exemption Act

The Comer legislature of 1907, which enacted many progressive and constructive laws, wisely extended an invitation to outside capital to continue the building of cotton mills, assist in developing the water power resources of the state, build cyanamid plants and engage in shipbuilding, by offering exemption from taxation for a period of ten years for all new investments in such activities within the state. All of these exemption statutes are still in force, except the cotton mill statute, which has expired.

The exemption act began, "To encourage the development of the various unused water powers of this state, the plants . . . of any person, or firm, or of any corporation . . . shall in consideration of the benefits to be derived by the public from the development of such plants, be exempt," etc., "for ten years after construction." (Sec. 3069, Code of 1907.) This act invited all capital—local and foreign—to develop the unused water powers, etc.

The laws relating to power companies, including the tax exemption act, were passed by the Legislature of 1907 and with some changes were written into the Code of 1907.

Criticism has been directed at this company as if we had a part in writing the laws. But this is not true. They were first passed by the legislature of 1907 and revised in some respects by the Code Committee, consisting of Messrs. Sam Will John of Selma, A. H. Carmichael of Tuscumbia, J. M. Foster of Tuscaloosa, O. C. Maner of Montgomery, Henry B. Steagall of Ozark (now a member of Congress), John A. Lusk of Guntersville, Henry P. Merritt of Tuskegee (now on the Court of Appeals), and Lucien D. Gardner of Troy (now Associate Justice of Supreme Court). The work of the Code Committee was then adopted by the same Legislature of 1907, and not one change has been made in these laws since their enactment in 1907.

Mr. James Mitchell, the first president of this company, now passed away, prepared a memorandum in 1914 which was widely distributed in Alabama and in which he made this statement regarding the influence of the state laws of 1907 in bringing about power development:

"Let it be remembered that the laws now upon the statute books were not passed with any view of the present owners making these developments; that the laws were in existence before they undertook the work, and after every effort had been made by the citizens of Alabama throughout this and other countries to finance the project; but when the question of making the developments was under consideration, one of the most important elements in bringing the present owners to their conclusion was the existence of the tax exemption statute—for the principal reason that it showed to them that the people of the state desired the development to be made. It was this declared policy which was the real inducement to make the development—an assurance to them that a spirit of encouragement would be continued. The amount saved in taxes for a few years is important, because with their experience they realized that the enterprise would for at least ten years scarcely meet its fixed charges; so that in its final analysis this particular statute probably had more to do with bringing about the development than any other statute on the books."

There are also several companies in Alabama which have accepted the state's invitation to develop hydro power.

The exemption of the hydroelectric properties of the Alabama Power Company, with the exception of Mitchell Dam now under construction, will expire October 1, 1922, and will then become subject to taxation. The Company has, however, since the beginning of its work paid taxes on its lands and various other classes of roperty which are not exempt, and during the tax year of 1921 this company paid a total of $137,107.66 state, county and city ad valorem taxes and licenses, including franchise taxes.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

Crops looking fine and everyone in fine spirits over the prospect of a reasonably good harvest. Boll Weevils doing some damage, but the hot dry weather is against them.

The writer made a hurried business trip to Clanton Friday morning .

Mr. Joe Adams was a business caller at Clanton Friday morning.

Mr. W. F. DeShazo spent Saturday in Clanton looking after business matters.

Yes, you have all heard of Ball Games before, but we had one of the "most awfullest" games here Saturday afternoon that you've heard of in some time. Mulberry and Fairview locked horns in a very onesided double header. The players were so badly missmatched, that, the superior playing of the home team was apparent from the very beginning. The first game resulted in a score of 6 to 2 in favor of Mulberry, and the second one was stopped after the first inning with the score 13 to 0 in Mulberry's favor. The Fairview boys absolutely failed to make any successful connection with the leather covered pills that were dosed out to them by the Mulberry hurlers. But on the other hand the home team boys seemed to have "inside" information as to just where the wiley bean was going and never failed to land a real doxology right in the face for the practice and experience that our boys have had, there is none better, so if you want to get into a lively game come and play us. The home team will play Fairview on the latters ground Saturday afternoon if nothing flustrates the present arrangements. Lets all go and help the boys to put over another victory.

MACEDONIA

Just a few lines about this place, as I did not see anything last week.

In olden times it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never completely used up as he is when his stomach is out of order. THE UNION-BANNER

VOLUME X. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1922 NUMBER 11

J. N. SCOTT WRITES OF POLITICAL MATTERS

Urges Republican Voters to Stand Together for Future Welfare of County.

Editor Union-Banner:

I want to ask for a little more space in your paper in order that I may give the voters of Chilton County a little more of my celebrated political remedy known as "Ignorance Drops." I will not prescribe it altogether for the ailments of the .Democrats this time, as I think they are too near dead at this time to waste any time with.

What I want to say is mainly for the good of Republicans who will cast their votes for the nominees of the Republican party on the eighth day of August.

The readers of The Union-Banner will remember that a few weeks ago I wrote a letter to the paper in which I advocated the namination of Judge Reynolds again for Probate Judge, on the grounds that I believed that the future welfare of the county in a financial way would be taken care of in the best possible way by him. I wish to say that I am still of this same opinion. Mr. H. A. Harris advocates some mighty good things in his letters to the voters and tax payers. But I want to remind you that L. H. Reynolds has already been tried, and we all know that there is not another to be found in Chilton County who can beat him in handling our business, and especially under all the existing conditions. We know that he did lower the taxes during his first term of office. But everybody knows that can't be done again just now. When it can be done again, we can depend on Reynolds to do it for us. And he will help in every way possible to bring lower taxes to the people of the county. So let us not make a mistake this time.

I want to say that the ofifce of Probate Judge is not by any means the only one of importance in the affairs of our county. The proper financial management of every office in the county is of vital concern to the tax payers.

Somehow, I can't help but let myself be influenced in a great measure by the records htat have been made by the men whom we have had in offices, and who are asking to be reelected. I have arrived at the conclusion that the voters of the county will be doing themselves the best favor to nominate and elect Mr. M. D. Foshee as Circuit Clerk again My reason for thinking so is because we know of no mistake that has been made on his part in the financing of those things which have come under his care. He has always been ready with his work when each term of court was called.

He has given the office his entire time and study, and has equipped himself with the knowledge of the office, which others have got to learn before they can handle the office like he can.

Mr. Fohee has never asked for any other office. He has been content with what the people have given him. He is now asking us only to give him the same place again, for which he has studied hard to qualify himself to take care of in a way that would be a credit to himself and his county and the people whom he serves. The records show that he has done that, and what more can we ask of a man?

I don't think that we should discharge one who has made the record that Mr. Foshee has made, just to give it to a man who has had no experience in the office. I think this is a mistaken idea.

Look at the L. N. railroad system, or any other big business concern. They hold to the men who are the most competent, and work for their interests, and when htey get too old to carry on the job, they put them on a pension as a reward for their faithfulness.

What we need in office is men who will run our business successfully. I think we have had this kind for the past six years, and I think we should keep them another six years.

I want to say hurrah for Mr. W. M. Wyatt for Representatve in the Legislature; also for Mr. J. N. Dennis for Sheriff. Mr. Dennis has always made good in the other offices to which the people have trusted him, and I am sure he will make good in the Sheriff's office.

I want us to make no mistake this time, if possible to avoid it; and if everybody will vote as Uncle Mose Robinson advises, I am sure we will come out all right. So in conclusion, I want to say, let us look to the interests of our County when we go to vote. Think over what Mr. John Martin had to say in the paper.

For God's sake and the sake of Chilton County's future, let us stay together and work unceasingly for the Republican cause, for therein lies the best interests of our county in years to come as well as at present.

Respectfully.

J. N. SCOTT.

THE BLOOMER GIRLS FAIL TO BLOOM IN CLANTON

(By Steve Hardee)

Last Friday afternoon Clanton met the Western Bloomer Girls, when about 300 people witnessed the game.

Those who expected the girls to defeat Clanton were badly disappointed, as Clanton had a "walk-away" from start to finish, scoring 7 runs to the girls 1. There were only 4 girl members of the team, the rest being made up of men.

The girls played only a little better than the average girl, although they appeared to understand the game thoroughly.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Pyron, making fourteen take three healthy swings at the air, out of the 36 who faced him.

Following is the box score:

Girls	AB	R	H	A	E
Brown, sr, cf, 3b	4	1	1	3	2

ANOTHER BUSY DAY IN THE COUNTY COURT

Monday was another very busy day in the County Court of Chilton County. The following is the disposition of cases as shown by the docket:

SIX MILLION DOLLARS FOR ROADS IN ALABAMA.

Great Program of Road Building Lies Ahead of the State Highway Department.

Montgomery, July 3rd.—Alabama will receive $1,035,614 as its share of the $50,000,000 appropriated at the present session of Congress to promote roadbuilding throughout the United States. This amount, plus the unused balance to its credit in Washington, funds on hand, and money realized from the sale of the first issue of road bonds will total nearly six millions of dollars to be expeded for construction and maintenance.

The joint report of State Examiner of Accounts E. A. Henry and the Assistant Highway Engineer on their investigation and comparison of record and methods of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, and Highway Departments of other states, was submitted at a meeting of the State Highway Commission held in Birmingham on June 26th and 27th, and adopted at that meeting; the report is exhaustive and contains many of the suggestions recommended by the Committee on Reports of the Highway Department, of which S. P. McDonald is chairman.

The report shows that since the institution of the Commission in its present form to April 30th 1922, 258.67 miles of road in 22 counties have been completed and are now under maintenance; that $29,563.54 has been paid out to contractors in various parts of the state for upkeep on finished roads, and that 422.76 miles of unfinished roads are under construction.

Fifteen separate recommendations are embodied in the report, many of them relating to the use of certain forms in recording expenditure of road funds and compilation of monthly charts. Of particular interest is the recommendation that a committee be appointed to determine the amounts to be refunded to the several counties that advanced money to the state for road construction and are entitled to refunds in accordance with the Highway Act. Other suggestions are that the Commission adopt a fixed building program for the year based on a fair distribution of funds and work, and the public be advised of this program that the present receipts from auto license fees be set aside for maintenance of roads, general expenses, and for a sinking fund to pay principal and interest on road bonds; that an abstract book be installed which will show the expenditure by counties of revenues from the sale of road bonds, and that a competent auditor be employed as soon as possible so the department may have an adequate force with which to carry out the recommendations.

Fayette County sent a delegation to the meeting that attracted unusual attention; it numbered 400 persons, and had chartered a special train for the trip; it is said to be the largest committee to attend a Commission meeting.

The Commission made an inspection of a route in Jefferson County proposed to eliminate the crossing of Red and Shades Mountains south of Birmingham, and after adjournment of the session inspected roads in Cullman and Morgan Counties.

J. W. Gwin and the Southern Roads Company were awaded a contract for the construction of a road in Colbert County to cost approximately $150,000. Bids were authorized to be received in July for the construction of 20 miles of road in Macon County from Tuskegee to the County line, 14 miles of road from Athens to Elk River in Limestone county, 3.48 miles of the Heflin-Anniston road in Clebune County, 18 miles of road from Guin via Winfield in Marion County, and the "Rooster Bridge" over the Tombigbee River below Demoplis. The total estimated cost of these projects is $1,292,000.

LETTER FROM C. T. WALKER

Editr Union-Banner:

If you will give me a little space I want to say to the Republican voters of Chilton County who are not acquainted with Mr. T. J. Dorminey and Mr. D. H. Gentry that I have been with them in the Commissioners Court for the past eighteen months and I have found them always working for the very best possible interest of the tax payers. I want to say that I am not acquainted with the new men who have asked for the offices; therefore I have nothing to say for or against them. If Mr. Gentry and Mr. Dormniey have been true to the people, then I think they are entitled to your consideration again.

I want to say further that I made twenty-four crops with one horse. He did the work that I wanted him to do. I have no argument for anyone who wants to swap off any officer just from the fact that they have held an office before.

Yours truly,

C. T. WALKER.

Clyde J. Davis of Montgomery came up to Clanton Tuesday to spend the Fourth with friends here. Clyde says it still seems like home to get back to Clanton.

POLITICAL RALLY AT MINERAL SPRINGS ON JULY 14

Arrangements are being made now for a great day at Mineral Springs in Beat 12, on Friday, July 14, at which time there will be staged a spend-the-day political rally. Everybody is invited to come from far and near, and bring a well-filled basket and spend the day. Mr. Pink Martin was in Clanton Saturday, and authorized the announcement for this occasion, and requested us to give it publicity, which we are glad to do.

There will be plenty of free lemonade for everybody who attends.

At eleven o'clock A. M. there will be speaking, and it is hoped that all voters in reach of Mineral Springs will be there. All the candidates are invited to attend, and they will be given as much time as they want to talk to the people.

This is going to be a splendid occasion for passing off a hot day with pleasure and comfort. There is not a better place to spend a day in whole county than Mineral Spr. There is the finest spring of wa plenty of deep, cool shade, and all together, the prospects indicate that Friday, July 14th will be one of the most pleasant occasions that have ever been staged there.

It would not be overdoing the thing if everybody in Chilton county should be there. There would be plenty of water to quench the thirst in case the lemonade should give out. And don't forget to prepare your picnic lunch and take along.

Here's how she went off. What? Why, the double header with Fairview Saturday afternoon. The games were played on Fairview diamond, the first one resulting in a score of 11 to 4 in favor of Mulberry, and the second one 5 to 4 in Fairview's favor. The score would have been 7 to 4 but Fairview run in two men over a blocked ball and these did not count. On the second game the Mulberry boys had to play against the odds as the Fairview boys picked four teams to get their men and then in addition, the two umpires seemed to be against us.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY RAISES BID FOR GORGAS

SOUTHERN MANUFACTURERS CONDEMN INCLUSION OF GORGAS PLANT IN SHOALS PROJECT.

NEW DORMITORIES PLANNED

Municipal Utility Control Conference Planned—Coal Production Normal—Paper from Sweden—Mules Die From Heat.

Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power Company, told the Senate agriculture committee that his company stood ready to pay the government $3,000,000 for its interest in the steam plant at Gorgas, Ala., "if the government insists that $3,000,000 is a fair value."

Officials of the power company, Mr. Martin said, believed their offer of $2,500,000 was "fair," but that the department estimated the plant to be worth $3,000,000.

"If the government," he said, "insists upon $3,000,000, we are ready to pay that sum in cash. But we believe an understanding can be reached and the difference between the two figures can be reconciled."

Mr. Martin testified that, notwithstanding the attorney general's opinion, holding invalid certain provisions of the contract under which the Gorgas plant was enlarged for the government during the war, he believed the courts would hold the contract valid. He contended that it gave the power company an exclusive right to purchase the plant at a "fair valuation," to be fixed by arbitration.

A modification of the power company's offer to develop the power project at Muscle Shoals, Ala., Mr. Martin believed, could be made so that the government would receive annually 10,000 primary horsepower and 90,000 first secondary power, for operation of its nitrate plants. This would insure the continuous operation of the plants, he said, even during the lower water stages of the Tennessee river, when secondary power might not be available.

The Gorgas plant, the witness asserted, was essential to the industrial demands of Alabama.

"If Henry Ford gets the plant," Mr. Martin said, "it means that we would not be able to supply the power needed by the industries of the state and which we now are delivering to them."

Southern manufacturers, with industries valued at $300,000,000, condemned inclusion of the Gorgas steam plant in any offer leasing the government project at Muscle Shoals as a menace to their existence.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlains Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.

Cheap Flour is False Economy

It is a fact that a high-grade flour requires less shortening, less baking powder, fewer eggs. Good cooks have told us that they use just half as much lard when baking with Gilster's Best Flour.

The small difference in cost between Gilster's Best and ordinary flours, is more than made up in the saving on ingredients. It is real economy to use Gilster's Best Flour.

If Clanton expects to keep pace with the march of progress for the future years, we must get rid of the swamps that surround the city on the north, east and south. We can't grow to the limit of our expansion possibilities until these swamps are drained and the rich lands in them made to produce something worth while.

Right now is the propitious time to inaugurate this drainage project, so that it will come right along with the great road building program that is already assured for this section.

Let's drain the swamps around Clanton and thereby make available hundreds of acres of the best farm lands in Chilton County. At the same time we would increase the value of all other city property and farm lands, make a more healthful city and inaugurate an era of progress the like of which we have never before seen.

Read about what Fayette and Lamar Counties are doing with their drainage projects and then think of what Clanton could accomplish along the same line.

Dr. J. L. Wikle, Mayor-Elect of Anniston, spent a short while in Clanton the Fourth. He was accompanied by Mr. A. H. Sheppard, Circuit Clerk of Calhoun County.

Quite a number of the Republican candidates went to Refuge Church on Friday night to attend the speaking that had been previously announced. We want to congratulate people of that progressive community for the splendid attendance at the meeting. The house was crowded.

Prof. Wm. R. Baker acted as chairman of the meeting, performing his duties in an able manner.

Each candidate present was called upon by chairman Baker to present himself and let the people look him over. He also extended to each candidate an opportunity to speak in his own behalf, which privilege was gladly accepted and utilized by each one of them.

It was a fine meeting, showing a worth-while interest by the people in the election of men to fill the county offices.

THE REAL TARIFF QUESTION

An illutration of the trend of Southern public opinion on the tariff is afforded by the following editorial from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, one of the most ably edited and influential newspapers in the South:

The question which is being raised by the Southern Tariff Conference is an economic question and not in any sense a political or partisan one. It is not even a question of protection or free trade. It does not foreshadow a shift in Texas to the Republican column, it does not even mean a growth of "protection sentiment" in Texas or in the South. It is simply the very practical question of whether the production of other sections of the country are to receive the benefits of a protective tariff and the products of Texas and the South be placed at a decided disadvantage by being denied such protection.

The big fact that faces us which cannot be dodged is that the present Congress is going to pass a protective tariff bill. Democratic representatives in Congress who come back home and tell their constituents that they "kept the faith of the fathers" and voted against that bill will give little consolation to the producers of the South and of Texas if the bill is a one-sided and sectional measure giving the East a big advantage and placing Texas and the Suth at a decided disadvantage. The bill is going to be passed. The Democratic members who are going to vote against it will admit that right now. They will say that they are "powerless to prevent it." But they are not powerless to obtain protection for the products of Texas and the South. If the bill is a one-sided affair the Democratic members who "keep their records straight" will be directly responsible for it.

No academic discussion of the question of protection or free trade fits this situation. No partisan denunciation of the measure as a Republican measure fits it. If the partisan interests of the Democratic party require that Democrats shall have nothing to do with the measure, which we do not admit by any means, then the question which is before the Democrats in Congress is simply whether they are willing to sacrifice the interests of the producer of the South on the altar of fancied party advantage. That kind of party advantage, even if it could be gained, would benefit nobody but office holders and politicians, for it is related alone to political campaigns and the holding of office and not at all to the economic interests of the South.

The politicians are in control of the party machinery and apparently the representatives in Congress are obeying the party whip without reference to the interest of their constituents. However, the right of pettion has not been abolished, and it is to that the Southern Tariff conference has decided to appeal. It has made little headway with the politicians. It is now turning to the people. If you believe that everything should be done to prevent the new tariff law from being a sectional and one-sided affair, of you believe that everything should be done to protect Texas and the South from the consequences of such a measure, then tell it to your Congressman. The bill is going to be passed. It is going to be passed and enforced by your Government, which is none the less your Government because it is controlled by Republicans. The question is what kind of a bill do you want it to be? It is up to you.

THE FOREIGN INVASION

Foreign propagandists invaded this country to drag us into the league of nations. Foreign propagandists are still active in their efforts to effect cancellation of the foreign debts to the United States. The country is swarming with foreign commissions besieging the State Department and circulating publicity material designed to sway American foreign policy. Foreign emissaries have not ceased to importune the American Government for loans. Foreign agents, even foreign ambassadors, have been working to prevent the passage of the protective tariff bill which would carry out a distinctively American and domestic policy. Foreign influences are at work to defeat the ship subsidy measure. And, finally, mischief-makers of foreign birth have united in an attack on the Federal Constitution and have pledged themselves to work for the emasculation of the United States Supreme Court.

Is it not high time the American people got together and told these foreign meddlers where they belong?

WE'ELL TAKE CHANCE

The New York Journal of Commerce warns us against British retaliation should Congress pass the ship subsidy bill. The Journal is so duced English it is forever warning us what England will do if we do not adopt policies which meet with the approval of that nation. However, we will take a chance on our ship subsidy bill. We would rather fight British shipping interests in the open and under the bill, than to experience their ambuscades by way of the Congressional lobby and propagandism.

NOTES OF TRAVEL BY MR. NORTON

Readers of the Union-Banner will find much interest in reading the Notes of Travel by Mr. S. E. Norton, the first installment of which was mailed us from New York City, and appears in this issue. Mr. Norton is the regular correspondent of The Union-Banner at Thorsby. He and Mrs. Norton are making an extended trip through the East, and each week we will have a story in the paper written by them.

COTTON PRICE GOING UP

The announcement was made Tuesday that the price of cotton went up $5.00 a bale on Monday, owing to the condition of the crop that was shown by the government report. The report placed the condition of the crop at 71 per cent, and estimated a total production for the year at eleven million bales. It is predicted that the price will go higher.

Prof. R. A. Smith of Sayre, Principal of the Sayre High School, has been spending a few days with relatives and friends in Chilton County.

A LETTER FROM MR. EDWARDS

Editor Union-Banner:

I see so much said through the columns of your paper in regard to the efficiency of some certain candidates to fill the offices to which they aspire, I want to say that I never have believed that there ever was a man that was so well up on a job or office that there was not another who could do equally as well or better. We at one time thought that Jess Willard could not be whipped, but Jack Dempsey showed up and knocked him out without a scratch. Now, I don't believe we have got a bunch of crazy men asking for office, for I believe that Mr. Harris or Mr. Bean can fill the office of Judge of Probate as good as Mr. Reynolds. Mr. Reynolds has made mistakes without question in this present administration.

Mr. Harris and Mr. Bean have both filled offices with high honors in this county. What reason have we to believe that eihter of them would not make us an efficient Probate Judge. Mr. Harris made an excellent Sheriff; that cannot be denied. Yet some of our writers tell us it is a terrible risk to elect him Probate Judge. Well, old Master has his pets, and they have a right to stick to him, but I believe in equal opportunity. Mr. Reynolds has been fully paid for every thing he has done for the people, and if he has done all some claim for him it is time for him to go home and take a rest.

Uncle Moses Robinson gives us his information, but he tells us he has made mistakes. I believe the whole county will agree with him on that point. And who knows that he can't make another mistake. Now, I don't believe in this one-man policy, and when a man gets the idea that no one can run a job but himself he is miserably mistaken and the nearest out of a job he ever was. I don't believe it is fair and right to allow one man to continue in office for more than two terms. Washington refused to be President of the United States a third term. He knew he was a great man; he also knew there were other great men. And he was perfectly willing for them to have a chance to show their greatness or ability to do things. Also, if my memory serves me right, Mr. Reynolds promised the people six years ago if they would elect him Probate Judge, he would not ask for it any more.

Those are things that should be looked at, Brother Voter. You should consider these questions well before you cast your vote. I don't believe all the power of our county is in the hands of any one man. So then let us give Mr. Harris or Mr. Bean a chance. I believe either of them will do to trust with this office. I believe they are trustworthy men. I prefer Mr. Harris first, for one reason only; that he is an older man than Mr. Bean, and I believe Mr. Harris would make us one of the best Probate Judges we ever had in Chilton County, if we will only give him a chance to make good.

Yours truly,
S. M. EDWARDS.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

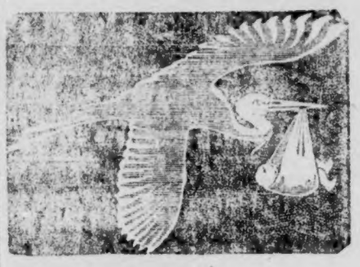
Billiousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with billiousnes and constipation which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally, writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.



Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. From this moment on, cast from your mind all dread and fear, and feel every day as the months roll by that great freedom from much of the suffering which thousands of expectant mothers undergo, unnecessarily. And when the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and I'm sure they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It aids the muscles and tissues to expand easily. It penetrates quickly. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. There is no substitute. Avoid useless greases sometimes recommended by the unknowing. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

NOTE—Write for valuable free illustrated book "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important authoritative information which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend," to Bradfield Regulator Company, Dept. 15, Atlanta, Ga.

LOST—One Blue Serge Coat, on July Fourth, at Thorsby or on the road between Clanton and Thorsby. Finder please return to E. W. Miller and get reward for trouble.

Independence Day was celebrated at Thorsby last Tuesday. The chairman of the day announced that the first celebration of Independence Day in Chilton County occured just 25 years ago in Thorsby. There have been many celebrations since then but none better than this one. Seven local organiations united in preparing for the exercises of the day. The Thorsby Chamber of Commerce, the Thorsby Fruit Growers, the Ladies Guild, the Parent Teachers, the Masonic Order, the Eastern Star and the Odd Fellows. Most of these organizations and several of the business houses of Thorsby were represented by floats in a Parade through the central street of the town to the picnic grounds on the Institute campus, which parade took place about ten o'clock in the morning. Special mention should be given to the floats of the Ladies Guild, Parent Teachers Association and the Eastern Star. The following program was rendered at 11 o'clock in the morning: Prayer by Rev. W. P. Lowery Address of Welcome by Rev. E. W. Butler representing Mayor R. L. Carter. Brief and very interesting addresses were given by ex-Commissioner Henry Page Burrus, Mr. Zack Drake, both of Birmingham interspersed with music by the Thorsby Band and the Thorsby Community Choir under the leadership of J. O. Johnson and C. E. Bice. After the addresses came the bountiful dinner. If anyone went away hungry it was his own fault. The afternoon was given to sack and egg and potato races and base ball.

WEAK, NERVOUS, ALL RUN-DOWN

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me.

"I saw after taking some Cardui . . . that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person.

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me . . . My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments.

SCOTT FAVORS MARTIN

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words to the voters in behalf of Mr. Martin. I have known Mr. Martin for a long time and I especially know him as an officer. He has worked in this county as Deputy Sheriff for a long time and I have watched him very closely in this line of work. I have always found him to be a very quiet conservative man, one with plenty of energy and pep. I think that he would make this county one of the rest sheriffs we have ever had.

I personally know that he has worked hard in this line of work, and as far as I have ever known he has always treated every body fair and square in all of his dealings. I think that when we have a candidate for an office that has had experience in the same line of work which he is seeking in the coming election, and since he has made good on the job and at the same time is asking for promotion, I feel that the same rule should apply when we go to the polls to select our officers, as applies to any corporation or business man, when he begins to select a man to fill an important job, that is, promote the man who is most capable of filling the bill. In applying this rule I feel like Mr. Martin, after considering the qualifications of all the other candidates is a man that we should elect to this office.

Some of the candidates are asking for the place are experienced officers but they have had no experience in this particular office. The Sheriff's office is a very important office to fill, and one that is hard to fill to the satisfaction of the people. From his letter to the voters it seems that he has been very fortunate in his work. Now all we want or should want is a good sheriff, and as far as the money that is made from this office is concerned, it will not be handed out to the voters. The salary and fees that are made goes to the Sheriff and goes with the office. So all we have to do is to pick out the best man for the place.

In conclusion, I wish to say that if he is nominated in the primary on August 8th, that I feel sure that he will keep up his campaign and will be elected in the general election.

With all good feelings for the other candidates in the race for Sheriff, who are all good men, I am for Mr. Martin this time.

Respectfully,
ROBERT SCOTT.

MARKET NEWS SENT OUT DAILY BY RADIO FROM BIRMINGHAM

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY INAUGURATES SERVICE BEGINNING AT 2:30 O'CLOCK EACH DAY OF VALUE TO FARMERS.

The farmers of Alabama and the adjoining states who may be fortunate in the possession of a radio set are now permitted to listen in on the daily market reports, starting at 2:30 o'clock each day in the week, Sundays excepted. These reports are being sent by the big broadcasting station of the Alabama Power Company at Birmingham, and it is the privilege of all owners of radio receiving sets to listen in and get the closing market quotations almost as soon as the city man where wire quotations are received.

This broadcasting service by the Alabama Power Company is expected to prove of great value to the farmers, as well as the merchants and others throughout the state who desire to keep in daily touch with the markets. Radio receiving sets have been placed in many farm homes and business houses over the state, and it is not believed that it will require a very great while until these sets will be as common in the home as are sewing machines at the present time. An ample set for receiving the market reports can be purchased at a very reasonable cost, and under favorable weather conditions, homemade sets will be ample to take reports for quite a distance out of Birmingham, it is stated.

The Alabama Power Company inaugurated this service Monday afternoon, July 3, over its radiophone "W S Y". It is intended to broadcast the closing quotations on the New York Stock Exchange, the New York Cotton market, New Orleans Cotton market, Chicago Board of Trade, Liberty bond prices and the Morris Avenue (Birmingham) quotations on fruits, produce, livestock, hides, tallow, fish, grain, feed stuff and poultry. In addition it is probable that other information of practical and immediate news value, together with lectures and crop news will be given.

This new service is being inaugurated by the Alabama Power Company in the belief that it will prove of great value to the thousands within the range of its station who are interested in such information as is to be sent out. It is confidently predicted that as this service becomes better known there will be many new receiving sets installed within a radius of a couple of hundred miles of Birmingham by farmers, merchants, farm bureaus, marketing associations, brokers and business concerns of all kinds.

Firestone

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
-and Their High Mileage Records

The high mileage records of Firestone Cords continue to emphasize the fact that Firestone methods are different and better. These records, steadily increasing in number and in mileage totals, justify the Firestone contention that there is one best way to build tires.

Among the primary sources of Firestone extra mileage is double gum-dipping—the saturation of the cord plies in a vat of liquid gum—thus coating each cord and virtually eliminating internal heat and friction.

Another is Firestone air bag curing, with its 200 pound pressure, which places every cord accurately and equalizes the tension.

By blending the rubbers of different plantations and types, and by tempering it before mixing. Firestone men add still more mileage.

Many cord tires are good—a few are better—Firestone users say one is best.

Those who have already experienced Firestone mileage, have stopped shopping and experimenting—they have made these cords standard equipment. Investigate your friends' success with Firestone Cords—and buy your next tire accordingly. Come in and get your share of extra mileage.

WASHINGTON LETTER

P. O. D. CONFERENCES

Washington, July 4—Postmaster General Work recognizes the value of frequent conferences among the 320,000 employees of the postal service. They tend to bring about a common understanding of business methods, sympathetic co-operation and loyal service. There are at present eleven national associations of postal employees. Each represents a different class of workers, and their annual conventions are held at various times and places. Those conventions result in great benefit to the postal service, but the Postmaster General believes that there should be some official gathering of all employees that the head of the department or his assistants may attend and make such recmmendations as they may deem for the good of the service.

To that end Mr. Work is planning to hold an annual conference-convention in every state of the Union, to which every postal employee in the State who can be spared from his regular duty may go. The Department plans to have present at those meetings its high officials and experts on postal subjects who will acquaint the employees with the policies of the Government and the approved methods for maintaining efficient service.

Attendance of delegates to the official conventions will be considered service in line of duty, and there will be no deduction from annual leave. It is hoped that the first of the meetings may be arranged for the coming autumn. The Post Office Department is inviting suggestions as to its plan from all people who may be interested, both within and without the postal service. "It is earnestly hoped," says Postmaster General Work, "that some such plan of cooperation may be eventuated which will reduce the convention-holding to a system, and give to each group the benefit and enthusiasm which comes from meeting once with all other groups."

THE RIGHT TO THE FLOORS

The proposal to give Cabinet members the right to a seat on the floor of the Senate and House and to participate in debate is again being considered at the Capitol. President Harding and his departmental chiefs have also given the matter attention and it is their unanimous belief that the privilege should be granted. It is not intended to make the presence of Cabinet members on the floor of either House mandatory but to give them the privlege of explaining measures in which their departments are interested, and of answering attacks that may be made upon them by Senators or Representatives.

For many Congresses bills have been introduced making the necessary changes in existing law, and in the present Congress such measures are pending. Friends of the legislation believe it would make for greater harmony between the executive and legislative branches of the government, and contribute to greater speed in the enactment of legislation. With the large number of important bills awaiting the attention of Congress, it is doubtful if the measures granting the privileges of the floor to Cabinet members will be taken up at the present session, but discussion of the subject now may pave the way for the passage of such a bill in the near future.

Marion Star—Was the announcement that he was going to employ a million men, in the event of his purchase of Muscle Shoals, a bit of propaganda to boost "Uncle Henry" Ford for the presidency?

William Randolph Hearst, who for several years has been lambasting England and twisting the Lion's tail, has just discovered the Tight Little Isle, and having been dined by Lloyd George, is now praising the British. He finds them intent on Europe's reconstruction: "With them, apparently, when war ends business begins, and they are right," says Mr. Hearst. Travel is a great broadener of mind, and Mr. Hearst could very profitably spend ten years abroad.

MR. COBB WRITES LETTER TO THE COUNTY VOTERS

To the Voters of Chilton County:

On account of my farm work, it has been impossible for me to canvass, but will take this method to speak to the voters of the Republican Party. As I have been reared right here in Beat 2, I think it useless to give a history of my life, as every body knows me, and knows that I have laways voted the Republican ticket from top to bottom—not because I wanted an office but because I thought it was the best for the common class of people.

As I ask to be Commissioner from First District, will give my views on a few things concerning the office.

1st. I believe that the county business should be handled as a man would handle his own business, and every dollar spent by the county, it should get a dollar in reutrn, let it be in labor or material or what ever it may, and if elected I will do my best to carry out that kind of a policy. I further believe that the very strictest economy should be practiced by the Commissioners Court, and save every dollar they could and apply it to our debts, as that is the only way we will ever get our county out of debt and get her back on a cash basis again. If we had the interest that we are paying to spend on our roads each year and use it wisely, in a few years you would see a great improvement.

You need not look for much less taxes as long as our county is in debt like it is at present. If elected I will pledge myself to use all fair means at my command to keep the expense of the county a way under the income so we can unload our debts as fast as possible. I further believe what money is spent by the Court should be spent as nearly as possible equally in each Beat in the County and not all spent on one road or in one or two Beats. I believe in equal rights to all and special favors to none. I believe that the man in the remotest part of the county is just as much entitled to his part of the tax money as the man who lives at the court house.

If the voters of the county are willing to entrust the county's business in my hands to help look after it, I will pledge myself to handle it as I would my private business. If you feel like I am the man for the office I will appreciate your vote and influence, and will conduct the office in a way for you never to regret voting for me. If not, then I am ready to help elect the ticket from top to bottom.

Sincerely yours,
JOS. E. COBB.

NOTES OF TRAVEL

(By S. E. Norton)

One of the advantages of traveling is the opportunity it gives one to learn "how the other half lives." One laso sees people who for most part exhibit their natural inclinations. If habitually courteous, they make very agreeable traveling companions, but if not, they are ".....".

The writer, with Mrs. Norton, met Sereno G. at hte Tutwiler in Birmingham, all ready with tickets via Central of eGorgia to Jacksonville, Fla. Leaving the Terminal Station at 4:15 p.m., in an Illinois Central Pullman, we got out about ten miles and were held up for an hour by a freight wreck. The next incident of any importance was supper in the dining car. This meal from start to finish was fully thirty miles long, well served and leisurely enjoyed. We were due in Jacksonville at 7:45 a.m., Eastern time, for which we put our watches an hour ahead before turning in for the night. We had expected to get breakfast on the diner, but found it had been left at Waycross, Ga., and we must wait our arrival in Jacksonville, which we reached on time, having made up the hour lost at the wreck just out of Brmingham.

At the station we found an excellent restaurant and had a good breakfast. The first impression Jacksonville gives the traveler is that the town is different, beginning with true "pony engines" for haulnig the baggage truck about the station. The building and its appointments show a lively conception of modern methods of doing things. Although not so large as some we have seen, it is admirably adapted to the purpose intended.

On entering the main waiting room one is impressed with its novelty and cleanliness. Signs in bold letters direct one to almost anything that might be needed. The floor and lofty ceilnigs are of white marble, while large and numerous windows give in floods of light. The seats are solid and very comfortable, built double, with the back between them extending high above the head. Along the top on standards is placed a long reflector with enough electric lights in it to give plenty of ilumination for reading. Telephone booths line quite a space of oue wall, tolet facilities are adequate, modern and kept clean. An outstanding feature of the building, which makes it a veritable landmark, is the immense Corinthian columns, four feet in diameter and thirty feet high, supporting the roof.

Our next move was to secure a taxi and transfer to the Clyde Line steamer, locate our state rooms and store our baggage. We then went to explore the town and vicinity.

So far as we were able to see in the limited time at our disposal, Jacksonville is a modern town of about 130,000 people, which has been built by men who understand how to build for permanence and utility. The streets are wide, well paved, and kept absolutely clean. Trolley poles are iron of a neat design, and freely used to support arc lights, for which the wires are all enclosed in substantial pipes while here and there neat and desirable drinking fountains furnish clear and sparkling water.

The business buildings are modern in style, with but few sky scrapers. A ride through the residence districts showed many beautiful and substantial homes with tile roofs very common. A ferry trip across St. Johns River brought us to South Jacksonville, where we saw the Ostrich and Alligator farms.

As the time for sailing was near, we hurried back to town and went aboard our hip. This story of our travels will be continued in the next issue of The Union-Banner.

WHAT ABOUT DRAINING SWAMPS NEAR CLANTON

We Should Take Same Steps as Fayette and Lamar Counties in Reclaiming Lands.

We want hte land owners around Clanton, and all other progressive citizens, to read the article in this weeks paper which tells of what has been done in connection with the drainage project at Fayette in Lamar County. That district is the first in Alabama to take advantage of the provisions of the drainage law which makes possible the reclaiming of the swamp lands and making them suitable for cultivation.

You will note htat this movement is said by Fayette people to be the most valuable step that hes ever been undertaken for the progress of Fayette and Lamar Counties.

Now, Clanton is in the same situation as Fayette, so far is opportunity lies. We are surrounded by swamps that are worthless, while the lands in these swamps, if properly drained, would be the most fertile fields in the entire county. And there is not a vestige of argument why we should not drain these lands and make them produce bushels of corn instead of hordes of frogs, mosquitoes and snakes.

This matter was taken up here once and fairly started, but somehow those who were interested let their interest drop and the result is that nothing has been done.

The Union-Banner wishes to put the people of Clanton on notice now that this drainage business should by all means be perfected in this section. And right here we are started to work at it. We already have pledged the co-operation of several progressive citizens and we believe others will join us when they come to realize the importance of the work.

Let us get busy. What about a delegation to visit Fayette and see first hand how the project works? Who will go over there with us when their work is started. That would be the best way to find out just how much value it would be to Clanton.

AMERICAN TOYS FOR AMERICAN BOYS

A corporation for the manufacture of toys has recently been organized with a capital of $21,000,000. It will doubtless provide employment for thousands of American workers, with a huge annual payroll. Here is a practical instance of the need for a protective tariff. German and Japanese toy importations have proved a serious handicap to our own manufacturers, a menace that is constantly growing as the Germans recover from their industrial depression. Only the prospect of adequate protection has encouraged the formation of the new concern.

A lady's workbasket imported at $1.29 sells here for $7.54, says Senator McCumber, a profit of 498 per cent. Fine case of thimble-rigging those importers are engaging in.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

A New Tread—a Lower Price
Reliable Goodyear Quality

Here is a new Goodyear Cord Tire—a big, sturdy, long-wearing tire—that sells at a price lower than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value.

It has a different tread from the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for from 20 to 25% less.

It has in it the same high-grade long-staple cotton, the same Goodyear patented group-ply construction, the same liberally oversize dimensions.

When you buy the 4½-inch size, for example, you get a tire whose actual measurement is nearly 5 inches.

In many cases, these other cords are made of inferior materials, with short-staple cotton as a foundation.

Get the tire that is good enough to carry the Goodyear name, that is built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation.

All of the Goodyear Service Station Dealers listed here have the Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord, as well as the famous All-Weather Tread Cord, ready for you now.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

300,000 RAIL WORKERS QUIT

NATION-WIDE WALKOUT IS ACCOMPLISHED WITHOUT DISORDERS.

PROTECTION FOR WORKERS

Ben Hooper, Chairman of the Labor Board, Has Promised Protection To Workers Who Stay On The Job As Well as Strikebreakers.

Four hundred thousand railroad shop employes were called out on strike at 10 a. m., Saturday by Bert M. Jewell, president of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor.

Causes of strike: Slash from 2 to 9 cents an hour in pay by the U. S. Labor Board, elimination of time and a half pay for overtime and evasion by carriers of jurisdiction of railroad board by "farming" out shopwork to outside conctractors.

According to figures gathered 300,000 men are out in the larger railroad centers. It is estimated that an addition 50,000 struck in smaller shops.

The government, through Ben Hooper, chairman of the labor board, promises protection to all workers who stay on job or to new men who take the places of strikers.

The start of the strike was not marked with trouble of any kind.

Railroad executives say trains will run as usual and that the strike will make no difference to the general public.

Jewell issued a statement saying that the strikers would not go back to work until the carriers accepted his terms.

The Usual Routine.

The following is a brief summary of the activities throughout the nation which filled the day for the first day of the strike:

Swearing in of deputies to protect railroad property.

Declaration of strike leaders that they will not tolerate any violence on the part of strikers.

Mass meetings of strikers and denouncing speeches.

Admission of railroad officials that the strike of the six crafts involved is practically 100 per cent effective.

Provisions made to house guards and strike breakers in box cars at shops.

Chicago—A gigantic campaign, bearing the stamp of approval of the United States government, to recruit workers to take the places of 400,000 striking railroad shopmen, was launched Saturday night. Apparently without further thought to a settlement of the dispute with the union, railroad managers, through employment offices throughout the country, sought workers to fill jobs of strikers.

Protection for the men who go in to the jobs of strikers, or who remain at work by use of the "full power" of the federal government and by public sentiment, was promised by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States Railroad Labor Board.

Sorry to say that Corine Funderburk has been on the sick list, but she is better now.

Misses Corine and Mamie Funderburk are going to be great musicians, for they have got a new piano.

We like very much to read The Union-Banner. We long to see the day when we can visit Chilton County again, as I do not know much about it, but my mother was raised there, and she likes very much to hear from home. My mother wishes to send her love and best regards to her old friends and relatives. I send my best love to grandmother and grandfather Mrs. and Mr. J. C. Calloway. I think they are fine people; they are best people I know.

A Statement for Fair-minded People:

Alabama Power Company's Interest in Muscle Shoals—1912-1921

Critics of the Alabama Power Company are endeavoring to make it appear that this company was not interested and had no desire to secure the Muscle Shoals properties until Mr. Ford submitted his offer.

On December 10, 1913, with the purpose in view of tying together the great water power systems of the south, Mr. J. W. Worthington, now one of Mr. Ford's principal supporters, was authorized by the Alabama Power Company to submit a proposal to the government for the construction of Dams 2 and 3 at Muscle Shoals, in connection with storage developments on Little River and at Cherokee Bluffs on the Tallapoosa River, and this plan was recommended to Congress by the government engineers. (House Document 20, 63d Congress, 22nd Session.)

No action having been taken by Congress on this proposal of 1913, a further study was made by government engineers and the same plan approved in 1916, Mr. Worthington again acting for the power company. (House Document 1262, 64th Congress, 1st Session.) It was, however, recommended in the last report that in view of the passage of Section 124 of the National Defense Act of 1916, action on the proposal be suspended until it was determined whether the Muscle Shoals power would be utilized for the nitrate plant.

The Alabama Power Company's position in the matter was loudly applauded and actively supported by the people of the Tennessee Valley, its principal supporters then being its principal opponents today. One of the newspapers in North Alabama, which is now most critical in its attitude toward this company, said in an editorial in 1914:

"The vast power on the Coosa and the Warrior and the Tallapoosa and the Tennessee must be harnessed and put to work. Let us have more James Mitchells of London, bringing British gold for Alabama's development."

President Wilson in 1917 ordered that the nitrate plants be located at Muscle Shoals. The donation by the Alabama Power Company of the sites and flood rights which the government required for this development, terminated the connection of the power company with these properties. Thereafter for a period of nearly three years the government was busily engaged in spending many millions of dollars in these developments.

It will be recalled that Senator Underwood was successful in securing the approval of the Senate to an additional appropriation for the continuation of this work, but the House of Representatives on March 4, 1921, finally declined to vote such appropriation, and activity at Muscle Shoals ceased.

Within less than thirty days after Congress so declined to provide further funds, on April 2, 1921, General Lansing H. Beach, Chief of Engineers of the United States Army, addressed a communication to the Alabama Power Company inquiring as to what arrangements could be made to derive a reasonable return upon the investment of the United States in the power plant at Muscle Shoals.

"If you are interested," wrote General Beach, "I would be pleased to discuss the matter with you at this office at the earliest date that may be mutually determined."

On May 28, 1921, more than thirty days before Mr. Ford submitted his proposal to the Secretary of War, Thomas W. Martin, President of the Alabama Power Company, replied to General Beach's letter, setting out therein a brief review of the company's activities at Muscle Shoals, accepted General Beach's invitation to assist the government in completing the development, and concluded his letter with the following paragraph:

"If, therefore, authority is conferred by Congress to conclude a contract for the use of any part of the power by power companies, we wish to assure you that we are ready to work out a mutually satisfactory arrangement looking to the completion of the dam and the disposal of such part of the power as Congress wishes to place in commercial use; desiring now, as at all times in the past, to co-operate in every way desired by the United States in working out the matter."

On July 8, 1921, Mr. Ford submitted his first proposal to the Secretary of War.

It will thus be seen that for nine years no person or interest ever made any attempt to provide for the development of Muscle Shoals except the Alabama Power Company; that it has given more toward this development than any one else, both in money and in effort; and that if any interest has the right today to develope Muscle Shoals, that interest the Alabama Power Company.

FIRST DRAINAGE PROJECT STARTED IN ALABAMA

Bonds Sell at Par for Beginning of Work in Fayette and Lamar Counties.

"Mondey was a big day for Fayette County and the Fayette and Lamar County Drainage District No. 1," the Fayette Banner tells us.

"Approximately fifty outside contractors and bond buyers were here to attend the letting of the contract for the construction of the main drainage canal on the Fayette and Lamar County Drainage District No. 1, and to bid on the sale of the bonds amounting to approximately $500,000.00 to cover the cost of this work and other expenses connected with the organiation of the district. The bids were received by Mr. Marion L. Coons, Secretary of the Board of Commissioners of the drainage district. Later they were opened in executive session, read and tabulated, and the results of the tabulation of the several bids announced to a well filled court room of contractors and bond buyers.

"There were seventeen different contractors who made bids for the construction of the main canal. The bids ranged from 13.4 cents per cubic yard to 7.25 cents per cubic yard. There were seven bids for the bonds, the terms of which are too many to be detailed in this report.

"The contract was awarded and the bonds sold to Mr. D. W. Robbins of Tupelo, Miss., and it is expected that he will be ready to order his dredges to proceed to this section just as soon as the bond sale is approved and the money on deposit to the credit of this district.

"The officers of the district are to be congratulated upon the splendid way in which they conducted the proceedings Monday, also upon the awarding of the contract for the amount and the manner in which it was done. This move probably will mean more to the prosperity of Fayette and Lamar Counties than any other thing that has been done in this section heretofore.

"Nothing has been stated as yet, just when actual construction work will commence on the district. Even the cleaning of the right of way must await the final completion of all the steps connected with the approval of the proceedings and sale of the bonds and the deposit of the money to the credit of hte district. However, it is hoped that everything will move with the same speed that has been shown in the workings of the district in the last few months, and that actual digging of the canal will not be delayed more than a month or two.

Just as soon as the district is ready to go ahead with their work, a special notice will be sent each and every land owner throughout the district so that he will be familiar with the proceedings and operations of the district and the whereabouts of the dredges, etc.

"This is the first drainage project

"This is the first drainage prject ever put before the people of the State of Alabama, and Fayette and Lamar Counties are justly proud of that fact. But especially is Fayette proud of the fact that the drainage law, which made this project possible was prepared and presented to the Legislature by a Fayette County citizen, Hon. J. M. Moore, while he was the representative of this county in that body.

"Many people thought Jim Moore was a dreamer of dreams that would never be realized, but within the next five years the 30,000 acres of fertile lands along the Luxapallila River will show forth the wisdom of his vision and will be a monument to the ability of a Fayette County boy who does things.'

DATES FOR FARMER'S WEEK CHANGED

Auburn, Ala., July 1.—The dates for the annual Farmer's Week at Auburn previously announced for July 29-August 5 have been changed to July 24-July 29. A decision to this efect was made at a recent meeting held in the office of Director L. N. Duncan and attended oy the district agents, Extension specialists, and Experiment Station workers.

The annual Farmer's Summer School dates, which had been announced for July 29-August 5, have been changed to July 22-July 29, according to an announcement by Dr. C. A. Cary, Director of the Farmer's Summer School.

The program for this week will be the same as for the week originally announced. Special lectures and demonstratons will be held for the farmers and farm women, the club boys, and the club girls. At the same time the county farm and home demonstration agents will be in their annual summer meeting reviewing their work of the past year and discussing and outlining plans for the future.

In the opinion of Professor Duncan and Dr. Cary this will be an ideal week for the farmers to be in Auburn. It will be just after the laying-by season when work on the farm is at its lowest ebb, at which time farmers find it more convenient to take an annual vacation. A large attendance is expected.

REYNOLDS BEST FOR PROBATE JUDGE IN PATTERSON OPINION

Editor Union-Banner:

I have not said very much concerning politics this election, but have been doing a good deal of listening.

I want to say in the beginning that I have voted the Republican Ticket for forty-two years, and as long as the Party advocates the priciples that it does to-day, I will continue to vote it.

I have read a good deal in your paper concerning the candidates for Probate Judge. Mr. Editor, I have considered this proposition very carefully, considering the fact that it is the highest and most responsible in the County, and should have the most qualified man. I have taken the four Republican candidates and laying aside all personal feelings and prejudices, have considered the best man for Chilton County and the Republican Party, as I said after weighing all the candidates, I believe Judge Reynolds is the man that can do us the most good. I have known the Judge in politics for thirty-two years and I am absolutely convinced that he is the truest and most faithful Republican that I have ever known. I have also known him as an official and I will say that he is the best and most efficient Probate Judge we have ever had in the history of Chilton County.

We have tried some Probate Judges in the past and they were weighed in the balance and found wanting, possibly you voters in Chilton County know whom I am speaking of. Voters, lets not let that happen again. We can prevent it by putting men in office whom we know will stand by us first, last and always, without being influenced by some clique or crowd. At this point I will say that you can tell the kind of an officer a man will make by the manner in which he campaigns. Some candidates go around in a kind of secret way knocking the other fellow, afraid to come out in the open and meet the issues square in the face, doing the Party more harm than good, and let me say that if that candidate is elected, he will make the same kind of an officer and you may be the fellow that he kicks. When a candidate comes to you and starts knocking some other candidate you had better be careful, and if he is lined up with some clique, you had better be careful, because if he is elected everybody cannot get in that clique, and you may be left out. I have always admired Judge Reynolds for his open and frank way of canvassing, you never hear him knock his opponent and he has made us the right kind of officer.

I have actually heard it argued by one or two that the other candidates need the office more than Judge Reynolds needs it, probably that is true but voters, I can cite you to thousands of people in the County who need the office more than any of the candidates, but we would not for a monent think of electing them. The point is not what the candidate needs but what the county needs. There are only four of them, while there are twenty-five thousand of us; in fact, during the entire history of Chilton County there have been only six Probate Judges and this leaves 24,994 of us who have not had a chance. Voters, this argument is too thin to hold water.

I have also heard it said that if Judge Reynolds is nominated some of the voters will not support him. I want to say right here that when any Republican voter or Republican candidate says he will not stand by the majority of his Party, he is not worthy to be called a Republican, and any such candidate would be a dangerous man in office, as the Party would have to do as he said or he would buck and too much bucking would tear up the Party.

Do you remember six years ago the Democrats said, "If you nominate Reynolds we will defeat him?" Well, Reynolds was nominated, and did they defeat him? They certainly did not for Judge Reynolds was victorious over 500 majority, and it will be the same this year if he is nominated. We know what the Democrats want and what they do not want. We all know they do not want Reynolds nominated, then if you want to kill the Democrats nominate Reynolds.

I want to endorse what Uncle Mose Robinson said in regard to changing the managership of the County. We all know that in every business concern the man that can render the most valuable service in that business is the man who knows the work, who has had the experience, and the financial affairs of the county are far more difficult than most any business we have in Chilton County. I know of no person, Republican or Democrat, that does not admire the manner in which Judge Reynolds runs the office. He has carried our county through a trying financial period, the result of Democratic extravagance and waste. According to the reports of the State Examiners it is getting in good shape, and why take any more chance when we krow what Judge Reynolds can do? I also think we would be very unappreciative to take him out without any reason whatsoever, yet we hear some people say that he should not be re-elected. The next time you hear some of these loud talking fellows say this, search out the truth and see if it isn't some personal grudge, see if that fellow is not sore because he was defeated for some office, or because he lost some job that he blamed the Judge with, when the Judge was trying to reduce taxes, the main platform of practically every candidate in Alabama to-day, or see if the Judge did not convict him in County Court or if he did not fail to have some case decided just as he wanted it. In my investigations these are the main reasons, and you will always find some one ready to knock with them, without kowing why they are really knocking.

I believe one writer referred to George Washington and his refusal to accept a third term. I want to say that I heartily agree with that old patriot, Geo. Washington's views. He has set an example for the future generation that in my opinion will be well to follow. The same George Washington whom the writer referred to, was also instrumental in drafting into our first Constitution of 1789, the law that United States Judges should hold office for life if their management of the office was good and this wonderful old Constitution has withstood the trials of one hundred forty years, and in this respect has never been changed and I will defy the writer to point out a single case where a Judge of any kind cannot succeed himself.

The writer lost sight of the fact that there is a difference between the Executive Branch of the Government and the Judicial branch. George Washington, the President, was in the Executive branch and in our own County the Sheriff, an executive officer, cannot succeed himself, and so it is with the Governor of our State, who is the Chief Executive Officer of Alabama, but not so with a Judge, for since the beginning of time they have not only been granted the privilege of succeeding themselves if re-elected or re-appointed, which ever the case may be, but it has been deemed best that they do so. I will ask the writer to read his history and he will find this to be the case.

There is another fact to consider. We have got to nominate a man who can go up against the Democrats. I think Judge Reynolds has shown us in the past that he is able to fight them and win. They dread him more than any other man we could nominate. He is largely responsible for the strength that the Republican Party in Chilton County has to-day. Let the Democrats bring Judge Brandon, Tom Heflin or any other Democrat to Chilton County, as I understand they are planning to do, and keep them here as long as they like, with Judge Reynolds on the platform, they will not influence a single voter to vote the Democratic Ticket. If we nominate Judge Reynolds the Democrats will go in the hole like a beaten dog and give up, but if we do not nominate him they are going to give us a lot of trouble. If we keep Judge Reynolds in the office for six more years, a Democrat in Chilton County will be as scarce as cotton growing in the Saharah Desert.

It looks like there is a line up against Judge Reynolds. I notice the writers against him always use the combinaton, "Harris and Bean," if they have lined up mainly to beat Judge Reynolds, why don't they extend the partnershp and make it "Harris, Bean & Wilson." Mr. Harris and Mr. Bean cannot both be elected, so a writer is not throwing much light on the question by endorsing both of these gentlemen. I like to see a man get down to something definite.

Voters, don't be a party to any combination or clique. Go to the Polls on August, 8th, and vote for the man that you know to be true to the Republican Party, one that will be able to be elected in the General Election and who will be competent to manage the office after he gets it.

I am sure that if we nominate Judge Reynolds he will make us the best Probate Judge we could find and in the General Election he will give the Democrats the best licking they have ever had.

I hope every voter will fully investigate second choice vote. If they will do this I am sure they will realize that it means nothing more nor less to vote a second choice vote, than to kill your first vote. I consider this a Democratic trick to put a provision in the law like this, as for me, I will vote a first choice vote and then stop.

With thanks to you, Mr. Editor, for the space you have given me, I am,

Yours very truly,
JOHN W. PATTERSON.

We have had some pretty weather for the past few days and it is greatly enjoyed by all.

Well, I will go and come again soon.

WM. R. BAKER SAYS KEEP FOSHEE CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT

Clanton, Ala., July 10, 1922.

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I have decided to write another letter concerning the political situation of Chilton County as I see it. The time is drawing near when we shall go to the polls and select the nominees who are to serve us for the next term of office. We should cast our votes for the man or woman who is the best qualified to conserve the county as a whole, and also the "Republican Party," forgetting any personal prejudices that we may have against any candidate. We should also refuse to let friendship alone induce us to vote for one candidate when another is better qualified. I am a friend to all the Republican candidates but I shall try to forget friendship on the eighth day of August and vote for the candidates whom I think are the best qualified for the places for which they aspire.

I have always been a special friend to Mr. J. Z. Mims and Mr. J. D. Collins. I feel proud of the intimate acquaintance of gentlemen of such high tone.

At first I thought it might be better for us to nominate Mr. J. Z. Mims for Circuit Clerk, but after carefully studying the matter over I have arrived at the conclusion that it would be far better for the Tax Payers of this county to nominate and elect Mr. Foshee. As we would not be experimenting with him but we all know that he can and will make us a faithful Clerk. I cannot find a single business reason why Mr. Foshee should be defeated and some one that does not know anything about the office nominated.

He has served us two terms as Circuit Clerk, and I do not think that a voter in Chilton County has ever found one fault with his record in office. As Justice of the Peace for the past six years, I have been very closely associated in legal matters with Mr. M. D. Foshee and have always found him very capable and efficient, as well as courteous. In discussing the various candidates for the Circuit Clerk's Office with a number of voters I have found the only argument of the opponents of Mr. Foshee is the fact that he has held the office for two terms and they think "the pie should be passed around," but we all know there is not enough office pie to give everybody a slice. I think uncle Mose Robinson gave us a good thought when he warned us not to take a man out of office when he is making good. We will all do well to heed the warning of this faithful old Republican voter.

We all know that an inexperienced person cannot do anything as well as one who has done the same work before, even if it is farming. What is the use of causing an unnecessary expense to every tax payer in Chilton County to teach a man to do a thing that we already have an expert for? To prove my assertions about Mr. Foshee I will refer you to the State Examiners report of a few months ago, where Mr. Foshee was highly complimented for his proficiency in office. I have heard several lawyers make the statement that his office was managed better than any they were ever in and when Court sets his records were always ready.

In conclusion let us Republicans remember that we are not only to nominate our candidates but we have got to elect them over Democrat nominees. The Democrats are going to try harder than ever to elect their ticket at the coming election. Mr. Foshee's record of the past is proof to us that he can be elected if nominated, as he was elected in 1910 when a part of the Republican ticket was defeated. With the record that Mr. Foshee has made what excuse would or could the Democrats offer why he should be defeated and their nominee elected? The Democratic nominee will be entirely inexperienced and could not possibly run the office with as little delays in the Court and expense to the Tax payers as Mr. Foshee can. After taking all this into consideration I believe that Mr. Foshee is the strongest man that we can nominate for the place.

As appreciation of Mr. Foshee's past record, not only as an officer, but as a faithful Republican, let us go to the polls on August the eighth and give him an overwhelming majority for the nomination for the office for which he aspires.

Yours for the best interest of Chilton County and the Republican party.

Wm. R. BAKER.

PUBLIC SPEAKING AT CANE CREEK FRIDAY NIGHT, JULY 21

Squire John S. Dennis of Beat 11 has requested us to announce that there will be a public speaking at Cane Creek on Friday night, July 21st, at 7:30 o'clock. He says the voters of Beat 11 requested all the candidates to come and express themselves before the people.

REV. JOB REYNOLDS PAINFULLY INJURED BY A FALL

Rev. Job Reynolds, father of Judge L. H. Reynolds, was painfully injured by a fall last Friday. He had a boy doing some plowing for him. He took the plow himself and went a few rounds. While turning at the end of the row stumbled and fell, hurting his hip.

The injury was very painful, but it is hoped that he will recover, as the doctors seem to think the bone in his leg was not broken. We sincerely hope the old gentleman will soon be able to walk again.

ANOTHER PROPERTY DEAL OF IMPORTANCE

Again the center of attraction in the growth of Clanton's business section is drawn to Sixth Street. The corner lot just across the street in front of the Court House has been sold by Dr. Gowan to Mr. John T. Ellis of Montevallo.

From what we can learn Mr. Ellis contemplates the immediate establishment of some kind of business on this property, but no announcement has been made as to the nature of the proposition.

We are glad to state however that the plans of Mr. Ellis for the future will brnig himself and his family to Clanton as permanent citizens. This will make an addition to our town that will be altogether pleasant and valuable in a religious, social, and business way. We welcome them to our town, and congratulate them upon the selection of Clanton as a location for a future home.

Mr. Ellis is a brother-in-law of Dr. Upchurch. He and his family have been here quite a bit on various visits, and are by no means strangers to us.

TOMORROW WILL BE BIG DAY AT MINERAL SPRINGS

If you don't go to Mineral Springs to-morrow (Friday) you are going to miss the biggest day of the primary campaign in Chilton County. This is going to be a political rally of huge proportions, and besides the political activities there is to be picnicking, eating, drinking (soft), and leisure hours spent in the cool, deep shades, for which Mineral Springs is noted.

Pink Martin has sent out the word that he is going to slay the fatted calf that day and offer it up on the altar of sacrifice.

This will be a fine place to take the whole family to spend the day pleasantly.

S. J. Dupriest of Mineral Springs was a visitor to Clanton Monday. He says everybody up there is preparing for a big time on tomorrow (Friday.)

MRS. HOWARD SAYS SHE IS NOT CATHOLIC

Thorsby, Ala., July 11th, 1922.
Editor Union-Banner:

Will you kindly print these few words in the next issue of your paper?

There seems to be some misunderstanding among the people of the county about my religious beliefs. I wish to state that I am not a Catholic, nor is any of my family. I am a Protestant and belong to the Lutheran Church which is as a whole more opposed to Catholicism than any other church.

Some people may also think because I live in Thosby that I have just lately come over from Sweeden, or some such foreign country. The fact is I have never even seen those countries, tho I wish I had been fortunate enough to have done so. I was born in this good old United States and came to Chilton County at the age of eight years with my parents. I have lived here ever since and this is home to me. I have been closely associated with many of the people of the county during my years of teaching and let me state here that among them are some of my best friends and they, as well as all people of the county, are my neighbors and in fact we are, as we are only a little neighbrhood compared to the world or even the rest of the State. I should like to be able to do some good for my fellow mankind and if you feel that I am qualified to do so in the position as Member of the School Board I shall be glad of your confidence, which you may show by your vote at the primary August 8th. I trust that all the women that have qualified, will take enough interest in the affairs of our county and go to the primary and cast your votes according to your own best judgment.

Yours sincerely,
(MRS.) INGA HOWARD.

LIBERTY HILL CEMETERY

All those interested in the Cemetery at this place are asked to meet here on Tuesday morning, July 18th, for the purpose of cleaning off the same. Bring necessary tools for doing the work.

DOINGS at MULBERRY

(By G. H. DeShazo.)

Most everyone is through with their farm work now, and are taking life easy. The present prospects point to a bountiful harvest in the fall. We are needing a real clay-soaking rain now to hold the corn up in its present state of growth.

Little Miss Floetta Edwards, daughter of Mrs. R. E. Tucker of Birmingham, is spending some time with her grand mother, Mrs. D. O. Manning.

Most every one who ever lived in this community and have moved away, returned Sunday to spend the day on their old stomping ground.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Tucker of Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Speer and Miss Gladys Speer of Ensley were here Sunday attending the home coming.

The home coming and memorial services at Mulberry Sunday were a decided success. The children went through their parts perfectly and then were led by the pastor, Rev. B. Lawrence, to the Cemetery, where he and six little girls placed flowers on all the graves in the cemetery. Dinner was bountiful and in the afternoon the crowd was inspired by the addresses of Profs. J. L. Johnson, J. J. Pickens, and H. A. Harris.

On last Saturday night Miss Tula Mae Edwards entertained the younger set at an old fashioned country ice cream supper. The crowd was large and everyone enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

Among the visitors to the cheam supper Saturday night were Messrs Webb Parrish, Winston Mims, Steve Hardee, Lonz Parrish, and James Lowe of Clanton.

Dr. Joe Johnson of Chattanooga, Tenn., was a visitor at the Home Coming Sunday. Dr. Johnson will be remembered as the son of the late Dr. Joe Johnson, who for a number of years was a prominent citizen of this community.

G. H. DeShazo and D. J. Hayes spent Sunday afternoon in Thorsby in the interest of Radio.

Misses Mary Belle Woolley and Tula Mae Edwards and Messrs Harmon Broadhead and Charlie DeRamus attended Children's Day at Liberty Sunday.

Mrs. W. J. Carter and children of Birmingham are spending some time with Mrs. Carters parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Edwards.

The singing school, under direction of Prof. J. C. Veazey, began at Mulberry Church Monday morning with a flourish. There is something like 35 or 40 on roll now and all are not in yet.

Everyone come on out on Wednesday, July 26th, and lets clean off the cemetery and Church grounds at Isabella Church.

Mr. Jim Suite's sister from Coosa County is spending the week with him.

Miss Lois Peters is visiting relatives at Blocton this week.

Mr. W. T. White made a business trip to Clanton Monday.

Mr. W. H. Veazey spent Wednesday in Clanton attending to business matters.

Mr. W. F. DeShazo spent Wednesday in Clanton attending Commissioners Court.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. DeShazo made a business trip to Clanton Saturday afternoon.

Mr. G. E. Summers had the misfortune to get his arm badly cut while butchering a beef on last Saturday morning. We hope he has a speedy recovery.

Mr. Harmon Broadhead of Sardis was a visitor to this community Saturday night.

OAK HILL

The glorious fourth will be long remembered by many of the people of this community, and especially those who attended the reunion of the Williams family at the home of their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Williams. All of the children were present, except the baby, Ruth, who was unable to attend. Other members of the family attending were old uncle Henry and daughter, Kate, of Vincent, Ala., a brother of Mr. S. W. Williams and his son Clem, and wife of Birmingham, and a sister, aunt E. M. Tinley of Roebuck mines. Members of the imediate family were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Williams, of Gadsden; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Long, and family of Mamouth, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Williams and family and Mr. R. J. Williams of Bessemer; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Northcutt and family of Oak Grove; and Miss Golda Williams, who is still at home; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Glasscock and family of Jemison. A large crowd of neighbors and friends gathered and we all had a glorious time together. At eleven we had a fine sermon by old brother Honeycutt, on the duty of children to parents and parents to children, followed by short talk by our pastor, Rev. L. H. L. Jones, old Uncle Henry Williams, E. L. Gasscock and A. P. Long. By this time it was getting late, but we were so interested in the services that we forgot the time but in a few minutes a bountiful dinner was spread in the beautiful grove in one corner of the yard and we did all eat and were filled ,and they took up of the fragments several baskets, enough for supper. The evening was spent in singing and talking and at 8 o'clock prayer meeting, led by Mr. A. P. Long, at which time several good talks were made. Then our joys began to turn into tears and we began to say good by, God bless you and keep you till we meet again, and then we began to leave for our homes in different parts of the county with our hearts full of gratitude to God for his blessings to us and hoping and praying that we may be spared and blessed with health that we may meet again in another reunion next Fourth of July, but some of us have the assurance that if we never meet here on earth again we will in the great reunion of all good children on the other shores, where we will not say good by but good morning forever.

A Statement for Fair-minded People:

Muscle Shoals and River Navigation

The Tennessee River is one of America's large water courses, and is a stream of particular importance and value as a possible artery of trade. At the side of Wilson Dam and of the proposed Dam No. 3 navigation and water power should go hand in hand. The Federal Water Power Act is intended to encourage the development of the navigable waterways for this dual purpose whenever private capital can be induced to undertake the work.

It has been brought out before the Committee that in order to complete navigation over the 150-mile stretch of the river between Hales Bar and Muscle Shoals it will be necessary for seven dams to be erected, namely, Dam No. 1 downstream from Wilson Dam; Wilson Dam; Dam No. 3; and five other dams between the headwaters of the pool which will be created by Dam No. 3 and Hales Bar, as follows: Hobbs Island, Buck Island, Mink Creek, Bellefonte and Windows Bar. (See House Document No. 1262; 64th Cong. 1st Sess., Plate No. 2.) The Dam No. 1 and the five dams last referred to are not power dams. Their construction will represent a cost of millions of dollars, which mus., however, be completed before the river is completely open for navigation.

Any plan, therefore, must in the interest of the public look ultimately to the opening of the river for navigation, and to whatever extent the Government may desire the co-operation of private capital it can be accomplished in the completion of Dam No. 2 and the construction of Dam No. 3.

The Alabama Power Company is and has always been deeply interested in navigation on our rivers. The Federal Water Power Act, which protects the navigation potentialities in America, has, from the beginning, been accorded the hearty endorsement of this Company. Its passage was on of the outstanding acts of our Congress.

In its proposal to the United States for the completion of Wilson Dam, the power company agrees to operate and maintain the power plant, dam and gates, and supply free to the government sufficient power to operate and maintain locks; thus assuring for all time an uninterrupted and economical navigation service through Muscle Shoals.

BOB VAIL NOW A REGULAR

We are glad to number our good friend Bob Vail, among the regular country editors of Alabama. He assumed this role July 1st when he took active charge of The Baldwin Times at Bay Minette. The first copy of Bob's paper arrived at our office Monday morning. Just as we had finished looking it over and were about to render our congratulations by editorial mention, why to our utter surprise, in walked Bob himself. We of course, were glad to extend our felicitations in person.

Bob is a regular newspaper guy. He has been closely indentified with the craft for several years as manager of the Birmingham office of the Western Newspaper Union. His entry into the field of Alabama journalism as active editor of one of the best papers in one of the best counties in the State is a fact that is hailed with gladness by all his friends of the press. That Bob will make good is already assured. We extend him and his family an armful of the best wishes for success and happiness in their new situation. Billiousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with billiousnes and constipation which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally, writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.

NOTES OF TRAVEL

(By S. E. Norton)

So few of our readers have ever had the experience of an ocean voyage that we believe some description of the steamer in which we took passage will be interesting. The Steamship "Lepate" of the Clyde Line, is one of the finest of the fleet, the length overall is 443 feet, the width 38 feet. There are three decks above the hold or basement of the boat. There are accommodations for 336 passengers and a crew of 87 men. Of the 336 passenger berths, every one were taken. In addition to the passengers, the steamer carried several thousand tons of freight, consisting chiefly of cotton goods, railroad ties and lumber. We saw many packages addressed to South American ports which must have been transferred at either New York or Boston, the northern terminal of the Clyde Line.

Having secured our reservations several days in advance, we were fortunate in having an outside stateroom near the middle of the steamer, a location less subject to the annoyance of the rolling of the vessel than either in the bow or stern. These state-rooms are designed to give a maximum of comfort in a minimum of space. Ours was 6 x 7 feet and 8 feet high, and contained two berths, one above the other, a cushioned seat about four feet long, two folding chairs kept under the berths when not in use, two life preservers, a good sized mirror with shelf beneath containing water bottle and two glasses in holes in the shelf, a towel rack beneath, stationary wash bowl with tank above it, also rack containing pitcher either for hot or ice water, electric lights, and a push button to ring a bell to call the porter, rug on the floor, and two "unmentionables," hung on the berths for the convenience of those who were sick. On the inside of the door a series of pockets in which to place our things when convenient, on the opposite wall a row of hooks on which to hang clothes.

An interesting feature of the equipment is the arrangement of the windows of the steamer, which are of heavy glass circles about two feet in diameter, set in a heavy casting of rig shape, held in place by swivel pins at the center, top and bottom, so the window stands at right angles to the wall of the room when open. To hold it in position, whether shut or open, there is another heavy ring cast with projections for hinges and another at the opposite side from the hinges to receive a bolt having a big thumb screw. To hold the windows open this second ring is swung inward from the wall and allowed to rest firmly on the outside of the ring containing the glass. In this position no motion of the steamer can jar it loose. To close and fasten the window it is swung shut and the outer ring lowered against it, when the thumb screw is tightened against it on the bolt.

As arranged, only half the state-rooms are on the outer sides of the boat. The others are inside rooms, just boxes, with no windows, or chance to look out, other than to leave the door open; and then one sees only the blank wall of a passage-way. Otherwise they are furrished about the same as the outside rooms, and all are well ventilated by a huge fan which runs day and night. As in most cases, the best costs more, while the advertised price for passage implies only inside rooms. It looks cheaper that way.

The steamer is also provided with big engines with four feet stroke of piston rods; electric light and ice plant; radio telegraph; a daily paper, "The Radio News," printed on board the boat. Enough life boats are carried to accommodate every person the steamer is allowed to carry. This is strictly regulated by law. Every member of the crew is well trained in his duty. The Captain, Mr. Edmund Kenoble, is upwards of eighty years old, still hale and hearty. He is called the admiral of the fleet. The Steward, who has charge of the passengers, is a white-haired old man, but vigorous.

Any description of a passenger steamer which omits the dining room would fail to mention a matter of prime importance to every person aboard—not so much because of its equipment, as because there is not much to do among the passengers but to eat and sleep. Since eat comes first it is considered quite the thing to be among the crowd waiting at the dining room doors before each meal, especially since the cost of meals is included in the price of our tickets. Like all other appointmets on this steamer, the dining service was good.

Having thus described our environment, we will briefly add that the steamer left Jacksonville, Florida, at two o'clock, P. M., Thursday, June 29th, bound for New York, 848 miles distant, stopping only at Charleston South Carolina five hours to receive passengers and freight. We had an exceedingly plesant trip all the way, beautiful weather, and an unusually agreeable lot of people for fellow-travelers. We arrived in New York at 7 A. M., Sunday, July second.

We will tell you next week more about what we saw on the way. At five P. M., of that Sunday we arrived at the home of Sereno G., in Kenvil, New Jersey, where we shall make headquarters for July at least.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

Did You Get the Bottom Price, After All?

The man who buys a "long discount" tire usually finds himself troubled by the above question.

Did he pay less for the tire than his neighbor might have paid, or actually did he pay more?

Did he get the bottom price, when all is said and done, or could he perhaps have driven a sharper bargain?

Was the net price really more than he might have had to pay for a tire of established reputation and value?

In the belief that the average motorist prefers a frank and open transaction, we built the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord and discounted the "discount" in advance.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can.

We build it of high-grade long-staple cotton, using the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction, and sell it at a lower price than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown worth.

If you want a quality tire, and a reliable value, call today on any of the Goodyear Service Station Dealers listed here.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

30 x 3½ Clincher	$13.50	32 x 4 Straight Side	$25.45	33 x 4½ Straight Side	$32.15
30 x 3½ Straight Side	15.85	33 x 4 Straight Side	26.80	34 x 4½ Straight Side	32.95
32 x 3½ Straight Side	19.75	34 x 4 Straight Side	27.35	33 x 5 Straight Side	39.10
31 x 4 Straight Side	23.50	32 x 4½ Straight Side	31.45	35 x 5 Straight Side	41.05

These prices include manufacturer's excise tax

Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord Tires are also made in 6, 7 and 8 inch sizes for trucks

Better Flour—Better Biscuits

The best cook in the world can't make good biscuits with poor flour. You owe it to your reputation as a cook to use the highest grade of flour you can buy.

There is no better flour made than Gilster's Best. It costs a little more than ordinary flour, because we pay a premium for our wheat—and because the flour is ground finer and sifted oftener. But you can taste the quality in your biscuits.

If you prefer a self-rising flour—Gilster's Featherlite or Gilster's Mother's Joy.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kiud. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which griped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive."

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlains Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.

SUPREME COURT OVERRULES ORDER OF JUDGE J. J. CURTIS

Double Springs.—Ruling on the decision of the attorney general seeking to require Judge J. J. Curtis, of the fourteenth judicial circuit to vacate and set aside an order issued by him to quash the jury box for the Double Springs decision of the Winston County Circuit Court, the Supreme Court of Alabama held that Judge Curtis was without authority of law in entering the order.

The decision was in connection with a petition filed in the supreme court some time ago by Attorney General Harwell G. Davis seeking to require Judge Curtis to vacate and set aside the order quashing the jury box. Judge Curtis demurred to the petition, but this demurrer was overruled in the supreme court's decision In an opinion written by Justice Lucien Gardner, in which all members of the court concurred, it was recalled that the state's contention that the order of the circuit judge was void was based on several grounds. In the conclusion reached by the court, however, only one ground was considered, which, the court stated, reached the fundamental question in the case. This ground was that the respondent acted without authority of law in entering the order.

BUILDING WILL BE PLACED ON LOT FOR SOLDIER MEMORIAL.

Montgomery.—Buildings on the lot across the street from the Alabama capitol, which will be the site of Alabama's memorial to the soldiers and sailors of this state who gave their lives during the World war, will be razed at once and the grounds beautified, according to announcement by Mrs. Marie B. Owen, secretary of the memorial commission. The lot was purchased several months ago with funds contributed by citizens of Alabama. It had been hoped to raise sufficient funds by public subscription to erect a memorial building but since the contributions were only in such amounts as would pay for the site it is proposed to ask the legislature at some future time to appropriate an amount for the erection of the memorial, which will be used as the permanent home for the state department of archives and history.

Roanoke.—The citizens of Wadley, Ala., a few miles from Roanoke, will meet to organize a chamber of commerce. Although this is but a small town the merchants and business men in general are considered among the livest in the state.

Political Meetings Planned.

Heflin.—In order that the voters of the county may know how the candidates for the legislature stand on various questions, arrangements are being made by the women's league at Fruithurst to invite candidates for the legislature and for Senate to appear at a public meeting there in the near future and define their positions and to make known their ideas on questions and issues of vital importance to the state.

Anniston Man Drowns.

Anniston.—Charles D. Cryer, business partner of former State Senator Charles D. Kline, was drowned in Coldwater Creek, in about seven feet of water while swimming with J. T. Henry, local real estate man. The body was recovered early Friday and brought to the home of Dr. G. A. Cryer, on Christine Avenue. Mr. Cryer was 48 years of age and unmarried.

State Capitol Is Repaired.

Mr. Kearns: (Member of Military Affairs Committee.)
"Could the Government do something for Mr. Ford that Mr. Ford could not do for himself; that is, condemn property that belongs to the Alabama Power Company for Mr. Ford? The question in my mind is that it would not be exactly for Governmental use and would be whipping the devil around the stump."

A War Time Investment for the Government

Continuing his testimony with reference to the Gorgas Steam Plant and the events that led to the construction of the Government unit on the foundations which had theretofore been laid by the Alabama Power Company, Colonel Joyes said:

"Having those things (foundations, substructures, canal, etc.), it meant a considerable gain of time for us, and time was a great thing with us, because we wanted the power in six months. We wanted to be sure that when we got that plant we would have this steam station ready to back it up and not have it fail on us because the river was low. So that was quite an object.

"It meant not only taking a piece of land, so much area of land, but it meant taking a particular piece of land with certain structures belonging to the Power Company already in the ground, and that is the situation that made it so particularly delicate and difficult for us, and reasons which I think will clear any mind that may still have the idea that there was a deliberate mixing and interlocking of things that was objectionable.

"We started in there then to build this addition, tying it right into the other unit that the Alabama Power Company already had, so that the two could work together. You could not have the two separate plants feeding power into the same system unless you had certain elements of control co-ordinated.

"To make power, alternating current power, with high potentiality, you have got to have it very carefully synchronized before you can put the output from two machines into the same line. It has to be either in one plant or you have a more expensive and troublesome installation co-ordinating it in two separate plants.

"So naturally we built it to go right into the one thing and make a unit that would be efficient and ready, and especially we were encouraged to do that because that gave us a very proper and correct outlook to get some money back for the United States.

"In many cases when we went in at that time to put in additional facilities to get what the Government had to have, we thought, 'This is all lost money; this is sunk. It is an expense account and not an investment, and we will never get any of it back,' but here we had an assurance of getting some of it back. . . ."

MALARIA CONTROL

Montgomery, Ala., July 10th.—Evidence of the efficient malaria control work done by the Alabama State Board of Health is contained in the statement of Dr. Fausto Robleto of Nicaragua who has been making a study of the situation in this State for the past three weeks.

After spending a year in Johns Hopkins studying the theoretical phase of malaria control work, Dr. Robleto was advised by the International Health Board to visit Alabama for the purpose of observing the practical results of the work in this State,, "Because," says Dr. Robleto, "Alabama, under the efficient leadership of Dr. S. W. Welch, ranks highest in this phase of work."

During the first two weeks spent in Alabama, Dr. Robleto visited five counties. Upon his return to Montgomery he said: "I was much impressed with my observations in South Alabama where I saw mosquito breeding marshes converted into productive cornfields. I also had the opportunity of witnessing the actual work of draining breeding places, and saw a practical demonstration of destroying larvae (wiggle tails) with arsenic. In Houston County I was interested in the anti-typhoid measures as carried out by the County Health Officer, Dr. Tucker, whom I saw give inoculations against typhoid."

In addition to the study of malaria control work, Dr. Robleto is also giving attention to Alabama methods of combatting typhoid fever, hookworm and dysentery in order that he may inaugurate a similar system when he assumes the office of Director General of Public Health upon his return to Nicaragua.

Before leaving Montgomery for a trip into North Alabama, Dr. Robleto said, "I regret that I do not have time to remain longer in Alabama for I have found that the time spent here has been very profitable to me and my observations will be of practical value in my work in Nicaragua. I consider that the greatest achievements in malaria control have been accomplished by Americans, the importance of which is known to everyone through the achievements of General Gorgas at Panama after the failure of the French Commission. My stay in the United States has indeed been interesting. I feel, however, that the most pleasant part of my visit has been the time spent in Alabama, and I shall leave with many pleasant memories of your cordial and hospitable people."

J. D. HAND BURIED

The funeral of J. D. Hand, known as the "founder of Bay Minette," was held last Friday afternoon, interment being in Bay Minette cemetery. Burial service was held in the Baptist church under the dircetion of the Bay Minette Lodge No. 498 A. F. and A. M., and the Mobile Scottish Rite body. Dr. Nall the Baptist pastor read an appropriate chapter from the Bible, while Dr. Nrwood, of the Presbyterian church lead in prayer, after which the ceremony was taken up and carried out by the Masonic bodies and burial completed in due and ancient form. Mr. Hand now lies sleeping in the soil he loved so well, which is in full accordance with his oft-expressed wishes.—Baldwin Times.

A Lesson in Business.

A small East Side urchin in New York found a cigar butt in the gutter, and lacking a match to set it going, went into a tobacco shop to beg one.

"Say mister, will you give me a match?"

"No, I won't. We don't give away matches here; we sell'em."

"Yer don't say so—well, wat's the damage?"

"Cent a box."

"Chuck one over." The kid felt round in his pockets, finally locating a single copper down deep in his trousers. He took a match, lit his inch of Havana, and after getting it going in good shape, handed the matches across the counter, and administered this lordly rebuke to the astonished proprietor:

"Say, mister, put that box up there on yer shelf, an' if anuther gentl'mun comes in here an' strikes yer for er match, just give him one out'en my box, see? So long."—Exchange.

767,000 BALES COTTON EXPECTED

STATE AGRICULTURAL STATISTICIAN ESTIMATES ALABAMA'S COTTON CROP FOR 1922.

CROP IS 68 PER CENT NORMAL

Acreage In Alabama This Year Totals 2,995,000 Acres Which Is Healthy Increase Over 1921—Deterioration Since May 25th Is 12 Per Cent.

Montgomery—An acerage of 2,995,000 and a condition of 68 per cent of normal, as reported for cotton in Alabama at this time, indicates a crop of 767,000 bales to be produced in the State this year, according to a statement issued by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician for Alabama, after receipt of the acreage and condition estimate as of the 25th of June from the Washington office of the bureau. This must not be taken as an estimate of the crop of Alabama for this year, but only as the probable production indicated by the present condition computed into estimated acreage.

The following statement shows the estimated acreage and the present condition in this state by crop reporting districts, compared with the same data for last year at the same date:

	Acreage 1922	Acreage 1921	Condition '22	Condition '21
Northwest Dist....	160,000	130,000	75	68
Tennessee Valley	430,000	385,000	71	67
Mineral Dist.	240,000	165,000	75	61
Northeast Dist. ..	230,000	190,000	64	69
Blackbelt, west...	275,000	265,000	79	46
Blackbelt, east ..	410,000	310,000	67	58
East Central Dist.	385,000	320,000	70	58
Southwest Dist....	70,000	30,000	75	55
South Central Dis.	260,000	170,000	57	50
Southeast Dist.....	535,000	364,000	60	54
The State.....	2,995,000	2,269,000	68	58

While a healthy increase in acreage is shown in all sections, the largest volume is shown in the black belt and in the section south thereof. The percentage of increase is 132 for the State, or a recovery of something more than was lost last year.

The condition reported shows a deterioration of 12 per cent since May 25, the greatest loss occurring in the south central and southeastern districts, where excessive rains during the period caused loss of stands and where the growth of the plant was not as good as it should have been.

It may be interesting to know that the estimate of acreage this year was made from ten distinct sets of data gathered independently of each other.

Should the present indicated production be finally realized and sold at the present price, the Alabama crop will be $88,000,000, or $28,000,000 more than the crop of last year. The consummation of this possibility depends upon the weather and weevil for the remainder of the season.

CONGRESSMAN JEFFERS WARNS EX-SOLDIERS

They Must Apply for Certificates of Disability Before August 9, 1922.

Congressman Lamar Jeffers issues the following statement which is of great importance to ex-service people. The Congressman's statement is clear and timely, and should be read very carefully by all ex-service people:

"All ex-service men, discharged before August 9, 1921, who contracted any disease or suffered any injury in the service which may be likely to cause disability or death at any future date, should secure a certificate of such disease or injury from the U. S. Veterans Bureau before August 9, 1922.

"This applies to any ex-service man who suffered a disease or injury while in the service, but who made an apparent recovery and who may not be disabled at the present time as a result of such disease or injury, but who may, at some future time, develop a compensable disability traceable to that disease or injury suffered while in the service.

"Any such ex-service man who may not at the present time be disabled to compensable degree as result of his service, but who has reason to believe that because of injury or disease contracted in line of duty, or because of serious aggravation in line of duty of any existing disability, he may at any future time be disabled to compensable degree as a result of such injury or disease contracted or aggravated in line of duty, should at once communicate with the U. S. Veterans Bureau and secure the certificate which will allow him to file claim for compensation at any later date if he should find himself suffering, later on, with a compensable disability traceable to his service.

"From the above it will be seen that this requirement of the law refers to those cases in which a member of the military or naval forces of the United States has incurred an injury or disease which does not immediately result in a compensable disability or death, but which may be likely to result in disability or death at some future time. In such cases compensation cannot be paid unless the certificate of injury has been obtained from the Director of the Veterans Bureau within one year after discharge from the service, or within one year after the passage of Section 306, as amended August 9, 1921. So it is of utmost importance that all ex-service men discharged prior to August 9, 1921, who incurred an injury or disease while in the military service should procure a certificate of such injury or disease from the U. S. Veterans Bureau before August 9, 1922. Unless the certificate is secured, which would protect the man's rights to file his claim later on, should his disability become compensable later on, he will be barred then from making his claim.

"Of course, in any case in which an ex-service man has reason to believe that he is disabled at the present time to compensable degree (that is, a disability of 10% or more) as a result of injury or disease incurred in the service, he should immediately file claim for compensation if he has not already done so.

"In either case, if he has reason to believe he is suffering now to compensable degree with disability traceable to his service, or if he has reason to believe that at any future time he may be suffering to compensable degree with disability traceable to his service, he should communicate at once with the U. S. Veterans Bureau in order that his claim may be recorded and his rights protected.

"I will be very glad to have any ex-service man who wishes to apply for this cetificate write me to that effect right away if he so desires, and I will be glad to file his application for him, or he can take it up directly with the U. S. Veterans Bureau, either at Washington, D. C., or at New Orleans, La. In taking this up a man should give a clear and true statement of all facts relating to the disease or injury upon which he bases his request for the certificate.

"Let me urge every ex-service man who wishes to ask for this certificate to do so immediately, as the time is so very short. He must do so before August 9, 1922."

A REMARKABLE RECORD MADE BY REPUBLICANS

Nation's Finances Have Been Handled With Consumate Skill.

Washington, July 17.—"The consumate skill with which the Nation's finances have been handled is reflected in the report of Secretary Mellon on the condition of the Treasury on June 30th, the last day of the fiscal year, 1922," decalres the Republican Publicity Association, thru its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "An estimated deficit of $24,000,000 has been turned into an actual surplus of $314,000,000. In addition the public debt has been reduced by $1,014,000,000.

"It is probable that never before in the history of the country has a fiscal year shown a tremendous reaction in favor of economy and sound financial policies. The grossest extravagance that had featured the former administration gave way to a program of rigid economy when President Harding took office on March 4, 1921. It has been impossible, however, to estimate accurately the full effect of Republican retrenchment until the completion of the first fiscal year under Republican rule. The actual figures made public by Secretary Mellon are an ample reward to the voters who put their confidence in the Republican policies and candidates.

"Equally important, also, is the manifestation of determination on the part of the administration to continue and increase economies in the future. After first instituting rigorous reductions in expenditures in his own official household at the White House, saving a large per cent of the sums spent under the previous administration, President Harding has addressed to the heads of all Departments and Bureaus a demand for 'still closer scrutiny of their activities and attendant expenditures.'

"In this highly laudable demand, President Harding is entitled to the full and sincere co-operation of all the people. There is constant agitation for the extension of Federal activities—for new or enlarged national public service. Those who promote such movements secure the endorsement of individual citizens and organizations of citizens, thus bringing pressure to bear upon Congress for increased appropriations. All citizens who desire to aid the President in his economy efforts should refuse to be party to any movement for added public expenditures.

"If the President and his Department heads can have the co-operation of the people, further success will crown the effort to reduce expenses and also taxes."

REV. ALBERT L. FOSHEE ENDORSES LITTLEJOHN

Believes He Would Make Good Sheriff if Elected to That Office.

Thorsby, Ala., July 15, 1922.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in behalf of Mr. T. J. Littlejohn, who is a candidate for Sheriff.

The people know that I never take much stock in politics, but as Tom is a young man and not so well known in the county as some who have been in office several years and as I have known him from his infancy, I wish to say to the voters of Chilton County that he has always been an energetic boy who wanted to make a success of every thing he undertook, and I feel sure that if he is elected Sheriff that he will do all in his power to fill the office with credit to himself and the entire county. If he was to happen to be defeated it would be discouraging to him and to his family who has ever been so loyal to the party.

I want to say again that I don't think any one will have reason to regret having voted for him if he is elected, which he will be if he is hominated. I think when we have as worthy young men as Tom and Mr. W. M. Wyatt offer for office we should support them, as our old officers cannot live to hold office always.

Success to The Union-Banner and the Editor.

ALBERT L. FOSHEE.

LABOR HAS NO BETTER FRIEND THAN HARDING

His Position Now is Consistent With His Views as A Senator.

Washington, July 17.—"There is no occasion for radical labor leaders to express surprise over what they choose to call a 'sudden display of backbone' in the White House," says the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "That reference to President Harding's declaration that the decisions of the Railroad Labor Board will have the full backing of the government shows a failure to keep in mind Mr. Harding's public utterances in the past. Mr. Harding is taking no new position.

"In 1919, when the transportation act was before the Senate, it contained two provisions relating to labor and wages. One provision created a board for adjudication of disputes over wages and conditions of labor and the other made it unlawful to enter into a conspiracy to interrupt interstate traffic on railroads. This was known as the anti-strike clause. Senator Harding supported both provisions and was taken to task by an Ohio federation of railroad employees, who asked why he voted for the anti-strike clause.' In an extended reply widely circulated in his pre-convention campaign, Mr. Harding said, in part:

" 'In my private pursuits as a publisher, I am an employer of organized labor, having never known a controversy, and I believe most cordially in rational unionism. Organization and collective bargaining, under wise leadership, have done more to advance the cause of labor than all other agencies combined, and anyone who thinks to destroy sane unionism, by legislation or otherwise, is blind to conditions firmly established, and is insensible to a public sentiment which is deliberate and abiding. But the advancement of unionism is one thing and the domination of organied labor is quite another. I subscribe to the first and oppose the latter. I do not believe in any class combination, and the long fight to remove the domination of capital, now fairly won, is lost if labor domination is substituted in its stead.

" 'I favored the anti-strike clause because it applies to a public service under government regulation in which Congress exercises its power to limit the return on capital invested, fixes rates at which the public must be served, enacts the conditions under which service must be rendered, and finally, in the anti-strike clause, provides a capable tribunal for the adjustment of all labor grievances so that no interruption in transportation need be apprehended. I believe it not only consistent but a distinct advance in behalf of the public and the workmen alike. If the government representing all the people can not guarantee transportation service under any and all conditions, it fails utterly. If that same government cannot provide just consideration of the workmen operating the transportation system, it fails again. It ought and must do both.'

"As passed by Congress, the transportation act contained the provision for adjudication of disputes, but the anti-strike clause was eliminated, leaving railroad employees legally free to strike, provided they violate no other laws. Nevertheless, Mr. Harding's letter clearly set forth his view that it is the duty of the government to guarantee both due consideration to the employee and continous transportation. When the question was put up to Mr. Harding, the candidate, he did not dodge or equivocate. He does not put the case in any stronger terms now than he did when he was seeking votes. He manifests the same quality of backbone now that he did then. As a candidate, he spoke deliberately, courageously, and wisely, and he speaks the same language now.

"Neither laboring men in general nor labor union members in particular ever had a better friend than Warren G. Harding. The trouble is that they are being misled to their injury by some of their radical leaders."

MRS. VINZANT DEAD

A SEVERE STORM HIT CLANTON LAST FRIDAY

Twisting Wind and Hard Rain and Hail did Quite a Bit of Damage.

Clanton was directly in the path of a severe hail and rainstorm which passed here just after noon last Friday. The wind blew very hard, reaching cyclonic speed, twisting trees, telephone wires and poles into all sorts of curious contortions. The awning in front of D. A. Wingard's store was blown away. The roof was blown from the store of J. R. Broadhead and Sons, and the floods of rain came in and soaked the large stock of dry goods, doing quite a bit of damage. The roof was blown from the Lamar School building. at the residence of Guy was blown down. No people injured so far as we have been able to learn.

A Pretty Birthday Party.

On last Thursday, Mrs. Ellect Frasier entertained for her little daughter Lillie Marie, it being her seventh birthday. The home was made beautiful with pot plants. Games and music were enjoyed, also the pinning the stem on the apple, here Miss Helen Eubanks pined the closest stem and was given a nice box of candy. Later they were invited in the dining room where the birthday cake held seven lighted candles. Ice cream and cake were served to Mary Cox, Julia Cox, Elizabeth Harris, Elizabeth Eubanks, Helen Eubanks, Lois Foshee, Catherine Foshee, Eunice Jones, Flora Jones, Lois Miller, Mary Lue Frasier, Ruth Francis Smith, Herman Harris, Grover Harris, Jr., Otto Miller, Foster Miller, Ellict Frasier, Ed Miller. Mrs. Frasier was assisted in entertaining the little ones by Mrs. Eubanks and Mrs. Vander Smith.

My! How Turtles do Grow.

News has been received in Clanton from Charles MBoore at Perdido Bay, of the catch of a turtle weighing 300 pounds. On the following day a letter from Frank Mullins, from the same place states that it weighed 450 pounds. No wonder they are so large, if they gain 150 pounds over night. If the whole house party gains like that, what will Clanton people do with them when they return.

Mrs. Wyatt Hostess.

The members of the Thursday Embroidery club held a lovely meeting last week with Mrs. Mack Wyatt. A profusion of nasturtiums and shasta daisies effectively used made the home very attractive. Fancy needle work was indulged in until late in the afternoon when a sumptuous salad plate was served.

B. Y. P. U. Social.

The members of the Jr. B. Y. P. U. were guests of Marjore Murphy at the home of Mrs. Minor Tuesday evening at a pretty party. Sunflowers and yellow daises were used to decorate the apartments. Several games were enjoyed. Ice cream and cake were served. Those present were: Rita Arant, Mattie Fiquett, Gladys Willis, Laraine Murphy, Erin Danforth, Lurline and Pearl Minor, John D. Mullins, Samuel Martin, L. C. Henley, Leo Alred, Maury Higgins, Billie Smith, Tom Johnson, Willard Askins. Miss Murphy was assisted in serving by Misses Jewel Minor and Aurabelle Martin.

Missionary Society Meets.

Swinging baskets, cut flowers and ferns were used to decorate the spacious porch of the home of Mrs. Harry Roper on last Monday afternoon, when the members of the Missionary Society met with her. Upon the arrival of the guests who motored out, Mrs. Phalabelle Martin served refreshing punch. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Jones, who opened with the reading of 13th chapter of Corinthians, followed by prayer by Mrs. Pearson. After a short business session, during which the discussion of a day to study the mission book, finally deciding on Friday week, an interesting program was enjoyed. The topic for study for the afternoon was "Los Angles and its Mexican people." Several interesting papers being read. Later delicious sandwiches and tea followed by fruits were served to about 15 guests.

Upon the arrival of the little guests punch was served by Miss Lake Jones on a table attractively arranged on the porch. A color tone of pink and white was enphasized in the dining room. The central table onament was a pretty cake holding 4 twinkling pink candles. Several juvenile games were enjoyed, and later they were ushered into the dining room where cake and ices were served. Favors of books marked the places of the girls while knives were used for the boys. Mrs. Rasberry was assisted by Mary Mauk and Sarah Luckie in entertaining the young crowd.

LAWLEY

Last week we noticed a piece in your paper headed Lawley News, but it wasn't Lawley news, it was all Shoults community news. So we decided to write a few items from Lawley this week. Shoults community is located on Lawley mail route No. 1, and it is indeed a community to be proud of. But there are a lot of people at and around Lawley that do enjoy reading The Union-Banner. Some say the advertisements are even interesting.

On last Friday, July 14, a family re-union was held at the home of Mrs. Celia Hicks, widow of Mr. R. R. Hicks. Out of the nine children now living, 8 were present, and what a glorious day they spent together. Ice cream, lemonade, watermelons, peaches and apples were served through out the day. At noon a bountiful dinner was spread out under the walnut grove, of which everyone seemed to enjoy. Supper was also enjoyed the same way. After supper many friends and relatives gathered to spend a few hours with the united band. Mother, children, grand-children, brothers and sisters. The children were: Mrs. Ed Lowe of Birmingham; Mrs. Wheeler Johnson, of Birmingham; Mr. Vernon Hicks, of this community; Mr. Holland Hicks of Birmingham; Mr. Perry Hicks, of this community; Mrs. Clifton McGee, of Randolph; Mrs. Fred McGee, now living with her mother; and Miss Mamie Hicks, who is at home with her mother. There were 16 grandchildren present; four absent. Mrs. Ludia Jones of Centerville, the only child not present. Everybody enjoyed themselves until a late hour, then all together sang, "God be with you till we meet again," and began to seperate hoping that all can come together again some time in the future with not one absent.

Miss Ethel Collins is teaching a few weeks summer school at Cox, Ala. When her schol closes there, she will take up her work here as an assistant teacher.

Everybody are delighted with the teachers for the school here the coming session. Prof. Hayes, Miss Grace Ward and Miss Ethel Collins are the teachers.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlains Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.

GUY H. DESHAZO DISCUSSES CANDIDATES FOR JUDGE

Favors Reynolds as Best Man For Republican Party To Nominate.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you kindly allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words to the people of Chilton County in regard to the various candidates for the office of Probate Judge?

I wish to state that Mr. Harris and Mr. Bean are very special friends of mine and if they were out for other office than the Probate I would do all in my power to elect them. Mr. Bean has been tried in the Supt. Education office and found to be thouroughly competent to handle that office. Mr. Harris made one of the best, if not the best, Sheriff that the county has ever had. We know that he can fill that place. We have tried Reynolds for Probate Judge and even the Democrats have to admit that he is the best in the State. Then when a man gives absolute satisfaction on a job why fire him and hire a man that das never had any experience along that particular line. Just because that a man has made good in the office of Supt. of Education or Sheriff is no sign or reason that he would make a good Probate Judge. The technique of the business transacted in the office of the Probate Judge is far different to that of the Supt. of Education or the Sheriff's office.

On every hand you will hear the assertion that Henry Frd is the most successful manufacturer of the day, that he has less trouble among his employees and less friction between employee and employer than any other plant of its size. The efficiency his plant is also commented on, the production of the Ford factory runs higher according to the number of men working than any other plant in the entire country. What is all this efficiency the result of? Does Ford obtain and maintain this condition by changing men every few days, swapping the jobs around among the various employees so as to give all of 36,000 a chance at the easy jobs? Certainly not, in Fords shop a man is put to work on a particular job and if he makes good at it he is kept at that same job as long as he stays there, and the more efficient he becomes in his work, his wages are raised proportionately. So if in our County business we would be successful and have no troubles we must not swap jobs around so much, and continually have a new man trying to learn the trade.

I am very proud indeed of the record of Mr. Bean and Mr. Harris as Supt. of Educaton and Sheriff, and I think that everyone should be proud of their record, and that they should also be proud of the Reynolds record in the Probate office, and if they would use Ford's business judgment and policy, they will undoubtedly give him their unanimous support in August.

Now another point in favor of Reynolds is this: The County, to obtain the best prices on everything that it has to buy, and to save money in various ways must necessarily be kept on a cash basis, and so long as the debts made by the previous administration have to be paid and there is no material increase in the volume of taxes collected in the county there will have to be considerable sums of money borrowed in order to keep the county on this cash basis.

Now who, when it becomes necessary to borrow this money, would come the nearest and be the most sure to get results, when they approached the monied man, the new man in office who had not been tried and who no one could judge as to what he would do, or the man who has been tried and found true to the cause? Please let me relate a certain circumstance which occured not long since when the present judge approached a certain man for money with which to finance the building of the court house. This man was asked to make the County a loan reaching over a period of time beyond the end of the present administration. The monied man says no, I can't do that, but I will let you have the money if you will pay me during the year 1922. He said that as long as Reynolds was in office he knew that his money was safe, but if the loan should go beyond the end of Reynolds present term and a new man got in that there was no telling what he would do and that he might sink the county in debt so far that his money would be forever gone. This shows the faith that the monied class of people over the county have in Reynolds and his ability to handle the affairs of the County judiciously. I have not called the name of the party who made this assertion, but will say that he is a Democrat and a resident of Chilton County, and is known by at least half the people of the County.

Now if the Democrats put such faith as this in a man that they fight from every angle, then why can't we Republicans show our faith by giving Reynolds another try at the job. In the past two terms that he has had the office he has been handicapped to a certain extent and could not do for the people just what he would liked to have done for them, and now just at the time when things begin to loom up and there is some prospect of the next Judge having a chance to show his real ability, why in the name of common sense shouldn't he have the opportunity to prove what he can do when given the proper chance.

Think of the men we have elected to this office before who claimed to be, and had been, life long Republicans. When they got their finger in the County pie pan what did they do? Why they got negro scared and turned to Democrats. Reynolds has been a Republican for 32 years and has been in office for two terms and is still a Republican and fighting the battles of the people. He is the only one that has ever stood the test this long and as a just reward for his loyalty he is entitled to every republican vote in the County on the eighth day of August. The Democrats have hollered, push and pulled and done everything that they possibly could, even told him that if he would come over to them that they would give him anything he asked for, but he has turned a deaf ear to it all and remained true to his charge. They have tried to lead him into all kinds of legal traps in efforts to have him impeached, but being of the keen and sound business judgment that he is, everyone of them have been foiled and nipped in the bud.

The jobs were swapped around once and put a new man and a Democrat on the job. What was the result? No need for me to answer that, you all know as well as I do that we were plunged so deep in debt that for the next 25 years we will be paying tribute to that administration in the form of higher taxes. A Democratic Judge then gobbled up all the money in the treasury and sunk us approximately 260,000 dollars in debt. Now when they see there is some prospect of the county coming into some more money that will almost double the taxes of the County they are wild for another whack at the treasury. Lets show them that we are on to their schemes and snow them under so deep that they will not have scratched out before resurection morn.

Now, fellow Republicans, don't you let any kind of nocufsion come to bear on you and cause you to do something that is against your better judgment. There is strong efforts being made by the Democrats over the county to cause confusion among you, s othat a weak man will be nominated for Judge of Probate and then they will put up a strong man in November and they will then have a better chance to get their man elected in the General Election. The Democrats a whooping up for Mr. Harris with the sole idea of causing confusion between Mr. Bean and Judge Reynolds and then Mr. Harris would come in on the "Dark Horse" scheme and they think that they would have an easy time defeating him in the general election. Consider well the best interests of the people at large and the future of the party and then vote for the man that can come the nearest of holding the party together in November and who will make the best Judge of Probate.

If we are proud of the record that Reynolds has made as Probate Judge, lets don't wait until he has passed away to show our appreciation, and to say that he sure did make a good judge, lets show it now and spread some flowers on his grave while he is still alive and can enjoy them, by going out on August the 8th, and giving him the biggest majority that a man has ever had in Chilton County.

Yours for Party harmony,
GUY H. DeSHAZO.

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes.

Note: Write for valuable free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important authoritative information which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend," to Bradfield Regulator Company, BA-23, Atlanta, Ga. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

ATTRACTIVE ROAD SIGNS OF JONES HARDWARE CO.

Mr. C. Fenn Jones of the Jones Hardware Company, has again stepped ahead of the procession in the matter of road signs for advertising his business. The signs are of a new design, of wind mill type, and painted in gay colors. He has six of them, one of which will be placed on each of the main roads entering Clanton. The first of the series has already been installed on the highway just north of town, and is attracting the eyes of all people who pass along the road. You can't pass it without seeing it and after you pass it, you will want to look back to get another glance. The large propeller always faces the wind and revolves in a steady motion with the force of the breeze.

This sign is very much like Mr. Jones in many ways. In the first place it resembles him personally in that it is very good looking. And then in the second place it is not like any other sign we ever saw. It is not altogether unlike Mr. Fenn in the fact that it is unique.

In the third place the sign possessesses a character similiar to that of Mr. Jones in that it always faces the current of the wind just as bravely as he has faced the currents of business activity throughout his life. Mr. Jones has always kept his bark facing the current and forged his way up stream in the vanguard of the business procession. He has made a noble success. And while he has attained his enviable position as a business man, he has at the same time established himself well as a worthy and progressive citizen. He is one of the few business men in Clanton who can point to a successful career that extends from the present back into the past a distance of some eighteen or twenty years of uninterrupted progress.

When you see the sign of Jones Hardware Company, either on the road or in the newspaper or anywhere, you can depend upon it as the insignia of stability and poise in business. Then when you follow the sign and go back of the curtain you will find the character of a good honest man who supports his business loyally and ethically through those means which make it worth while for the town, county, and the people with whom he deals personaliy.

BAPTISTS IN CHINA

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a pamphlet from the China Baptist Publication Society, of Canton China, which gives the annual report of the work of Baptist operations in that country. A careful reading of same reveals some interesting facts as to what Baptists are doing and propose to do in China.

Rev. J. T. Williams, a Chilton County man, is Secretary of the Sunday School work in China. His report is printed in the pamphlet. Believing that his report will be interesting to his many friends here, we reprint a part of it as follows:

"Your Sunday School Secretary has very little to report for the year 1921, for most of the year was spent in America. I reached the field only a few weeks before the end of the year. But it is my earnest hope that I may be able to report something definitely accomplished at the end of the present year.

"While in America I spent considerable time in further preparation for my work in this department. One school year of the time was spent at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in making a detailed study of the Sunday School as it is working in America. While making this study I tried to think through our problems in China with a view to finding what would fit our needs here.

"Some time was spent in investigating the methods used by the Sunday School Board of Nashville with special reference to their work in training teachers and special Sunday School workers. The methods used by some of the successful Sunday School Secretaries both in the field and in the office received considerable attention.

"In addition to this practical work it was my privilege to take a six weeks summer course in Columbia University making a study of religious education from the university point of view, all the while keeping my eyes open for ideas which seemed to have value in helping us with our problems out here in China.

"Am back on the field and ready to take up my duties as your Sunday School Secretary. My greatest desire is to be used of the Lord in promoting the study of His Holy Word in the churches and homes of China. For in a widespread study of the Word by the Chinese people there is hope of a rapid spread of the Kingdom in China."

BEAN CHARGES STATE EXAMINER MADE FALSE REPORT

To the Republican Voters of Chilton County:

Before entering the race for Judge of Probate I fully made up my mind to make a clean and honorable race for the office and that I would keep absolutely clear of any "Mud Slinging" and I have kept my determination and I shall keep it throughout the entire campaign. I am as loyal as any Republican in Chilton County and I shall exert myself to do nothing that will in any way hinder the election of the entire ticket next November, but there has been a very unfair deal handed me, and the voters of the County, which I cannot refrain from exposing here. I regret very much that it has become necessary that I write this letter, but I am no man to sit still and never try to defend myself and just let the bear devour me. In writing this I have nothing to cast at any of my opponents, and I want it to be distinctly understood that I am fighting a Democratic State Examiner, Frank Peabody, who I emphatically charge did make a false report on the condition of the county treasury or a false statement as to the records of the County Commissioners Court if the report which has been circulated throughout the county under the title of "Report of State Examiners on Affairs of Chilton County" is a correct copy of his report. This one Frank Peabody Assistant state examiner stated in the above mentioned examiners report signed and dated March 17th, 1922, that Chilton County did on the 17th day of March, 1922, owe a total indebtedness of $207,436.47 after the amount of cash in bank was deducted from the grand total. (This statement can be found on the last page of the pamphlet mentioned above.) If you will refer to the County Treasurer's report printed in the issue of The Union-Banner dated July 13th, 1922, you will see that the county did on the 30th day of June, 1922, owe a total of $254,920.18. You will see if you go back to the report of the County Treasurer published last January that almost all of these items were included in that report, and it would have been the next thing to an impossibility for an examiner to have examined all of the county books and overlooked those items. To keep some one from thinking that the difference of $47,483.71, which is the difference between what the Examiner said the county owed on March 17th, 1922, and what it actually does owe now has accumulated since the examiner made his report. I am going to give just a few of the big items that were registered long before this examiner made this report. If you notice on the last two and a half columns of the county treasurer's report you will see that there are fifty seven $500 warrants which is a total of $28,500.00, and on the first of June, 1917, there were bonds issued to the amount of $190,000.00 and at another time there were bonds issued to the amount of $7,000.00, and on January 24th, 1922, there was a loan of $16,000.00 made by the Peoples Savings Bank and none of these have been paid yet. It can be easily seen that at the time this examiner made this report there were out standing warrants to the amount of $241,500.00 to say nothing of the great number of other warrants running from a few cents to over a thousand dollars. I again charge that the state examiner did make a false statement which is clearly shown that he believed that he was misrepresenting the fact by pretending that he was making an affidavit to the condition, but if you will examine this examiner's report you will see that on the last page (out side cover) he attaches an affidavit to the statement and fails to sign before an officer. Had this statement been true, he would have made a proper affidavit certifying to the correctness of it just as did the other examiner, Mr. L. A. Easterly, whose name is found in the first part of the above mentioned pamphlet.

I stated that I regreted to have to write this letter, and if this one Frank Peabody had stated that the county is now approximately $25,000.00 deeper in debt than it was five years ago, which would have been the actual facts, I would have never written this. But any person with enough education to make the simplest addition can see that we now owe approximately $254,920.18, and it has been stated time and again that five years ago the county owed approximately $230,000.00 which which makes the county now approximately $25,000.00 deeper in debt than it was five years ago. While I admit that there is now in the treasury a little less than $10,000, but I am sure that there are enough of bills filed before the commissioner's court unpassed upon to more than take up this amount, and when this estimate of $230,000.00 was made every thing was included, all outstanding warrants and bills unpassed upon.

There will be some people that will deny this, but if any person thinks that I have misrepresented the facts, if he will get the treasurer's report published last week and add up the items under the heading of "Claims registered against Chilton County" he can not help but see that I am correct. I will also state that I have gone over the treasurer's books to see with my own eyes that Mr. Bice did not make any error and I find that his report is exactly correct except two $1300 warrants were quoted twice.

Now since this examiner has made such erroneous statement as this how can we believe any part of his report, for when a man misrepresents the facts to me I can't help but have my doubts about all the rest of his statements.

Now, voters, when we entered this race it was the general understandinw that we would have a clean campaign and this idea was endorsed by both newspapers of the county, and so far as I know there has been nothing but harmony between all of the candidates, and I trust that this condition will remain so. I am here criticising only the one Frank Peabdoy who made this false report which has done me a great injustice and also the voters of the county.

While I am writing I wish to say that I do not wish to get up any newspaper controversy, but I wish to say to Uncle Mose Robinson in reply to his statement in The Union-Banner of a few days ago in which he stated that if we had a man in a business that was running it successfully and making money we would not think of turning him out and trying another new man. But now since the treasury is approximately $25,000.00 deeper in debt than it was five years ago, I want to say that you had better turn your paragraph around and make it read that if we had a man in a position and he was sinking money each year, we had better try a new man, and any business that had such condition would not stand for it one minute.

Now in conclusion, I wish to say that I have heard that there is a report going that there has been a combine between Judge Reynolds and me to try to defeat Mr. Harris, and I noticed that Mr. Patterson mentioned in last weeks paper that there was a combine between me and Mr. Harris to try to defeat Judge Reynolds. I want to say that there is not a word of truth in these statements and both are wholly without foundation. One is just as false as the other. I am in no combine with anyone neither will I be. I am running for the office of Judge of Probate on my own merits, I am writing my own letters and signing them myself; doing my own thinking and running my own campaign. I am making a hard and honest fight to win the nomination and if I am successful, I shall make equally as strong effort to be elected in November, but if I am not the successful man in the primary, I want to assure the people of Chilton County that I shall do everything in my power that is right and honorable to see that the entire Republican ticket is elected in November.

Very truly,
W. T. BEAN.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

Discounting the "Discount" in Advance

You don't have to be a shrewd bargainer to get the bottom price on the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can.

You can see from the figures below that its advertised price is lower than the net price you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value.

We believe the average man would rather buy tires on this frank and open basis, and assure himself a product of recognized worth.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord is made of high-grade long-staple cotton, and it embodies the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction.

In design, materials and manufacture it is a representative Goodyear product, built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation.

It has a different tread from the famous All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for from 20% to 25% less.

You can get the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord now, as well as the famous All-Weather Tread Cord, from any of the Goodyear Service Station Dealers listed here.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

30 x 3½ Clincher	$13.50	32 x 4 Straight Side	$25.45	33 x 4½ Straight Side	$32.15
30 x 3½ Straight Side	15.85	33 x 4 Straight Side	26.80	34 x 4½ Straight Side	32.95
32 x 3½ Straight Side	19.75	34 x 4 Straight Side	27.35	33 x 5 Straight Side	39.10
31 x 4 Straight Side	23.50	32 x 4½ Straight Side	31.45	35 x 5 Straight Side	41.05

That Ball Game.

On Saturday evening last, the Mulberry boys went over to Liberty Hill and engaged that team in a very slow game. Liberty has some good players but they lack practice, and as a result made a good many errors which let Mulberry in with several scores that they would not have made if the Liberty boys had not made so many errors. Even had Liberty played without an error, there is no doubt but that Mulberry would have beaten them.

The correspondent endeavored to keep box scores on the game, but having no one to help could not possibly watch everything, so the following is only a partial box score but will give the readers some idea of how the thing went off.

COLLINS IS BEST MAN FOR CIRCUIT CLERK

Such is Opinion of Mr. Ollie H. McDowell, Expressed in Letter to Paper.

Clanton, Ala., July 17, 1922.

To the Voters of Chilton County:

We notice through the Union-Banner lots being said about certain candidates. This is alright unless they say too much. I am in favor of no letters, but as some are saying lots I wish to say a little about a friend of mine, who is in the race for Circuit Clerk. That is Mr. J. D. Collins, whom you all know and know to be alright in every respect, fully qualified for any place he asks for and I now say that the people of my community are for him. I know Mr. Foshee has made us a good Clerk, but I don't believe in keeping no man in office a life time. Mr. Foshee has been in office ever since he became grown. Here is a case of where we have tried two men and I am sure you all can see a difference between them. You never saw Mr. Collins but what he was always ready to speak at any and all times, to all people.

Mr. Collins collected the taxes of this county and I don't believe he made an enemy, if so, I never heard of it. He always took care of his friends when they were not able to take care of their taxes before they become delinquent by giving them their fee which was his by-law. He collected the taxes and at all times when not busy he was hard down at work on his farm between the plow handles or at some other hard work, so you see Mr. Collins knows just what it takes to meet justice to his fellowman. You know Mr. Collins collected the Dog Taxes of this county for several years and did not get one penny, and as soon as the law was changed (if any law) the other fellow got his 25 cents. Yes, some may say that was the law. Suppose it had been one dollar, he would have taken that too. Mr. Collins did not take the tax collection fee.

Look what the boys had to do during the war. They had to pay some people every time they had a paper fixed, when they had an easy chair and we boys had the tug.

Mr. Baker dwells on qualification. If we only have one man that is qualified we are in a bad fix. We had to pay him to learn so lets teach another and then we will have at least two (2). Some are going over the county warning them of dangers of hindering the Courts and what an awful expense we will risk.

I feel sure there are some that will probably vote against Mr. Collins that, if only will look back at their tax receipts, will find no fee.

Look at the good Mr. Collins and Mr. Dennis have done this county in regard to fertilizer. We know they have saved us from two to fifteen dollars per ton, even those that did not buy from them received benefit from their work. So lets stay by the men that stays by us. Mr. Collins sold Nitrate of Soda this time for fifty-six dollars per ton when others were selling for sixty-five and seventy. So lets go to the polls and vote for a man for Circuit Clerk of Chilton County that has a heart in him larger than he is.

I had the pleasure of working in the Probate office for two years while Mr. Collins was Collector and he always met the people friendly and with a smile, and assisting them in looking up records or in any way they wished. I am for right.

I will close by wishing the Editor a successful race for Representative, believing he will make us a truthful and faithful servant.

O. H. McDOWELL.

VOTERS ENDORSE JOSEPH E. COBB FOR COMMISSIONER

Whereas, Mr. Joseph E. Cobb, candidate for Commissioner, being handicaped in canvasing the county by the feeble condition of his father, and can not therefore, see the voters as he would like to.

So, we, the undersigned, take this method of introducing Mr. Cobb to those not acquainted with him. We are not wishing to publish our individual preferences. We do not intertain a disparaging thought toward any other candidate whatever, but wishing each candidate to have a square deal, we think it nothing but simple justice to say to the voters that we know Mr. Cobb. We think he is alright, competent and trust worthy, and if elected would make a good official, loyal to the party and public spirited.

A vote for Mr. Cobb would be no mistake.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since . . . I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too.

BLEED THROUGH

Mr. Kearns: (Member of Military Affairs Committee.)

"I am quite clear in my own mind that the Government would have the right to condemn property of the Alabama Power Company for its own use, but this (condemnation for Mr. Ford's use) would be a makeshift or a make-believe and that is the question that is in my mind."

Toledo and Cincinnati Had Their Gorgas

In 1917 the Alabama Power Company was planning the construction of an additional unit at its Gorgas plant on the foundations and substructures which it had theretofore laid for the purpose; but the capital necessary for this construction was difficult to obtain from an issue of bonds in a market flooded with Liberty Bonds.

The first suggestion, therefore, made by the officials of the Power Company, when by invitation they appeared in Washington for a discussion of the matter of furnishing power for the construction and use of the nitrate plants to be located at Muscle Shoals, was that if the Government would advance a definite amount of money the company would construct the additional unit desired by the Government to furnish this block of power for war-time needs.

It is necessary to bear in mind that the unit desired by the Government was one of 40,000 horse power, while that the company had planned to install was of 27,000 horse power, the same in uniform capacity as the unit originally built and then being operated by the Power Company at the Gorgas plant.

Colonel Joyes, who was head of the Nitrate Division of the Army during the war, and who was charged with these negotiations with the Power Company, testified recently before the Military Affairs Committee as follows:

"When we started out we had a proposition from the Alabama Power Company which said if we would advance them about two and a quarter million dollars they would put in there necessary facilities as their own investment and would then furnish us the power that we wanted, give us a firm demand for it, and something like seven mills would be the price they would ask for it on every kilowatt hour which we bought from them, at whatever price might be agreed upon, and they would give us back so much, immediately, or set it aside, to make an amortization fund to pay us back what money we had advanced."

(If more money than the two and a quarter million dollars should be required for constructing the additional unit, the Alabama Power Company expected, of course, to furnish such additional funds.)

"When we could not make the loan, we thought we would make the construction ourselves, because we could see a color of a way to do it. We then cast about to see how we would be sure to get some of that money back. We figured we would try to have some kind of a repayment to us each time we made a payment to them for power, that we would get some back into our own pockets, or rather into the Government's pockets, to go toward the repayment of a good, substantial part of the money we had put in for that structure."

Referring to similar arrangements made late in 1918 to supply power for two additional nitrate plants to be located at Cincinnati and Toledo, Colonel Joyes said:

"The reason for that location of these two plants at Toledo and Cincinnati was the power question. The same thing we were up against, the same proposition in relation to power. We had to get power, and we had to get it by a certain time. So we went to going concerns and we did precisely what we did here, in this 'unconscionable' contract. We repeated it over again, only worse. We did the same thing by building absolute extensions on people's property at Toledo and Cincinnati, and we would do it again under like circumstances."

NOTES OF TRAVEL

(By S. E. Norton)

In our description of the steamer which carried us to New York, we omitted the interesting fact that during the world war this was one of the ships commandered by the United States government to carry troops to France. In this service nine trips were made.

It is our purpose in this letter to gather up several items of interest noted during the trip from Jacksonville to New York.
